The newspaper received so many indignant letters protesting against the use of such names as "Forsythe" and "Fogarty" that its cartoonist dreamed up the name "Tilp."

That sounded safe enough—but four letters arrived from persons named Tilp, all convinced they were the only ones by that name in the United States.

HANDS AT WORK...

LEARNING TAILORING

ONTARIO'S productive capacity is the measure of her future prosperity. To assure the important tailoring industry a prominent place in the industrial life of the Province, trained hands are needed. Skill is important in the cutting, sewing, finishing and other branches of the industry. That is why veterans are being taught its various requirements ON THE JOB, by experts. The transition from apprenticeship to permanent employment means higher wages, job security and better working conditions.

Through plans sponsored by the Department of Veterans' Affairs and other agencies, hundreds of veterans have been trained in schools and ON THE JOB. They will acquire greater skill with further training and experience. Craftsmen of the future, they will have a share in Ontario's progress—an important part to play in her industrial development.

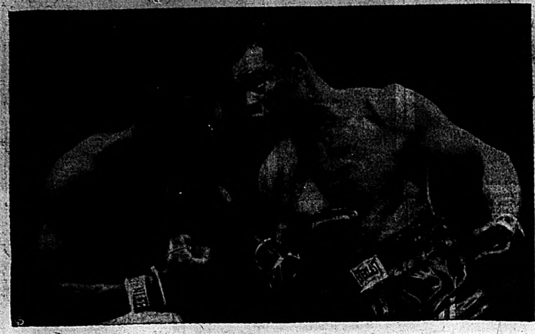
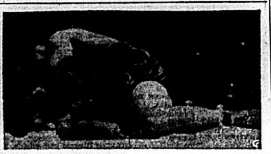
CAMERA RECORD OF MOST SURPRISING BOUT IN JOE LOUIS' CAREER



Jersey Joe Walcott, left, seems to be feeling that powerful left of Joe Louis before it lands as the fight, which was supposed to end in three or four rounds with Louis victorious, stretched to the 15-round limit. Joe Louis, as his expression shows, was out to end the battle with this punch, but it didn't connect.

The challenger is almost down in this photo. But no count was registered as he bounced back to his feet immediately.



It took a count of seven before Louis regained his equilibrium at this point in the fourth round. It was his second trip to the canvas.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 9 —(AP)— Most bowlers can go a lifetime without even seeing a 300 game, but the latest American Bowling Congress newsletter reports two perfect-game oddities that beat anything you ever saw or heard .... In the Philadelphia major league Johnny Beans completed a 300. When the alley was cleared of pals congratulating Johnny, Al Di Giacomo, rolling on the opposing team, stepped up and delivered his last two strikes for a perfect game ... And in Milwaukee Herb Putnam rolled 12 straight strikes. When the handshakers approached, Herb brushed them off. "Quit bothering me, I've still got another ball," he insisted. And it wasn't until they showed him the score sheet that he recalled one strike he had overlooked.

One-Minute Sports Page

Felix Bochicchio, who makes the decisions for Jersey Joe Walcott, claims that Joe can make more money fighting almost anyone in California this winter than he could in an indoor title fight. Joe collected about $35,000 for last week's clash with Joe Louis. . . . Doublrab, one-time conqueror of Whilraway, is training for a racing comeback at Hialeah. With him are two of his first foals, who will race as two-year-olds in January.

Blackmarket Swimming

Because swimming pool water could not be heated, owing to lack of coal due to the strikes, a Paris newspaper suggested that the government should be approached for a subsidy "for the purchase of coal from the black market." . . . By this means Alex Jany, the famous French swimmer and world record holder, would be able to "get cracking with his training."

Galt Rockets To be Here In January

Fans who have been anticipating the game between the fast-travelling Junior "A" Galt Rockets, and their sister club here the Belleville Rockets, junior "B"s, both farm teams of the Philadelphia Rockets of the American League, will have to wait for two or three weeks at least to watch the teams perform. The game was tentatively planned for a date around the 20th of this month, but information received last night by Secretary Dick Beare revealed that the Galt squad cannot come here until some time in January. It seems Galt lost the services of Webster, a star player, through a broken wrist a little while ago and in practice yesterday another player was severely injured. The Rocket "A's" however will definitely be here sometime during next month, so youse guys who have been looking forward to seeing the game, won't be entirely disappointed.

Canadian Open Golf Tourney In Vancouver

(By The Canadian Press)

The 1948 Canadian open golf championship will be held Sept. 22-25 at the Shaughnessy Heights golf course in Vancouver, George W. Lang, President of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, announced yesterday.

He also disclosed that the Canadian Open, won this year by South Africa's Bobby Locke over the Toronto Scarboro course, has been placed on the official tournament schedule of the Professional Golfers' Association of the United States.

Rocky Graziano won a split decision yesterday in a poll of State boxing commissioners who were asked whether the world's middleweight champion should be allowed to fight again. The National Boxing Association said in New York yesterday the results show that 40 per cent are for Graziano, while 33.8 per cent are against him. The rest either didn't vote or said they hadn't made up their minds.

Notre Dame—unbeaten, untied and virtually unchallenged—was elected as the outstanding college football team of 1947 yesterday winning the honor for the second straight year in a poll conducted by The Associated Press.

N. K. Perlov, managing editor of the Police Gazette, said yesterday, a $2,500 silver and jewel-studded belt would be given Jersey Joe Walcott "as world heavyweight boxing champion" within 10 days.

George Agar of Houston Huskies continued to lead the United States Hockey League scoring race, league records showed today. Agar has 16 goals and 27 assists for 43 points. Teammate Paul Mundrick is in second spot, three points back.

Syracuse Chiefs, International Baseball League playoff champions, topped the circuit in fielding as final averages released in New York yesterday showed the Chiefs as a team fielded .977 for 153 games and led in doubleplays with 176.

Gus Lesnevich, world's heavyweight champion, yesterday was voted the Edzard J. Neil Memorial Plaque for 1946. The award is made annually by the New York Boxing Writers' Association to the man who in their opinion has done the most for boxing during the year.

A $5,000 guarantee has been offered by a Vancouver group to bring an official eastern Canada finalist to Vancouver to play Vancouver Blue Bombers for the Canadian junior football championship, it was announced yesterday.

Reinstatement of softball players Wallace Stak, Hespeler; Vernon Goyer, Belleville; Austin Hunt, Bracebridge, and Erzi Guilliani, Sault Ste. Marie were announced yesterday by Secretary Frank Feaver of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

While the suspension of the players of the Peterborough Knights of Columbus team was lifted, the suspension of Manager Jack Russell still stands pending information regarding financial details of last season's playoff games.

Anglers, Hunters Want Protection For Game in Park

Hamilton, Dec. 9 (CP)—Executive of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters meeting here urged fullest investigation and prosecution if warranted in the alleged slaughter of deer in Algonquin Park. At present five men, including one provincial police officer and three municipal police officers, are awaiting trial at Pembroke on charges of shooting deer illegally.

The federation executive unanimously endorsed a resolution congratulating Lands Minister Scott and Attorney-General Blackwell on having ordered a probe of the killing of four deer in the vast park where hunting is forbidden.

Increase in the number of planes and men of the Ontario Government Air Patrol Service was also urged by the meeting. It said the present fleet of 26 planes is mainly devoted to forest fire patrol during the summer and therefore speedy transportation of game and fish overseers is not always available.

Dynamite Trout Pools

A member cited dynamiting of a trout pool in northern Ontario at a spot accessible only by plane showed the need for more adequate aerial patrol by game overseers. Closer supervision of isolated hunting and fishing parties was deemed necessary.

Austin Peters of Kingston, President of the Federation, said: "The situation in James Bay is serious. If the government does not stop aircraft flying over the feeding grounds there will be no more Canada geese. This fall machines flew over the grounds and drove the birds into the guns of the hunters.

"We also want to prevent them flying into moose country, loading up with meat and flying out. If each party chartering a plane had to be accompanied by a licensed guide it would then be the responsibility of the guide to prevent this sort of thing."

Resolution Passed

A resolution passed by the meeting urged the government to ban use of aircraft for hunters in the James Bay region north of Moosonee and to prohibit hunting and fishing parties landing at places other than those where outfitting camps are in operation, or entering hunting and fishing territory unless accompanied by a licensed guide.

Vic Sutton of Windsor charged that issuance of township hunting licences had developed into a "racket" and that some hunters from the United States were assessed $15.50 for a provincial game licence and then were unable to obtain the necessary $1 township licence. "If there is going to be licencing let the province do it," he said. "Most of the time you can't buy a township licence anyway and the townships don't do anything about restocking their territory."

Want to Know

William Smith of Dundas suggested that Lands' Minister Scott be invited to answer questions at the annual meeting of the Association next February regarding the amount of money the department proposes to spend on propagation of fish and wild-life. "We can't simply acquiesce in everything the department does," he said. He wanted to be sure that officials attending such meetings are required to give detailed information.

President Peters said the travel and publicity department had informed him that Ontario's tourist advertising for 1948 would not stress game and fish to such an extent as it had in the past. "Perhaps it could pay a little more attention to the possible tourist travel of our own residents rather than putting so much emphasis on that from the U.S.," he said.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS SELL BERARDINO

New York, Dec. 9 —(AP)—Bill DeWitt, general manager of St. Louis Browns, announced today that the American Baseball League club was sending Johnny Berardino to Cleveland Indians for George Metkovich and cash.

The deal followed closely upon the heels of the transaction by which the Browns acquired Gerald Priddy, second baseman, from Washington Senators for $25,000.

Thus the Browns - Senators deal which originally gave St. Louis Priddy and cash for Berardino was completed. The original transaction was nullified by Commissioner A. B. Chandler when Berardino announced that he was quitting baseball and has signed a seven-year film contract. The Browns protested that the commissioner could not call off the deal.

Cleveland, in taking Berardino, announced that the club had every reason to believe that Berardino would sign a contract to play with the Indians next year.

THREE NEEDED TO RESCUE MAN FROM NIAGARA RIVER

Fort Erie, Dec. 9 (CP)—It took three people to rescue Walter Krafft, 33, Tonawanda, N.Y., from the Niagara River when his boat capsized while he was trying to pick up a wild duck he shot. His companion could only hold him to the side of another boat while two Buffalo youths arrived in a plywood boat and pulled Krafft out.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Morons enjoy administering a hotfoot. Or pulling chairs from under gals with wide bumpers. But a good bridge player can have more fun sneaking over a trick on a worthy opponent.

When you read a bridge kolm with the cards of all hands before you, some defending plays may look foolish. But when cards are hidden from your sight the correct defence is not so obvious.

There comes to mind this tournament deal:

NORTH
♥6 4 2
♦A J 10 7 4
♣K 3

WEST
♠5
♥9 8 7 3
♦9 2
♣J 9 7 5 4 2

EAST
♠Q J 10
♥Q J 10
♦K 6 5 3
♣10 8 6

SOUTH
♠9 8 7 6 4 2
♥A K 5
♦Q 8
♣A Q

South became the declarer at a small slam contract of six spades. East doubled. This was a mistake. It spotted where the danger lies.

Instead of a diamond, west elected to lead a club. South ace won and dummy took both top trumps. Right there dummy led diamond jack. East stopped to think. Which is bad for some players.

With the queen, declarer would have led to dummy for a finesse. Or so ran the thoughts of the east player. Therefore, considered east, the queen must be with his partner in the west.

If this is so, continued the thoughts of east, why such a lead? South must have no diamonds. He must be hoping west will go with the king that will be ruffed by the south hand.

With such reasoning, east ducked. South overtook with the queen and led back a diamond that was won in dummy with the ace. Diamond ten was then led from dummy.

East put on the king to prevent a sluff from the south hand. A ruff of this trick by south was followed by the lead of a club. This entered dummy with the club king to lead diamond seven.

On this, south sluffed his small heart. So, when the smoke of battle cleared, east took only one trick. This was with his trump.

There is no moral to any of this. Nor anything immoral in the act of sneaking over a trick. It is good clean fun.

Days of Nipping Over Vermont Line On Christmas Eve Over for Present, Most of Goods Are on Barred List

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Rock Island, Que., Dec. 9 — If Santa Claus comes to town this Christmas with a flag on his sleigh it will be the Union Jack and not the Stars and Stripes.

The days of nipping across the Vermont line on Christmas eve to buy those last minute presents in the States are over for the time being for residents of this border community. They can still nip and buy legally but most of the articles they used to bring back now are on the banned list.

Customs officers are keeping a closer check on cars than before and staff has been increased, but border headaches apparently are not much greater now than they were before the new orders went into effect last month.

Some Confusion at First

"There was some confusion at first," an officer said. "But people soon learned what they can bring in and what they can't and they're not giving us much trouble."

There always has been and probably always will be a certain amount of smuggling in border communities and here, where Rock Island, Stanstead and Beebe lie along the Canadian side of the Vermont border, there is no exception.

Most of it is petty smuggling—a package or two of American cigarets, a pair of shoes, a dress—and some residents take delight in "sneaking something in." Until they're caught, that is, and have to pay a fine.

But there are more people who prefer to declare the articles they bring in, keeping their consciences clear.

Conscientious

Some are almost too conscientious. A 12-year-old boy wearing red fur ear-muffs crossed from Rock Island into Derby Line buying some comic magazines in the Canadian town on the way. He reported these to the customs so there would be no suggestion that he bought these now-banned papers in the States.

On his way back, he reported in again, shoved a hand into his mouth and pulled out a great wad of bubble gum.

"That's what I bought in the States," he said.

Rotarians Pay "Consequences" In Smart Skit

High jinks in the form of a more or less reasonable facsimile of a major radio network program "Truth or Consequences" staged by Manager Bill Stovin and Announcer Douglas Whalen of the local radio station, had staid Rotarians in figurative stitches at their noonday luncheon on Monday.

Discomfiture of the "victims" as they paid the "consequences" through failure to answer the question, provided plenty of laughs for the "studio audience". However 'twas all good clean fun, well, the most of it, and was a pleasant departure from the usual Rotary procedure of the after-dinner orator. Everyone participating in the pranks was presented with a prize and although the gifts did not rank with the "Miss Hush" variety, they were practical, to say the least.

Emerging from their consequences, more or less Belleville replicas of Jersey Joe Walcott and Joe Louis, Enos David and Art Hill fought a furious marshmallow battle while seated blindfolded in two chairs facing each other. What they didn't know was the marshmallows had been sprinkled liberally with powdered charcoal.

Fought to Draw

With marshmallows for boxing gloves, the two warriors jabbed, hooked and countered. Eyeing each other with looks that grew blacker with each punch, the pair "fought" to a draw and were presented with handsome "rolls".

Next contestants were Ken Reid, and portly Russ White. Gorged with Hotel Quinte lunch, the pair were asked to go through the formalities of a pie-eating contest with the pies placed on chairs, no hands used, no holds barred, and to leave the plate bereft of teethmarks. Reid, who gave away 150 pounds in weight, was declared the winner, and grinned his appreciation through a pie-smeared face at the prize. Yeah, you guessed it. Another pie.

Fell Down Badly

Bert Houston, who fell down on the intelligence part of the contest was requested to do juggling tricks with three matches. Bert, being used to handling two-by-fours, six-by-eights and whole houses, fell down badly but was awarded the prize of a lovely chair. The only thing about it was that the chair was of 1896 vintage and came in 34 parts.

Jack Ireland was the next to answer the victim roll-call. He was seated in a chair, blindfolded and was told he was to be kissed by four pretty waitresses. Jack leaned back, puckered up like a nonagenarian prune, fruit, that is, and awaited the osculatory exercises. Four dainty pecks were placed at intervals on his beaming face.

Off came the blindfold, and Jack was asked to identify the donors. He looked at the four pretty girls standing in the entrance, and with a glum face, decided none of them had anything to do with it. He was right. Morley Duff, who apparently hasn't forgotten the ancient art, was the donor of the gifts.

Couldn't Finish

Fred Chamberlain and Dick Hart were next. They were attired in baby bibs, and given baby bottles, nipple-equipped and half filled with milk. The idea was to empty the bottles as quickly as possible. With sounds like a cow pulling its foot out of the mud, the doughty Rotarians went at it. Red of face they pulled on their babyhood feedboxes, but couldn't finish. Fred Chamberlain was declared the winner, and accepted the prize of a miniature baby bottle with the remark "It's the first time I've won this week."

Another drinking contest featuring Jamieson Bone and Jim Allen, in which both battled bottles of coke, resulted in Allen walking off with the prize of a bottle of ginger ale.

Messrs. Stovin and Whalen were introduced by Rotarian Mac. Haig with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Howard Clarke.

Ivan Cowden Freed of Charge Of Murder

Toronto, Dec. 9 —(CP)— Ivan Cowden, 32-year-old rooming house operator, yesterday was freed of a charge of murder arising from the death of Mary Morrison, 18, last Oct. 7.

Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow dismissed the charge of lack of sufficient evidence at the conclusion of Cowden's second preliminary hearing. Previously, he had been committed to stand trial but appeal court ruled evidence at the first hearing did not warrant committal.

Evidence showed that the girl died in hospital from head injuries allegedly suffered in the rooming house operated jointly by Cowden and the dead girl's mother, Mrs. Margaret Morrison.

In a statement to police, Cowden said he had lived with Mrs. Morrison as man and wife since his discharge from the army in November, 1945. This relationship had ended last February.

On the night Miss Morrison was injured, Cowden said he arrived home about midnight and went to bed.

"The first thing I knew was someone jumping or falling on the bed . . . I got up and turned on a light and recognized Mary with blood on her face." He then called a taxi and took the dying girl to a hospital.

Church Changes Reclassification Of Motion Picture

New York, Dec. 9 —(AP)—The National Legion of Decency, a film review board of the Roman Catholic Church, said last night it had reclassified the motion picture "Forever Amber" from "condemned" to "morally objectionable in part."

The Catholic Church group, which said "Forever Amber" was the first 20th Century-Fox production to receive its condemned rating, explained its reclassification of the movie with this statement:

"Revisions made in this film are deemed sufficient to meet substantially the original objection ofg the legion that the picture glorified immorality. However, 'Forever Amber' still lacks the adequate morally compensating values which should be present in a story of this kind."

Last week S. P. Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president, said the firm has decided to make "certain additions to and eliminations from" the movie to satisfy criticism of the film on moral grounds."

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 9 (AP)—Most of the country is looking over Hollywood's shoulder and telling it how to make movies.

Consider the plight of Alfred Block, who has been censoring pictures for M-G-M since 1934. He has to be constantly aware of: The industry's own far-reaching production code; the multifarious rules of censorship boards of American states and cities, and foreign countries; the demands of hundreds of pressure groups.

Most potent of the latter category is the Catholic Legion of Decency. Formed in 1934, it was the principal factor in convincing Hollywood it had to clean up its pictures.

The Legion seldom puts Hollywood films on its condemned list (examples: "The Outlaw," "Forever Amber"), but cites many as "objectionable in part." Usual reasons: Divorce and suicide. The industry boasts that only 15 per cent of its product showed up in the "objectionable in part" listing in 1946.

Block also has to be aware of the Protestants now. They have formed a similar film-reviewing group, but so far have followed the same line as the Legion.

The club women of America keep a close eye on the movies and one of their chief concerns has been liquor. There was much protest from them over the drinking done by William Powell and Myrna Loy in the first "Thin Man" film. Drinking in the home is now discouraged in films and in the last "Thin Man," Mr. and Mrs. Charles were practically teetotalers.

No foreign nationalities may be used as villains, although one director said, and only partly in jest, that he sees indications that Russians may soon be used in that category. Unscrupulous doctors or lawyers cannot be portrayed without prompt protests from medical or bar associations. Every other group has its sensibilities and it has become a Hollywood truism that you're safe only with a villain who is white, unreligious, American and unemployed.

In a recent film a dying heroine uttered this line to her leading man: "Kiss me, I don't want to die like a scrub woman."

The film drew sharp protest from office workers' unions.

Aside from all the other worries. Block has to see that the feminine form is adequately covered in M-G-M films. The new, low-neck fashions have intensified his work.

Block said that sometimes he may approve a costume which would be proper if viewed at eye level. But the director will shoot the scene from an elevated camera, and the angle leaves nothing to be imagined. Then Block has to go to work and talk the director out of it.

CHAPTER 16.

Kay was thoroughly provoked at herself for having visited Chuck in his office. It had, she felt, placed her at a distinct disadvantage. It would make it a thousand times more difficult now to continue her plans for marrying another man. Chuck's good-looking—blondness, the lithe striding compactness of him, the look of pained adoration in his gray eyes! If she could only go away—find herself in a place where she could not hear his name mentioned, much less see him!

When she arrived home, Jinnie gave her a telegram. It was from Cora, urging her to come to Buenoa Aires for a few weeks' visit before her wedding. In a recent letter, Cora had written that she couldn't come to Deweyton now, even though Kay was making such ridiculously elaborate plans for her marriage to Webb. She and Horace were entertaining important business associates of his from the North. If she arrived in time for Kay's wedding, she must come by plane and return to Buenos Aires immediately after the ceremony. By all this explanation, Kay realized that her mother would avoid seeing her married to Webb Taylor, if such a procedure were decently possible. She knew that Cora hadn't given up the possibility of being able to dissuade her daughter from taking this step. Kay's first thought was, "That's exactly what I should do! It will clear my mind to get away—even for a few days."

She knew better, however, than to wire her mother that she would come without consulting Webb. She had had too many plans thwarted lately by him to to make one excluding him.

Tonight, he was taking her to the dinner dance being given for them by Beatrice and Hettie Comer. She would talk it over with him then. Perhaps if she could curb her enthusiasm over the South American trip, he wouldn't discover that she wanted to be separated from him just now—more than anything she had ever wanted in her whole life.

After what she had been through this afternoon, she had no zest for dressing and going out to act like Webb's happily promised bride. It would be next to impossible. She flung herself on a chaise—lounge, utterly exhausted, hopelessness hugging her in its bitterly tenacious grasp.

She had been wondering if a wholly different course would not be the most considerate for every one concerned. If she talked plainly to Chuck, if he knew that she and Webb were in Henn's apartment and found the letter, it might move Chuck to confess everything. Probably he would insist upon blurting out the truth of the affair to the whole world. Then he would be ruined. She was somehow convinced that Chuck had hit Hennington in self—defense, that it had all been a-horrible mistake. Now. this mistake was conplicating three lives, making two of them miserable—that is, Chuck looked miserable.

She dragged herself into her shower. She stepped out and rubbed herself briskly with a bath towel. This made her skin glow, her spirits lift a trifle.

She would go to Buenos Aires. Nothing could harm her there. Cora would somehow solve this harrowing problem—that is, if she dared to tell her about it. If she did and Cora repeated it to the police—well, Cora couldn't trust her own tongue. She wouldn't intend to tell, but the solution of a murder would be to choice a secret to keep to herself. Besides, it would free her daughter from the shackles of an unsavory marriage.

Kay wore a long flowing black taffeta gown that night. It was one of her last season's gowns, but she was not concerned over this. Tonight its dull blackness exactly suited her brooding mood. A brilliant colored gown would mock her inner sadness. Tonight she would wear what she liked—asseht herself.

Webb arrived early. She took him into the music—room, saying, "Mother wired today—she thinks I should come to her for a couple of weeks. I should like to go to Buenos Aiers before our wedding. Afterward, it might not be so convenient."

She smiled sweetly up into his scowling looking face.

"It's rather strange—your mother asking you down at this time, isn't it? Or is she being deliberately thoughtless?"

"Certainly not!" defended Kay. "Mothers lonesome to see me. It's so many weeks since we've been together—and we used to be inseparable, you know."

"Yes."

Webb got out of his chair, stuck his unsteady hands in his trousers pockets, began walking up and down the room.

"I cant believe your mother goes for me that strong," he remarked, squinting his small blue eyes. "Am I correct?"

Why shouldn't she like you?" hedged Kay nervously. "Haven't your family and ours been very close—for years?" In her heart, though, she was confident that Cora would always thoroughly dislike him.

Webb's disturbed manner abrubtly evaporated. He became his old braggadocio self once more.

"That's true. Really, there's nothing against me—I'll make a swell son—in—law." He grinned affably. "As for your going down there—I'd miss you too much, darling. You can't leave me now —you can't run away from all the parties being given for us. What would people think? It's bad enough that you're so stingy with your kisses—without taking yourself out of my sight. After we're married.I think I'd like a trip to South America myself."

"Why do you care what people think?" she pouted. "I hardly see what difference it would make—my going."

He came to lean over her, took firm hold of her shoulders, glared down at her.

"You're not going, my dear," he said, dangerous light in his eyes.

She pulled away from him, her head flung high.

"Oh yes I am!" she declared angrily. "If I like—I shall go."

She left him standing there and marched out to the hall where Jinnie waited with a black velvet, ermine—trimmed wrap.

Webb sulked into the hall after her, jerked into his topcoat, snatched up his hat. Then without a word, he followed her out of the house and into the Taylor limousine.

Cool, crisp air trickled in through the windows as the uniformed chauffeur drove expertly through the smart residental section of Deweyton. It should have imbued Kay with a thread of new courage. Instead, she felt as if she was standing on the end of a pier surrounded by deep dark water, unable to swim if she dropped. She was, she thought miserably, dropping daily, inch by inch, nearer that dreaded sea of matrimony.

Webb's hands touching her fingers, brought her back to realities. She snatched her hand from his touch, drew farther away in her corner of the seat. She knew, without looking at him, how thoroughly provoked he was. She hoped he would remain in that condition for the duration of this evening's party. That he would stay away from her for a few hours. It was not so difficult to pretend to be having a good time when she was dancing with other men. But how weary she was of the cat and mouse tactics she and Webb had been using lately!

The Comer home was a rambling white house built in Colonial style. Tonight, the tall white pillars supporting its portico stood gleaming under electricity like sentinals.

Kay went past the footmen in the hall and up the broad winding stairs with Webb trotting closely behind her. They separated wordlessly in the upper hall. She entered one of the ladies' dressing —rooms and the din of voices.

Nettie Tooster, adjusting a diamond ornament in her hair, exclaimed shrilly, "Here comes the bride!"

The girls tittered vivaciously, expectantly. Somehow it nettled Kay. She, the one who should be the happiest over her own wedding, waned to rebuff all jollity concerning it. She flung her wrap to a maid, thinking what a sensation it would create if she were to blurt out the truth to them—the truth about Hennington Blare, Chuck, Webb, and herself! What a lovely time they would have gabbling about that!

Instead, she smiled, pretended to adjust a shoulder strap on her low-backed gown, to rearrange the rose at her throat. Her hands trembled. She hoped that her nervousness was not too apparent.

Adele Sanders, standing before a mirror across the room was examining the highly perfected complexion job on her vibrant face. Her laugh now tinkled out with forced guilelessness.

She said, "How stunning you look in black, Kay! Not as if you were grieving for some one—as most women do."

Kay received this rapierlike thrust with awry smile. She retallated sweetly, "See you're wearing your bracelet—your engagement bracelet."

She laughed shortly, whirled about and left the room. If she had to parley with the envious Adele much more, her disposition would suffer, she thought.

Tonight the very air of the Comer drawing room-room seemed to be preening itself upon this auspicious occasion. It was a heavy, tropical perfumed air from great massed bouquets of Herbert Hoover roses, which were scattered throughout the elegant spaciousness of the room, its subdued lights making it a snug, weirdly intimate place. In a bay window, the orchestra sat behind massed pots of palms, ferns and vases of roses. Roses proudly flung their pink, yellow tipped petals from imported pottery atop the two grand pianos, consoles, cabinets from the carved ivory mantel above the fireplace.

The children's mother, Mrs. John Winter, emptying ashes in the cellar of the three-family dwelling when the fire broke out, rushed upstairs in time to snatch Johnny from his playpen and lead Lily to the street.

Firemen put out the blaze. There were no casualties and damage was limited to furniture.

New Law in U.K. Affects 'Spivs' And 'Drones'

London, Dec. 9 (Reuters) — Government inspectors are authorized to enter the offices of any non-essential industry or organization in Britain, inspect books and other records and inquire into manpower statistics under the "Spivs and Drones" order which came into operation Monday.

The new regulations, extending an order to give the government power to guide manpower from non-essential to essential industries, will enable the Ministry of Labor to compile a complete register of football pools, night clubs, fun fairs and other concerns classed as un-essential to the nation's economic recovery.

Government officials estimate that Britain still needs 500,000 additional workers to man her textile, ship-building, steel, agriculture coal and transport industries.

Under the new order any man between the age of 18 and 51 and any single woman between 18 and 41 can be required to supply details of his or her present employment and can be ordered to take a new job if the government concludes that he or she could serve the nation better elsewhere.

Cabinet ministers have promised a choice of job to those who are asked to change their employment, but if they turn down all the opportunities offered, direction to a specific job can be enforced by law.

Titled and other people living on unearned income will be just as liable to the new directives as the "Spivs."

MANY FACTORS IN PRICE INCREASES

A. E. Arscott, President, The Canadian Bank of Commerce, states: High Purchasing Power, Lower Crop Yields and Decontrols Contribute to Rise in Prices

S. M. Wedd, Vice-President and General Manager, presents

STRONG STATEMENT OF BANK LOANS UP $108,000,000

At the Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, held in the Head Office of the Bank in the City of Toronto, December 9th, Mr. Allan E. Arscott, C.B.E., President, and Mr. Stanley M. Wedd, Vice-President and General Manager, presented the Annual Statement of the Bank's operations in the past year, together with a review of business conditions. Mr. Arscott's address to the meeting follows, in part:

The records of production in our industrial and manufacturing plants have been excellent resulting in substantially larger pay-rolls to employees and setting new high marks in the volume and variety of goods placed on domestic and foreign markets. Our satisfaction with these results is tempered in some degree, however, by crop yields in many sections of the country lower than those of last year and by a decline in the output of some minerals to even less than the requirements of essential needs.

Manufacturing and industrial units have continued to expand, but many capital investment programmes planned during the past two years, both for new buildings and replacements of machinery, are not yet completed owing to delays occasioned by material shortages and the lack of adequate skilled labour. With the new regulations recently announced for curtailing imports of machinery, equipment and other materials which are obtainable only with payment of United States dollars, these programmes for expansion will doubtless be further delayed.

Notwithstanding all the difficulties which have been and which remain to be overtaken in domestic trade, the dollar volume of sales generally has been maintained at a high level. There are signs, however, of more selective buying by the public, and on more extended terms of payment.

FOREIGN TRADE

Foreign trade increased to record proportions. The combined figures of exports and imports for the first ten months of this year exceeded $4 billion; movements of Canadian products abroad—in dollar terms—overbalancing Canada's purchases from other countries. The dollar volume of this year's exports is practically double that of pre-war times. While this in itself is a notable development, it must be remembered that in part at least it has been of an unusual character since a sizable portion of our exports has been financed internally.

Canada's trade, in manufactured goods and in agricultural and other basic products, depends for activity on the prosperity of other nations. Before the second world war, Canada ranked high in trading operations among all the nations of the world—fourth in exports and eighth in imports—a commendable position compared with other world-trading countries. Unfortunately we are faced now with the fact that, as a result of the war, many of our important customers are unable to buy from us because they lack acceptable means of payment or are so impoverished that they cannot produce goods for export to Canada and elsewhere to balance their imports. This all means, as I have mentioned above, that we have had to finance internally a portion of these exports ourselves or go without a market for them.

The destruction which took place in Europe during the war years has left the peoples of these countries temporarily in a condition where they cannot achieve complete recovery without assistance from the countries abroad that are able to help.

Of primary importance is the effective restoration of the production of foodstuffs, i.e., bread grain and other cereals, to assist these people to regain the physical stamina necessary to manufacture and produce at least on pre-war levels. The second essential is the restoration of manufacturing, and to accomplish this these countries should be equipped with adequate machinery to replace that which was destroyed by the war. Until they are producing not only for their own needs but also an exportable surplus, temporary assistance will have to be given them, whether by loans or by outright gifts.

MARSHALL PLAN

There has been proposed, but so far only in broad outline, a plan by Mr. Marshall, the Secretary of State for the United States, which envisages rendering aid to the wartorn countries on a basis which will allow them to re-establish their industries and their agricultural production. Sixteen European nations participated in a submission of their requirements under this proposal to the United States and other American countries. While nothing yet has been definitely settled, it is encouraging that determined efforts are now being made to help these countries to get a fresh start.

Canada already has provided substantial aid, and while it has not yet been indicated what part we shall play in the so-called Marshall Plan, we are in a position to participate to a greater or lesser degree depending to some extent on our balance of trade with the United States. Considering our resources and population in comparison with others, we have given great assistance in an endeavour to restore an effective economy to those countries which were severely affected by the war. Owing to the accelerated drain on our reserve of United States dollars, however, we were faced with the necessity of devising some means to support temporarily, and ultimately adjust, our unfavourable balances of trade. In this connection it is reassuring to note that in the proposals now under consideration in the United States for giving aid to the European countries, it is indicated that supplies may be purchased in the other countries of the American continents, which should help our trade position.

In this spirit it is suggested that attention be directed to our resources and production facilities with a view to determining the maximum quantities that can be allocated abroad. Time is an important factor and for a while it may be necessary to conserve in home consumption, if Canada is to share to the extent that could be reasonably expected in this present world crisis.

PRICES

Lower crop yields and the withdrawal of subsidy payments to which I have referred, have collectively contributed to the rise in prices. Upward adjustments in wages to compensate for higher cost of living are also a major influence on the cost of production and distribution with resultant effects on price levels. In the main these are the chief elements that combine to accentuate the upward movement of prices. The extent to which they may rise depends on how soon production catches up with demand or consumer buying tapers off as a result of high prices.

Bearing in mind present high prices it is more important than ever that business administration should exercise constant and close examination of inventories and accounts receivable. Also the relation of sales volume to unit production should be carefully watched; the turnover of goods should be examined in terms of unit as well as dollar volume because under existing conditions the sales volume may be up substantially in comparison to the previous year and thus appear to be satisfactory but unless considered in relation to unit volume the point at which business turns from a profit into a loss is apt to be obscured.

It is important that adequate working capital should be maintained if high prices on the one hand continue and on the other hand to serve as a cushion against the possibility of losses which we have seen occur at other times when "out-of-balance" positions have had to be corrected.

Earnings should be carefully analyzed with the view to ascertaining the extent of non-recurring factors which have tended to swell the total. Under present abnormal operating conditions a misconception may develop as to the proportion of actual trading profit that goes to make up the aggregate earnings.

The changes that have taken place in the past year in Canada invite one further comment. It is a well-known fact that, in the course of production, machinery and equipment must be replaced if output is to be maintained at a high economic level. If many of the price increases witnessed to-day have an element of permanency about them then programmes for repair, maintenance and replacement should be based on existing rather than on pre-war patterns.

CULTIVATE TRADE

While I have said that we must be prepared to assist in every way possible in rehabilitation of Europe, including Great Britain, consideration should be given also to cultivating and developing in these countries and elsewhere new markets while we are still engaged in giving direct assistance to some of them. Our potential market is great. While exploring the field for further markets, we must keep close watch on the prices of what we have to sell to ensure that we can compete on a reasonable footing. Our internal policies on wage and material costs must be geared not only to domestic conditions but also in recognition of the fact that we will be in keen competition with other countries both as regards price and quality.

In the course of my remarks I have outlined what appears to be the effect of conditions, as we see them to-day, on our trade and commerce. As to the long range view, the progress made at the Geneva Conference to set a pattern for freer trade was substantially beyond most expectations. There emerged a series of agreements among the attending nations covering a wide range of tariff changes which, if carried out to the full intent, will bring about great advancement in world trade, and should benefit Canada materially. It is recognized, however, that countries with currently unfavourable trade positions may have to employ import regulations and quotas until this situation is corrected, but with the working out of the long range plans we may look for a resumption of freer interchange of goods.

Although we have many difficult and perplexing problems to be solved, when we consider the over-all material well-being throughout the Dominion all must agree that we are indeed fortunate. The hearts of the people in this highly favoured Continent assuredly will go out in full sympathy to the people of Britain, enduring measures of severe austerity, and to the tragic plight of the famished nations of Continental Europe, facing again the rigours of winter with wholly inadequate resources of food, fuel and clothing, and living in constant fear of revolutionary violence and civil war.

It is disappointing that the necessity has arisen for the reimposition of restrictive measures which affect the course of business and personal affairs, but we must remember that there is an unusual situation in the world to-day from which we cannot stand aloof. The common sense of the citizens of Canada, I am sure, will prevail and they will discipline themselves to accept the restraints which are necessary to help rebuild the shattered fabric of European civilization, upon which the maintenance of world peace itself so manifestly depends.

GENERAL MANAGER ADDRESSES MEETING

The Annual Statement of the Bank which is before you indicates some important changes in comparison with the figures of twelve months ago. In the first place the Bank's holdings of the securities of the Dominion Government maturing within two years have been reduced by over $197,000,000. This is largely accounted for by the Dominion Government having paid off their special bank borrowings represented by what were called certificates of deposit. As against this movement bank loans and investments in other than Dominion Government securities have hown a substantial increase.

LOANS UP $108,000,000

In the past year the total of our loans has increased by $108,800,000, of which $90,000,000 occurred in our commercial loans in Canada. This is a reflection of the increased activity in business generally.

Dominion and Provincial Government deposits have been reduced by nearly $40,000,000. Deposits not bearing interest are down some $57,800,000, which indicates the quickening of the employment of current funds in larger inventory positions and plant and general building operations.

Interest-bearing deposits, which are mostly personal Savings accounts, are again quite sharply up and now total $770,000,000, an increase of $73,000,000 in the twelve months.

The total of Letters of Credit outstanding shows a substantial increase, rising from $34,000,000 a year ago to $46,200,000 at the present time. This movement is an indication of continued trading activity in the export and import field.

WIDE INTEREST IN CANADA

It was quite evident to senior representatives of the Bank who have visited many countries during the past two years that there is a continued widespread interest in Canada outside of our own borders. These visits were made for the purpose of obtaining first-hand knowledge of post-war conditions abroad and to re-establish banking and trade connections which had been interrupted by the war. I am sure that Canada as well as the Bank has benefited by the renewed and new contacts which have been made by our representatives in various parts of the world.

In this connection I would also mention the Bank's Monthly Commercial Letter. The major purpose of this publication, first issued in 1915, is to make available information on Canadian affairs which the Bank collects from its branches across Canada, together with data from other authoritative sources. Judging from the many requests which we receive from Government agencies and business and professional people for copies of our Monthly Letter, it is filling a very useful purpose.

This year the earnings available for dividends amounted to $3,201,000 which is $350,000 more than last year. Dividends paid out and provided for, and the extra distribution recently authorized, amount in all to $3,000,000, and $201,108 has been added to the balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account.

Each year there has been a gradual increase in the number of shareholders until we now have 13,070 shareholders, an increase of about 400 since a year ago. There are now 8,473 shareholders in Canada, 3,244 in the United Kingdom and possessions, 1,173 in the United States, and 180 elsewhere.

TRIBUTE TO STAFF

The staff of the Bank now numbers just over 7,200, about equally divided as to men and women. This large group is the working force upon whom we depend for the operation of the Bank in the day-to-day transactions. I cannot express too strongly our commendation of the high quality of their services and co-operation.

At this point I should like to make special reference to the Pension Fund of the Bank in relation to the staff. The Fund was started originally some 55 years ago when the staff of the entire Bank was less than the staff of one of our larger branches now. It is interesting to know that for this long period the staff of this Bank have enjoyed security through the Pension Fund, which is maintained by contributions by the staff themselves augmented by generous assistance from the Bank.

Want 5000 Babes, Mixed Negro, White Brought up in U.S.

London, Dec. 9 — (Reuters) — The Negro Welfare Society of London has applied to Home Secretary Eden, for permission to ship to the United States 5,000 babies of Negro fathers and white mothers whose mothers cannot fit them into British family or community life.

"We are finding homes for babies in colored communities in the United States to save them from growing up as social misfits," a spokesman of the Society said.

The babies, whose ages range from 12 months to five years, were fathered by Negro United States troops stationed in Britain during the war. Their mothers are British.

Loraine Day Cancels Film Contract to be With Leo Durocher

Santa Monica, Calif., Dec. 9 — (AP) — Wherever Leo Durocher goes, actress Laraine Day goes too.

Miss Day, whose marriage to the baseball man has been beset by many adverse influences, announced that she has cancelled a six-year movie contract to be with Durocher, newly-reinstated manager of Brooklyn Dodgers.

The actress didn't say how much the contract would have netted her, but one movie columnist set the figure arbitrarily at $1,000,000.

She disclosed that she and Durocher plan to be married again Jan. 22, the day after her divorce from airport executive Ray Hendricks becomes final. Her marriage to Durocher after a supplementary Mexican divorce led to some judicial censure and a judge's ultimatum that they'd better not live together in California until the local decree was final.

Stresses Need For Stable Prices Of Farm Produce

At one of the best attended meetings of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture held in Shire Hall, the farmers present heard a very interesting address from Mr. R. W. Morrison, vice president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and secretary manager of the newly-formed Cream Producers Association. Mr. Morrison pointed out the aims of the Federation across Canada; these being to keep prices stable and in a proper balance so that all farmers are assured of a proper return for their produce.

There are some fifteen marketing schemes in Ontario at present to stabilize prices and it is the hope that these will become national schemes so that producers will be prepared to take over their own marketing if necessary. The speaker mentioned the milk pool scheme in operation in Fraser Valley where all producers ship their milk to a central point and it is diverted to whole milk, butter, cheese, condensed milk trade as demand warrants. This gives everyone an equal return and also boost the grade of the product.

Unfair Practice

Another practice which was brought out was that of canning companies getting farmers to sign blank contracts for next year's canning crops. This was shown to be very unfair to farmers and something that must be stopped by co-operation or farmers not signing until a price is set.

In a meeting with the Dominion Government in the summer, the Federation asked for definite assurance that prices will be kept at present levels as there are definite set contracts to fulfill. This was not done. Western grains were also asked for due to the poor outlook for crops. Still there is no grain.

At a recent meeting in Ottawa specific proposals were made.

1. Renegotiate contracts and if the British cannot pay more they must be subsidized.
2. Lift embargoes on beef cattle to U. S. market.
3. Abolish Winnipeg Grain Exchange and assure farmers set prices at least six months ahead of time.

The Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Gardiner, has said "We have had good relationships with Federations and they have made many things possible that without a united front would not have been possible."

In closing Mr. Morrison stated, "we must be reasonable in our demands and prevent radical elements from gaining control. Also we must campaign against the outside elements who want sale of oleo legalized."

The speaker was ably introduced by Col. Vanderwater and thanked by Chas. Rush.

Marshall Presses For Showdown On Reparations

Demands Halt to Removal Of Assets From E. Germany

London, Dec. 10 —(AP)— State Secretary Marshall charged tonight that Russia is taking assets from eastern Germany at a rate of more than $500,000,000 yearly and he demanded that the withdrawals be halted effective Jan. 1.

Marshall told the Council of Foreign Ministers:

"The United States is not prepared to agree to any program of reparations from current production as a price for the unification of Germany."

The rehabilitation of Germany, was vital to European recovery. In an apparent effort to force a showdown, the American secretary declared:

Must Take Economic Decision

"If we cannot take this economic decision, which is of immediate vital significance, then we are wasting our time when there is no time to waste.

"I feel that we are entitled to a positive, clear-cut answer from Mr. Molotov now to the question raised in paragraph 22"

The paragraph to which he referred the Soviet Foreign Minister is a section of a British proposal which would give Germany recovery and achievement of self-sufficiency priority over any reparations from German production.

Marshall was apparently attempting to have a showdown with the Soviet Union and using the reparations issue for this purpose.

He declared in a statement to the Big Four Foreign Ministers Council:

"All these matters we have been discussing: The export-import program, the first charge on German exports, agreed statements of external occupation costs, balances, economy, et cetera, will revert to the questions of reparations.

First Have Clear Picture

"It is impossible to have a clear picture of how all these matters can be put into effect unless we get a clear answer from the Soviet delegation on the question of reparations from current production."

The United States was understood to be planning an effort to force Foreign Minister Molotov to lift the curtain on affairs in the Russian occupation zone of Germany.

As today's Big Four session opened, western diplomats said Russia's demand for $10,000,000,000 reparations from Germany, largely from current production may well be the issue that could break up the conference.

American officials are privately convinced that Molotov is not prepared to agree to economic unification of Germany without assurance that all—or at least a substantial part—of his reparations demands will be met.

The opposition of the United States and Britain to these demands so far is absolute, and under the circumstances responsible western sources say they do not see how any important Big Four agreements can be made on Germany.

Solution of Economic Problems

State Secretary Marshall is known to feel that a solution of German economic problems providing for the removal of zonal barriers to trade is a prerequisite to any other agreements on Germany.

One phase of the reparations question was scheduled to come before the foreign ministers at this afternoon's session. In the agenda for discussion is a British proposal which would provide that Germany "shall not be called upon to make any reparations deliveries from current productions of stocks" until after German import obligations have been met, occupation costs paid and a balanced economy obtained.

The United States and Britain, which are spending almost $800,000,000 a year for German subsistence in their occupation zones, naturally would collect on German import obligations and would benefit by having a balanced economy created. Both Marshall and Foreign Secretary Bevin have taken the position that any arrangement which would give priority to reparations would mean that the United States and Britain were subsidizing German deliveries to Russia.

JUDGE MADDEN, NAPANEE, DIES IN OTTAWA HOTEL

Collapses in Lobby After Holding Session of Rental Appeal Board

Ottawa, Dec. 10. (CP)—Judge J. E. Madden of Napanee, Ont., veteran county court judge for the judicial district of Lennox and Addington and judge of the Rentals Appeal Board here, collapsed and died suddenly last night in a lobby of the Elgin Hotel.

He collapsed less than half an hour after leaving a session of the Rental Appeal Board where he had given decisions on numerous cases in dispute between landlords and tenants over housing accommodation.

Coroner Dr. W. T. Shireff said that an autopsy would be held to determine the exact cause of the death.

The body will be sent to Napanee for burial.

Born at Napanee, Judge Madden was a son of the late Judge James H. Madden. On graduation from the Napanee Collegiate, he attended Univerity of Toronto and later entered Osgoode Hall.

Called to the bar in 1910, he practised law in Napanee until his appointment as judge about 20 years ago.

In 1937 he was head of a Commission appointed to conduct an inquiry at the Guelph Reformatory. He has conducted County Court and Division Court in the Counties of Frontenac, Prince Edward, Hastings and Lennox and Addington.

He was a member of Trinity United Church in Napanee. Surviving besides his widow are three daughters, Mrs. Ralph F. Bell, Napanee, Miss Harriett Madden, of Toronto, and Miss Sarah Madden of Kingston and two sons, James a student at Osgoode Hall and Robert at home, also one sister, Mrs. W. E. Schuster, Belleville.

Judge Madden was well known in this city and to many local friends in the legal profession and other vocations his sudden death has brought sincere regret. He often held court in this city and during the war years he presided here on many occasions owing to the absence of Judge Cameron on other duties for the government. He possessed a pleasing personality and was known as a patient, impartial and learned judge.

Turkeys in England Safeguarded By Man-Traps, Bells, Trenches, Dogs

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 10. (CP)—Wartime anti-invasion defences — electrified wire fences, man-traps, R.A.F. police dogs trained to be ferocious, camouflaged trenches —dot the important poultry-producing counties of Suffolk and Norfolk these days. They now are the farmers' defence against rustlers.

With only 13 shopping days before Christmas and with housewives worrying about getting a chicken or turkey, farmers are taking no chance. on wholesale raids by "Spivs". They have even taken to sleeping with their flocks.

Reporters from London newspapers have toured the "battleground" and report the rustlers will have to adopt commando-like tactics if they expect to break through the farmer defences. "If London Spivs come after our poultry, they'll get more than mud on their shoes," The Daily Mail quoted one Norfolk farmer as saying.

Defences on his particular farm around the turkey runs, electric alarms bells on houses, a camouflaged surrounding trench which could easily break the legs or neck of a running raider, three Alsatian watchdogs and a shift system for gun-toting sentries.

Some farmers are mixing guinea fowl with other poultry because of the noise they make when frightened. "The guinea fowl is the finest watchdog in the world—a real pain in the neck to rustlers," one farmer said.

Precautions also include tattooing the birds. The brand is an easy means of identification if rustlers should manage to breach defences and get their hands on poultry.

Pre-Christmas raiding last year netted thieves £1,000. Few were caught and those who did appear in court were invariably freed because it was then impossible to identify the stolen poultry.

SEVERE MEASURES WILL BE TAKEN TO HALT STRIFE

Communal Riots Take 127 Lives in 11 Days

Jerusalem, Dec. 10. (AP) — High Commissioner Sir Alan G. Cunningham warned today that Britain would take "severe measures" against both Arabs and Jews of Palestine unless they halted the communal strife which has cost 127 lives in Palestine in 11 days.

Six Jews were killed today in the latest outburst of Arab anger against the United Nations decision to divide the Holy Land into Arab and Jewish States. The attack took place on the Jewish Settlement of Gevulot, near Gaza, on the southern coast. Police drove off the attackers with gunfire.

At nearby Harti, an Arab house was blown up, killing four Arabs. The house was blasted by Hagana, according to Jewish sources who said Arab fire from the building four days ago had killed three Jews.

At Haifa, in the north, two heavy explosions were reported. A Jewish policeman was stabbed and two other Jews were slain by gunfire. Armored cars moved in to restore order.

Given Strict Orders

In the tortured border area between all-Jewish Tel Aviv and Arab Jaffa, where British troops had "shoot to kill" orders for enforcing a dusk-to-dawn curfew, a Jew was killed by a shot in the back a few moments after he was released by police. He had been arrested on an arms charge with four companions.

In Jerusalem, a Jewish agency spokesman said the dead man was a member of Hagana, the Jewish defence organization, and charged that British police fired the fatal shot. He complained of the "unruly behavior of policemen".

Two Arab bodies were found in that region and two Jewish-owned carpenter shops were ruined by fire. Several small Jewish houses were burned and a Jew was wounded by gunfire in an industrial section of Tel Aviv.

Including at least 124 killed in Aden and another four in Syria, The Associated Press count of dead in the Middle East since the communal conflicts began last week stood at 255. Property losses in Palestine alone were estimated at $10,000,000.

Wedding Present Flour Used At Diamond Wedding

Brantford, Dec. 10. (CP) — Back in the good, old days, they made things to last. Take the flour given Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Carter as a wedding present, as an example.

The flour was used to make their original wedding cake fifty years ago and this week, when the couple celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary, flour left over from that original wedding cake was used to make their Golden Wedding cake.

Earth May Pass Through 40-Million-Mile Tail Of Strange New Comet

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 10 — (AP)— Dr. Richard Woolley, director of the Commonwealth observatory in Canberra, said today it was possible that the earth would pass through the 40,000,000-mile tail of a strange new comet which has flamed across the southern skies for the last two nights.

"Observations in the next few days will show if and when this can be expected," Woolley said. "If it occurs, there will be a harmless but spectacular shower of meteorites."

(The earth passed through the tail of the great comet of 1861, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, but no phenomenon was noticeable "beyond the diffused glare.")

Woolley was convinced that the comet was one which had never before been recorded, and "as an object of the first magnitude, spectacularly visible to the naked eye, the comet probably has made astronomical history by approaching so close to the earth before being observed."

An abnormally cloudy season probably accounted for the failure of observers to spot the comet earlier through telescopes.

Thousands of persons throughout Australia have seen the comet during the last two nights and have deluged newspapers with queries.

Woolley described the comet as the brightest he had ever seen and said it was more spectacular than the famous Halley's Comet, last seen in 1910.

Aged Indian Seer's Prophecy

Adelaide, Australia —(Reuters) —Before the year 2000 there will be "another comet, the most destructive of all wars and the end of the world," according to Ahmar Gaga Singh, an Indian claiming to be 114 years old, who has been described by George Dodwell, Australian government astronomer, as "a great and mysterious man with a marvellous ability to foretell future events."

Dodwell confirmed today that a fortnight ago Singh had predicted the appearance of the comet flashing across the southern heavens during the last few days.

Singh said "supernatural influences" brought him from Melbourne weeks ago.

He made another prophecy today that "seven sunspots — the centre one colossal — will be visible in this area two minutes after midnight Christmas Day."

"People in England laughed when I predicted in 1882 that a great comet would appear in six months, but many committed suicide when the comet came," Singh declared.

The comet of 1882 was unusually bright, and was clearly seen by daylight. Calculations made at the time determined that it would appear about every 700 years.

'Battle of Wagons' in U.K. Starts Idle Cars Rolling

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Britons, both men and women, are sacrificing their weekend leisure and working overtime, as if in a wartime emergency, to clear a huge bottleneck in railway freight transportation.

They have responded to an appeal by Sir Stafford Cripps, as director of Britain's economic program to repair and unload freight cars and keep them on the move.

It is the "battle of the wagons," as freight cars are called in Britain, and the "wagon chasers" already have started thousands of idle cars rolling again.

It is estimated that one-sixth of Britain's 1,200,000 freight cars still are immobilized awaiting repair.

The problem is two-fold—to repair some 200,000 crippled freight cars, many of which need only a nut or bolt to put them back in service, and to speed up unloading and prevent the use of cars for temporary storage on sidings.

The weekly repair rate has been stepped up from 80,000 to 100,000 but it is estimated that this just about offsets new breakdowns of the war-worn cars.

Last weekend—the second of the drive—volunteers for the overtime work of repairing and unloading released more than 65,000 cars. Most of the volunteers were railway employees but appeals have gone to the general public, and the National Union of Students already has offered to join in the drive.

Freight depots throughout the country were thronged with men and women unloading coal, food, timber, steel and other commodities, giving up their weekend to help solve a national problem.

Russian Notes Will be Sent Back Says France

Paris, Dec. 10 — (AP) —The French government decided today that Russian notes protesting the treatment of Soviet citizens in France are "unreceivable" and will be sent back to Moscow.

The decision reached at a cabinet meeting at which President Vincent Auriol Presidad, will be explained in a radio address by Francois Mtterand, Minister for Veterans Affairs.

The action is does not constitute a "rejection" of the protests, in the usual diplomatic sense of that word. A "rejection" means that the government the protest is directed does not agree with it, and the reasons for the disagreement customarily are stated.

In this case, the French government said the language contained in the two notes was "unacceptable."

Meanwhile a French embassy spokesman in Moscow said that the five members of the French repatriation mission, ordered out of Russia by the Soviet government yesterday, had received their exit visas and would leave for home later in the day or tomorrow.

The Russians ordered the mission to leave after the French government had expelled the Soviet repatriations mission from France on the ground it had participated in "subversive activities."

Warrants Sworn Out For Two Toronto Men

Kitchener, Dec. 10 —(CP)— A development on a gun-fight police had in a store here with six armed men, warrants were sworn out here yesterday for the arrest of two Toronto men, Deputy Chief of Police John Patrick announced.

One man, Lorne Morgan Burns, 35, of Toronto, was arrested in the store after the Sunday night battle in which Constable Richard Cowan was wounded in the leg.

Patrick said the two wanted on charges of breaking and entering the Woolworth store on King Street here are William Campbell and Douglas J. McAvella. He added Hamilton police reported that tools used by the safe crackers Sunday night and recovered by the Kitchener police were stolen from the Vallance Brown Hardware Store, Hamilton, the night before the break-in here.

Burns, captured by Constable Harold Ulmer of the Kitchener force after a running gun battle in the darkened store, appeared in police court here Monday charged with shooting with intent to maim and breaking and entering while armed. He was remanded until Friday.

St Thomas, Ont., Dec. 10. — (CP)—Provincial Police here are continuing investigation into the disappearance of Mrs. Audrey Hague, 26, St. George Street North, and her 17-month-old daughter, Heather Ann, reported missing from their home since December 3.

KING AND BRACKEN CLASH ON RECENT TARIFF CHANGES

Agreement May Be Referred to Committee

Ottawa, Dec. 10 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, disagreed in the Commons yesterday on the question of how the recent trade and tariff negotiations at Geneva will affect the British preferential tariff system.

In a debate comparable at times to lively tariff discussions of the 1930s, Mr. King said the Geneva agreement was so framed that Canada and other commonwealth countries had not relinquished anything important in preferences.

But Mr. Bracken said an exchange of letters between Canada and Britain, which had nothing to do with the general agreement, sounded the death-knell to the preferential tariff system.

The two leaders were the first to speak in the debate on the Geneva agreement. They were followed by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) and Reconstruction Minister Howe.

Mr. Coldwell joined Mr. Bracken in asking that the agreement be referred to a committee for detailed study and backed his request with a warning that Canada was in "danger more and more of falling under the domination of the United States."

Though he had the "greatest respect" for the American people, he would not want to exchange the "domination" of London's Downing Street, which Mr. King had long sought to avoid, for the domination of Washington.

Mr. Howe, speaking briefly after Mr. Blackmore had criticized American trade policies, indicated the government might agree to committee study of the agreement.

Debate Adjourned

The discussion started shortly after Finance Minister Abbott adjourned pre-Christmas debate on the throne speech with a blunt statement that Canada cannot return to a policy of over-all price control unless the people are prepared to accept direction by the government of the country's economy. That was part of his reply to criticism of the government's decontrol program by Mr. Coldwell and Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

Mr. Coldwell moved a motion of non-confidence in the government which declared the government had failed to use its powers to control prices, with the result living costs had risen and living standards had been endangered.

Britons Try to Get Cold Comfort From Long-Term Weather Forecasts

By GLENN WILLIAMS

London, Dec. 10 —(AP)— With the first cold snap of an otherwise exceptionally mild autumn, Britons — from astrologers to scholars — are wondering whether the winter holds a second-run performance of last February's horrible blizzards.

For those who put their faith in Old Moore's Almanac, there is some comfort. The worst Old Moore's successors can read in the signs of moon and stars is that February will produce a "cold spell for a few days."

Otherwise, this publication, a standby of British almanac perusers since 1697, predicts little that any resident of Britain could not forecast — winter months of "variable weather" with "dull and cloudy" periods.

Newspaper writers, from humorists to record readers, have crawled into the act of portraying the winter.

One of the record-checkers discovered that on the performances of the last century, it's 15 to 1 against a white Christmas but only 7 to 1 against a foggy one. December turned out to be the worst month of all about being foggy.

The records are cold comfort, too, to those wishful thinkers who believe that two really bad winters don't come in succession here. Take the three years of 1940, 41 and 42. They were the coldest three in a row in 60 years.

Gordon Manley, former president of the Royal Meteorological Society who now is a professor of geography at Cambridge, risked his reputations on a carefully qualified forecast for a popular magazine.

Late December will bring on the cold, he predicted, with January "colder than normal."

But "any evidence is extremely sketchy," he added, suggesting that just to be on the safe side, Britain should "allow for a rather colder winter than usual."

The official weather forecasters in the Air Ministry's meteorological bureau, however, want no part of any long-term predictions.

"Look, old boy," said one forecaster to an inquirer about the winter, "we have trouble enough with 24-hour forecasts."

In fact, they have so much trouble that they've even quit calling their conclusions a forecast. It's just a "general inference from prevailing conditions."

Flares Give Hope Some Survivors Among Passengers

Parts of Craft Appear From Air to be Intact

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 10 —(CP)— Flares shooting skyward through a swirling snowstorm near Goose Bay, Labrador, today gave ground parties some hope that 29 persons aboard a United States Army Transport Command which crashed just before midnight may still be alive.

United States authorities here said that at first flaming wreckage and later parts of the aircraft that "seemed to be intact" had been sighted from the air.

In visibility of less than one mile flares believed to have been released by survivors also were observed and ground search parties were hastening to the scene over rugged terrain.

One Man Seen

Westover Field, Mass., (AP)— A big air transport command plane carrying 29—10 crew members and 19 military passengers—crashed and burned just before midnight last night in the icy wilderness north of Goose Bay, Labrador. The number of survivors—if any—was unknown.

From the air, one man could be seen in the centre of the wreckage waving his arms.

"Whether he is one of the survivors of a member or the ground rescue crew sent out from the Goose Bay airfield is unknown," a spokesman at the air transport command headquarters here said.

The big plane—equivalent of the DC-4 type planes used by commercial airlines — crashed about eight miles north of Goose Bay just after a takeoff on an unscheduled flight from the Labrador airfield to Westover field with mail and cargo.

A small reconnaissance plane spotted the lone figure in the wreckage. The main ground rescue party was reported in Goose River, near the scene. Whether the man at the crash was an advance member of the rescue group is not known.

A light Nordyn Norseman —a plane used by Canadian bush pilots—is helping direct the rescuers moving over the rugged snowy countryside.

Falling for Smoke Causes Arrest

Tokyo, Dec. 10. (AP)—A killer who had eluded the police five months was captured because he couldn't resist a chance for a smoke.

Farmer Tomekichi Iimura was credited with the capture. The farmer was smoking a homemade cigaret at the conclusion of his son's wedding last night.

Torarichi Yajima, 46, chanced by. A wisp of tobacco smoke twinged his nostrils. He crept into the house and asked for a cigaret.

Iimura notified police.

Dubbed Oni-Tor (Demon Tora), Yajima had existed on nuts, berries and mushrooms in the hills since he killed his 51-year-old sweetheart.

GLOBE-ENCIRCLING FLIGHT ENDS FOR FLIVVER PLANES

25,000-Mile Trip Started on August 9th Just Took 123 Days

Teterboro, N.J., Dec. 10 (AP) —Cliff Evans and George Truman landed their two pint-sized, 100-horse-power Flivver planes at Teterboro airport at 10:10 a.m. today, ending a leisurely 25,000-mile globe-circling flight unique in the history of aviation.

The two former United States army pilots came in as casually as they departed from this suburban commercial airport on August 9. They had flown around the earth in 123 days to show that it could be done in little fabric-covered aircraft with a cruising speed of 105 miles an hour.

A flight of fighter planes escorted the two pilots on the final lap from Harrisburg, Pa., today.

Evans came in first, touching the runway a few seconds ahead of the Saskatchewan-born Truman.

The flags of 23 countries and various insignia gathered at each of their 49 stops were painted on the sides of each of the tiny planes, smallest ever to cross the oceans and to circle the globe. The 1,000-pound planes (empty) had a gross maximum weight of 2,180 pounds, or 430 pounds over normal gross weight.

Beneath each of the flags was the name of a leading person in that country, including that of Pope Pius.

Ahead of the two fliers were a civic reception and a press conference at Teterboro and then a trip by motor, under police escort, to New York City for a greeting by Mayor William O'Dwyer and another reception there.

A preliminary inquest was held in Trenton Tuesday afternoon into the death of Alex Anderson, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson. Alex was struck by a car driven by Reginald Rupert of Trenton, near his home on Front Street, and died in the Belleville General Hospital Tuesday.

The accident, which occurred last Wednesday, Dec. 3, took place in the afternoon. "It was dark and raining," the driver said. The boy was walking along Front Street and was heading north in the same direction as the car. He turned into the car's path and the driver said he swerved to avoid hitting the boy. The right front fender and headlight struck the boy.

There were no witnesses at Tuesday's inquest, which was postponed to Monday, Dec. 15. Dr. E. A. McQuaid of Trenton was coroner.

Amalgamation of Factories Advocated by Roscoe Robson At Cheese Producers Meeting

Amalgamation of cheese factories with the operation of large units to take advantage of reduced overhead and to channel milk into the most profitable lines was advocated to members of the Hastings county cheese producers by Roscoe Robson, M.P.P., for Hastings East as he spoke at their well attended annual meeting at Stirling on Tuesday.

Mr. Robson stated he had given much thought to the matter and considered that four milk factories would be sufficient to handle all the milk in the county. Here cheese of all sizes could be manufactured, concentrated milk could be put up, butter could be made and possibly even the fluid milk market could be entered.

"Farmers have forgotten the advantages of volume production" stated the speaker. "What we need is larger factories where milk could be pooled. We hear a lot about pooling milk these days and if it could not be done on a provincial basis then it could be done on a county basis."

Not Big Enough Share

Such a project could be financed through the banks, continued Mr. Robson. The cheese business is a big business but the farmers in it are individualists. The farmer was not getting a big enough share of the consumer's dollar.

The speaker mentioned the two cent per pound bonus on cheese which the province has paid during recent years and declared the farmers of Canada deserved a lot of credit for their production at low profit during the war years. "All of Canada is getting the credit for what the dairy farmer did," he went on, "and if Canada is going to take the credit then Canada should pay—should pay the farmer through subsidies."

The cheese industry had progressed little from a marketing standpoint. True a standard size of cheese was being manufactured and storage facilities had been bettered, but second and third grade cheese was being taken by commercial firms, re-processed and packaged and sold to the consumer at a considerably increased price.

Now Getting Sympathy

The cheese industry was now getting the sympathy of the producers for the fluid milk trade and was also getting the sympathy of cash crop farmers in Western Ontario who fear that the dairy farmers may quit cheese and enter their particular lines.

Chas. N. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, stated the cheese industry was in a bewildered state with England, its best buyer, short of funds. With the prospect for higher prices not too rosy farmers would have to look to efficiency to increase their profits.

In many cases dairy farmers built a nice barn, had a fine herd of cattle and then forgot to build an up-to-date milk house. Continuity of supply of a uniform high quality cheese would have to be assured the customer.

The proposed re-organization of cheese factories on a true cooperative basis was referred to by the speaker who stated that during the coming winter co-operative field men would visit the district to pass along information to cheese factory officials.

Discussion Period

In a brief discussion period in which it was asked if the Dominion premium of two cents per pound on quality cheese had served to improve the quality Mr. Robson stated that in this respect the cart was before the horse. He declared that the Dominion government should set the price for cheese and the provincial government subsidize for quality.

Cheese Instructor George Pollard urged farmers to build, not criticize, the cheese industry, declaring that only chaos would result if factories closed. Improvement in quality must come from the individual, he said.

Clem Ketcheson in his president's address reviewed unfavorable crop conditions of the past year and pointed out the needs of storage facilities to keep cheese until it was sold to the consumer. This would mean more in the producers' pocket, he said.

Jean Badgley Killed by Gun Found at Scene

With provincial police still investigating the death of pretty Jean Badgley who ten days ago was found at her parents' home at Frankford with a bullet through her head and a .22 rifle lying beside her, it has almost definitely been established that the bullet which killed the girl was fired from the rifle found near her.

This fact was stated Tuesday evening by Inspector Wilford Franks, of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police, who is in charge of the investigation. He stated that the bullet which entered the girl's head had been checked with the rifle by R.C.M.P. ballistics experts in Ottawa and although the full laboratory report had not been received, it was indicated the bullet had been fired from the rifle found beside the body of the girl.

Rumors circulated following the death of the 25-year-old secretary were to the effect that the fatal bullet had not been fired from the rifle found beside the body and that the calibre had been larger than a .22.

The theory of suicide has been virtually discarded by police who point to the lack of motive for the girl to take her own life. Parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley are positive their daughter was murdered while she vainly tried to protect herself against an attacker. Police, however, have not ruled out the possibility of a peculiar accident although it is reported there were no powder burns found on the girl.

Inspector Franks stated there was a strong possibility the body of the girl would be exhumed for a second autopsy. Findings of the first autopsy may have been questionable, it was stated by an official of the Attorney General's Department in Toronto. The second autopsy would be performed by Prof. W. L. Robinson of Toronto.

Canadian Legion Elects Officers For Coming Year

At a largely attended meeting of Branch No. 99 of the Canadian Legion held on Tuesday evening in the clubrooms, Front Street, the officers for the ensuing year were elected and a social hour was enjoyed with Ernie Dainard in charge. President Angus Duffy was re-elected for another term and he is surrounded by a strong executive which includes 1st vice president Brig. J. E. Genet, 2nd vice president, Leroy Madden, treasurer Robert Michaud, Sgt-at-Arms Walter Harden, and executive, Dr. Russell Scott, Max. Porritt, Ernie Dainard, Harold Ingram, Max Matthews, Gordon Miller and Charles Jeffs, Alan Sprague was re-elected as legal adviser and the secretary will be named at a meeting of the executive in the near future.

Comrade Dainard announced the holding of a Christmas Tree—and hoped that all would assist in presents for the veterans in hospital. The tree is now in operation in the Canadian Department Store through the kind permission of Art Francis, manager. The dance at the Armouries on Thursday night will be in aid of the fund to purchase uniforms for the Municipal Band and the veterans are hoping the citizens will assist in this good cause.

Believes Preparedness Only Way To Prevent Communist Aggression

Arthur Slaght Addresses Business Group on Danger Facing Democracies

A program of armed preparedness with an army and air force ready to strike first and overpower any nation which makes a move for world power was the only way to assure peace, members of the Senior and Junior Chamber of Commerce were told at a joint meeting at the Hotel Quinte last evening when they were addressed by Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., prominent Toronto lawyer.

Topic of Mr. Slaght's address was "Canadianism versus Communism" the speaker presented a detailed account of Communists seeking to weaken other nations in a march for world domination.

"I do not wish to seem an alarmist but politically, economically and morally we are facing another world war. We already have a potential aggressor facing us and the only way to prevent another war is to make the aggressor understand we have an air force capable of smashing their cities to pulp—and do it first."

Adverse Ideologies

Canadianism and Communism were declared by the speaker to be two adverse ideologies as different as daylight from dark. Both could not go forward together in the same world.

"Let it be understood that I am not attacking Russia," continued the speaker, "but when Russia attempts to carry its form of government into other countries then they cannot complain if we examine their actions."

Russia was described as a country with 190 million population with only three and one-half millions Communists. Yet because of the Communist control of the secret police and the Red Army they completely controlled the country. Rule was by political fear and purges which were none other than murder. The Communistic creed called for world domination, its advocates described as being "sincere fanatics."

Spreading Over World

The success of Russia in the past war made possible by tremendous sacrifice of her people and the Red Army, had made Russian rulers confident and they were now bringing immense territory under Russian control. In Eastern Europe over 100 millions had been brought under Russian domination, while the Communist party, was the strongest party in France and were also strong in Italy, Spain and Portugal.

In South America the Communists were infiltrating the trade unions; in Ontario they have two Communists in the legislature. At Ottawa, House of Commons member Fred Rose had reported to Moscow within 24 hours discussions of secret sessions of the House, this, while Canada was sending jeeps and army equipment to Russia at heavy cost of life.

This was being done by an Allied and friendly country and when Canada prosecuted members of the Ottawa spy ring, the Communists termed the prosecution as propaganda for the discredit of Russia.

Russia no Paradise

True living standards in Russia under the Communistic regime were misrepresented in reports to other nations, it was charged. Referring to housing conditions Mr. Slaght stated that a survey in Montreal had shown that only one per cent of the persons in that city were confined to one room, while in Moscow 64 per cent of the families were living in one room.

Failure of the rest of the world to realize the true conditions in Germany prior to 1939 resulted in five years of hard war, it was pointed out by Mr. Slaght. He went on to quote an American statesman who recently declared that the present indifference and complacency toward world conditions could be as dramatically fatal.

Britain and the United States were being studiously insulted by Russia. This country was using bullying tactics and offering sullying bribes to gain her ends in seeking world domination.

The attitude of the present day Russian leader, Stalin, Molotov and Vishinsky was touched on by the speaker who stated that during the early days of the war Canada was supplying Britain, while Stalin was supplying oil, food and supplies to Germany. "Today we cannot trust their pious declarations of peaceful intentions," he warned.

The Communistic stand that all religion was "poisonous superstition" and efforts to destroy the Church in Russia were mentioned. Churches had been destroyed or confiscated, and priests and ministers murdered.

Russia today was declared as playing a game of cat and mouse while the Communistic regime was consolidated in Europe and agents to "soften" foreign governments and peoples were planted in Canada and other countries.

Leaders such as General Marshall, Prime Minister King and others were quoted showing that these men were awake to the Russian threat and were warned that the armed forces of the Democratic nations were becoming inadequate for their own protection.

"Nor is it the time for unfounded optimism there will be no war," went on Mr. Slaght. "The best way to check any possible war with Russia is to make it clear that we can whip them if they start."

Vigilance Essential

Fear of war and vigilance to prevent it should go hand in hand. If a nation fully appreciates the fear of war then it will become more vigilant to prevent it. "Prevention of war depends upon whether we are more powerful and more vigilant."

In conclusion Mr. Slaght reiterated that Russia was showing her intention to fulfil the Communistic creed of world domination and her belief that the end justified the means, whether by internal infiltration, by revolution or by force of arms. Canada had a potential aggressor facing her now.

President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Charles Lundy welcomed the guests while Vice-President Malcolm Robb introduced the guest speaker with appreciation being expressed by Gilbert Scott. A number of the wives of members of both the Senior and Junior Chamber of Commerce attended the meeting.

Mayor-elect D.L. Storey was a guest at the meeting expressing his appreciation for the confidence of the ratepayers and asking co-operation for the year ahead.

President Makes Charges Against Dept. Officials

Meaford, Ont, Dec. 10. (CP) —T. A. Golden, president of the Lake Huron Georgian Bay Fishermen's Association, charged at the group's annual convention yesterday that inexperienced officials of the Department of Lands and Forests had made a number of unwarranted arrests and seizure of fishermen's equipment in order to make a name for themselves.

A resolution deploring the arrest or seizure of fishermen's equipment without sufficient notice was passed after Mr. Golden threatened to resign if the Association did not pass the motion.

Mr. Golden said that last Summer a government patrol boat sailed right through Lake Erie and came to Lake Huron where they picked up nets belonging to him and two other fishermen, for not having name tags. They came right through Lake Erie where the same condition existed and no seizures were made.

Apparently they knew where they were going," he said, and added that he would fight to have his nets returned and payment for the fish seized.

Edward Medows, fish and wild life specialist, stationed at Galt and in charge of game conservation for this area, told the meeting that the reason the patrol boat made no stops for seizures in Lake Erie was that it was out of his territory. The captain on the Golden Tug was warned earlier in the year that if his nets did not have a name on them they were subject to seizure.

The delegates expressed confidence that the experiment being carried on by the Department at South Bay on Manitoulin Island would bring in the answer to the disappearance of lake trout and whitefish in that area.

Police Unable To Find Out Who Murdered Couple

Toronto, Dec. 10 —(CP)— A coroner's jury today had an approximate picture of the time and place of the murder of George Vigus and Iris Scott, but the names of those responsible for their death were missing.

As the inquest into the strangle slaying of the 39-year-old box factory superintendent and his 21-year-old friend stood adjourned until tomorrow, Sergeant of Detectives George Elliott, in charge of the investigation, testified that police had been unable to find out who murdered the couple.

However, the following facts emerged from five days of testimony which ended yesterday:

1. The couple was last seen alive shortly before midnight Sept. 10, in the north-end York Downs district, in the company of two men.

2. They were probably murdered in the York Downs district after midnight.

3. An automobile with their bodies stuffed in its locked luggage compartment was parked in a lonely spot in west-end High Park at about 2 a.m., Sept. 11, nearly 24 hours before the bodies were found. The driver escaped on foot.

4. All close relatives of the Vigus and Scott families were able to give satisfactory accounts of their movements during that time.

Sgt. Elliott said more than 100 witnesses and suspects were questioned in the course of an investigation which is still continuing and which had engaged almost every member of the Toronto police department. A $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the murderers was still standing.

Crown Counsel Henry Bull, requesting adjournment of the inquest, said additional witnesses might be called at the Crown's discretion before the case was turned over to the five-man jury.

BULLETIN EDITOR CITIZENS FORUM SPEAKS IN CITY

The techniques and objectives of education for democracy were outlined to the Belleville Lecture and Study Club on Monday evening in the Queen Alexandra School by Mrs. Isabel Wilson, bulletin editor of the Citizens Forum, Toronto. Mrs. Wilson told the club that Canadians had much to learn from the cultural Danish Folk High Schools and from the co-operative spirit shown by the fishermen in Nova Scotia.

Following the lecture an interesting discussion on how adult education could be stimulated in Belleville was held. Enos David, member of the Board of Education here said he was sympathetic to any movement or organization that was promoting the general welfare.

To stimulate a greater awareness of the importance of international trends and to have diverse points of view represented, the executive of the Lecture and Study Club was invited to sponsor at least one Citizens Forum Group in January. Mr. R. H. Macklem, president of the club was chairman of the meeting.

Reindeer in Readiness For Santa's World Trip Says Herder in Arctic

(There are those who would view the Arctic as a testing ground for man-killing weapons, as an area of international wariness and suspicion. But Christmas is nearing, and Charlie Smith has arrived at Aklavik with reassuring news. The Royal Canadian Corps of Signals relays it by radio from that outpost within the Arctic Circle.)

Aklavik, N. W. T., Dec. 10 — (CP) — Charlie Smith has come in from the north with a good report for all those who believe that a special kind of magic lies over the Arctic at this Christmas season.

Charlie Smith is a reindeer herder from Tunoonik — which in Charlie's Eskimo language is "the end of land" — in the government's great reindeer grazing reserve in the Northwest Territories. As such, he is also reindeer herder for Santa Claus.

Unofficially, that is. But Charlie takes his unofficial job conscientiously. And so, before mushing to Aklavik to spend Christmas with his wife, he took a look around the far north to make sure all was well with the prospects for Christmas everywhere.

His black eyes twinkling deep in his chubby countenance, Charlie reports that all is as it should be at the North Pole at this time of year. Santa Clause is in fine shape, he says, and will be around on the night before Christmas to pay a call on all those who know there is a Santa Claus.

And his reindeer are conditioned for their long trip around the world — and why shouldn't they be under Charlie's careful grooming?

So the outlook for Christmas, as Charlie sees it, is just as it has been down through the years, and this is confirmed by a wireless report from the R.C.M.P. schooner St. Roch, which is laid up for the winter in the Arctic ice a few hundred miles south of the North Pole.

The Mounties on the St. Roch have been seing strange things in the sky under the midnight sun, and they say that what they have sighted is Santa Claus putting his reindeer through practice runs to get them into condition for Christmas Eve.

Facts in Traffic Toll

Seventy-two persons lost their lives in November in traffic accidents in Ontario and many dangerously injured victims were taken to hospitals. The figure is lower than in the two previous years when the cost was 78 lives in that month in 1946 and 85 in 1947.

Who were these victims of fatal accidents? 28 were pedestrians, 17 were drivers, 20 were passengers, and the remaining seven were cyclists and unclassified.

These figures give some indication of the appalling tragedy of highway accidents, which wipe out in a month as many persons as would form a large village.

Further study of these figures shows that seven of the fatalities were the result of railway crossing accidents.

Rather a strong light on road tragedies in November is thrown on the problem of the dangers of the roads — fifteen of the fatalities resulted from "vehicles out of control." Motorists are expected to have control of their cars at all times. In the late autumn and winter season the hazard mounts and therefore the drivers are expected to drive with even more care than usual for their own sake and for the sake of others.

People of all ages possibly can take a look into the figures and find more facts.

"People over 35 and under 65 are more exposed to traffic hazards at this time of year and consequently accidents increase in this group."

Those are the words of Highways Minister the Hon. George H. Doucett and November record bears out the warning to those who are past the meridian of life or near it. 40 out of the 72 were 35 years old or more.

"December," coments Public Relations Services of Toronto, "commonly regarded as the most joyful month of the year, is one of the deadliest in the calendar for traffic accidents. In the United States, last year, it topped the list with 3,330 deaths. Ontario's traffic death toll in December of 1946 was 62 lives lost compared with 84 losses in December of 1941, the worst year for traffic losses in the Province's history."

That should serve as warning to all on streets and in roadways, pedestrians and motorists alike. No one wants to have an accident. Drivers must be on the lookout to avoid accidents, that is one of the terms which anyone is allowed to drive, and pedestrians must be careful, always.

The Snowy Season

The season of snow is here and once again many men have the opportunity to become skilled in the art of snow shovelling.

It is true that Belleville has begun plowing the snow off sidewalks as well as clearing snow from the roads though the precipitation has so far not been heavy as far as snow is concerned.

Still the man about the house generally has some snow to clear from walks on his own property and he likes to have them clean cut and tidy-looking. This will keep him in exercise which of course he should do in moderation without too much demonstration of strength if he is not accustomed to very heavy work. Doctors have advised that those who shovel snow should do so with care and without too much exertion. If the shoveller is used to exercise he will not mind the snow. If he is not used to exercise he, if wise, will act accordingly and be careful how he wields the shovel. Some doctors advise those over forty to desist from the pleasures of the labor of shovelling because of the unusual demand it makes on the heart unaccustomed to this type of work.

Snow plows are a great boon to those who have had to clear snow off walks especially after very heavy storms. Such is a form of exertion too heavy for many physiques. However there may be trimming to be done after the plow has gone by and that need not call for great strength. Some men do take pleasure in trimming the snow banks along their walks after the way has been plowed through by the snow plow.

In the Windsor Star there appeared an editorial of late referring to the technique of snow shovelling. The writer notes some types shown up by this winter's precipitation. He notes that "there is the man who stands and glowers at the falling snow and then gets out the shovel. He works and sweats, and pants. Finally, gets the snow cleared and he goes indoors for a cup of coffee. In the morning he wakes up and remembers he forgot to put liniment on his back and how it aches, Ooooh!

"There is the man who rather welcomes the chance to get out in the good fresh air. He waits until the neighbors are all at home to see him do his stuff. Then, he goes out and daintily works with the shovel until a semblance of a path is made through the white and beautiful. He never gets a backache because he never strains a muscle.

"Then there is the family man. He rubs his hands with glee as he perceives the snow in the morning. He remarks on the glories of nature, whistles a trifle about how lovely the snow looks, and then hies off to work leaving the little woman to clear the snow.

"And there is the man who just looks at the snow and waits for the January thaw—or the man to come along with the snow plow."

There are no doubt other types, as many as there are men and boys, showing the reaction to the task of getting the white blanket off the walks.

The snowplow at work on the concrete walks lifts an immense burden off the backs of very many persons for in fact most people can get enough exercise without the use of the shovel, since most of them do shovelling of coal in their basements.

All in all, the man accustomed to work does not mind the job but those unaccustomed to the ordeal find it calls into play muscles long unused and it is this unusual labor which brings forth medical advice to "shovel with caution and due regard to the condition in which one is."

Service for Animals

Britain is planning a veterinary service—the establishment of county hospitals for animals and a laboratory diagnosis test service at a cost of about $800,000. At the present time the cost of animal disease is between $120,000,000 and $200,000,000 a year in Britain.

This cost is a very heavy burden and the Veterinary Education Trust will develop research stations dealing with the problems of ill-health and management of domesticated animals. Sites for horses, dogs and a group of livestock research stations have been decided. The farm livestock stations are to be within a few miles of each other and of Cambridge so that they can work in collaboration with the veterinary and other Scientific Departments of Cambridge University.

This fact shows how progress is being made in one phase of agriculture. It is the trend of the times to advance the frontiers of service in so many fields farther and farther.

Next Year's Licence Plates

A tabulation of the color schemes of next year's automobile licence plates, for Canada and the United States, shows that about two-thirds of the states and provinces have returned to the old plan of markers on front and rear. In Canada Manitoba, Quebec and Saskatchewan will issue only one plate in 1849.

An interesting trend is towards permanent markers, with an inserted date each year. These have been adopted by Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland and Wisconsin, while a couple of others are to use their 1947 markers, one with a "48" windshield sticker, the other with "48" as an insert in the plate itself. The needless cost of annual markers, plus the bother of putting them on and taking them off, is likely to cause this movement to grow.

Readers will be interested in the color schemes of Canadian plates for 1948

FOR BETTER OR WORSE

"For better or worse," the vow is read.
"For better or worse," the vow is said.
And oft I wonder, if comes the worst,
Which of the two will weaken first?

When the rapture of glamor long has fled
What of the journey that lies ahead?
If either should falter, as humans do,
Will she still love, and will he stay true?

There's nothing to fear if the hearts be stout
And love remains when the joys run out.
If faith stay firm when the eyes must weep,
Through better or worse their vow they'll keep.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What became of the camels used by the Army in the Southwest?

In 1861 the Confederates captured Camp Verde and neglected the camel station in Texas.

Some of the camels wandered off and "went wilds." A few of them were used by the Confederates to carry mail. Others were recaptured by the Federals. Three Union soldiers from Iowa took a camel apiece home with them.

On March 8, 1868, the quartermaster at New Orleans was instructed to have the 40 camels remaining in Texas sold to the highest bidders. Edward F. Beale, the man who talked Secretary of War Jefferson Davis into making the camel experiment in 1855, bought several of the animals and kept them on his ranch.

A number of them were bought by mining companies for use in the mines. The majority were bought at $31 a head by Ben and Bethel Coopwood for commercial transport use in the West. In 1864 a camel pack train, each camel carrying 1,000 pounds of freight, left the Nevada desert and traversed the Mullan Road in Montana.

It is supposed that most of the camels imported from the Near East, as well as their descendants, eventually found their way to circuses and zoos, although some of them wandered at large in the West. In 1875 the Nevada Legislature passed a law forbidding anyone to permit camels to run loose on the highways. In Arizona semi-wild camels entered camps and ranches in search of hay and other provender and made such a nuisance of themselves that the ranchers shot several of them, whereupon the Legislature passed a law protecting camels.

For many years "wild camels" were reported seen from time to time in the Southwest. It is believed that the last of these camels was killed in 1899 near Yuma, New Mexico, and eaten by some Indians. Hadji Ali ("Hi Jolly"), the Moslem camel driver brought over from Asia Minor, remained in the United States. He died in 1902 and was buried at Quartzsite, Arizona.

Private enterprise made several unsuccessful attempts to introduce camels into America as beasts of burden. Several camels for that purpose were brought from Guinea in Africa to Virginia as early as 1701.

Fossil remains show that large, camel-like animals, related to the llamas and alpacas of South America, once inhabited North America, but these camels had become extinct ages before the coming of the white man.

HELD ON SHOP-BREAKING CHARGE

Toronto, Dec. 10 —(CP)— The man who painted Sam Robbins' clothing store last week looked remarkably well-dressed in his new winter outfit yesterday. The proprietor, who has an eye for his stock, was missing a few items from the store. He called police, who arrested William Lucas, 21, on a shopbreaking charge.

FATIGUE HEADACHE

Sterotyped words or sentences in medical literature have filled many books, and medical journals, accounting for perhaps the commonest kind of headache, so-called nervous headache that comes when a person gets tired, not physically tired by active muscular work or play, but weary of shopping, seeing the sights, going through a museum or an art gallery, travelling (train, ship, automobile, plane). The doctors seem satisfied to attribute such headache to fatigue, or, if you look goofy enough, maybe nerv-then, just what does account for such headache. I'll tell you. It is simple enough, after all. I don't know. Nor does anybody else.

But I deplore the casual way in which Dr. Walter C. Alvarez dismissed such fatigue headache in his book, Nervousness, Indigestion and Pain. Without committing himself regarding the cause, other than mentioning shopping, sight-seeing, travelling etc., he suggested, to lay readers, mind you, that "Such a headache can usually be relieved by taking a tablet of some drug such as"—and he mentioned no less than five pain-killers of the coaltar class, the least dangerous of which is the only one I'll mention here, namely, aspirin. All of the dangerous drugs Dr. Alvarez so lightly suggested in his 1943 production are as effective for dulling sensation of pain, ache, distress, anxiety, fatigue, weakness etc., in any other circumstance which prompts a person to take a drug as they are in the case of fatigue headache.

What one with fatigue headache should do, of course, is rest a while—sit down or lie down where there is reasonable quiet or freedom from disturbance or excitement, and let oneself go, pay no attention, doze or nap a while if possible, at any rate just let your gaze rest on the far.

Taking dope of any kind to dull your consciousness of fatigue is very bad medicine. That is my conviction. Let me offer you this final bit of advice about headache: Don't monkey with it —regard it as a danger signal, and consult your physician — not just for medicine to relieve headache, but for medical examination and advice for what ails you. Of this you may be sure — there's something wrong with your health or your mode of live or your environment if you get headache more than once in a blue moon.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Leave a Good Complexion Alone

I have a good complexion. I use double strength peroxide night and morning. Lately I have had some blackheads and pimple on my cheeks and by my nose. I suppose it is bad to squeeze them. (V. A.)

Answer—The constant irritation by peroxide will ruin your complexion. For the blackheads and pimples, send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing (not a clipping) for pamphlet Acne. The science and art of caring for skin and complexion is worth studying—you will find the essentials in the booklet Save Your Skin, which includes the management of blackheads, pimples or acne too. For the booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope. First thing a girl with brains should learn is how to let a good complexion alone. Don't be a dumb Dora for the magic merchants.

Cultivating the Craving

A 5½ year old boy is given, every day or two, about two tablespoonsfuls of wine, with the family. He loves it and always begs for more, but they limit him to the one drink. Please give your opinion of this. (G. R. C.)

Answer—It would be difficult to devise a more effective way to cultivate in the child the craving for alcohol.

Three Japanese Canadians Ask Over $13,000

By ERWIN FRICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Kamloops, B.C., Dec. 10 —(CP) —Three Japanese Canadians Monday asked the Federal Government to make restitution of more than $13,000 which they claimed is owing them for property sold by the Government during the Second World War.

The three claims are only a small start on the 3,000 expected to be dealt with by the Japanese Property Claims Commission, set up by the Federal Fovernment with Mr. Justice Henry I. Bird of the British Columbia Court of Appeals as the one-man royal commission.

The three claimants—a widow, a former hot-house owner and a former small fruit-farmer — were among the many thousands of Canada's Japanese forcibly evacuated from West Coast "protected areas" during the war.

More than 1,400 already have filed complaints against the Federal Government claiming inadequate compensation from the sale of their property and 50 claims daily, each averaging $4,000, pour in.

Of the 29 claims to be heard here this week, demands for compensation range from $43,000 down to $500. The hearing in Kamloops courthouse was relatively lacking in drama with only a handful of immobile, unsmiling Japs in the audience and little disputing between opposing counsel.

Largest claim heard came from Haruo Ichikawa, former Vancouver hot-house owner and now living at East Lillooet in interior British Columbia. He asked $7,990 for the greenhouse which the Custodian of Enemy Property had disposed of for $2,669, all he received.

Quebec-Vermont Border Towns Show True Community Spirit

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Rock Island, Que., Dec. 10 — (CP)— Taken on a per capita basis, there probably are more persons in the Quebec-Vermont border towns of Rock Island, Stanstead and Beebe who know the National Hymn of the United States than in any other Canadian community.

And on the same basis, more Americans in Derby Line, Vt., can keep up with "God Save the King" and "O Canada" than anywhere else in the United States.

Community life in these border towns is truly international in character. And the singing of national hymns or anthems at public gatherings is just a small part of that internationalism.

In these towns, Americans and Canadians live side by side, belong to the same clubs, attend the same movies — Rock Island has the only movie house — go to the same churches and play in the same sports leagues.

A trio of towns, about 90 miles east of Montreal, forms a sandwich with residential Derby Line and Stanstead lying on either side of industrial Rock Island.

Squeezed out from the western end of the sandwich is the other international town, Beebe, just a few miles from Lake Memphremagog where fishermen have been known to hook bass and pickerel in the United States and land them in Canada and vice versa.

The internationalism of these towns is emphasized in its clubs and societies.

Rotary, for instance, meets in Rock Island because that's the most convenient place, but its members come from both sides of the border. It's the same way with the International Chamber of Commerce which pays dues both to the Vermont Chamber and to the Quebec Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade.

Join in Parades

Strictly Canadian or American in character only are the national organizations, such as the Canadian or American Legion, and even in these cases it's not unusual to see former Canadian servicemen parading at American celebrations, or Americans taking part in Canadian parades.

Each town has its own fire department, but the siren signalling a blaze can be heard in them all and if the fire is a big one, American and Canadian firemen fight it side by side.

Rock Island and Stanstead get their water from the American side of the border and the company looking after it has Cana-

SAYS TEMPERATURE KEPT UNDER 60

HOMES FOUND FOR 705 DOGS

Cleveland, Dec. 10 — (AP) — Since the Cleveland Plain Dealer began printing a picture of a lost dog every Monday morning, the Animal Protective League has found homes for hundreds of pooches that otherwise might have been unclaimed.

From August to November, 705 stray dogs were placed in new homes compared to 391 in that period of 1946.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Jean Isobel Freeman, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Wims and the late Harry Freeman, to Cecil Ross Belyea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Belyea, of Leamington, Ont., the marriage to take place at 2.30 p.m., Dec. 29, 1947, at St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

Mr. Vernon Strebe, 180 Byron Street, Trenton, now a patient in Christie Street, Hospital, Toronto, has undergone an operation for the amputation of his left hand. This was a necessary result of wounds received in Italy while Mr. Strebe was a sergeant with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Mrs. Frank Camken, Bleecker Ave., is very ill in Kingston General Hospital, and Mr. Camken is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

WEDDINGS

WOOD—VILLNEFF

At two o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 6, Rev. E. Farnsworth, Bleecker Avenue, united in marriage Miss Viola Grace Villneff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douiph Villneff, of Belleville, with Mr. Manley Eugene Wood, son of Mr and Mrs. Byron Wood, Sophiasburg, Prince Edward County.

The attendants were Miss Evelyn Sallans, and Mr. Donald Carter, both of Demorestville.

The bride made a charming picture in a dress of poudre blue crepe, with matching hat and a corsage of white carnations. Her attendant wore a dress of royal blue crepe, with matching hat and a corsage of white carnations.

Following their return from a trip to Toronto, Mr. and Mrs Wood will take up residence in Prince Edward County.

McCREARY—ROSEVEAR

The marriage of Phyllis Jane Rosevear, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rosevear, to Harry Earl McCreary, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R. McCreary, took place at high noon in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, December 6, with Rev. J. G. Hornsby officiating. Mr. Alec Gordon presided at the organ and Mrs. Grace Clapp sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a becoming suit of pearl grey bareathea, with matching hat, black accessories and a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses and bouvardia.

Miss Isabel Turner, the bride's only attendant, chose a suit of romance blue gabardine, with black accessories and carried an arm bouquet of white roses and bouvardia.

Mr. Rex Young ably assisted the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Jack Rosevear and Mr. Allan McCreary.

A reception was held in Hotel Quinte, where the bride's mother received in a gown of rose crepe, with black accessories and wore a corsage of bronze 'mums. The groom's mother also received wearing a dress of grey crepe, with a corsage of pink roses.

For a wedding trip to Montreal and Quebec, the bride chose a dress of heavenly blue, with a top coat of seal, and black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. McCreary will reside at 388 Coleman Street, after their return.

Mr., Mrs. C. Grills Honored on Their 25th Anniversary

3rd. Sidney — (Special) — On the evening of Saturday, Dec. 6, friends and neighbors of Aikens community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Grills, Third Line of Sidney Township, to offer congratulations on the occasion of their 25th. wedding anniversary and to present them with a silver cream and sugar set as a token of the esteem in which they are held.

An address of appreciation was read by Mrs. Sam Marshall, and signed by Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Fred Moon, Mrs. Ken Jones and Mrs. Murney Jeffrey. At the same time Mr. Lee Grills, on behalf of his wife, his sisters (Miss Irene Grills, of Belleville, and Mrs. Fred Ash of Peterborough), made the presentation of a silver tea pot, completing a very lovely gift in the grape design.

Chic Parisienne Saves by Buying In Small Shops

(Written for The Canadian Press)

By PATRICIA PALMER

Paris (CP) — Paris dressmakers may aim at the big money but what keeps the industry going are "little" houses that don't depend on high explosives, chichi and dramatic presentations to keep their clients.

There are dozens of them tucked away on the Rue de la Paix, the Faubourg St. Honore and neighboring streets. They have addresses that look good on labels but you probably have to find your way there through a maze of courtyards or walk up four flights of stairs and the rustle of programs, melange of perfumes expensive decor is missing when you get there.

Suzanne Gee at 4 Rue de la Paix is typical. Her two little showrooms, warmed with gas fires for the daily three o'clock showing, look across rooftops and into workrooms where the midinettes of big houses, Paquin and Gres, are whipping their needles around.

Madame Gee has two models to show her collection, Paqin has 10; she has 60 in her workroom, Paquin hundreds; ambassadors' wives go to Paquin, lesser officials foot the bills for Suzanne Gee's dresses. Her fall and spring collections average about 35 numbers in contrast to the 75 to 100 of the big-name houses. She charges around 30,000 francs ($250); they get 100,000 ($800) without any trouble.

You may not be the first one with the bustle sleeve or the inverted drape shape if you have your clothes made at Suzanne Gee's. She designs original dresses but doesn't create the "mode." Her new line, with modifications, appears a few weeks after the sensational original in the restrained version.

Conservative But Smart

This season for instance, she's showing the padded hipline and the long skirt — but the pads aren't exaggerated and the skirt makes it possible to sit in a bus without involuntarily sweeping the floor.

There are many classic designs in her show, the pale pink faille debutante dress with strapless shoulders and bouffant skirt; the heavy pailletted jacket evening dress for older women with severe yet "youthful" lines; plenty of little black dresses and wearable day dresses and suits.

Madame Gee does all the designing herself, knows her customers likes and dislikes personally and manages the business with a firm hand. She's like dozens of other women in the "haute couture"—creative, hard working, shrewd — and her story with slight variations is typical.

After graduating from academy of painting and design she started out in life as an artist, married and had a family, then in the late '30s decided she'd take a fling at dress designing.

Occasionally little houses like Suzanne Gee catch the imagination of the public and spring into prominence to take their places beside Dior, Paquin Jaques Fath, Lanvin and Worth. More often than not they run a middle course a good job for the most clothes-conscious women in the world.

Tabernacle S. S. Hall A Gay Setting For Christmas Program

On Monday evening the Sunday School Hall of Tabernacle United Church held a capacity audience for the annual Christmas entertainment presented by the scholars of the Church School.

Two tall, brightly lighted, and artistically decorated trees graced the front of the room at either end of the stage, and the background was effectively arranged with a simulated fireplace, mantel, candles and stockings; lights and evergreen branches adding to the Yuletide atmosphere.

Rev. F. R. Harback was chairman and welcomed the parents and friends of the children. A community chorus "Jingle Bells," opened the fine program of recitations, choruses, exercises, solos, drills and "broadcasts," with pupils of every class and department assisting. Much credit is due the teachers and officers of the school, who gave so much time and effort in training the scholars.

"Truth and Consequences," a radio broadcast of station T.Y.P.U., with Ramsay McClelland as announcer, was extremely humorous,—but very true to life in depicting "A Day With the Family Radio."

Santa arrived during the singing of the final chorus,—"Santa Claus is Coming, With His Bag of Toys," and, with the help of Captain J. Buchanan and several teachers, he distributed candy and gifts, bringing to an end an evening which afforded pleasure to old and young.

Successful Bazaar Sponsored By St. George's Guild

Trenton (Special) —The chill of winter winds was forgotten on Friday afternoon last when a most appreciative group of guests attended the Christmas tea and sale in Canterbury Hall sponsored by St. George's Parochial Guild.

The guests were cordially welcomed by Mrs. (Rev.) A. S. McConnell and Mrs. W. D. Simmons President of the Guild.

Much admired was the long tea table, set against a background of evergreen branches, covered with a white linen cloth and centred with a very realistic representation of "A White Christmas." Silver and white predominated in table decorations while a soft glow fell over all from two sets of silver candelabra holding white tapers graduating in height from the tall to the smaller sizes. Mrs. M. C. Waldorf was responsible for this very lovely arrangement, and was also convener of the main tea table.

Mrs. W. B. Crowe, Mrs. M. C. Waldorf and Miss E. H. Bensley poured tea, while serving guests at the small tables were Mrs. Jack Owen, Mrs. Don Brick and Mrs. O'Krafka.

Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Fred Bonter and Mrs. Ross Burke were kept busy replenishing plates and tea urns.

Mrs. William Johnson, Mrs. Sam Taylor and Mrs. George Jones were in charge of the Home Cooking table, and at the Knitted Goods and Apron table were Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Dick Whitley, Mrs. Herb Smith and Mrs. R. Hutchinson.

Mesdames N. H. Carter and N. L. Rickett presided at the Miscellaneous table.

Mrs. C. G. Prettie and Miss E. H. Bensley were treasurers for the afternoon.

4. Piano Solos— "Sarabande" and "Burree"—Handel (Ina Miller).

Detroit Man Loses $12,365 While Crossing Border

Windsor, Dec. 10. (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigation aimed at bringing to light attempts at wholesale export of money from Canada continued last night following the biggest haul in illegal currency traffic since the Dominion Government tightened border restrictions November 18.

Charles Joseph Budds, 37, of Detroit, was charged today with attempting to smuggle $12,365—all but $360 in Canadian funds—out of the Dominion. He was remanded a week for trial.

A search by customs officials at the Detroit-Windsor tunnel uncovered the money in two envelopes beneath Budds' shirt. He had declared only a small sum of money.

The money was confiscated and is expected to be forfeited to the Crown under foreign exchange regulations which permit only $150 to be taken from Canada at one time, with a permit. Without a permit the limit is $15 in Canadian and $10 in American funds.

At Windsor's other border crossing point the Ambassador Bridge, customs men became suspicious when a woman from Mitchell, told them she was taking "no money at all" on her trip to Detroit.

A search uncovered $50 concealed in her compact and $23 in her change purse. All but $25 of the money was confiscated. She was allowed to proceed

The two latest seizures were the 20th and 21st since Nov. 18 when the federal government put the $150 limit on money being taken by travellers.

They bring to about $14,650 the total confiscated in the last 21 days at the Windsor ports of exit. R.C.M.P. investigations are being carried out on the apparent belief that there is across-the-border co-operation in taking money from Canada.

When arrested, Budd had five bank b s from different Windsor ba showing withdrawals on that y.

ON ROOKIE AWARD

Omaha Goalie, Just Out of Amateur Ranks, a Real Find

(By The Associated Press)

Terry Sawchuk, Omaha goalie, has his sights on the United States Hockey League's outstanding rookie award.

Sawchuk, who joined the Knights after the beginning of the season as a 17-year-old just out of amateur ranks, posted his second straight shutout last night as his team downed St. Paul 3-0. Saturday night he blanked Kansis City Pla-Mors 4-0.

Eddie Reigle collaborated with Sawchuk for Omaha's victory last night. Reigle poked one score in during the closing minutes of the second period unassisted, and came back for another in the 3rd period.

At Tulsa, the league - leading Minneapolis Millers dropped a 4-2 decision. The Oilers scored all their points before the Millers could tally, holding the losers scoreless until the final minute of the second period.

Tulsa is at Dallas, Houston at Fort Worth and Minneapolis at Kansas City tonight.

U.K. Industry's Needs Force Reductions in Armed Forces

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 10 —(CP)— Britain's armed forces next March 31 will still be almost twice as big as before the war — but military experts say they will be badly out of balance and lacking in efficiency.

Last August Prime Minister Attlee set a demobilization target that would leave the forces 1,007,000 men and women by next spring. Now, to provide more workers for civilian industry, the goal has been dropped to 930,000.

That compares with 480,000 in 1939. But the cut from 4,650,000 at the end of the war has come so quickly that it could not be absorbed without dislocation.

Trained observers say there are too few long-term "regulars," too many short-term, semi-trained conscripts. Recruiting of regulars has been slower than planned.

Official figures set the March 31 army-strength at 527,000, air force at 256,000 and navy at 147,000. It is known that conscripts will make up at least two-thirds of the army figure.

Sacrifice Home Strength

To maintain overseas commitments, greater since the war because of the need for large-scale occupation in Europe and the Orient, home defence requirements have been temporarily set aside. One military correspondent reported the demobilization speed-up was ordered "on the assumption that war is unlikely for 10 years," from 1946.

In October last year, infantry of the line was reorganized into 14 groups, regiments were to retain one or two regular battalions, surplus regular battalions being placed in turn in temporary suspended animation for limited periods.

Now, obviously due to cuts in men and money, all infantry regiments are being reduced to one regular battalion each, and training establishments are being curtailed.

Already the strength of the R.A.F. is 70,000 below the 370,000 for which provision was made in the April air estimates, air ministry spokesmen say. The new cut is likely to be little more than 10 per cent.

Force "Thinned"

Reductions will have to be spread over the whole force, representing a "thinning instead of a diminution in the number of units," wrote one aviation correspondent, adding:

"A 10-per-cent reduction in strength will mean that the average squadron of 12 'serviceable' aircraft will be lucky to put 10 aircraft into the air in event of an emergency."

Hardest hit proportionately is the Royal Navy. Defence Minister Alexander told the Commons the sharp run-down to 147,000 by March 31 was made "because the Admiralty feel that, if, over the period of the next year or two they will have to reach a peace-time figure of about 147,000 it is better for them to take the whole cut and go in for immediate reorganization."

To maintain naval crews serving abroad, effective strength of the Home Fleet — one battleship, five cruisers and 12 destroyers— is being cut to one cruiser and four destroyers. As the permanent force is built up by voluntary recruiting, ships will go back into service one by one.

Alexander estimated naval manpower would be sufficient to send the Home Fleet on an autumn cruise next year. Some senior officers, however, say the Fleet will not be at sea as an entity until the spring of 1949.

N.H.L. REACHES ONE-THIRD MARK IN SCHEDULE

Lineup Changes in Making in Practically Every Team in Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

The National Hockey League today reached approximately the one-third mark in its schedule, and lineup changes were in the making for practically every team but the loop-leading Toronto Maple Leafs.

Montreal Canadiens weren't actually shuffling their make-up but they had to juggle lineups somewhat to make up for the absence of Maurice (Rocket) Richard, high-scoring right winger who hurt his knee last Saturday. Richard will be out when Canadiens tonight take on the Rangers in New York.

The Rangers cut their defencemen to four when they sent Fred Shero down to St. Paul Saints of the U.S.H.L. yesterday. Shero, 22, just wasn't getting enough hockey with the Rangers. They'll work with a rearguard of old Neil Colville, Frankie Eddolls, Bill Moe and Bill Juzda.

The Leafs riding high on a leadership margin of four points over Boston, don't need to make any revisions for their game at Detroit tonight. But the Red Wings have hit a losing streak lately, and they've made a wholesale realignment. Wings are bringing up three forwards from Indianapolis—Fern Gauthier, Ron Morrison and Marty Pavelich. They'll help fill out the gaps caused by absence of injured Pete Horeck and Eddie Bruneteau and Jerry Couture. Pavelich, a star with the Galt juniors in the O.H.A. last season, and Morrison will be making their first appearance in the big league.

In the third game tonight Boston Bruins are at Chicago and the tail-enders are likely to make it tough for the Beantowners. Chicago will have leftwinger Bill Mosienko back in the lineup after a long absence. He has been out since he suffered a broken ankle in the All-Star game at Toronto Oct. 13. But there's always a fly in the ointment and for Chicago it's Gus Bodnar who suffered a deep cut in his right foot Sunday night. He will be out for three weeks.

TERRY SAWCHUK HAS HIS SIGHTS ON ROOKIE AWARD

Omaha Goalie, Just Out of Amateur Ranks, a Real Find

(By The Associated Press)

Terry Sawchuk, Omaha goalie, has his sights on the United States Hockey League's outstanding rookie award.

Sawchuk, who joined the Knights after the beginning of the season as a 17-year-old just out of amateur ranks, posted his second straight shutout last night as his team downed St. Paul 3-0. Saturday night he blanked Kansis City Pla-Mors 4-0.

Eddie Reigle collaborated with Sawchuk for Omaha's victory last night. Reigle poked one score in during the closing minutes of the second period unassisted, and came back for another in the 3rd period.

At Tulsa, the league - leading Minneapolis Millers dropped a 4-2 decision. The Oilers scored all their points before the Millers could tally, holding the losers scoreless until the final minute of the second period.

Tulsa is at Dallas, Houston at Fort Worth and Minneapolis at Kansas City tonight.

Sportsmen's Show Will Present Excellent Program

Toronto, Dec. 10. —Sharkey, sensational trained seal with acrobatic, musical and juggling talents, heads a list of nationally-known entertainment acts which have been booked by Toronto Angers' and Hunters' Association Inc., for appearance at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show in Toronto next Spring.

A variety of attractions including water events, animal stunts, thrill acts and novel sports demonstrations have been engaged for the show, which will be held at the Canadian National Exhibition Coliseum, March 13-20, 1948.

Clarence Hauwiller's four retrieving dogs will be among the main water events. Others include a log-rolling and canoe-tilting contest between Canadian and American teams; Russell Dotson and "His Mad Collegians" in comedy diving routines; and the Stauber brothers in fancy log-rolling feats.

Show officials said the pool in the arena where acts will be staged will be the largest portable pool ever erected for sportsmen's show entertainment. It will be 40x48 feet.

Sports events, which will be highlighted by archery ace Ken Wilhelm, will include badminton and horseshoe pitching champions.

In the dare-devil stunt category will be The Gibsons, knife-throwing husband and wife combination. Scheduled as an unual attraction for both adults and children is a "Dying Cowboy" stunt, featuring a stage cowboy and his wonder horse.

Additional entertainment will be booked later, officials announced. Throughout the eight-day run of the show, during which some 300,000 people are expected to attend, two arena shows will be staged daily.

In addition to the arena events the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show will provide free entertainment. Wildlife exhibits, moving pictures on outdoor subjects, travel and sports, and casting pool activities are being arranged.

KING AND BRACKEN

Mr. Low proposed that the government launch among the Canadian people a $2,000,000,000 loan to provide Britain with dollars to buy foods and other supplies in Canada and said this would offset inflation and provide an immediate market for Canadian production.

Tables Return

As the House opened, Mr. Abbott tabled a return showing that the United Kingdom has drawn all but $117,000,000 of the $1,250,000,000 loan obtained from Canada in 1946.

He said consideration still was being given to suggestions that the chartered banks and the Bank of Canada be allowed to cash war savings certificates.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said he would announce "just as soon as possible" details of the government's plans for increasing the price paid farmers for their livestock products.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said he will make a statement later on Canada's policy on the Japanese peace settlement.

Mr. King, launching the first of a series of legislative moves to ratify the Geneva agreement, described the 18-country pact as the instrument for a new era of peace and prosperity for Canada and the world at large.

Promotes World Peace

In effect, the agreement was a balanced and conclusive measure aimed at promoting world peace as well as trade. He said Canada sought the highest level of multilateral trade. She always had been in the forefront of the fight for freer trade and her prosperity was associated with a wide international commerce.

Mr. Bracken said government policies appeared to be aimed at destroying the British market, the best Canada had.

He felt greater efforts should be made to preserve the British Commonwealth markets and he urged that the government explore the possibility of an acceptable customs union among the Commonwealth Nations. Such a union was suggested recently by Britain's Foreign Minister Bevin.

He urged that steps be taken to increase the development of Canada's resources to increase the country's population and to retain at home young people who now were taking their brains and abilities abroad.

Wall Too High

Mr. Coldwell said there were indications the United States was not prepared to assume the role the world had placed her in as a result of two world wars. Last year the United States exported $21,000,000,000 worth of goods and imported only $8,000,000,000. Even with the new agreement the U.S. tariff wall was high and it would be difficult for other countries to get goods over it.

Mr. Blackmore said the United States was a menace to world trade, partly because of its size and productive capacity.

Mr. Howe said the government was not attempting to "ram" the agreement through the House. It was proposed to establish a Senate Committee to study the agreement. If the House opposed plans to have the agreement considered by the whole House then it was possible a separate committee would be established.

In completing the first stage of the Throne Speech debate, Mr. Abbott said that while the government could not contemplate a return to over-all price controls, it did not plan to adopt a "hands-off" attitude as far as controls, it did not plan to adopt a "hands-off" attitude as far as controls were concerned.

Wants Price Controls

Turning to the dollar parity question, he said to drop the value of the dollar by 10 per cent would mean putting a 10 per cent tariff on everything that Canada bought from the United States. It would not get Canada any more American dollars and would not increase Canadian sales to the United States.

He said the average price of Canada's imports had risen 40 per cent and by bringing the dollar to parity the country had expended from its reserves $200,000,000 less than it would have spent elsewhere.

Mr. Coldwell called for the reimposition of price controls on all basic necessities, renewal of subsidies on milk, butter, bread, feed grains, cotton and wool and the reconstruction of the Prices Board on a basis which would provide adequate administration on controls.

He said there should be rationing, if necessary, of any essential commodity in such short supply.

He called for continuation of the excise profits tax beyond Dec. 31, 1947, but said he realized that some changes would have to be made because it was primarily intended to be a wartime taxation measure.

Mr. Low said he wished to register "the strongest possible objections to the very heavy excise taxes imposed on many things domestic, as well as imported, which have come to be looked on as necessities of life in this day."

PROUD HABITANTS FALTERING AFTER FOUR-YEAR REIGN

N.H.L. Champs on Downgrade but Durnan and "Punch Line" May Spark a Comeback

By DON HUNT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Dec. 10. (CP)—The downfall of the once-proud Montreal-Canadiens —pride and joy of the National Hockey League for the last four seasons—may be just around the corner.

At least that is the consensus of most hockey observers after watching the six teams battle to the season's one-quarter mark.

But the Flying Frenchmen can't be counted out when they have a goalie named Bill Durnan and the trio aptly named the "Punch Line"—Elmer Lach, Hector (Toe) Blake and Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

Durnan, three times winner of the No. 1 goalie of the N.H.L.—judged by number of goals scored against—gives all indications of being just as hot as ever despite a preseason injury that almost forced him to watch the opener from a rail seat.

They just don't make him any tougher than likeable Bill, seriously injured above the eye in a game with Hangers recently, but back between the pipes a few days after against the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Toronto-born Bill is fast approaching his 33rd birthday although he has been in the N.H.L. for only five years. Many hockey fans—not all from Montreal either—rate him with the best puck-stoppers of all time.

The rating on Durnan's behalf brings up then ever-settled argument about the relative merits of old-time hockey—or at least 15 and 20 years ago—and the present-day brand. The oldsters won't deny that Durnan is good but maintain that George Hainsworth and company were better.

As for the "Punch Line"" there is little doubt in the minds of hockey fans everywhere that they rate with the best. This year they are continuing where they left off and all three are near the top of the scoring parade.

Last season the trio accounted for 88 goals and picked up 151 scoring points despite the absence of centre-man Lach through injuries for half the season.

Richard, most prolific scorer of the three was born in Montreal 26 years ago and last season tallied 45 times. Blake, native of Victoria Mines, Ont., now is 35 but manages to keep pace with the speedy Rocket. The line's western member, Lach hails from Nokomis, Sask., and this year is making a comeback at 29. He suffered a fractured skull last year when heavily checked by Toronto's rugged but clean Don Metz in mid-season.

With these four players as a nucleus— Durnan, Lach, Blake and Richard—and defencemen like Neeny Reardon and Emile (Butch) Bouchard, coach Dick Irvin has a fighting team which he expects to soon hit its stride.

If they have already hit their stride, Les Habitants have reached the end of the trail.

R.C.A.F. Fills Last Two Places On Olympic Team

(By The Canadian Press)

Coach George (Buck) Boucher of the R.C.A.F. hockey team which is to represent Canada at the 1948 Olympics announced the selection last night of a centre and a left winger to fill the last open places on the 17-man squad and complete a tentative lineup. Boucher said the centre spot will be filled by A.C.1. George Wilson of Regina, 22-year-old former centreman with Regina Junior Abbotts. The left winger is 26-year-old Cpl. Louis Bergeron, a Montrealer who formerly played for Quebec Beavers juniors.

Ernie Roderick retained his British welterweight title last night when he outpointed Eric Boom over 15 rounds of hard, clean fighting in London. Boom is former British lightweight champion.

Olle Tandberg, Swedish heavyweight champion, is scheduled to meet Joe Maxim of Cleveland in a 10-round Madison Square Garden bout Jan. 9.

Final tabulations released yesterday showed that Joe O'Brien of New Glasgow, N. S., led all drivers in the U. S. Trotting Association during the 1947 season with 128 victories.

Jockey Johnny Longden, who last Friday cracked the modern record of jockey victories in a single season, yesterday added four more wins at Bay Meadows to run his string to 308.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

It is not polite in sports circles to say "I told you so" but the fact remains that that battle last night between the Belleville Rockets Juniors and the Belleville Hornets should go down in the archives as one of the best tilts of the year. Two young, fast aggressive teams, one with its back to the wall as far as playoffs are concerned, fought tooth and nail for three periods, with no let-up of a terrific opening pace, to emerge with honors even, even if territorial play was a bit off the beam.

• • •

Hornets were fighting for a spot in the playoff sun. Defeat meant possible elimination, for the Point Anne squad could oust them from a money position, if they defeat Bloomfield in their next meeting. And it was with that idea in mind, aided and abetted by the fact that they would like nothing better, in a friendly rivalry sort of way to tack a defeat on "Smokey" Harris' beardless buckaroos, that they went all out in an effort for victory.

• • •

And they weren't fooling. They set a fast pace at the start of the game and there was no let-up until Referee St. Louis warbled "Last Post" on his well-worn piccolo. And by the same token the yellow and blue clad kids were in no mood for fooling. The Rockets gave a far better display of the game than they did in their last appearance, and appear to be a much improved team. Their defence was sturdier and tougher to penetrate. Their front lines had more finish, and they needed it for a desperate Hornet swarm was not to be denied.

• • •

And Rockets can thank M'sieu Maurice LeFort, the kid is wellnamed for the fact that they toddled home without emerging on the short end of a score instead of splitting honors even at three-all. The four-foot-two Maureese, as cool as the proverbial cucumber, proved without a doubt that he is one of the best junior netminders seen here in some time. He had to be to keep those swarming Hornets out of his bailiwick during that last hectic ten minutes of the game.

• • •

Tweed bowed out of the league picture last night losing their fifth straight game to the Trenton squad by a 9-5 count. But like the fine sportsmen they are, they took their exit with all good grace and no hard feelings towards anyone or any team. Tweed set a fine example during the schedule, playing hard and fair, and always hoping that victory would come their way. They were not daunted by defeat after defeat but came back night after night and gave all they had. That it was not enough, is not Tweed's fault. The boys gave the best they had with what they had, and no team can do more than that. The columnar accolade to a fine team of sportsmen, and personally we wish them all the luck in the world both here next season, and in the Trent Valley League this season, in which we understand they have entered.

• • •

And what a palate-tickler for the hockey-hungry will be dished up in Memorial Arena come Thursday night. Rockets, with a hard game under their belts, tackle the RCAF Flyers in their last scheduled game of the season, and brother if that is not one for the book, then Joe Louis is an albino. The teams are now tied for second place in the "A" section of the league, and the winner will jump into a first place tie with Napanee. Flyers have had a lengthy lay-off and will be raring to go. Rockets, full of wim and winegar, are also ready for the fray and the result should be worth watching.

• • •

But don't go yet. Listen to what is on the bill of hockey fare in the second tilt. Nothing else than those ancient enemies of the ice lanes, Stirling and Campbellford. Now there is a joust, that should haul in the faithful from all quarters. Tis said that strong factions of supporters from both villages will be on hand, and a good time is expected by all.

• • •

But listen to this, and mark it down in your book or whatever you call it. Did you ever hear of a team finishing its schedule in first place, yet eliminated from the playoffs? No, we are not wacky —— yet. But that is just what can happen in this "B" section of the loop.

• • •

Here's the set-up. At the present time Stirling, Trenton and Cobourg are tied for top slot with six points each. Campbellford has four points to its credit. If Campbellford defeats Stirling tomorrow night, that puts her hockey crew into a four-place tie for first place. Madoc the fifth team left in the race, since Tweed was eliminater last night, has also four points to its credit, and a game to be played with Cobourg. If Madoc defeats Cobourg, that will leave all five squads tied for first place with six points each. Want the secretary's job?

• • •

And since the league ordained at its original meeting that, as Arena time would not permit, there would be no playoffs between teams tied in the standing at the end of the schedule, the percentage system must be used, as laid down in the loop minutes.

• • •

If such a thing should happen that the five teams mentioned before end the season in a five-way tie, the first four teams having the best goals-for and goals-against percentage grab the playoff slot. There was some difference of opinion in various quarters last night between periods regarding this percentage business. A few argued that the playoff spots should be awarded to the teams scoring the most goals, with goals-against being left out of consideration. An official source, and an unimpeachable authority today told us that that was all poppycock, balderdash, and the word the Greeks had for it.

• • •

Goals for, and goals against will be taken into consideration in that a team's defensive work during the season is just as important as its attack. We overheard one "authority" say, that a team which scored fifteen goals, with seventeen against it, was a better team than one that had scored fourteen goals with five scored against it. Alright, you figure it out. Its schoolboy stuff, and a waste of white paper.

• • •

But to get back to the Stirling Campbellford game. Much depends on its outcome as we have already outlined, and the fast-travelling Stirling gang, want no part of a five-place tie. They are out for those eight points and the top of the heap. Campbellford, on the other hand, and which incidentally has a neat goals-for and against record, 21-16 to date, have cast envious eyes on that top slot position. There will be plenty of action, and the double-bill is one of the most attractive offered the hockey public this season. Flyers and Rockets will tee off at 7:30 on the dot, so better be on hand so you won't miss any of the fireworks.

• • •

And we hand another Columnar orchid to a business man of the city who has spent much of his time and effort in organizing the newly formed Belleville Merchants midget hockey squad. He is Alderman Newton Wilbur, a fellow who has long been interested in sports, especially among the youngsters. Newt, has done a swell job in assisting the kids squad, and they have already made him president of the organization. The alderman, who has little time on his hands at his job as manager of the Tip Top Tailors here, has gone a long way out of his way, to help the lads and he hasn't been afraid to dip down into the personal jeans to aid the cause. This city needs more men like Wilbur, if wholesome recreation for its youth is to be encouraged. And also assisting in the cause of the Merchants Midgets are Sam Goodman and "Red" Townsend. And their efforts have been a lot more than good wishes for success.

3 TEAMS TIED FOR THIRD PLACE IN SENIOR O.H.A.

St. Catharines Tepees Produce Surprise by Defeating Galt

(By The Canadian Press)

Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen and Stratford Indians moved into a three-way third place tie with Owen Sound Mercurys in the Ontario Hockey Association's senior A race last night.

And in the junior "A" circuit St. Catharines Teepees produced a surprise 3-2 reverse on the "giant-killers" Galt Rockets.

A seven-goal splurge in third period gave Flash Hollett's Flying Dutchmen as 8-4 victory over the sixth-place Hamilton Patricias at Waterloo last night. It was their seventh win in 12 starts. The Indians edged the Mercurys 1-0 at Owen Sound to chalk up their sixth win in 14 starts.

Hamilton took a 2-0 first period lead on counters by Gord Kahl and Hugh Barlow with Kitchener short-handed. Both teams scored a single goal in the second frame, Oscar Clouthier tallying for Pats while Dutch Hiller sank the Dutchmen's counter. In the final stanza the fun began — Johnny Blute bagged two, Jerry Olinski, Don Bauer, Art Hurst, Ted Grasser and Lloyd Roubell tallied once with Hamilton's lone reply by Len Gaudette.

Stratford relied on a tight defence to hold their own at Owen Sound. The game's only goal came when Mickey Roth stole the puck from Mercury rearguard Art Hayward in the Owen Sound zone and slapped a backhand shot past goalie Bobby Gilson at the second period's 15-minute mark.

Netminder Sensational

Owen Sound missed their best chance to tie the game when with five minutes left Stratford rearguard Johnny Messmer was banished for holding.

St. Catharines netminder, Cec Gruhl, formerly with Galt Red Wings, was given most of the credit for Teepees' victory last night. Galt outshot their opponents 36 to 20, in the only junior game. St. Catharines moved into sixth-place with Barrie Flyers and are hitting .500 in their 14 starts. It was the fifth-place Rockets' fifth loss in 15 starts, having tied three games.

Bill Bushchlen, Fiery Goegan and Topper Toppazzinni scored St. Catharines' goals. Galt marksmen were Wiggie Wylie and Harry Pidherny.

Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen will aim for third place supremacy when they visit Hamilton Patricias in tonight's lone scheduled senior game.

In the junior loop Toronto Marlboros can reach top spot of they win their four-point game with Toronto Young Rangers. Oshawa meets St. Michael's Majors in the second game at Toronto, Guelph goes to Stratford and Windsor plays host to St. Catharines.

Rockets Goalie Hero of Game, Holds Hornets to 3 All Tie Trenton Defeats Tweed 9-5

Junior Squad Now in Second Place Tie With Flyers; Tweed Bows Out of League Race After Gallant Fight

A fighting Hornets' team, in one of the best games of the year, if not the best, after grabbing most of the territorial honors, were held off the win sheet last night by diminutive Maurice LeFort, Belleville Rockets' goalkeeper, but scored a last minute goal to emerge with a three-all tie in the first game of a District League twin bill at Memorial Arena last night. In the second tilt the gallant but luckless Tweed squad bowed out of the league picture going down fighting before the Trenton team by 9-5 count.

Belleville Rockets 3; Hornets 2.

A short dark-haired goal-keeper wearing the colors of the Rockets rose to spectacular heights in the third period of the game and kicked out puck after puck as goal-hungry Hornets swarmed around his nets. For two periods the Hornets with elimination staring them in the face maintained high speed ganging attack that hemmed the Rockets in their own end of the rink, and had a large margin of the territorial play.

But the Rockets put up a strong sturdy defence and backed by the sensational work of LeFort were lucky to emerge with a three-all tie.

Time after time the Hornets swooped in three and four abreast and draped themselves around Le Fort but the youngster came through with a grand effort and it was not until 83 seconds were left, that a puck finally eluded him and tied the score.

Fast and Furious

The game was fast and furious from the opening whistle and the speedy tempo was maintained throughout the three periods. Rockets showed a decided improvement over their last appearance but the edge in their defensive department offset the pressure attacks of the Hornets and thereby hangs the tale.

Hornets went into the second period two goals down on the short end of a three-one score. Defilice, starry Rockets' centre, opened the scoring in the initial chapter when he drove the rubber past Plumley from a face-off near the Hornets' net, Green grabbed a loose puck near his own blue line as the Hornets' pressure was put on, and racing down the right boards swept across the goal mouth and with a low hard drive beat the Hornets' goalie for the second pocket tally.

Huck Reeves got that one back midway through the period when he drove in on LeFort and smashed the rubber past him from close in. But Nolan and Green on a two-man breakaway from a Hornet ganging attack made it 3-1 with the former dunking the rubber.

Hornets took over for the better part of the second period and drove in consistently on the Rockets' net. Semark drew a penalty and the Hornets increased the pressure but failed to score until the nine minute mark when, with Schreider in sinner's avenue, Jack Wardaugh took Jerry Moher's pass and rammed home the rubber to make the count 3-2.

The third period was fast and furious with Hornets ganging the play behind the Rocket bluelines for the greater part of the period. In the last five minutes they hemmed the junior squad in their own backyard and fired enough rubber at Le Fort to insulate a battleship. But the dark-haired kid was invincible and with only seconds to go did he yield a goal to the opposition.

By the same token, Plumley in the Hornets' net was not idle by any means. The fast-skating Rocket forwards drove in on him and he turned in an exceptionally fine effort especially in the second and third periods.

Defelice, Schreider, Green and Semark looked the best up front for the juniors with Milligan and Nolan going well behind the blue line. Jackie Wardhaugh stood out for the Hornets with Day, Reeves, Cal Yorke, Jack Semark and Plumley turning in fine efforts.

Trenton 9, Tweed 5

The Tweed team fighting desperately to mark up one win in five starts put forth a fine effort to halt the Trenton squad but failed in the third period drive, and went down on the short end of a 9-5 score.

Trenton's goalie, Anderson, turned in a fine effort in the nets and held off many Tweed goalward thrusts. The game was slower than the Rockets-Hornets tilt and at times developed into the shinny class.

Trenton grabbed a three-goal lead in the first period, and held a 5-2 advantage going into the third heat. The teams turned on the scoring heat in the third period with seven pucks all told nestling in the respective nets, with Trenton scoring five times against Tweed's twice.

Watson, Meale and B. Johnson practically monopolized the scoring honors for the winners, the former getting three goals and three assists, Beals accounting for two goals and two assists and B. Johnson donating two goals and two assists. Schmidt and Vic Burtt accounted for the other two Trenton markers.

Prout, Alexander, Leal, B. Gehan, and believe it or not Bill Storms accounted for the Tweed scores.

The game was a heavy checking, bruising affair with no less than four players being hurt, not seriously, and seven penalties, two of them majors, and all coming in the third period being handed out my Referees St. Louis and Lee. Two fist fights broke out in the third period with the second almost developing into a free-for-all.

Vic Burtt, Trenton and Stew Stewart, Tweed, started swinging at each other early in the third heat and drew major penalties. Near the end of the game, Schmidt and B. Gehan starting the pugilistic firewords that saw all players in a melee, and were banished to the sin bin.

Stew Stewart, Alexander, B. Gehan, Tip Tummon and Leal stood out for the losers.

The teams:

Ten Flies Ample For Trout Season

Toronto, (CP)—Trout fishermen spending these winter evenings tying flies for next spring's season-opening can cut down sharply on the number of their patterns. Art Flick, noted New York and Pennsylvania angler, after three years' research, names 10 dry flies on which he says good fishing can be had all season if they're biting at all.

In his new book, "Streamside Guide," (Thomas Allen) he details the results of his study in indentification of May-flies as they hatched.

His nine basic patterns of dry flies are Quill Gordon, Hendrickson and Red Quill, March Brown and Grey Fox, Light Cahill, May-fly Midget, Green Drake, Dun Variant and Cream Variant. To these he adds a dry fly tied on a No. 18 hook to imitate the very small May flies.

Almost five centuries ago—in 1496 to be exact—Dame Juliana Berners plumped for only 12 patterns of trout flies. Since then anglers on both sides of the Atlantic have recorded some 680 patterns. Now Flick, after wading streams with a butterfly net catching live flies and examining thousands of trout stomachs, comes back to a basic dozen or less.

Sports Roundup

By NORM ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 10. (CP)—Soccer and cricket can keep the "hat trick" but the term should be banned from hockey.

That's the judgment of Stan Saplin, publicity man for New York Rangers who is staging a one-man campaign to ban the phrase when referring to scoring of three goals in succession by one player.

Says Saplin in his Madison Square Garden program notes: "What does it mean?. . . .That's exactly the point. . . .it hasn't caught on yet—even though it's been around longer than many of us. . . . And it's the belief in this corner that after so long a struggle without success 'hat trick' should retire . . ."

Origin of the term appears shrouded in mystery. Some say it had its origin in cricket and others claim it was first used in connection with soccer.

Some experts say the "hat" angle came from the action of fans who threw their hats up when a player scored three goals in soccer or took three wickets with successive balls in cricket.

Saplin says "newspaper men and hockey program editors employ the term without confidence" and points out that a "leading Canadian daily" in one of the top hockey towns referred recently to a three-goal hat trick."

Hockey Gabfest—

The New York Hockey Writers' Association is launching a weekly luncheon along the lines of those held every season by New York's football and baseball writers. . . . .The luncheons, to be held Thursdays will be the first of their kind ever held in any N.H.L. town. . . Locale will be at a 48th Street Restaurant (Leone's) . . . prominent hockey men will be invited to attend.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Somebody should tell me when to keep my big mouth shut. It is getting too easy for me to put my foot in it. There are times when this is very embarrassing.

At the end of each lecture it is my audience that is tired. Or some rush home to relieve their baby sitter. But a few remain to watch the exhibition that follows.

Three others are invited at random from among those present. We form a foursome. Hands are dealth and bid and played. Kibitzers ask questions as a refresher of the lessons just heard.

The strict application of Horse Sense rules is thus on display. The accurate results are convincing. The watchers go home with the confident feeling that they should follow my bridge rules.

Every so often, however, I get myself in hot water. Not from anything that rules would tell me to do. It happens when my conceit prompts me to use judgment. As in this deal:

NORTH
♠A K Q J 10 8 7 2
♥9 6 2
♦J 4
♣None

WEST
♠6 4
♥K Q 8 7
♦9 6 3
♣A Q 7 2

EAST
♠None
♥A J
♦A K Q 7 5
♣K J 10 9 6 5

SOUTH
♠9 5 3
♥10 5 4 3
♦10 8 2
♣8 4 3

Mine was the north hand. East was the dealer. Thinking to show the onlookers how brilliant was their teacher, I played foxy. With this long spade suit of mine only passes came from me for a while.

From the bidding, it was evident that east and west had a slam. My idea was to take a sacrifice when it was necessary. So, when they reached a bid of six clubs, out of me came a bid of six spades.

My intention was to have opponents double me. Even at a loss of four tricks doubled it would be less than they could make at a slam. However, east surprised me by going to seven clubs.

With the brains of a gnat I would have passed six clubs. Having shoved them into a grand, I should have bid seven spades. My head did not need a soaking that night. The swelling was all gone.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 10 —(AP)— The motion picture industry is worried plenty about the possibility of more outside censorship and is taking steps to prevent it.

In the last couple of weeks Hollywood has been making rapid moves toward what might be considered putting its own house in order. Evidence: The banning of gangster movies; the firing of "unfriendly witnesses" cited by the Un-American Affairs Committee. The rest of the job is up to the industry's unique self-regulating body, the production code administration.

The P.C.A.'s trained staff checks the synopsis, scripts and finished product of all films produced by its members. The reviewers have to be "hep" to all kinds of slang, foreign and domestic, and even exchange the latest dirty jokes, purely for business reasons.

Their censoring is guided by five volumes of regulations, ranging from abdomen to zipper. Note: Zippers may be permitted in some comedy situations, but are generally taboo in bedrooms and parlors.

The staff must also be aware of moral values. Screen wrongdoers must be punished specifically for their wrongdoings. That is, a murderer cannot be accidentally killed by a train; he has to suffer for his crime.

It goes even further: A criminal cannot say something moral in a picture, nor can an honest character condone crime. The bad have to stay bad and the good good.

The P.C.A. okayed "Forever Amber" because the film adhered to the code. However, Church condemnation of any picture always reflects on the whole industry and in the future the P.C.A. will probably discourage film purchase of "sensational" novels. No matter how well laundered they are for the screen, they always bring criticism.

When ever matters of a political nature arise in a script, they are referred to higher echelons of the motion picture association. This does not happen often, since all producers are in business to make money and the promotion of "causes" is not a good way of doing it.

Perhaps now you can realize the many forces that limit what you see on your neighborhood screen. And you might be able to sympathize with directors and writers who constantly complain that their creative talents are shackled by censorship.

But their complaints shall have to wait. For the industry is tightening its own rules to prevent a much more severe censorship than it would impose upon itself.

Walcott Stands To Make Penny On Exhibitions

New York, Dec. 10 — (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott stands to make a pretty penny from exhibitions, personal appearances, radio and writing jobs between now and the time he meets heavyweight champion Joe Louis in a return bout, probably next June.

Walcott's manager, Joe Webster said today that the Camden, N.J., fighter already had received offers totalling $150,000, and is considering making a South American exhibition tour similar to the junket Louis took last winter.

Walcott will make his first Canadian appearance next Monday at Toronto where he will referee a bout.

RULES EXAMINATION NOT NECESSARY

Tallahassee, Fla., Dec. 10—(AP) — A victim of rape "is not called on to look up a doctor and submit to an examination" to prove her accusations, the Florida Supreme Court ruled yesterday when it affirmed the life sentence of Howard B. McKee for rape. McKee's counsel contended evidence was insufficient to warrant the conviction and complained that the alleged victim had refused to submit to a medical examination.

AT THE BELLE — Melvyn Douglas plays Spencer Tracy's rival for Katharine Hepburn's love in M.G.M.'s "The Sea of Grass," closing at the Belle tonight. Tom and Jerry and the Royal Wedding pictures are added attractions.

AT THE CAPITOL — Teamed again in Republic's latest Red Ryder Western, "Oregon Trail Scouts" are Allan Lane and Bobby Blake who give a good account of themselves in unusual and entertaining western starting Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program another ideal family hit "King of the Wild Horses" starring Robert Preston, Gail Patrick and Bill Sheffield.

AT THE McCARTHY — Lovely Linda Darnell heads the stellar cast of "City Without Men", now at the McCarthy Theatre, and featuring Michael Duane and Edgar Buchanan. Others in the cast are Leslie Brooks, Glenda Farrell, Sarah Allgood and Doris Dudley. Second hit features Edna Best in "Prison Without Bars."

BUNNY KILLS SELF TRYING TO LEAP THROUGH WINDOW

Tallahassee, Fla., Dec. 10—(AP) — A rabbit killed himself on Tallahassee's main street Monday night in two futile attempts to leap through a store window sparkling with Christmas decorations.

Police Officer R. L. Blakey, a startled onlooker, said he saw the rabbit wander down brightly lighted Monroe Street, pause before the window and fling itself against the glass.

Undaunted by the impact, the rabbit tried a second time and knocked itself out. Blakey was unable to revive the bunny.

CHAPTER 17.

The orchestra was playing a tenderly seductive Hawaiian melody when Kay came in to greet Beatrice and Hettie. They stood very straight in their peach mousseline de soie gowns, two exceedingly pretty girls, dressed exactly alike. Their parents were travelling abroad, and the twins had planned this party for their dear old school friend Kay, and were proud of having done it alone.

"How adorable you look, Kay!" exclaimed Beatrice. "I love you in black."

"Yes—it sets off your gorgeous hair," agreed Hettie.

"Glad you like me. You two never looked sweeter. You're dears—going to all this trouble for me."

"For us," corrected Webb, who had come up unnoticed behind her.

"Sorry," Kay responded quickly, her face dyed crimson.

Her feet moved restlessly in her silver slippers. Everything now was properly formal. Many old acquaintances and a few strangers were arriving, making pleasantries about Webb and her. After a few cocktails, these guests would develop a carnival spirit, a festiveness suitable for the celebration of an approaching wedding. It would be nearly unbearable, Kay thought.

When Chuck Nourse, a handsome, commanding figure in dinner clothes, paused to pay his respects to Beatrice, Webb suddenly seemed to go to pieces. His eyes looked wild, he was plainly much disturbed.

"Going to have a smoke," he rudely informed Kay, and swung toward the sun-room in the rear.

Kay glanced after him surprise, shuddered a little. So many things crashed into her mind these days, questions she could not answer. She often wondered if Webb knew the answers, although she hesitated to ask him. Anyway, it was merely a faint suspicion on her part. If put into words, it might frighten her.

Her heart gave a faint, bitter cry of protest as Chuck Nourse, giving her no opportunity to lay her hand in his, threw a cool, impersonal nod, and walked away. If he wished to ignore her, why had he come to a party in her honor? It wasn't fair, it wasn't what she deserved! Yet she could make no issue of his treatment of her—she, so thoroughly and respectably engaged to another man.

The guests had nearly all arrived when Harry Aberdeen grasped Kay's slim fingers and sang out, "How beautiful you're looking tonight!" Then he said low, "Let's get out of this. It's stiffling in here already.

She smiled brightly at this young man of medium height with the fiery red hair. Suddenly she was filled with a wild impulse to do as she liked, to rush from all proper conduct, to dash the proprieties to high heaven.

On a wave of abondment, she laughed, linked an arm through his, and walked swiftly down the room with him.

They hid like two culprits in the damp coolness of the conservatory. They sat on a stone bench, which commanded through glass walls a vast view of the star-ridden sky. The full moon seemed dangerously near, as if it could any instant swoop down and absorb the earth into its rotund, dense goldness.

"Just saw your intended in the smoking-room getting himself beautifully stewed, "Harry remarked, lighting a cigarette.

Kay twisted the pink beaded evening bag in her lap, her eyes downcast. She was apprehensive. If Webb talked too much—

"That's bad news," she tried to say negligently. "I suppose it's my fault. I should be with him."

The thick rich fume of Harry's cigarette between them made her a little giddy.

"Why?" he said. "You can't be with him constantly. Kay. Plainly—you know what a frank fellow I am—he ought to get on the wagon before you marry him."

A wave of colour dyed her face and neck scarlet.

"Yes," she agreed slowly, "I know he should—as much for his own sake as for mine. Unfortunately, though, I don't have much influence."

"I've had you on my mind, Kay, for a long time—been too fond of you for my own good. I knew there was never a chance for me—but great scott—I hate to see your life ruined."

Gratefully, she touched his hand.

"You're one of my—my dearest friends, Harry. I—I appreciate your interest—it helps."

He laced his fingers through hers and held them on the seat between them.

"Thanks, I'm a sentimental creature. Forgive me?"

"Nothing to forgive. I like sentimental men. They're generally worth while."

"Thats news to me," came thickly from Webb, standing behind them.

Startled, Kay snatched her hand from Harry's friendly grasp, looked decidedly uncomfortable.

"Oh—so you're here, Webb!"

She rose, shook out her long full skirt. "I wondered why you disappeared."

Harry got to his feet, scowling. Kay glanced worriedly at Webb's flushed face. No knowing what a man in his condition might do or say. This party might turn into a night of grave magnitude for three persons.

Webb, swaying against a rack of blooming carnations, grasped a chair for support. She hadn't particulary noticed his condition on the way over here tonight, but he must of had several drinks before coming for her. Something would have to be done about Webb's craving for liquor, or Chucks Nourse never would be safe.

"We'd better go in, Webb," she said, pretending a gayety she could not feel. "dinner must have been announced."

Harry picked an African violet from an nearby plant, stuck it it in his buttonhole, "I forgot my buttonnier tonight, "he said, with forced levity.

Webb ambled around the bench and took Kay's arm in a possessive grasp. An ice-cold shiver ran down her spine. She was thinking how she detested him, how much like an elongated grasshopper he looked in dinner clothes.

Without warning, a shrill peak of laughter came from her, difficult to check.

Harry flung her a penetrating glance."May I get you something, Kay? a cocktail?" he asked quickly.

She immediately sobered.

"No, thank you. Something struck me as ridiculous, that's all. Forgive me—I—I—"

"Don't try to make sport of me!" Webb said loudly, his face darkening. "I may be a little tight—but I can't stan' humor. Com' on! I'm thirsty!"

Harry Aberdeen strode after them thoughtfully, trying to figure out why an exceptional girl like Kay permitted a man like Webb Taylor to humilate her.

Chuck Nourse encountered him standing morosely in the conservatory doorway. The two men shook hands, greeted each other warmly.

Harry remarked, out of a clear sky, "There's everything wrong with this approaching marriage—everything. And we're here to celebrate it. Bah!"

He tossed his cigarette to a rubber plant.

"Don't I know it!" ejaculated Chuck, running a hand through his fine blond hair.

Harry flung him a quizzical look. He asked quietly, "You—too?

Chuck sighed, grinned sociably down at Harry. "Must be a dozen or more men here tonight who are in love with her."

Then he whelled abruptly and made for the dinning-room.

Don Louder's ordhestra from New York played devine melody hits during dinner, as only a famous group of bandmen can play. This was interspered and accompanied by the low hum of voices, the polite clatter of china and glass. There were bons mots from liquor-sharpened brains, now and then a tinkle of feminine laughter, a restrained guffaw from a male. In another half hour, this party of half a hundred people would be half awake, nosier.

Even now in this environment, it was futile to try to concentrate on one's own problems. Kay was attempting it but failing miserably. She was very white against the dull black of her gown. She sat between Webb and Harry Aberdeen, wearing a set smile, but speaking seldom.

Webb was openly making love to Kitty West beside him. She was a cute, dark, southern beauty, the house guest of Aberilla Jenkins. Joe Culders had been dating her assidiously during the past week, and now was furious, if his face denoted anything. Kay, however, was relieved. She was too near a day of reckoning. Webb's interest elsewhere might tend to postpone it.

Not until Webb began to tell Kitty a befuddled story about unsolved murders, which sounded as if it might lead into dangerous channels, did Kay interrupt him. She remarked firmly, "You're not eating your dinner, Webb. Try the Squab—it may sharpen your memory."

"Ye-ah?"

He glared at her savagely. "Hold hands with Harry, will you? I jus—can't trust you."

She detested his crudness, but managed an indifferent shrug. Some one laughed at him, others took it up, and the pivotal moment swung into frothy inconsequence. A little of Kay's tenseness evaporated with a sigh.

"I tell you," Webb insisted in a louder tone, "you're too—"

He made a sweeping gesture with his arm, and a glassful of champagne dashed into Kay's lap.

"Oh!" she cried, springing up.

Waiters tried to mop up her soaked skirt, the dripping lace tablecloth.

Harry took Kay by the elbow and led her from the room.

"This is—dreadful!" came from her in a half sob. "Webb—making such a scene!"

"The damned fool!" Harry said, under his breath.

"I'll get her wrap and take her home, Harry," said a firm voice behind them. "I came stag—you brought Lucille Stone, didn't you?"

Harry flashed Chuck Nourse a defeated glance. "Yes," he said, now furious at himself for having tied his evening to any woman but Kay.

Kay, her face drained white, stoutly faced Chuck Nourse. She couldn't comprehend his sudden interest in her welfare. Only a short hour before, he had barely been civil to her.

"May I take you home while you change?" Chuck asked, with the embarrassment of a boy at his first party.

A look flitted across her face that was surprise, then happiness.

"Please do," she responded.

Chuck disappeared almost immediately up the stairs to get her wrap. Harry waited below with Kay, trying to be optimistic.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the headlines on his way to the sporting page, and I was on the floor wishing I didn't have to do any homewerk, and all of a sudden I saw a cent under pop's chair, and I thawt, Oh boy, a cent.

And I said, Hay, pop?

Hay hay, pop said.

Meening what, and I said, Is findings keepings?

I believe that used to be the rule in the days when the law of the jungle was observed impartially by man and beast, but the legal code has altered considerably since then, I understand, pop said, and I said, Well G, pop, do you mean it aint even lucky to find things any more?

Well, pro and con, as the lawyers express it, pop said. Circumstances alter cases, or in other werds, that depends. If you find a profit in your business for the year, it rightfully belongs to you after you have payed the government slightly more than its face value or twice the amount of your tax for last year, whichever figure is the larger. But if you find you dont seem to be as attractive to the ladies as you used to be, it meerly proves that the fair sex are losing their appriciation for the finer things of life, he said, and I said, Well how about finding just plain loose money, pop?

Well, if you find it on a desert island where there are no newspapers with lost and found collumns, and no other inhabitants except wild fowl and tame deer, and where it's not the slightest use to you, Aw heck, pop, gosh shang the luck, I was talking about a cent under your chair and I just found out there's a hole in my pants pockit and it was my cent all the time. Darn it all, aw rats, heck, I said.

Excuse me for laffing, I just thawt of something funny, pop said.

And he laffed like anything and I quick picked my cent up, only feeling partly lucky.

Inter-Service Club Council Work Reviewed

Four new members were introduced and initiated into Kiwanis and a fifth rejoined the organization at the luncheon held at the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday. Rev. Dr. Bert Howard of Albert College and honorary president of the Inter-Service Club Council, was the principal speaker and told of the work of that excellent organization. It was one of the busiest sessions held in some time, the principal item of business being the discussion and straw vote taken on the membership merit plan introduced some weeks ago. One-third of the membership voted for the plan and the by-law will be sent to the International for their approval and if same is given a major vote will be taken next Tuesday.

It was announced by the President, Jack White, that the last party of the year for the Club member and their wives will be held at the Centre on Wednesday, December 17. Don Stanton and Mrs. Clare Smith will be tne co-chairman and the party promises to be one of the best of the series. Dr. Reg. Anderson in a numerous manner told the members what it would cost to attend the Installation Party to be held at Albert College on January 2nd and the price nearly knocked the boys off their seats but all will be on deck, when Ted Schwab is installed as the new president and Rev. Norman Rawson, of Hamilton, delivers the principal address. Fred Symons announced that a bowling tourney will be held next Tuesday night when turkeys and chicken will be the prizes for both men and women bowlers.

New Members Introduced

Earl Kuntze, who is employed with Trader's Finance and who served five years in the Canadian Arm yrising from a private to a captain before conclusion of his stint, was introduced by Don Lefrance as a new member. Roland "Spike" Pryke, introduced Horace Willmott, of the Northern Electric Company, and it was stated by the introducer that Mr. Willmott has served 18 years with this company, is interested in Boy Scout Work and music Phil Huddleston, pianist of the club, a native of this city and well known to all was introduced by Charlie Cawker while Bill Davies introduced James Musgrove, a teacher here since 1945 and now director of guidance for the schools of the city Fred Lewis was welcomed back as an old member.

Past Lieutenant-Governor Cliff Baragar called the candidates to the centre of the floor and instructed them in the objectives of Kiwanis and what was expected of them as members. Each was presented with his pon a parchment denoting membership, a history of the club and the constitution of International. After being greeted by the members, the President welcomed them.

The speaker of the day was introduced by President-elect Ted Schwab and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Fred Symons. Dr. Howard claimed that the Inter-Service Club Council established in this city was the first among service clubs and many municipalities had requested information on the setup. He explained the need of such an organization because it promoted friendship and fellowships among the Service clubs, eliminated much of the friction, avoided confliction of dates, for clubs raising funds and eliminated duplication of Service Club work.

Work Voluntary

The speaker explained that the work of the council was purely voluntary and did not interfere with the dream or hope of any Service Club and that it has been a real contribution to the work of all clubs in this community. "Each club has been left to its own field", said Dr. Howard "and in friendship all matters have been amicably settled". He stated that the use of radio has materially helped to broaden the minds of the community to service club work and even the smallest club has been allowed time to explain its particular objective. He praised the work done in baseball in summer and the work that will be done in hockey this year. He also spoke on the duplication of Christmas welfare in past years and this will be eliminated this season through the efforts of a strong committee from the council.

Nightmarish Sea Voyage Ends in Shipyard

By HARRY ROSE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Hamilton, Bermuda, Dec. 10 —(CP)— An 18-day nightmarish voyage during which Roman Catholic priests celebrated what they thought would be their last mass and Lascar crew members appealed to their own gods was over as the battered freighter Empire Wallace lay in shipyard at St. Georges.

The British freighter sailed from Montreal Nov. 3 with a cargo of 75-ton locomotives lashed in her holds and four Canadian priests aboard as passengers.

As the 10,000-tons Wallace was being repaired Monday Rev. Armande Cyr, formerly of the White Fathers' Missionary Training School at Eastview, Ont., told the story of the ship's battle for survival.

Seven hundred miles off Bermuda while en route to Mozambique, Capt. A. Mitchell of Edinburgh gave the ship up for lost.

A short circuit in the engine room had caused an explosion just as a high wind blew up and the cargo of refrigerator cars broke loose and threatened to break through the ship's plates.

With almost no hope of surviving, the four priests, Father Cyr, Rev. Georges Guyot, Rev. Jean Marie and Father Leonides, all from the Montreal area, celebrated mass. The Lascars, unaware of their presence hoisted money bags to the masts to ask deliverance of their gods.

Several crew members suffered broken ribs and the captain and chief engineer had to remain at their posts for days at a time before the storm abated and the Wallace made port under reduced speed.

The freighter will continue her voyage when repairs are completed.

Minor Crime More Than Major Kept Mounties Busy in '46

Ottawa, Dec. 10 —(CP)— The Royal Canadian Mounted Police concerned itself more with minor crime and less with such major crimes as murders during the year ended last March 31, Commissioner S. T. Wood said in his annual report to Parliament.

The report, tabled in the Commons, said the jump in thefts and similar offences is attributable partly "to the fact that steady employment in some industries has fallen off thereby leaving persons with criminal tendencies . . . with more time and possible opportunities to carry out unlawful acts."

Commissioner Wood said part of the increase was in juvenile crimes. The force listed 1,399 cases involving 1,838 juveniles in the provinces which do not have their own police forces.

The number of cases handled by the R.C.M.P. under the Criminal Code was 24,613, compared to 18,222 in the previous 12 months.

Chief increases, other than in thefts, were in cases of assault, robbery with violence, drunk driving and arson, the report said. The number of murder investigations was down from 22 to 18; there were fewer cases of manslaughter and cattle stealing. Safecracking increased from 40 to 66.

Total strength of the force at last March 31 was 3,505 — including 2,829 uniformed men, 266 special constable guards and 410 civil servants.

Commissioner Wood said the R.C.M.P.'s police service dogs worked on 368 cases during the year. He listed cases in which dogs helped recapture two convicts who had escaped from Manitoba Penitentiary at Sontewall, Man., helped apprehend men later charged with fabricating, breaking and entering, and theft, and breach of the Excise Act, and led searchers to an 86-year-old Petitcodiac, N.B., woman who was lost on a berry-picking expedition.

Statues of Many of England's Great Have Disappeared or in Obscure Spots

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

London, Dec. 10 —(CP)— Recent unveiling of a statue of King George V in Parliament Square drew attention to London's long-neglected Royal statues, seldom mentioned anywhere but in guide books.

Few average Londoners know where to look for the many stones and bronze effigies of former monarchs about which historians and sculptors alone are enthusiastic and with one or two exceptions, like the bronze Richard Couer de Lion sitting on horseback outside the House of Lords, locating them is no easy task.

King Henry VIII, for instance, is tucked away in the grounds of St. Bartholomew's Hospital in West Smithfield. He stands, legs characteristically straddled, over the main gate of Rahere's ancient foundation and is rarely noticed by anyone except visitors to the hospital.

His daughter, Queen Elizabeth, is also hidden away from the public gaze, over the door of St. Dustan's School for War-Blinded Servicemen in Regents Park. Like other sovereigns, she once fronted "screaming London's central roar" high perched on Lud Gate halfway down the hill below St. Paul's Cathedral. She was there from 1586 till 1760 when planners concerned about impediments to traffic removed the gate altogether.

The Queen thereupon migrated to St. Dunstant's-in-the-West. In 1831, some knave unknown sold her for £16 ($64) and she disappeared altogether until 1839 when workmen found her in a disused cellar.

Periodically, scholastic old gentlemen write to The Times of London demanding that "the greatest Queen who ruled these lands" should be given a pedestal worthy of her place in history.

Historians also complain that (Bloody) Queen Mary is uncommemorated by any statue at all, while James I, who gave the world the authorized version of the Bible, has long since vanished. His niche used to be on Temple Bar but in 1878 that structure, like Lud Gate, was moved to make way for traffic and the statue with it.

Queen Victoria is much commemorated, but more by busts and plaques than statues. Her three best-known likenesses are outside Buckingham Palace, at the east end of the embankment by Blackfriars Bridge and, in Kensington Gardens close to Kensington Palace where she was born.

County Council Opens Session

Picton (Special) — Prince Edward County Council opened its December session here. Included was a report of the Grand Jury which condemned the condition of the vault used to house county records. This is no fault of the caretaker, it was stated, but it was an unsuitable space for storage. Site of a new vault was shown and the jury recommended work on the project being carried out as soon as possible. The proposed new heating system for the county building was commended. New front steps, installation of fire extinguishers and fire escapes were also recommended.

Of the County Home the jury reported inmates as clean and contented. The caretakers were commended.

It was suggested the exterior of of the registry office be painted. The county jail was found well kept, except for paint on the outside of the building. Some new floors here, together with two easy chairs and an ottoman were recommended for the judge's chamber.

Members of the jury were C. H. Kinnear, foreman; R. Fleming, George Ackerman, Andrew Devine, Morley Helmer, Arthur Cahoon, Ross Fairman, Roy Lumley, Burt Pearsoll, Harry Clarke, H. H. Rose, W. R. Ackerman, Fred Warren

Six Survivors Of 29 Aboard Wrecked Plane

Driving Snow Prevents Any Rescue Operation

Westover Field, Mass., Dec. 11. (AP)— The United States Air Transport Command announced today there were only six survivors of the 29 American military men aboard the transport plane that crashed in Labrador icy wilderness Tuesday midnight.

A doctor who landed at the wreckage eight miles north of Goose Bay reported that 23 were killed in the crash.

A space has been cleared within a half mile of the scattered charred wreckage.

The huge transport plunged flaming to earth in forested, hilly country that could not be reached by air or ground for nearly 24 hours.

A rescue party travelling overland with dog-sleds reached the wreckage last night—but first reports of the survivors came only after the landing of a radio-equipped helicopter.

Stormy weather hampered communications even though only eight miles separated the scene of the wreck from the Goose Bay airfield where the rescue operations are being directed.

It wasn't until daybreak that the first word came from Goose Bay. It was a terse message reading only:

"Believe there are some survivors."

A hard, driving wet snow has prevented any large-scale air rescue but a helicopter carrying doctors and medical supplies landed within a half mile of the scene.

Communications were meagre because of the stormy weather.

LEFTISTS LAUNCH GENERAL STRIKE AGAINST GOVT.

Strong Concentrations of Police Take Up Positions in Rome

Rome, Dec. 11 —(AP)— A general strike directed by Leftists closed down all but vital public services and railroads in Rome today, but government and Labor leaders were reported to have agreed on broad general lines which might end the multiple walkout.

The Chamber of Labor, which called the strike in protest against unemployment, estimated 500,000 workers were made idle.

The Government - Labor conference at the treasury ministry lasted five hours. Later today Giuseppe di Vittorio, secretary of the General Italian Confederation of Labor, was to report on the meeting to the executive committee of the Rome Provincial Chamber of Labor, which would have to approve any agreement.

Informants said an agreement would return strikers in Rome and Rome province to work tomorrow, or possibly earlier.

Many workers reported for duty and stood by hoping the strike would be called off before dark. Strong police and military forces were on patrol and at stations to prevent disorders.

The dominantly Leftist Chamber of Labor of Rome Province, which called the strike last night estimated that 500,000 workers were made idle by the strike, the first general work stoppage in the Italian capital in 25 years.

Light gas and water services continued uninterrupted, as did International Telephone and telegraph services. Workers in those fields were exempted from the strike call, along with hospital workers, milk and food haulers. Food stores were given permission to remain open until 1 p.m.

Magistrate Frees Torpedoed Vet

Toronto, Dec. 11 — (CP—Terence McGowan, said in court yesterday he could not work at a job that required standing.

He did not tell the court the reason, that the third time he was torpedoed as an assistant cook with the merchant navy, permanent damage was done to his legs in the six days he clung to a raft swept by frigid waves in the North Atlantic.

He was charged with taking four rag dolls and a couple of pieces of cloth from a toy factory.

He explained that, working at 50 cents an hour, five hours a night he could not provide for three children at Christmas. The rag dolls were for them. The cloth would have done to make clothes for them.

The magistrate suspended sentence.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 11 —(CP)—Synopsis: Skies are cloudy over Ontario and temperatures near normal. Light snow is falling in northern sections of the province and scattered flurries are occurring in Southern Ontario. Skies will clear during the day and temperatures tonight will again drop to 5 or 10 degrees below the seasonal normal. Light snowfalls are expected over the province on Friday.

PROBE MAN'S ACTIONS

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 11 — (CP) — Further investigation was ordered by Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan today into the actions of Reuben Hadrian, 22, who police said had fired a gun in the air to scare children away from a building under construction.

Hadria, employed as a watchman by the company erecting the building, was charged with unlawfully firing a gun in the city. He was remanded a week.

Bancroft Reeve Is Re-elected By 248 Majority

Bancroft (Special)—Reeve P. A. Kellar was re-elected to office at the village elections here on Wednesday defeating W. A. Davy by a majority of 248. Reeve Kellar polled 328 votes as against 80 polled by his opponent.

There was a brisk fight for council positions with three members of last year's body going down to defeat.

Leading the polls was a former ex-warden of the county Mr. James Bronson who polled 242 votes, in order came W. Maxwell with 226; Dan Russell, 171 and Theodore Tryon, 139.

Defeated were Messrs. C. A. Eddy, 135; E. E. Ellerabeck, 122; E. Stapley, 115; A. R. Tawle, 98 and Earl Hawley, 97. Messrs. Bronson, Maxwell and Russell are the three new councillors replacing Messrs. Stapley, Ellerabeck and Hawley.

WENTWORTH COUNCIL OPPOSED TO ANY 'MOVE' FOR MARGARINE

Hamilton, Dec. 11 — (CP) — Wentworth county council last night passed a resolution protesting any move "to lift the ban on the introduction and sale of imported oils to be manufactured into a substitute for butter known as margarine."

Reeve Niram Fletcher of Binbrook township said such a move "would squeeze the dairy industry into a state of depression comparable to that of peasantry."

Man Has First Look Into Mystery Of Core of Human Nerve Fibres

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Philadelphia, Dec. 11 — (AP)— The first look into the mysterious central core of human nerve fibres, revealing a structure never seen before, was announced today to the Electron Microscope Society of America.

The discovery was by an electron microscope, which achieves effective magnifications of 100,000 times actual size, or far beyond the power of microscopes using ordinary light.

Nerves are composed of many fibres arranged in parallel, like a cable. Evidence was found that the core of each individual fibre contains many long string - like structures about 1/500,000 of an inch thick. Whether they are hollow has not been determined. They have cross bands spaced at characteristic intervals.

This type of structure has been found in all types of nerves studied so far, and appears to be characteristic of all the nerve cores, the biologists said. This arrangement has never been observed in other types of tissues.

Exactly how nerves transmit impulses is still a mystery. It is known that it is an electro-chemical action in nature, and that impulses may be transmitted at speeds as high as 300 feet a second. The role of news-found particles in this transmission mechanism and the functions of nerves is not known but is being studied intensively.

BRITISH TROOPS BLOCK GATES OF ANCIENT CITY

Bar Further Exodus Of Both Jews, Arabs

Jerusalem, Dec. 11 (AP)—Jews and Arabs battled today in Jerusalem's old walled city in a continuation of the Holy Land strife which has taken 153 lives in 12 days.

The deaths of 20 Arabs and two Jews were reported today in sporadic outbursts throughout Palestine, principally in Jerusalem and the Port City of Haifa.

British troops blocked the gates of Jerusalem's walled city, barring passage of both Jews and Arabs who, panic-stricken by the violence touched off by the United Nations decision to partition Palestine, were moving out their possessions in army trucks.

The death toll in the whole Middle East was 269.

Five Arabs were killed and about thirty were injured in Haifa by an anti-personnel bomb hurled from a small truck at a Lebanese bus and a taxi on Kingsway highway. The explosion was followed by bursts of shots.

A Jew was killed and another was wounded in a bomb attack on a Tel Aviv-Jerusalem bus convoy near Beith Dagan. Several Arabs were believed to have been wounded when the convoys escort fired on a coffeeshop believed to have been the source of the bomb.

Several hundred families already have fled the wall area, which in normal times has a population of about 20,000 Arabs, 2,500 Jews and 4,000 others of mixed nationality, mostly Americans and Greeks.

A business man from the new city, who left the walled region a few minutes before the gates closed, said he had seen dead and wounded lying in the streets.

The battle apparently broke out when Arabs occupied a synagogue and hoisted their flag over the building. They later were driven out by the Jews. One Arab was reported killed and two Jews wounded in this engagement.

Two More Arabs Killed

Arab sources said two more Arabs were killed in an attack on the wall surrounding the ghetto-like Jewish quarters.

These killings, together with others reported from different sections, increased to 146 the number of fatalities in Palestine during the 12 days of communal strife resulting from the United Nations decision to partition the Holy Land. For the whole Middle East the toll was 258.

At Haifa, an official announcement said, a British sentry at a military hospital was fired upon by four Jews this morning and returned the fire, killing one of Jews.

The bodies of six Arabs were found, meanwhile, in an orange grove bordering the bloody Hatikvah quarter of Tel Aviv, where an Arab-Jewish gun battle raged Monday night. The Tel Aviv-Jaffa borderland area was reported quiet.

British security forces moved out of Petah Tiqqa and Ramat Gan today, leaving the Jewish constables of the Palestine police force in charge of maintaining order.

The action was in line with the announced program of British withdrawal from the Tel Aviv area, which the government said would be completed by Dec. 15

INDEPENDENCE GRANTED

London, Dec. 11 — (Reuters) — Britain yesterday formally granted independence to two eastern countries embracing 21,000,000 people. Ceylon becomes a self-governing "near dominion" within the British Commonwealth. Burma will become a sovereign republic outside the Commonwealth Jan. 4.

Principal of Bishop's University and Native Of Napanee Missing

Sherbrooke, Que., Dec. 11 — (CP) — Search parties made up of provincial and Lennoxville police and students continued today to seek the whereabouts of Rev. Dr. A. H. McGreer, principal and Vice-Chancellor of Bishop's University missing since late yesterday afternoon when he left his home for his office.

Only trace of Dr. McGreer found by the searchers was his cloth cap near a railway bridge over the St. Francis River.

Dr. McGreer, who had spent several days in bed recovering from injury to his head suffered in a fall on the icy college campus, rose yesterday morning and drove here from Lennoxville. On his return there he rested and, at about 4 p.m., left his home.

Search was begun when he failed to return home for dinner.

A native of Napanee, Ont., he was appointed principal of Bishop's University in 1922 and seven years later was named vice-chancellor.

He was rector of the Anglican Church at Barriefield, Ont., from 1909 to 1911.

British Palestine Mandate Will End Next May 15

London, Dec. 11. (Reuters)— The date for the relinquishment of the British mandate in Palestine will be May 15 next year, subject to negotiations with the United Nations, Colonial Secretary Creech Jones announced today in the House of Commons.

He said the withdrawal of British troops would be completed by August 1.

"After the mandate has been relinquished, British troops still in Palestine will be responsible for maintaining order only in those areas in which they are still in occupation. . . .

"If illegal immigrant traffic is encouraged during the next few months a grave situation will arise which will make an orderly withdrawal and the transfer of authority extremely difficult."

Two Trainmen Killed, Nine Hurt In Head-on Crash

New Braunfels, Tex., Dec. 11— (AP)—Two Missouri - Kansas - Texas passenger trains collided head-on near here last night and exploded into flames, killing two trainmen, injuring nine other persons and leaving three missing, two of them crew members and one a railroad inspector.

The two trains ran together 10 miles south of here, the locomotives stacking on top of each other and front cars telescoping.

Mickey Pattillo, special agent for the railroad, said the two engineers "evidently got their orders mixed up."

Portions of the trains were engulfed in flames following the collision and pieces of the engine boilers were blown several hundred yards into a nearby field.

Three of 11 cars on the northbound train were destroyed and five of the other's cars burned.

Believe Dope Ring Has Been Smashed

Hamilton, Dec. 11. (CP)—With the arrest of two Hamilton men who are booked on charges of selling narcotics, police were confident today they had smashed one of the largest dope-peddling rings to have operated here within the last decade.

Using on out-of-town Royal Canadian Mounted officer in civilian clothes as a decoy, police succeeded in nabbing two sellers red-handed.

Det. Clifford Dean and Det. Albert Chennery, with Cpl. Eugene Touchie, of the R.C.M.P., last Tuesday arrested one alleged seller on a vagrancy charge and yesterday arrested a second man in a gift shop.

A "Mountie", unknown to peddlers, visited the premises and in two weeks made seven purchases of morphine.

$6,000 Reward For Recapture Three Convicts

Ottawa, Dec. 1 (CP)— Want to make yourself $6,000? All you have to do is find Donald (Mickey) McDonald, Nicholas Minnille and Ulysse Lauzon, who escaped from Kingston Penitentiary on the night of Aug. 17.

The new reward total, consisting of $5,000 offered by the Canadian Bankers' Association and $1,000 offered by the Commissioner of Penitentiaries, was announced today by Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Since the three fugitives all have bank robbery records, the C.B.A. decided to place the extra $5,000 on the heads of the three men. The $1,000 offered by the penitentiaries commissioner was announced at the time of the escape.

Food Negotiations May Break Down

Ottawa, Dec. 11 (CP)— Utmost 11th-hour efforts are being made in the British Canadian food negotiations here to reach agreement, but it appeared today that there was a dangerous possibility of virtual falure.

The discussions will likely finish at the end of this week, with the British delegations leaving Ottawa for England, it was learned.

Official sources would not comment on the possible out come but the impression is growing that the difficulties are so great that they may not overcome in time.

It is expected however, that the government will make a full statement on the negotiations by the weekend.

The new trade pact between Russia and Britain, announced today, is one consideration which has entered into these Ottawa negotiations.

It was pointed out that if Britain obtains substantial quantities of Russian wheat, it could mean a decrease in British wheat orders in Canada, with Britain spending this extra money in Canada on other items. The United Kingdom's problem is to balance present necessity against long-term needs, however.

If the Canadian market opens to the highest bidder, as a result of failure to reach agreement on British long-term contracts, Britain would possibly lose this valuable long-term source of supply.

WANT RELAXATION

Hamilton, Dec. 11 (CP) — A delegation from the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce will join delegates from other Ontario cities to present a brief to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission in Toronto next Monday, asking relaxation of the commission order banning external window display lighting as a power conservation measure.

DISAGREEMENT ON EFFECTS OF NEW TRADE TREATIES

Howe Claims Geneva Pact Best Possible

Ottawa, Dec. 11 — (CP)—Government and opposition members of the Commons, although in accord on the desirability of multilateral world trade, disagreed yesterday on whether the objective could be reached through the new Geneva trade agreement.

Reconstruction Minister Howe viewed the agreement as an instrument that would open vast export markets for Canadian products and possibly solve, permanently and satisfactorily, Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States.

Opposition speakers were less optimistic. For instance, Victor Quelch (SC — Acadia) said that many of the world's trade problems of the past arose out of the refusal of the United States to recognize that trade was a two-way street. There was nothing in the agreement that would bring pressure to bear and force a change of such policies.

Howard Green (PC — Vancouver South) and Cecil Merritt, V. C., (PC — Vancouver - Burrard) charged that the agreement would destroy the British preferential tariff system and its benefits to Canadian trade.

Mr. Green moved that the Geneva agreement be separated from complementary agreements with the United States and Britain and then referred to a committee of the whole House.

His motion, unacted upon before adjournment, came after Prime Minister Mackenzie King agreed to the separation and to suggestions that the Geneva agreement be sent to a House committee for detailed study. He said the House might not be asked "at any time" to ratify the complementary agreements.

Valleyfield, Que., Dec. 11—(CP) —Four men pleaded guilty in magistrate's court today to theft of thousands of dollars of rayon from Montreal Cottons Ltd., and four others were charged with receiving stolen rayon and their cases were adjourned to Dec. 18.

Roland Gobeil pleaded guilty to stealing rayon valued at $26,000; Medard Benoit and Philippe Gaulin each pleaded guilty to theft of rayon valued at $16,000; and Leo Lemay pleaded guilty to theft of rayon valued at $3,900.

Charged with receiving stolen goods were Cyprien Drouin, Auguste Pepin, Rene Bouchard and Roland Roy. All were released on bail of $950.

The thefts were said to have occurred over a long period of time.

U. K. STEEL TO REACH '48 TARGET

London, Dec. 11 (Reuters) — British steel industry will reach the 1948 target of 14,000,000 tons provided adequate supplies of raw materials and transport are available, Canadian-born Lord Greenwood, chairman of Dorman Long, leading British steel producers predicted at the Company's annual meeting today.

Princess Elizabeth is Recommended $100,000 Yearly Allowance Increase

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—An all-party committee in the House of Commons recommended today a £85,000 ($100,000) increase in the yearly allowance of Princess Elizabeth, making her income £40,000.

The committee proposed also that £10,000 annually be allowed to Prince Philip, her bridegroom.

Shortly before the Royal marriage three weeks ago, the King offered to increase Elizabeth's allowance by using his own savings. The King built up a $400,000 surplus during the war with expense money for public functions which could not be held.

The committee, which parliament created to consider problems of the heiress-presumptive's purse, made public its report shortly after Buckingham Palace announced that Elizabeth and Philip would return Sunday from their honeymoon, the last part of which was spent in a remote part of Scotland.

The committee recommended the allowances of both be subject to income taxes unless the treasury, exercising existing powers, decided to make part of it tax-free because of the couple's expenditures for public duties.

The committee commended that the King's savings "would be sufficient to pay for the additional provision now proposed for Princess Elizabeth for four years," but did not specifically recommend acceptance or rejection of the offer.

The committee recommended that the consideration of provision to be made for children of the marriage should be deferred until the eldest child becomes unless meanwhile the Princess predeceases King George VI. Any provision to be made should then be decided by parliament in the light of prevailing circumstances.

The Duke of Edinburgh will report for duty at the admiralty on Monday to take up his post in the operations division, it was announced.

Three Children Die When Tram Hits Stalled Car

Father, Daughter Injured In Tillsonburg Crash

St. Thomas, Dec. 11. (CP)— Three children of Elmo Howey, 42, are dead and Mr. Howey and his daughter are in Tillsonburg hospital after Howey's car was struck at Canadian Pacific railways crossing two miles north of Straffordville as Howey was driving children to school this morning.

Howey's condition is reported serious.

Two of Howey's sons, Jim, 14, and George, nine, were killed when a locomotive and coach bound for Port Burwell on the Canadian Pacific Railway line ripped into the Howey car. A third son, William, 13, died in hospital here. Howey himself suffered severe injuries and a daughter, Mary Lou, seven, was less severely hurt.

Police said Howey apparently did not see the locomotive until the car was on the level crossing. Then the icy condition of the road surface prevented him from getting the car off the tracks.

The level crossing is about two miles north of Straffordville, which is approximately midway between Tillsonburg and Port Burwell.

4 Bush Workers Held After Scuffle Outside Tavern

Franz., Ont., Dec. 11. (CP)— Provincial Police said today they are holding four bush workers who during a beer-drinking expedition last night allegedly smashed tables, chairs, glasses and windows in the Franz hotel and caused a disturbance outside a restaurant.

Police said that after leaving the hotel the quartet went to Peter Rossi's restaurant and demanded that he admit them. Rossi barried the door and fired three shots over the men's heads to frighten them away. When they did not leave, Rossi fired his rifle again and the bullet broke a bone in the right ankle of one of the men, who now is in hospital at Chapleau, police said. It has not yet been decided what charges will be laid.

Franz is a small community at the intersection of the Algoma Central Railway with the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, about 200 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

CONFER ON MARGESON ALLOWANCE

Toronto, Dec. 11 — (CP)—Attorney-General Blackwell and a delegation from the Mount Dennis suburb Businessmen's Association conferred yesterday in an effort to settle the question of whether mother's allowance will be paid to Mrs. Ralph Margeson, widow of the murdered Mount Dennis taxicab driver. The issue arose after some $18,000 has been donated to her and her six children.

SOVIET-BRITISH TRADE AGREEMENT NEAR COMPLETION

Wheat and Timber Principal Commodities Sought From Soviet Union

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—Britain will receive "a substantial quantity" of Russian grain under terms of a trade agreement announced today by Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade.

Newspapers speculated this might mean the end of bread rationing for Britons.

Wilson, back from talks at Moscow, told the Commons the agreement "includes quantities, prices and detailed terms and conditions for the shipment to Britain of a substantial quantity of course grain out of the 1947 Russian harvest." The House cheered.

Wilson, who reported earlier to Prime Minister Attlee, said "next May there will be further discussions to prepare long term arrangements over a wider range of goods, providing for a balanced trade program between the two countries." He said there was "no question of payment by either side in hard or scarce currency."

He said goods to Russia, and "provision was made for the Soviet importing organizations to enter into contracts with the appropriate British firms for the supply of engineering equipment."

Tass News Agency reported earlier today that agreement had been reached on all main points.

British experts in Moscow will work out the details of the pact under the direction of Sir Maurice Peterson, Britain's Ambassador to Russia.

Wheat and timber are the principal commodities Britain seeks from the Soviet Union, while the Russians want steel rails, machinery, electric generating equipment and other heavy goods from Britain.

Russian grain could reduce considerably the drain on Britain's dollar supplies and conceivably could mean an end to bread rationing now existing in Britain.

Iron Curtain of Trade Opened

London (Reuters)—The announcement that agreement has been reached on all the main points of the Anglo-Soviet trade negotiations is clearly the biggest possible breach in the "iron curtain" in the sphere of trade between eastern and western Europe.

While Russia self-evidently dominates the eastern group, Britain alone, as an importer, represents almost one-third of the entire Marshall group of western European countries. Britain and the British zone of Germany together represent about a half of the group.

Britain is also the focus of both the British Commonwealth and the sterling area. Anything that brings Russia and Britain together thus tends to bring not only the whole of the eastern and western European groups together but also to reintegrate the world trading system.

The British-Russian agreement also has a highly important bearing on Britain's negotiations with western hemisphere countries.

Her negotiations with Argentina, though not unpromising, have been agonizingly slow. Her negotiations with Canada, though it is almost inconceivable that

NO ACTION ON COMPLAINT

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 11 — (CP) — Windsor Board of Education decided last night to take no action on a complaint from the Patterson Collegiate Council protesting use of the school auditorium by the Labor Progressive party for political meetings.

J. F. Twigg, chairman of the Board, said it is the Board's policy to rent school facilities to any group which meets conditions and since the L.P.P. is a recognized party the Board cannot object to its meetings.

CITIZENS REQUESTED TO ASSIST BAND

We all love a parade but what is a parade without a band? Belleville has one of the most outstanding musical organizations in the city or in the Dominion of Canada — our Municipal Band. This was proven this year at the Canadian National Exhibition when in competition they took second place. This in itself is an outstanding enterprise but think of the publicity the city received and which cannot be valued in dollars and cents

But our band does need uniforms. Let us help the Canadian Legion make this possible by buying a ticket to the dance in the Belleville Armouries tonight All the proceeds go for this purpose. The Belleville Municipal Band under the management of Mr. Harry Moorman, are ready and willing to do their part. Let's do our part and support this worthy enterprise sponsored by the Canadian Legion. Come and enjoy yourself and help make the Belleville Municipal Band proud of Belleville, and make Belleville proud of the Band.

WAREHOUSE ENTERED BUT NOTHING MISSING

Would-be thieves were disappointed last night when they broke into the warehouse owned by Charles Bishop and Son on Church Street. Early this morning the warehouse office was reported to have been broken into during the night but a check indicated that nothing had been taken.

Entry into the building had been gained by the thief or thieves breaking a small pane of glass and then reaching in and unlatching the window.

CORRECTION

The price of New Brunswick potatoes was incorrectly given as 2.75 in the advertisement of Empire Groceteria, Buckley's Food Market and Station Street Marketeria which appeared in Wednesday's issue of this paper. The correct price should have read "New Brunswick Potatoes, 75 lb. bag 2.59."

Dangerous Driving Charge Dismissed

A charge of dangerous driving against George Vanner of Trenton, was dismissed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county police court this morning when he gave judgment on the case which was heard several weeks ago.

The charge against Mr. Vanner was laid by provincial police following an accident on the Trent Road, when the car driven by Vanner crashed into the railroad wigwag signal at the Cemetery Crossing west of Belleville. The signal was smashed with the car coming to a stop in the centre of the highway.

It is the duty of the Crown to prove dangerous driving," pointed out Magistrate Wills as he dismissed the charge. "The Crown has not done this. It has proven only that the car ran off the road and not proved there was a possibility of being forced off the road by another car. The case is dismissed."

Fined For Illegal Fishing

Although 27 cases were listed for hearing at the morning session, the court procedure was of comparatively short duration as many of the cases were enlarged for hearing at a later court. Four charges laid under the Fish and Game Protective regulations were settled out of court, the four accused paying $13 for taking fish illegally. Three others charged with the same offence had their cases laid over for one week at request of counsel, while still another was also laid over for one week.

H. G. Lawrence, Frankford, charged with an indecent act at Glen Miller, was remanded for one week for mental examination.

A charge of careless driving against Earl Davies of Oshawa, was dismissed by the magistrate as he gave judgment on the case which was heard previously.

SMILES APLENTY AT "BIG FOUR" RECEPTION IN LONDON

Although they may not see eye to eye on the issues around the conference table, Viacheslav Molotov, centre, Soviet foreign minister, and U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall, left, shake hands warmly as Marshall was greeted at the Soviet embassy in London where a reception was held for the "Big Four" foreign ministers. Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet deputy minister of foreign affairs, has a big smile, too.

Chief of Ousted French Mission Attacks Govt.

Paris, Dec 11 (AP) — Lt.-Col. Raymond Marquie, chief of the ousted French repatriation mission to Moscow who yesterday attacked his government for its "malicious attitude" toward Russia, was identified today as a Communist of many years standing who wants to stay in the Soviet Union.

One of Veterans Minister Francois Mitterand's aides declared that if Marquie's statements last night in Moscow "are confirmed he will be dismissed and expelled from the army as soon as he gets back." Marquie and the four other members of the mission are due to leave Moscow tomorrow.

The ministry said Marquie was appointed to his post more than a year ago when Communist Casanova headed the ministry. The war ministry termed his rank "fictitious" saying that before the war he was a staff sergeant in the reserve.

The Russian government ordered expulsion of the mission in retaliation for similar French action against the Soviet repatriation mission in France.

Expulsion of the French mission was reported in a Soviet note which the French government yesterday refused to accept because of its strong language and the fact it had been published before delivery.

The diplomatic dispute followed and grew out of the monthlong, Communist - propagated strikes in France which ended yesterday.

Marquie accused his government of plotting for three months to evict the Russian mission from France and of systematically carrying out this plan.

He told Russian and foreign reporters at a press conference in Moscow that French charges against two officers of the Soviet repatriation commission were "without proof and false."

Marquie said his government was entirely responsible for the "events of the last few days," during which the mutual expulsions were ordered and trade negotiations between the two countries broken off.

DENIES STATEMENT

Brantford, Dec. 11 — Cpl. A. H. Langille, officer in charge of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police detachment at Ohsweken denied an alleged statement by the R.C.M.P. that another Indian had been named in connection with the slaying of Isaac J. Hill, 77-year-old Indian who was murdered at his home at Ohsweken.

"To the best of my knowledge there is no other Indian implicated in the case," he said.

77 Extra Postal Employees Will Be Engaged to Handle Christmas Rush

With the regular staff already hard pressed to keep ahead of the volume of pre-Christmas mail which is gradually mounting to a peak, a total of 77 temporary postal employees will be taken on to handle the last minute rush it was stated today by postmaster J. C. Waddell.

Returned war veterans are given preference for the temporary jobs with the post office, but the majority of the workers to be taken on are high school students. The 77 temporary employees will be all males and will start on December 17th. Twenty four of the temporary helpers will assist the letter carriers on their different walks.

Urges Early Mailing

In announcing that the local postal staff will be augmented by temporary help, Postmaster Waddell urged that the general public could give co-operation to his department by "mailing early for Christmas." This would enable the post office to deliver the heavy volume of letters, greeting cards and Christmas parcels on time.

All Christmas mails to the United States should have been in the mails by December 10, while December 19th is the deadline for assurance of local delivery. Proportionately earlier dates for out-of-town points in Canada are recommended.

Wrap Parcels Securely

The importance of parcels and envelopes being correctly addressed and being fully prepaid was also stressed by the postmaster. Parcels should be securely wrapped and tied and to be packed in strong containers wrapped in several folds of thick wrapping paper.

The importance of early mailing was again stressed by the postmaster as he pointed out that this year there will be no mail delivery Christmas day as the post office intends that as far as possible, its letter carriers and personnel generally shall spend the holiday at home.

Dominion Bank Meeting

Canada Needs No Regimentation Says C. H. Carlisle

"The restoration of the value of your dollar depends almost entirely upon greater production and lower costs," said C.H. Carlisle, president of The Dominion Bank, addressing shareholders at the annual meeting in Toronto on December 10th.

Reviewing the increase in costs on various commodities and services in Canada, Mr. Carlisle pointed out that the dollar had depreciated in purchasing value by 45 per cent since 1935-39. "The demand which has existed for many years, and is now enforced, for higher pay and less production is illogical, uneconomical and adversely affects the welfare of all our people," said Mr. Carlisle. Another cause was "appalling and unnecessary loss," due to strikes. "Is it not crystal clear," he asked, "that the welfare of all depends upon co-operation?"

Labor Acts

It was encouraging he said to note that labor organizations were purging themselves of "radical, disturbing and destructive" elements. This accomplished, labor could and would be a powerful influence in increasing production and reducing costs. Such co-operation would be collective development.

Subsidies do not decrease costs to the people as a whole," said Mr. Carlisle. "A subsidy is not a gift from the government. You pay the subsidy."

Referring to the proposal of the CCF to nationalize the chartered banks, Mr. Carlisle dealt in detail with the charges of monopoly, excessive power over monetary and credit policies, bank failures, and huge assets, and went on to say: "The Chartered Banks and their branches give an adequate service throughout Canada, give a foreign service wherever Canadians transact business, have more stable rates than in most other countries, are free from political control, and provide freedom of choice among ten banks. What has socialization untried as it is, to offer that one would choose to change from our present system?"

No Plan Mentioned

The first-term program of the Ontario CCF had enumerated sixty-one objectives, entailing an elaborate and decidedly expensive program, said Mr. Carlisle, but no estimate had been given nor plan mentioned showing how the money was to be provided. "This is really your job, Mr. Taxpayer," he said, "and it is quite a bill for you to pay." Many thousands now self-supporting, would choose to become wards of the state, he said, if the scheme were implemented.

Regimentation was not essential or desirable, said Mr. Carlisle, in a country like Canada whose growth and worth recognized among the leading nations of the world, were made under a system the very antitheses of regimentation. We must continue to operate in accordance with democratic principles, not that of socialization and regimentation.

"Freedom is the greatest wealth one can possess. We in Canada do not fully appreciate it as we have not been deprived of it. That freedom has been greatly restricted, or entirely blotted out, by Socialism, Fascism, Nazism or communism. These different 'isms' differ in operation, but have one thing in common — regimentation," Mr. Carlisle concluded.

Assets Higher

Reviewing the financial statement, Robert Rae, general manager, noted net profits of $971,678, an increase for the year of $110,909; a sum of $1,000,000 transferred to reserve fund from profit and loss account, placing reserve fund at $10,000,000 in relation to paid-up capital of $7,000,000; and profit and loss account at $632,413. Total assets increased by over $20,000,000 to $360,524,670, a new high point. Total deposits increased by over $17,000,000 to $323,000,000, while quick assets of $211,621,000 were 63.94 per cent of liabilities and cash assets of $64,331,000 were 19.44 per cent of liabilities, a strong liquid position. Total securities held decreased $30,000,000 to $138,803,839, the bulk being Dominion and Provincial securities of $125,007,105. Current loans increased about $38,000,000 to a total of $127,584,597 — the highest in the Bank's history.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Stock markets took some heart in New York and Toronto yesterday, while Montreal was quiet but with a firm tone in selected issues.

Toronto "street" rumors took a brighter view of the possibility of some assistance from Ottawa for the gold mining industry, and in a last-hour flurry sensitive golds raised their index 2.24 points to 109.75 for a total recovery of nearly three points since Monday's sharp decline. Activity centred in mines now in production.

Industrials, base metals and western oils also gained in the exchange's index, made up from representative stocks.

At Winnipeg oats and barley futures clung to previous session levels in light trading.

The price of class two wheat, for export to countries other than the United Kingdom, has been increased three cents at $3.35 for No. 1 Northern and No. 1 Durum respectively.

Canada had 11,700,000 bushels of wheat less in store Dec. 4 than a year ago, with supplies in store or in transit at 145,000,000 bushels. Slacking of Prairie wheat marketings continues.

Canada and Dominion Sugar Co., Ltd., reports prospective sugar production from 1947-48 crops in areas supplying North America at 13,502,755 tons and comments that "there is more than enough sugar available for North America during the coming year." Canadian beet sugar production is estimated at 88,275 tons and United States production at 1,950,000.

Butter production increased 8.6 per cent in November and 7.2 per cent for 11 months of 1947 to put stocks somewhat above the level of a year ago.

Would Ease Problem

Reports were current in London today that Russia has repeated her offer of 4,500,000 tons of grain to Britain over a three-year period. If these reports are at all true it would vastly ease the world tightness of grain which is one of the two major causes of the world inflation, the other being steel.

Even 1,000,000 tons of Russian grain coming in the British market, which is still the key world market, could prick the present bubble prices of grain in many other countries.

The psychological factor may be even more important.

What has kept the inflation going in South America and several other areas which are important for the world market were constant reports that the "cold war" would turn into a third World War, which would bring to such countries the same sort of "sellers' markets" as they had in the first two World Wars.

Britain and Weather

As the British people gallantly and without fuss take on austerity for the time being, the world will wish them every good fortune in the weather they are to have during this winter and the coming spring. Last spring was a heart-breaker to the people of England, with heavy snows, the loss of much livestock through cold and spring floods and the interruption of seeding and planting.

This coming year they deserve a change for the better and that they will have it is the sincere hope of the people, especially of America, who appreciate what the Britons have done for the world in the face of such hardships and misfortunes.

Britons have girt themselves to their great task and will carry it out whatever the weather decrees. As news have just told, the almanac outlook is not too clear what the next six months will bring forth. But whatever it is it will find the stout-hearted Britons carrying on as they have ever done.

Lighthouse Engineering

Engineers from Britain and Yugoslav technicians are working together on the coast of Dalmatia, completing a chain of lights and lighthouses to safeguard shipping for hundreds of miles. The lighthouses have become a priority United Kingdom export, for Britain is the only country in the world possessing a commercial organization that can build and equip entire lighthouses.

Lighthouse equipment suffered havoc during the war and the enterprising British are busy repairing and re-equipping hundreds of these installations, so necessary for the safety of ships and their crews and cargoes.

Sugar for 1948

The sugar supply situation for 1947-48 indicates total 1947-48 crop prospects at 13,502,755 tons as against the 1938-39 production of 10,739,784 tons. To this amount Canada, with beet sugar, contributes 88,275 tons and the United States 1,950,000 tons.

With the total production for 1947-48 in the offing it is seen that there is more than enough sugar for North America during the coming year, says Sugar Facts after a survey of the situation from all producing countries.

the Union as the State of Louisiana. That is how Louisiana came to have parishes instead of counties.

In Colonial times South Carolina, Florida and several other states called their political subdivisions parishes instead of counties.

The census reports, the post guide and other federal publications list the parishes of Louisiana as counties.

Several counties of the same name in different States border on each other. For instance, Kent counties in Maryland and Delaware, Vermillion counties in Indiana and Illinois, Escambia counties in Florida and Alabama, and Bristol counties in Rhode Island and Massachusetts, while Pike County, Missouri, is separated from Pike County, Illinois, only by the Mississippi.

Atomic Energy Control Essential To Lasting Peace

Kingston, Dec. 10 (CP) —Although there is no danger of a large-scale war "for some time yet" a satisfactry solution of the problem of controlling atomic energy is indispensable to the establishment of an enduring peace, Gen. A.G.L. McNaughton told the United Services Institute Tuesday night.

Gen. McNaughton, Canadian delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, emphasized that there was no known defence against atomic bomb and that there was no likelihood of one being found: The only possibility was an attack on the source of a possible bomb attack.

Failing an international agreement, the United States should be encouraged to retain its ascendancy in atomic bomb research. No other country had passed the difficult first phase.

"The only major country about which we in the western world might feel anxiety is Russia," said Gen. McNaughton.

"Is it likely that Russia would at this time be capable of diverting effort on the scale necessary to make atomic war? I think not, having regard for the devastation of war, the limited resources in materials and industrial equipment and particularly in technological skill."

He supported the United States proposal for an authority to foster beneficial uses of atomic energy and control atomic activities in all nations.

Ronald G. Sears Denied New Trial By Appeal Court

Toronto, Dec. 11 — (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeals yesterday denied a new trial to Ronald George Sears, 19, of Windsor, convicted of wounding with intent to murder.

Mr. Justice Roach, reading the judgment in which others of the court concurred, admitted an "unfortunate slip" had been made by Mr. Justice G. A. Urquhart at the trial last May in his definition of reasonable doubt but that did not give adequate grounds for a new trial.

A little over a year ago Sears was sentenced to be hanged for the killing in August, 1945, of Hugh B. Price, who was stabbed in the back. His appeal last fall was successful, objection being made to the manner in which police had taken a statement from him.

His current appeal was against both conviction and 12-year sentence by Judge Urquhart on a charge of knifing Joseph Gellengser in the back July 6, 1946. The Judge referred to Sears as a "sexual pervert" and regretted no proper place for treatment was available.

A. E. Maloney argued on Sears' behalf that Mr. Justice Urquhart had misdirected the jury.

FUEL SAVING

London's first radio-taxi system, with a two-way inter-communication between driver and booking office, came into operation recently. It is estimated that the radio communication with "HQ" will save 50 per cent "dead mileage" gasoline, and will help drivers to avoid bad fog patches as weather condition warnings and traffic jams are broadcast from HQ direct to the drivers on the roads. The taxi's radio set is fitted into the luggage carrier, with a small control panel complete with speaker and microphone under the dashboard. Here F. Morant, taxicab driver, communicates with HQ after dropping a customer.

WHAT THE HECK?

J. F. S. cites the article released for publication here recently titled What He thought Was Indigestion — angina complicated with coronary.

In that harangue we deplored the fact that a lot of Yankee Wiseacres take seriously the hooey about overwork, nerve strain, high tension, nervous breakdown, indigestion, etc. etc.—and right there we interrupted the lecture to define Yankee as North American and Wiseacre as one who thinks he or she knows as much as an "ordinary" doctor knows about physiology, hygiene, pathology, therapeutics, diet, climate, and other measures of prevention or correction of the common ailments.

Well, it seems that the good J. F. S. was irked by the whole show. And I'm afraid he has a right to be:

What the heck has all this business about Yankees and Wiseacres and the various quacks, medicine - men, drugless wizards and horse-and-buggy methods to do with J. F. S.'s angina, high blood pressure and nitroglycerin, he asks. And why did we blow our top when we came to the discussion of coronary disease, yet keep our feet on the ground and give customers an excellent insight and good practical suggestions when we dealt with migraine headache?

These are cogent criticisms. And we owe J. F. S. and a few million other customers not just an apology but our earnest effort to clarify in the popular mind some of the conditions mentioned by J. F. S., conditions which are fairly comprehensible to but a few laymen—because real doctors just haven't the time or the means to educate the public.

By real doctors I mean physicians in private practice, and not "leading" or well advertised "specialists."

In the series of talks on these heart and artery (cardiovacular) conditions or diseases to follow here at intervals (enough of the "we" stuff) shall endeavor to give you the gist of the present views of real doctors and not just my notions about the matter. If I do feel impelled to inject my own view or advice either in agreement or in disagreement with that of the real doctors I'll make it perfectly clear that it is only my notion.

Incidentally, I try to convey to newspaper readers whatever sound and practical knowledge I can dig out of current medical literature or elicit from real doctors. For example one colleague whose professional ability and personal character command my admiration and respect, tells me that I am wrong in my belief and teaching that the drug digitalis (foxglove) is of no value. He has found digitalis of inestimable value in the treatment of so-called congestive heart failure, lost compensation, dilated heart. Now my medical friend's belief is so positive and sincere and it is shared by so many other real doctors, that I now teach only this: Take digitalis if your physician prescribes it while you are under the physician's observation, but do not take it otherwise. The real heart tonic I recommend instead of digitalis in any kind of heart trouble is an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex—that is, three or four times as much daily as nutrition authorities estimate one requires to prevent deficiency disease.

The Cleanest Milk

We have been using only Certified milk for our children, in the belief that it is the cleanest, purest milk one can buy. Now a representative of ——— tell us that "certified" doesn't mean a thing, that undulant fever is often carried in such milk. (Mrs. M. H.)

Answer—In your place I'd continue using Certified Milk. You are right—it is the cleanest, safest milk you can buy. The "representative" who tried to convert you is selling a different grade of milk, isn't he? By the way, any milk at all is perfectly safe for infants, invalids or well people after it has been scalded—brought to a boil for one minute.

Pinworms

Son 5 has pin worms. Cause and cure. Dogs and cats or certain foods in his diet? (F. M. W.)

Answer—Many have tried but no one has yet succeeded in making a horse hair in a bottle of water turn into a snake. Maggots never grow in spoiled or decaying matter unless a fly has deposited the eggs in such matter. Pinworms, otherwise called threadworms and seatworms, or Oxyuris vermicularis or Eenterobius vermicularis, develop only from the eggs of pinworms, eggs microscopic in size. How to prevent and treat infestation with pinworms is described in the booklet Unbidden Guests. For a copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope. The booklet deals also with round worms, tapeworms, trichina, ringworm, scabies, cooties, cockroaches, black widows, bedbugs, mosquitoes, flies, fleas, ants, moths and silverfish.

Science Probes Unique Sex Life of Warlike Ants

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York (AP) — On a lush island in Panama, scientists are trying to solve three mysteries in the sex life of army ants including a unique assembly line precision in births of sexless workers.

These mysteries govern the behavior and destiny of the big ants, which get their popular name from their military habits.

The science team is headed by Dr. Theodore C. Schneirla psychologist and curator of the department of animal behavior at the American Museum of Natural History. Studies of animal behavior promise new insight into problems of genetics and evolution and possibly of human behavior.

Army ants probably have existed in some form for 55,000,000 years, Dr. Schneirla said. There are many species mostly in tropical areas. One kind of underground army ant lives as far north as southern Ohio.

Dr. Schneirla now is making his sixth visit since 1832 to Barro Colorado Island in Gatun Lake on the Panama Canal to study the species (Eciton Hamatum) of army ants there. Colonies of 50,000 to 1200,000 worker ants, ruled by a single Queen, roam and battle in the dense island forest.

The three puzzles to be investigated particularly are the clock-like regularity in production of huge worker broods, the appearance of new queens and the once-a-year birth of males.

Cyclic Life

The light brown workers are an eight to half an inch long. The queen is nearly an inch long and when reproducing is 20 to 30 times the size in volume, of the largest worker. Raiding war parties of workers forage for food, killing other insects, and sometimes even snakes frogs, or small animals.

Tracking the ants, Dr. Schneirla found that for 17 days they are nomads, moving nightly in a long column to a new bivouac under a fallen tree or other shelter. During this time they send out highly-developed raids. Then for 20 or 21 days they suddenly halt, staying in one spot with little raiding. After this pause, the nomadic life begins again.

He discovered this strange precision was due to the queen's sex cycle. With unvarying regularity, the queen lays up to 30,000 eggs every 36 days, and these hatch into sexless female workers. The colony, Dr. Schneirla said, remains in one spot until the workers are stimulated to travel by the increasing activity of the developing brood, which they carry along with them. High mortality from natural enemies keeps the ant colony from expanding to undue size.

Sometimes the dry season, between mid-December and April the queen lays a smaller number of eggs, and from these come not only the usual workers but also a number of queens. A bit later the queen lays only some 3,000 eggs and all of these become winged males. Part of a colony may follow a young queen and the queen is apparently fertilized by a male from some other colony. The queen is mated no more than once a year, and perhaps only once in a lifetime.

Community Raises Fund to Clean-Up Local Cemetery

Consecon — The last resting place of many of Prince Edward County's pioneers, (families who were once prominent citizens in Consecon), the well known cemetery overlooking the beautiful shore of Bay of Quinte, is to be cleaned up at long last, after being in a general rundown condition and an "eyesore" in the community for many years.

To start a cemetery fund members of the Consecon Women's Institute, recently gave a cheque for $50.00 in addition to the $18.00 already paid by the institute for the cutting of brush.

It is planned to bring the present organization, newly formed, into line with provincial law, as speedily as possible.

Public subscriptions to the Cemetery Fund will be welcomed to help provide for the clean-up campaign and necessary equipment.

Miss Annis Johnson, Consecon, and Mrs. Walter Booth, Consecon, are authorized to accept free will offerings for the Consecon Cemetery Fund.

Queen Alexandra H.&S. Association Holds Meeting

A gaily decked tree provided a Christmas setting for the December meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association. The president, Mrs. E. Buchanan was in the chair. Mr. Anderson's room won the attendance prize by having the largest number of parents present.

During the program, Miss Norma Arkles, accompanied by Mrs. Bradley, delighted the audience with two vocal solos. Three Christmas selections were beautifully rendered by pupils of Mr. Anderson's class under the direction of Miss L. Hart.

Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church was the speaker of the evening and raised several thought-provoking questions in his discussion of "Trends in Modern Education." The speaker believed that education had been made increasingly attractive for students. He noted, however, that in modern education, there was less emphasis on the spiritual development of the child. The study of the humanities has been neglected in favor of a more strictly scientific education. As a result present - day students are losing the ability to think for themselves, particularly on religious and political questions. Mr. Smith quoted the late Archbishop of Canterbury as believing that modern education was producing a generation of mechanically trained people, capable of dealing with things, but inept at dealing with people, and totally incapable of dealing with ideas.

The program closed with carol singing, led by Miss Arkles with Mrs. George Currie at the piano. A social hour was enjoyed with the mothers of Miss Young's room as hostesses.

A young fawn was seen last Wednesday along the railroad track at Anson. Those who were privileged to see it report that it was small and soon hurried to safer quarters.

Mrs. John Johnson spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McCook and with Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson, Campbellford.

MADOC W.I.

Madoc — Madoc W. I. held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. B. Tanner on Friday night, with the president in charge. Business arising from the minutes was discussed and correspondence read. It was decided that gifts were to be sent to the older members and shut-ins at Christmas time.

Mrs. Beatty reported on the demonstration and lecture course on Personality and Dress, which was held in the Community Hall on the Wednesday previous, as being well attended and very instructive. She also welcomed the visitors who were present. The roll call answered with a line of verse from "A Visit From St. Nicholas," by Dr. Moore, recalled many memories of younger days. Twenty-eight ladies were in attendance. A fine Christmas program followed — "Preparations for Christmas" was given by Mrs. Jas. Aylesworth; "Christmas Among Our Pioneers" by Mrs. C. Whytock and "Christmas Customs" by Mrs. George White. Musical numbers included a duet by Mrs. Hulin and Mrs. Nicol, "Serenade of the Bells," and "I'm Dreaming;" a piano solo, "Waltz by Brahms," Erma Burris; a chorus of Christmas carols by Mesdames Beatty, Hulin, Tanner, Moon, Nickle, White; a humorous reading "Before the Meeting" by Mrs. Gordon Love; a reading by Mrs. Moon. The music throughout the evening consisted of Christmas carols sung by the members, with Mrs. L. Ashley presiding at the piano. A vote of thanks was extended to the hostess and to all who took part in the program by Miss Vankleek. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Kernahan, Mrs. Nickle and Mrs. Jesse Reid, served dainty refreshments.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

On Tuesday afternoon, members of "The Comrade Club" of Tabernacle United Church were guests at the December meeting of the W.M.S. Auxiliary, held in the ladies' parlor of the church.

The President, Mrs. A. D. Archibald, opened the program with a call to worship and an invocation. Welcoming the visitors she said —"Our aim is to have every Tabernacle woman interested in missions, and a member of the auxiliary. Failing that, to have every women's organization in this church affiliated with the W.M.S., the only stipulation being that one missionary program be presented every year."

During the business meeting 42 calls were reported by the Community Friendship Sec., with ten members now ill or shut-in. The Treasurer reported only a small amount needed to meet the 1947 allocation of $425. Mrs. F. B. Jarrell presented the report of the Nominating Committee with a full slate of officers for 1948, installation to take place at the annual meeting in January.

Miss Myrtle Johns read a comprehensive report from the Sectional Rally held in Grace Church, Trenton, during October, for which a motion of appreciation was expressed.

Mrs J. A. Buchanan, on behalf of the local branch of the Red Cross, gave a short talk on "Mission Work in Belleville". She said—"There is a project now being launched by the Red Cross to open a "Homemaker's Service Branch" in Belleville, with Miss A. Earshman, Reg.N., as supervisor. This branch was opened in Toronto 1905, and there are now 18 such services in Ontario".

Mrs. W. P. Cornell conducted the devotional service, following a blackboard program of Christmas reading and carols including the "Story of the Shepherds" as found in St. Luke's gospel, read by Mrs. F. R. Harback, and "The Magnificat" read by Mrs. Cornell.

Eight candles, which were part of the worship centre surrounding "an open Bible for the whole world", were lighted in token of friendship and good will for the Jews in Canada by Mrs. F. Isard; for the Canadian Indians by Mrs. J. Hagerman; for French Canadians by Mrs. G. Brickman.

Martin Luther's well known cradle, song was sung in unison and Mrs. G Spencer lighted a candle for people of Europe now in Canada. Mrs. Jas. Brennan made a light for people from Africa and Asia and Mrs. J. Buchanan for all displaced persons from the devastated areas of Europe, (for whom a Polish carol was sung). Mrs. W. J. Harrison lit the candle of "Love", meanwhile quoting an inspiring poem on the theme 'Love Divine". During this impressive service Mrs. Jeffrey of Holloway Street Auxiliary, was the soloist for two unusual carols, Jesus Your King is Born", and "O, Little One Lowly, O, Little One Holy", with Jewish and African settings respectively.

Mrs. Cornell closed this part of the program with one verse of Lord of the Lands, Make Canada Thine Own", read as a prayer, and followed it with a "Litany of Love", after which Mrs. Archibald dismissed the meeting.

"Only Tea Biscuit Triumphs... WHEN YOU DEPEND ON Calumet's Double Action"

BECAUSE there are so many wonderful variations that good tea-biscuit dough makes possible, here's something you'll want to know: Tea biscuits are sure to be tender . . . fluffy . . . melting as a dream—when you use Calumet Baking Powder! For Calumet's double action protects baking-powder mixtures—from start to finish.

In the mixing bowl—myriads of tiny, even-sized bubbles are formed to start the leavening and prepare the mixture for baking. In the oven, new lively, even-sized little bubbles are released to continue raising the batter or dough, and to hold it high, light and even. Try Calumet! Follow directions on the tin for any recipe.

Here's perfect basic biscuit dough:

CALUMET TEA BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
¾ cup milk (about)

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn immediately on slightly floured board; knead 30 seconds, to shape. Roll ½ inch thick. Cut with floured round cutter. Or cut in squares or triangles with a knife. Bake on ungreased pan in hot oven (450°F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

Grand things to do with biscuit dough:

BUTTERSCOTCH NUT ROLLS

Prepare dough as for Calumet Tea Biscuits. Roll ¼ inch thick. Cream together 3 tablespoons butter, ⅓ cup (firmly packed) brown sugar; spread on dough, roll as for jelly roll, cut in 1-inch slices. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in 8-inch square pan, add 4 tablespoons brown sugar, mix; sprinkle with ½ cup chopped pecans or other nutmeats. Place rolls in pan, cut-side down. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 15 minutes—lower to moderate (350°F.) and bake 15 minutes longer.

CHEESE ROULETTES

Prepare dough as for Calumet Tea Biscuits. Roll ⅛ inch thick. Brush with melted butter, spread with 1 cup grated Canadian cheese, sprinkle with salt and paprika. Roll as for jelly roll. Slice ¾ inch thick. Bake on greased pan in hot oven (425°F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot.

FRUIT ROLL

Prepare biscuit dough as for Calumet Tea Biscuits. Roll ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter, cover with 1½ cups drained canned or preserved plums. Or use sweetened stewed apricots or prunes (drained and cooled), and sprinkle with 6 tablespoons sugar. Roll as for jelly roll; moisten edges to seal. Place in greased loaf pan. Brush with melted butter; bake in hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Serve hot.

TWICE YOUR MONEY BACK

If you are not satisfied that Calumet is the finest baking powder you ever used, send tin containing unused portion, along with your name and address and a note of the price you paid—to General Foods, Limited, Cobourg, Ont. You will receive back twice what you paid for Calumet.

BEAUTY

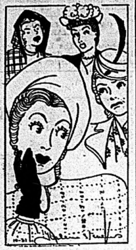
By HELEN JAMESON

Keep your lip ends lifted, lady!

Since the coming of the lipstick—that beauty prop to women of all ages—the mouth has been accented. The rosy glow makes a pretty mouth look even lovelier. Also, it makes a mean mouth meaner, because its draws attention to it. You know the kind of woman who bears this affliction. She is hard as nails; her disposition is curdled; she is a lemon of the first class.

The way she click her teeth together and pulls in her lips makes you think of a bear trap. No beauty garlands for her! She is out of the picture, no matter how chic the coiffure, how smart the dry goods, how far the complexion! So it is that we judge appearance —detail by detail.

The wise woman will check up on her mouth now and then, see that it does not assume unpleasant poses that can become permanent. The muscles surrounding the mouth are small and fine. They are attached to the groups of fibres that encircle the mouth.



The wise woman will consider her mouth

The muscles affecting the upper lip are levator or liftings muscles, while those of the under lip are drepressors whch pull down the lip ends, drag on the cheeks. If you use the depressors frequently, in course of time tiny wrinkles will form. They are the penalty paid by selfish, whining women who are afraid of life, who lack courage and gumption.

Good-looks depend to a considerable extent on soft, well-kept, perfectly molded lips. It is an advantage, of course, to have been born with a pretty mouth, but, after all, it is the expression that really counts. One has but to keep the lip ends lifted and the entire countenance bespeaks friendliness and good nature. This practice has a lifting effect upon the spirits. If you look down-in-the-mouth, you are bound to feel that way.

All this means, too, that one must be cautious when wielding the lipstick. Have the end pointed, so that you can etch around the edges of your lips, forming a clear-cut line. Some women do this with an orangewood stick after it has been plunged into the lip pigment. Then fill in.

Do a wide grin, so the flesh is flat. Use the fingers to press the ointment into all the little creases. Don't overlook the inner surfaces; when the lips are parted there will be no abrupt break in the color line. But don't tint too far in on the inner surfaces, or the teeth will pick up the color. Red spots on the teeth are a common sight; they are no beauty bargains.

At night remove the red glow with cream and make another application, tapping it in lightly.

The Lipstick Brush Guards Against Uneven Application

A good lipstick brush makes application easy.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE is a cute little trick on display at cosmetic counters that is worth considering as something to tote home with the rest of your beauty loot. It is the lipstick brush. There are more makeup crimes committed with the rosy pencil than with any other item of the make-up box.

Most girls can get powder or smoothly if they take enough time and use restraint. They do pretty well with factory blushes, now that they are being toned down to the merest wild rose film. But when they start to touch up the mouth that's another thing. Often they do not cover the complete surface leaving the far corners of the lips naked and unashamed while the rest of the flesh is blazing with artifice. Frequently thers is not a clean-cut outline, or the application is patchy.

Lipstick Bruch

No more of that. You buy yourself a lipstick brush. You also buy yourself a magnifying mirror, place it in a strong light and see how beautiful you can make yourself. Beauty aids should be used, not abused. They should flatter. If they do not they might better be avoided.

A new brush has a hair tip that is just the right fullness to shape to a point for outlining the lips or to sweep over them in a grand fill-in job. It comes in a cute plastic case with a square ledge that steadies the hand as you do this special form of complexion decorating.

Two Methods

There are two methods of using the brush. You can saturate it with the rosy glow, sketch along the lip edges, then fill in with the flat of the brush or the lipstick itself. Or, you can make your outline with a sharpened lipstick, then use the brush with an up-and-down movement that forces the creamy substance into every little crease and crevice. With either method one should keep the lips stretched far and flat.

GOOD MANNERS

Your Christmas Card Envelopes Should Have Pleasing Personalities

As you address the envelopes of your Christmas cards, polish up a resolution to give them the careful and pleasing look they should have . . . and can so easily have. With care and thoughtful attention you can give them that bright and heart-warming and courteous appearance that will make a fine first impression Then their pleasing faces will "smile" your Christmas greetings to your friends even before your Christmas cards "speak" your greetings.

Your Christmas envelopes are personal things, and should be personable things. They carry your handwriting, characteristic of you, heart-warming to your friends. And your well-groomed envelopes will not only show your courtesy to your friends, but will also show your human consideration for Post Office attendants and the postman on the route.

Write carefully, legibly, and in your best handwriting. Illegibility gets you nowhere. . . and so often gets your letters in exactly the same place! "Address your Christmas envelopes plainly" is the annual and ever-hopeful plea of the Post Office Department. It is practical, thrifty advice. Your carelessly-addresses envelopes may very well mean (1) that they will find themselves languishing among the millions of other letters that annually are sent to the Dead Letter Office or (2) that they will unnecessarily and wastefully be detouring about the country in an effort to find out what you really did mean by some of the illegible or abbreviated words you wrote on the addresses.

First be sure you have the correct address, and that you write it correctly. If you know the Zone Number, use it. . . that is what it is for.

And about abbreviations. They are never becoming to envelopes. And abbreviating is an unattractive habit you can get over in no time if you set your mind to it. It takes only a second to write a word in full . . . just about as long as it takes you to make the period after the abbreviation! Abbreviating shows haste and carelessness, and these are unattractive qualities you should not want to show, particularly on your Christmas card envelopes.

North, South East, West should be written in full and capitalized in the names of states, cities, streets: South Carolina, West Haven, East Ninth Street.

Keep your pen right on its way and write out Street, Avenue, Road, Square, Place.

Mr. and Mrs. are, of course, abbreviated. But write "and", not the sign of and (—) in Mr. and Mrs. And write Doctor (not "Dr.").

Give honor, too, to the first names of your friends. Write the names, not initials. Write James (not "Jas."); Richard (not "Rich'd"). And no nicknames on envelopes: Elizabeth (not "Betty"). And always a title before a name . . . Miss (even for a very young girl), Mrs , Mr.

Unnecessary curlycues often cause mis-reading, too. No need for "To" or "For" before the name, or for "No." "or before the street-address, or for a comma between the number and the name of the street.

Never use "City" or "Town" or the name of the borough as an address. If the letter has to be re-addressed, this leads to confusion.

Remember this: A good take-off makes a happy landing for your Christmas cards!

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sticking to Your Standards

It is a very commendable thing to have high standards. It is an even more commendable thing to make it quite plane that you intend to stick to them.

If you have made up your mind that a certain course of conduct is that one that squares with your idea of what conduct should be then it is not only right to follow the course, but it is sound good sense to do so as well. For oddly enough, to insist on doing right, as you know it, very frequently pays off in the end, while to cross yourself upon your principles is apt to land you in trouble, instead of bringing you the happiness you thought it would.

Take, for instance, the situation about which an 18-year-old girl writes me:

She tells me about a young man of 22, with whom she had been going for several months, who suddenly suggested that she have an affair with him.

"I really told him just what I thought!" she writes. "So then he said he would be back in about three weeks. So I told him I did not know whether or not I would ever go with him again. He told me that I was too young to know whether I wanted him or not, as he was the first boy I'd ever gone with."

So far, so good. But that last remark of the boy friend evidently shook this girl's faith in her standards a little. She was sure at first that what he had asked her to do was wrong. But when he told her that the reason she took the attitude she did was because she was too young to know her own mind, it evidently made her wonder if perhaps she shouldn't be, or at least appear, to be, somewhat more sophisticated. So after thinking things over a while, she took the initiative toward getting in touch with him again.

"I wrote him a letter telling him that I was sorry for the way I'd talked to him," she says. "But I told him it was his fault that I had doe it."

To this letter she received no reply, but she has learned that he has made inquiries about her through friends of hers, thus letting it get back to her that he is still interested— obviously a young man who plays it smart, and all this has only served to make her more anxious to get his attention again. She ends her letter by saying:

"I would very much like to go with him again, but I don't want him to know that I really care for him or to think that I am running after him."

Now is the time for this girl to stand by her guns. It is too bad that she showed the young man that she was wavering by writing to him even though he hadn't made any move toward apologizing for his behavior. If she encourages him to come back now she is playing right into his hands and giving him every reason to believe that she has reconsidered her first firm "No."

To obey the command of Jesus 'Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself" is truly to keep Christmas. Love can speak a language all nationalities can understand.

A short business meeting was held and plans were made to hold a tea and sale of home-cooking in the near future.

The W.A. held a short meetng following the W.M.S. meeting and was in charge of the President, Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson. A combined meeting of the W.A. and the Guild for the election of officers was held on Tuesday, December 9. Mrs. H. Smith finished the study book and all thanked her for the time and effort spent on same.

Mrs. W. Savage was in charge of the program. Mrs. Brazill gave a very interesting reading on "The Canterbury Cathedral". Mrs. Savage read some letters from India on conditions there. The meeting closed with a hymn with Mrs. B. Woodbeck at the piano.

Benediction was pronounced by Mrs. Brazill and refreshments were served. Mrs. W. Graves expressed appreciation to all who assisted with the program and the refreshments.

SODALITY OF MARY

Marmora — Twelve new members were received into the Sodality of Mary in a special ceremony held in Sacred Heart Church at 7:30 on Sunday evening. Wearing black dresses and white veils, the Sodalists received their badges and medals from Rev. H. J. Farrell, assisted by the older members of the Sodality. Rev. Father Farrell, in addressing the girls, urged them to keep the Blessed Virgin Mary as their model, as they went through life, and they could always look to her for protection and assistance. After singing of the hymn "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," the rosary was recited, and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by Rev. Father Farrell.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1947

O.S.D. Pupils Present Christmas Program And "Nativity Play"

That the people of Belleville have become sincerely interested in the work accomplished at the Ontario School for the Deaf was evidenced Wednesday evening by the capacity audience which filled all available seats in the Assembly Hall of the school, to hear a Christmas carol program, and to see a "Nativity Play" presented in the artistry of tableaux, pageantry and pantomime, with intermediate and senior pupils participating.

Part one of the program consisted of three screen pictures associated with corresponding carols. Luther's cradle song "Away in a Manger" was sweetly sung by two junior boys, Billy Ledkea and Howard House, after the opening picture, "The Nativity," and the well known carol "Silent Night" accompanied the picture captioned "On the Bethlehem Hills."

"The Nativity Play" of the second part was really a pageant portraying historical events leading up to the birth of the Christ Child, as recorded in the Bible. Immediately preceding each of the five scenes Flora Clark, (a student with only 4 per cent hearing power) read aloud the portion of Scripture describing the scene to follow.

Carols Sung

This play was written and directed by Miss H. Keeler, while the accompanying music and the dialogue was arranged by Mr. Alec Gordon. Carols were sung by a chorus composed of members of the teaching staff. The soloist, Mrs. M. Davidson, sang "Ave Maria" most effectively during the opening tableau, "The Annunciation," with Margaret Cassel as "Mary" and Marjorie Swane as the angel.

Scene II, "The Arrival at the Inn," was capably presented by boys in the roles of Inn Keeper, Tax Payers, Soldiers, Publicans and "Joseph" who, with Mary, came to pay his taxes.

In Scene III shepherds beheld a wonderful light, while watching their sheep on a wintry night. Ten teen-age girls in white Grecian robes, with trumpets and harps, formed the Heavenly host which appeared while the chorus sang "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks."

Staged in Herod's Court

Scene IV was staged in Herod's court where three Wise Men came to inquire concerning the birth of a child King. Here Herod was surrounded by Scribes, slaves and guards, with a High Priest and an altar boy for company. Dino Beltrame, as Herod, realistically portrayed the King's consternation when the Wise Men failed to "bring him word" of the child born to be King of the Jews.

In the manger scene the adoration of the poorly clad shepherds and the presentation of gifts by the Wise Men in gorgeous robes, was enhanced by the beauty of the guardian angels, the devotion of "Mary" and "Joseph" and by the angel host, robed in white, which filled all available floor space before the stage during the singing of the well known Christmas hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful," which was the closing number of the age old story, so thrillingly realistic in this portrayal.

Mr. W. J. Morrison, principal of the school, expressed appreciation to Miss Keeler and to Mr. Gordon for the time and effort spent in bringing this impressive presentation to such perfection of understanding and interpretation by the pupils participating; to the Teachers' Chorus; to the soloist, and to all who in any way subscribed to the success of the evening's program.

Children Going Home

He said that of the 310 children enroled in the school all but about 25 will be going home for Christmas, accompanied and cared for on their journey by teachers or other members of the school staff. Children may enter this Provincial school in their fifth year of age, and remain until they are 21 if necessary. Vocational, as well as academic courses are available to pupils, so that they may be prepared to become wage earners, able to accept positions with sufficient remuneration to make them independent of further family assistance. The new oral aids have been of great benefit in teaching students, (with different hearing powers), to vocalize the words they understand by lip reading.

Mr. Morrison voiced his pleasure in the interest shown by the large audience, and announced the National Anthem as the sign for dismissal.

Refreshments were served in the Home Economics room by Miss Conley and her assistants.

J. and J. Cash Co. Presented Box of Ribbon as Gift

Following is an account in the Coventry Evening Telegraph Nov. 15, of the gift to Princess Elizabeth of a box of satin ribbon by the Coventry firm of J. and J. Cash, Ltd., parent firm of the Belleville company of the same name. The ribbon presented to the Princess by the Coventry firm was woven by some of the company's oldest craftswomen and was of very high quality.

J. and J. Cash have been operating in Belleville since the year 1923. Following is the article appearing in the Coventry Evening Telegraph:

One of Coventry's oldest industries, ribbon weaving, will be represented in the wide range of wedding gifts which have been sent from all over the world to Princess Elizabeth. The gift is a box of two gross yards of satin ribbon in ivory and peach shades, made by J. and J. Cash, Ltd., and chosen by the Princess herself.

It forms part of a general gift from the silk trade. Recently the Silk and Rayon Users' Association submitted for the princess' selection a wide range of silk fabrics. She has limited her choice to furnishing and lingerie fabrics, and has made no selection from the dress fabrics offered. Coupons are understood to be the reason for this.

Reminded of the Past

The gift is the product of a firm which is one of the few survivors of Coventry's formerly-thriving ribbon trade, largely killed by the removal of import duties on French ribbons in 1860. Cash's turned to other products besides ribbons, and so weathered the crisis.

It has been made, as part of normal production in the firm's 90 years old Kingfield works in Cash's Lane — part of whose buildings are the old Coventry weaving type, with living quarters below and workrooms on the top floor. The workrooms are no longer used.

Proud Craftswoman

Maker of the ribbons was Mary Lomas, 91, Hall Green Road, skilled craftswoman, who has been with the company for 41 1-2 years, making ribbons and, formerly, ties also. She produced them on a French-type loom.

Amid the clattering of the multi-shuttle loom, she pointed out to a "Coventry Evening Telegraph" reporter that the 7/16th of an inch wide ribbon has a "warp" of 232 threads of pure silk. The shuttle weaves in 120 "picks" of threads of weft to each inch.

An example of the highest type of Coventry's older skilled workers, she is proud of her work and takes pride in her subsidiary duty of training young girls at the work. When she was their age she was starting work at 6.30 a.m. —and walking many miles to get there.

Warden's Banquet At Parish Hall Enjoyable Event

Picton. — An enjoyable event was the annual Warden's banquet which was held last night with Warden Donald Thompson as host. There were nearly two hundred guests present, at the gathering held at the Parish hall. Following the dinner, F. L. Ward, K.C., acted as toastmaster. In proposing the toast to the Warden, Judge Wilfred S. Lane, referred to the fine record of County Council this year under Mr. Thompson's direction. In reply, the Warden expressed thanks for the co-operation which had been given him by members of County and Council and by members of South Marysburgh council of which he is reeve. The toast to municipal institutions was proposed by Mayor Lance Nethery with response by Crown Attorney Gordon T. Walmsley, K.C. The toast to local municipalities was proposed by J. D. Baxter with reeves and deputy reeves responding. There was also a program of musical entertainment.

Report Given

At County Council yesterday, a report of operations at Prince Edward Co., Home farm was presented. Value of products produced there was $2,550.63. Milk sent to dairy and value of that consumed in the Home by the aged people accounted for $1,054.40 of the total.

In the report of the physician, Dr. D. S. Lighthall, it was noted that dispute the advanced ages of the residents, there had not been a single death during the year.

Warden D. Thompson reported new lights had been installed in the Home nad other improvements made.

NOVEMBER RECORD FOR EGGS LARGEST IN UNITED STATES HISTORY

Washington, Dec. 11 — (AP) — The government's eggless Thursdays to save food didn't mean a thing to American hens in November. The Agriculture Department reported that egg production last month was the largest on record for the month of November, totalling 274,200,000 dozen.

SAYS 'FRISCO SECOND LARGEST RED CENTRE IN U.S.

San Francisco, Dec. 11 — (AP) — The San Francisco Grand Jury termed the city the second largest communist centre in the United States in a report last night urging establishment of a police intelligence department to hunt reds. The report recommended that the communist party "be immediately outlawed in the United States."

WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD

Vancouver—(CP)— The housing shortage in Hong Kong is so acute that anything with four walls and a roof will bring enough money to allow the owner to retire, Mr. and Mrs. Graeme Hugh-Jones, here on vacation from the Far East, said ten thousand dollar homes sell readily for $100,000.

Drew Advocates Devaluation Of Canadian Dollar

Toronto, Dec. 11 (CP)—Declaring that the best interests of all Canadians would be served by having the Canadian dollar devalued at this time, Premier Drew of Ontario yesterday called on business men to express their opinion publicly on the recent economic measures adopted by the Dominion government.

The question of the dollar and of the import restrictions and Canada's general economic policy in the end would be decided by the people, he said in an address to the Toronto Kiwanis Club.

"Those of you who have business experience, I believe, have a duty to interpret your opinion to others. I believe it is the duty of every man in business to express his opinion publicly."

One of the arguments for keeping the Canadian dollar at par with the United States dollar was that if it was dropped to 90 cents Canadians would all have to pay 10 per cent more for the considerable imports from the United States, notably of coal, petroleum and other raw materials.

"I suggest this is the first fallacy in regard to this argument. If the dollar went to 90 cents in U.S. funds that would not apply to the retail price of coal, petroleum products, steel and other things that come from the U.S. It would apply to the wholesale price —in the U.S. plus the cost of transportation to the border of the U.S.

"The rest of the cost of those things that we buy here is made up of transportation costs inside Canada, handling charges of various kinds, carrying charges on the capital involved and, extremely important in such a consideration, the payment of the wages of all those who handle and distribute these objects to the ultimate consumer.

"That 10 per cent would not have any effect whatever upon all those costs that are incurred on this side of the U.S. boundary and in a number of cases these are more than half the total retail cost."

The duty on imports was another question. The duty, he said, was not a protective tariff, but a tariff for revenue. "Since we are told that we have more than $60,000,000 surplus there can be no reason whatever for retaining the tariffs for revenue, which produce a relatively small amount. That tariff for revenue could be removed simultaneonsly with the return of our dollar to something approaching its real value."

'TOUGH TALKING' BOYS ADMIT SERIES OF THEFTS

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 11 — (AP) — Detectives yesterday rounded up five boys ranging from 10 to 12 years in age and took them to police headquarters for questioning about a series of larcenies. They said the "tough-talking" juveniles admitted a series of "jobs," including the stealing collection money from a church, shoplifting and "snatch-and-run" thefts in stores.

Hospital Council Against Nurses Leaving Canada

Toronto, Dec. 11 (CP) — As the Toronto Hospital Council decided yesterday to ask Federal and Provincial aid to prevent United States hospitals from seeking Ontario nurses, between 40 and 50 graduate nurses interviewed Mrs. Edna Arnold, here to hire staff for Strong Memorial Hospital at Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Strong, a former nurse and now chairman of her city's hospital recruitment committee expressed surprise when shown clippings indicating stiff official and unofficial opposition to her plan to take nurses to the United States thus emphasizing Canada's shortage.

She said that as far back as 1929 the Rochester Memorial Hospital had had a continuous stream of Canadian nurses coming and going.

The girls who turned up to interview Mrs. Arnold said their reasons for their decision were that they were "tired of their job," "wanted a change," and "would like to try something new."

"If you are nursing in the United States, you are nursing, aren't you?" one girl asked. "You don't suddenly stop nursing just because you leave Canada. If we nurse in the U.S. we are still loyal to our profession. There is no reason why we should not take advantage of better working conditions."

Dominion health and welfare minister Martin had said previously that nothing could be done to prevent the girls from going to the United States where they are being offered between $170 to $180 a month because thank Gog, we live in a free country."

Mr. Martin said, however, that he was getting in touch with Ontario Health Minister Kelley and he described his successful "persuasion" efforts in groups in Windsor and Vancouver.

BALLOONIST'S WIFE DIES

Denver, Dec. 11 — (AP)—Mrs. Bertha Baldwin, 79, who once said she had died a hundred deaths watching her stunt man husband, died yesterday. At the turn of the century when balloon ascensions were the feature of every carnival and fair, Mrs. Baldwin sewed together her husband's balloons on her sewing machine. Her husband, Ivy, 81, survives.

PONTIFF WILL RECEIVE CARDINALS ON CHRISTMAS EVE

Rome, Dec. 11 — (Reuters) — Christmas Eve the Pope will receive members of the Sacred College of Cardinals in Rome, and in reply to their Christmas wishes, it is understood, will broadcast a world-wide appeal for co-operation in the cause of peace.

Herbert Gater, 62, of Richmond Hill, has been a blacksmith since he was 14, but, despite popular traditions about his trade, has never put a shoe on a horse. His work has been the forging of metals into such things as tools, locomotive parts, bridge sections and wrought iron objects.

Although retired, he toils regularly in the smithy behind his home, making household pieces for friends. His finished work is in gleaming copper or dull iron. Copper chests, wrought iron candelabras and intriguing cigaret baskets decorate his home. Carlo, the pup, is quite at home among his master's handiwork, for he stood by the forge and watched most of it turned out.

BRIGHTON and MURRAY DISTRICT

FAREWELL PRESENTATION

Brighton & Murray—On Thursday evening the people of the Lawson Settlement gathered at the home of Mr. Ross Lawson and his daughter Phyllis, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lawson and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Clark Lawson, who recently moved to their home in Brighton were the guests of honor. A pleasant social time was enjoyed. Messrs. Geo. and Ross Lawson and Mr. J. Ketcheson favored with violin music accompanied by Mrs. Ketcheson at the piano. Some enjoyed the games and later in the evening Mrs. R. Locklin read an address to the guests of honor expressing appreciation for the contribution they have made to the settlement by their kindly words and deeds, and for their good example of Christian faith and courage. While they are not going far away, still there is a feeling of regret that they are leaving the immediate neighborhood. Mrs. O. Phillips presented them with a pretty electric table lamp as a token of appreciation and a remembrance. Each replied expressing thanks and love for the old home and the old friends. Dainty refreshments were served.

A few years ago Mr. Geo. Lawson sold a good share of his farm to the St. Mary Cement Co. Recently the company purchased the remainder of the farm with exception of the wood-lot, along No. 2 Highway.

Mr. A. E. Chapman has sold his summer resort on Stony Point to Mr. G. Bonter of Toronto, who has winterized one of the cottages. The Point is not strange to Mr. Bonter as his father once lived here.

The ladies of Mt. Carmel W.A. met at Mrs. Gordon Chapman's recently and quilted a pretty quilt for Mrs. A. Tackabery.

Mrs. Joe Doig and daughter, Mrs. Harcla Morrow, spent Saturday in Belleville and attended the trousseau tea of Miss Shirley Oliphant at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Oliphant.

A number from Carman and Smithfield attended the Brighton High School commencement last Friday evening.

On Monday of last week, Mr. Clarence Maybee left Malton Airport, by plane for New Port Richey, Fla., to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. Sheldon Phillips. On Saturday Mrs. Clarence Maybee had the misfortune to slip on the ice while in Trenton and fracture two bones in her ankle. She was taken to Belleville General Hospital for an X-ray, before returning home.

The Smithfield W.A. held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. A. L. Potts. Mrs. Harry Coulter was elected president for the coming year.

Mrs. Clark Bedal and Jack, accompanied by Mrs. Alfred Bedal and Ruth, motored to Toronto on Thursday and called on Harold Bedal, at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Valleau visited Mr. Valleau's mother and sister in Wellington on Sunday.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Geo. Coulter, of Toronto, (formerly of Smithfield) was conducted by Rev. W. Sunter in Smithfield United Church on Friday afternoon. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery.

P.E. Islanders Tramp to Polls To Elect Govt.

Charlottetown, Dec. 11 —(CP) —Prince Edward Islanders tramped across the red soil of their province to polling booths today to select the members of their 30-seat legislature in the 21 general election.

A total of 77 candidates, comprising 30 Liberals, 30 Progressive Conservative, 16 members of the C.C.F. and one Independent Farmer-Labor, were in the race for the seats in the 15 double-member ridings.

Both the Liberal and Progressive party leaders predicted victory. Premier J. Walter Jones said the Liberals, who have held sway since 1935 when they swept all 30 seats, would be returned with an increased majority. At dissolution they hold 20 seats, the Progressive Conservatives 10.

Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, Progressive Conservative chief and a former premier, said he was "absolutely convinced" his party would be elected.

George Wotton, 27-year-old C.C.F. leader and former naval rating taking his first fling in politics, said his group would make "sweeping gains."

Polls Close at Five

Except for door-to-door canvassing, electioneering concluded Tuesday night with three meetings in outlying districts of the province.

The 235 polls opened at 9 a.m. AST and will close at 5 p.m.

Of the 20 previous general elections the Liberals had won 12 and the Progressive Conservatives eight. The C.C.F. entered candidates for the first time in the 1943 election and all nine of their nominees lost their deposits.

The single Independent was Capt. John L. Read, master of the ferry Charlottetown when it ran aground on the Nova Scotia coast six years ago.

Prince Edward Island's unique electoral system decrees that each party place two candidates in each of the constituencies — or as many as it can fill. One runs on the councillor ticket, representing the "property" vote and the other as an assemblyman, representing the "franchise" vote.

The campaign, waged over a four-weeks period, was fought on the issues of the Dominion-Provincial taxation deal, labor and the inflated cost of feed grains and fertilizer.

Forbid Tipping In West Hotels

Regina, Dec. 11 —(CP)— It's quite all right to thank the waiter who brings you a beer, but in Saskatchewan you'd better stop with a "thank you." A tip might mean police court.

It also might cost the hotel its licence and the waiter his job. Although there's never been a prosecution, Saskatchewan liquor regulations forbid tipping in licensed premises and provide for suspension of the hotel's licence and prosecution of both parties involved.

Both hotel operators and waiters like the regulation thrust into the limelight this week when a waiter was dismissed from a Regina hotel for accepting tips. But they'd like it even better if it were enforced.

George E. Grant, president of the Hotels Association of Saskatchewan, says the regulation prevents abuses — such as a customer with one too many getting more than he can stand by offering a tip. S. J. Tabbutt of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Beverage Dispensers Union (AFL-TLCW) says tipping tends to depress waiters' wages.

No one is sure when it first was put on the statute books. One government official believes it was 1935 when hotel licencing began. A hotel operator thinks it was during the Second World War beer-drought when thirsty customers could only attract a waiter by flourishing a gratuity.

Chairman F. J. C. Edwards of the Liquor Board says it was in the regulations when he became chairman in 1944.

BRING U. K. GOODS TO MIDDLE WEST OF UNITED STATES

Muskegon, Mich., Dec. 11—(AP) — The West Michigan Dock and Market Corp., a Great Lakes firm, announced yesterday an agreement with British interests to bring British-made goods direct to the United States Middle West.

Products of British small industries shipped via the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes with the opening of the 1948 navigation season, the announcement said.

Mail Order Safe Carried Away By Robbers

Guelph, Dec. 11 —(CP)— A safe containing Wednesday's receipts of the Robert Simpson mail order office was carried away by robbers in a bold theft in the heart of Guelph's downtown district last night.

The robbery — carried out within 200 yards of the city police station — is believed to have occurred around 9 p.m. Although police have been unable to contact any person who actually saw the robbers leave the office ,they probably worked within view of many persons who were on the main street at the time and whose suspicions were not aroused probably because they mistook the gang for workmen.

Store officials declined to state the amount of money contained in the safe. It has been estimated unofficially at about $1,200.

The robbers entered the mail order office through a cellar door. Once in the store they are believed to have opened the front door and carried the safe from the main entrance to a waiting car.

Byron Johnson Elected Leader Liberal Party

Vancouver, Dec. 11 —(CP)— Byron Johnson's 57th birthday, celebrated yesterday, was a twin-event in the story of the British Columbia Liberal party.

Within about two hours in final sessions of a two-day party convention:

1. The New Westminster legislature member was chosen its leader and,

2. Premier Hart announced that next week he would take Mr. Johnson to the Lieutenant-Governor and ask that the leadership of the government be transferred to the new chieftain.

By an eight-vote margin, the genial industrialist edged out Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer 475-467 in the race for leadership. The final vote, on Mr. Wismer's motion, declared the convention's unanimous choice.

Mr. Johnson in private life heads a building supply firm with headquarters in New Westminster. He entered public life in 1933 as legislature member for Victoria.

Known as a "big voice" in several other West Coast industries, he also has a reputation as a sportsman.

The convention did the unexpected twice, following up Mr. Johnson's election with the surprise choice of Arthur Laing of Vancouver as president of the Provincial Liberal Association. His election to succeed Dr. W. J. Knox of Kelowna represented a slap at die-hard Liberal supporters of the present coalition government of British Columbia.

The new president had proclaimed himself an opponent of prolonged coalition and just before his election had urged that a time-limit be set to the present one.

Population Rise, Crime Increase

Ottawa, Dec. 11 —(CP)— A sudden jump in population in the wake of stepped-up gold-mining activity in the northland has brought an increase in crime in Canada's vast Yukon and Northwest Territories, Commissioner S. T. Wood of the R.C.M.P. says in his report to Parliament.

In the year ended last March 31, the R.C.M.P. handled 489 cases in the territories, compared to 360 during the previous 12 months.

Serious crimes included three slayings, 108 thefts and 24 cases of breaking and entering.

Two of the slaying victims were Eskimos. The third was a prospector shot and killed in a hotel at Mayo, N.W.T., in a crime of revenge following discovery of deposits of gold-bearing quartz.

The slain prospector was Geo. Potter. Pete Leonard Nord, also a prospector, was later found not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter and was sentenced to 10 years.

The report says that during the winter of 1945-46, Nord discovered some likely-looking gold-bearing quartz deposits and showed Potter the samples.

"Potter paid Nord $100 for information of the location of the discovery," it adds, "Nord staked a claim for himself and 'blanketed' another claim intending the latter claim to be for his brother.

"Potter, unknown to Nord, returned to the site of the discovery and staked the claim which Nord had 'blanketed.' When Nord found out about this he brooded over it."

He had taken to heavy drinking some days before the shooting and at the time he killed Potter he was intoxicated," the report adds.

Girl Loses Life In Collision

Galt, Dec. 11 — (CP) — A collision between an automobile and a transport truck during a snowstorm on the highway three miles south of here resulted in death last night for Marion Eva Broughton, 18, of Brantford, and critical injuries for Robert McGregor, Margaret Martin and Bill Callander, all of Brantford.

Previously it had been reported that Ethel Bryant of Brantford had been killed in the crash but her mother revealed today that the girl had decided to travel by bus instead of in the car driven by McGregor. Mrs. Bryant said she spent four of the most trying hours of her life not knowing whether her daughter had been killed.

The four young people were reported to have been travelling from Brantford to a Christmas party held just outside Galt last night by a chain grocery organization (Loblaws) where they were employed. Provincial police who investigated said the car spun around on the icy road and crashed into a truck police said was driven by Elwood Haig of Kitchener. Ten men riding in the rear of the truck were uninjured.

Coroner Dr. Ward Woolner of Ayr said an inquest would likely be held into Miss Broughton's death. The three injured persons were admitted to Galt hospital.

Ten of the demonstrators were wounded in the tussle which is pictured at its height in Rome.

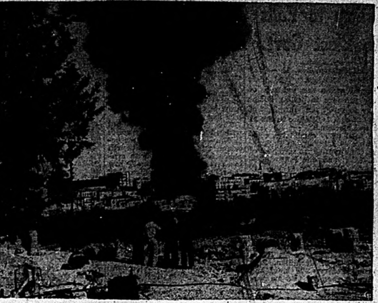
RIOTING ARABS BURN CARS IN JERUSALEM



Automobiles set afire by rioting Arabs go up in smoke and flames in Jerusalem in the orgy of looting and burning staged by the Arabs in protest against the United Nations partitioning of the Holy Land into Arab and Jewish states. Jerusalem itself is in neither Arab nor Jewish territory, but is an enclave which would be under direct jurisdiction of the U.N. Reports of casualties in the Holy Land bring clashes between Jews and Arabs into the pitched battle class.

STRIKERS HALT TRAFFIC ON THE ANCIENT APPIAN WAY

The ancient Appian Way — artery of empire when Rome ruled the world — is blocked by road-block set up by striking workers and farmhands on the outskirts of Albano. The block completely disrupted traffic on this ancient highway. The disturbance was only one of the series of similar disorders now tearing Italy.

Says Appetite Big Factor In Tot's Feeding

By MARILYN LAMBORN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Dec. 11 (CP) — Their plight often no better than the broken toys they repair, handicapped workers at the Crippled Children's Society here will bring joy to thousands of children this year by supplying low-priced trees to be hung on Christmas trees.

Hands sometimes painfully stiffened with arthritis stuff teddy bears; legless men and women hunt through piles of plaster arms and legs for one which will fit maimed dolls; topsy new doll wardrobes are cut and sewn by women who can't move unaided from their sewing machines.

This toy factory is as busy and cheerful as Santa's workshop. Employees sing, whistle or joke with each other as they go about repairing thousands of damaged toys donated to the society.

Until Christmas Eve many of the stronger employees will work long hours to make a dent on the mountainous pile of bicycle frames, doll carriages, trucks and trains, still requiring repair.

One of the busiest spots in the large building is the bench of Halifax-born P.A. (Pop) Reynolds, second oldest society employee who has seldom left his bench for 11 years.

A poliomyelitis victim since infancy, Pop said he always secretly yearned to perform Santa's honors around the Christmas tree, but his doctor warned him the excitement would be too much for his high blood pressure.

Loves Her Dolls

Another polio victim, pretty, 18-year-old Patricia Walker of Montreal, is in charge of rejuvenating dolls after their heads have been damaged. She still loves the many dolls of her childhood and treats each one in her "hospital" as if it were her own.

Bright red paint is the stock trade of George Longlad, legless former Spragge, Ont., man in charge of painting all the toys.

"The kids seem to go for red, so give them what they want," vivid array of scartlet sleighs.

Edmund C. Waterman of Toronto is the man who knows what to do with a bent bicycle frame or wheeless roller skates. He estimates he will repair thousands of scooters, wagons and tricycles before Santa arrives.

Mrs. Clark Roberts, a prominent designer for a Toronto department store before she broke her back in a traffic accident two years ago, sits at her sewing machine day after day, making doll clothes and repairing other clothing items.

MORENZ REMAINS IN PUBLIC EYE THROUGH HIS SON

Howie Jr., Playing With the Montreal Royals, Wears Father's Number Seven

Montreal, Dec. 11 (CP)—To some people the number seven is considered a sign of good fortune but to National Hockey League fans it is more than just a lucky omen as that was the number worn by Montreal Canadiens immortal Howie Morenz, who for many years blazed the ice lanes.

Ever since his tragic death in 1937, no member of the Canuck's has been issued a uniform bearing the number seven but it now looks as though that tradition may come to an end. For if the railbird experts are right, there may soon be another Howie Morenz on the roster of Les Habitants.

Young Howie at 20 is playing Senior Hockey with Montreal Royals—holders of the Allan Cup, emblematic of Canada's Senior amateur hockey supremacy—and you can take it from his coach Frank Carlin that the son of the Canadiens centre star from 1923-37 will be a National Leaguer in two seasons.

When he started playing hockey at the age of 14 he naturally chose number seven for his jersey and that numeral has been proudly displayed on his back ever since. There is little doubt that if he makes the professional ranks with Les Canadiens he will be given that same number.

It would be almost impossible for young Howie to achieve the greatness attained by his famous dad who played on three Stanley Cup championship squads and was twice the pivotman on All-Star teams. During the six seasons he played prior to 1930, All-Star teams were not selected. Morenz Sr., captured the Hart Trophy, awarded to the league's most valuable player, three times and led the league scoring race for two seasons.

Young Howie however has ambitions to do something that his father was never able to do—be a member of an Allan Cup championship team. Although Morenz Senior reached the Allan Cup playoffs, the team he played with Stratford—was eliminated.

Windsor Team Agrees to Meet Hamilton Squad

(By The Canadian Press)

Windsor A.K.O. Football team last night agreed to play Hamilton Wildcats Saturday in a sudden-death game for the Ontario Rugby Football Union Junior Championship. The winner of the tilt to be played at Windsor will meet the Hamilton Tigers Big Four Junior champions, December 20 in Hamilton for the Eastern Canada Junior title.

The Eastern Champions then will be in line for the East-West Junior playoff in Vancouver New Year's Day against Vancouver Blue Bombers, Western titleholders.

A marathon race for runners from the western hemisphere, as a warmup for the Olympic games, will be held at Los Angeles May 21, over a route similar to that used for the 1932 Olympics. Between 100 and 300 athletes from various countries are expected.

A proposal that Canada inaugurate an amateur hall of fame, where sports greats of past years, the present and the future will find a niche, came yesterday from George C. Machum, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

"I invite all interested amateur sports executives across the country to correspond with me on this subject," Machum said "when a sufficient show of interest is received a meeting will be arranged to go into the matter carefully."

Directors of Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens announced yesterday they had forwarded $1,000 to Mayor Stanley Lewis' 'Fund in Ottawa to help send Barbara Ann Scott to compete in the figure skating championships at the Olympic games in Switzerland.

In making the donation, President Conn Smythe said: "We had an Ottawa amateur on our club (The Maple Leafs) for ten years He didn't care whether he was playing for a dollar or $10, just as long as he could play. Miss Scott appeals to us the same way."

The other Ottawa amateur? King Clancy.

Hypnotism is all very well but it won't ever replace the old-fashioned straight left, according to the experience of boxer Eric Boon. He found that out Tuesday night when he was outpointed over 15 rounds by champion Ernie Roderick in their London bout for the British welterweight title.

Seems that Boon's' handlers decided that he had an "inferiority complex" and to overcome it he took treatments from a hypnotist who placed the young boxer in a trance and told him over and over again: "You will win." Came fight night and he lost. Ringside experts agreed it was a straight left that did the trick.

Louis-Walcott Heavyweight Fight Film Shows Highlights of 15-Round Battle

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, may not have the lethal power in his fists, but he is the same stalking killer of old, according to the motion pictures of the fight last week between Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott and now being shown at the Belle Theatre here.

The film which runs approximately twenty minutes, gives the highlights of each round with slow motion effects of the now famous 4th round knockdown of Louis by Walcott, and the equally famous 9th round which the referee awarded to Walcott, but in our opinion was Louis all the way.

Jersey Joe fought a plucky, heady fight. Louis stalked his foe in every round, that lethal right cocked ready for the kill, but which failed to accomplish its purpose the times it landed. But despite his backpedalling tactics, Walcott turned and fought savagely on occasions. He has a rapier-like left and a swinging right. He missed on several occasions, the gloved hand going over the champion's head. On one occasion he swung so hard, and missed equally so hard, that he fell to the canvas.

What caught our eye during the first two or three rounds was the nonchalant manner suggesting almost boredom, or "this won't last long" attitude of Louis as he returned to his corner. After the fourth round, this attitude is missing.

Always backing away, pausing long enough to throw that left jab, Walcott at times turned away from Louis. Relentlessly the champion followed him, right-cocked, left flicking out that damaging jab. But to Walcott's credit, it must be said that for nearly every blow the champion threw at him he hurled one back. And on one occasion he had the champion clinching to smother a flurry of lefts and rights. And his right lands solidly at times.

The ninth round, as we said before, was nearly all Louis. The champion at one time had the challenger over the ropes throwing rights and lefts to the jaw, and it appeared that Walcott would slump at any moment. How the referee awarded that round to Walcott is beyond our imagination.

Bicycle Round

Then comes the now famous 15th "bicycle" round in which Walcott really waltzed out of range of those brown fists. He turned and sidestepped, always backing away, and only in one instance did he exchange blows with the champion.

There is a distinct comedy touch to the post-bout proceedings. Two of Walcott's handlers, one with a pate resembling a cue ball, strut about the ring, satisfied that their boy is the new heavyweight champion. Comes Harry Balogh's rendition of the decision, and the pair stop in horrified amazement. Then they bend over, clutch for hair that isn't there and do a semi-snake-dance around the ring.

After seeing the film, and if and when the two Joes meet again for the title, our folding money, if we have any, will go on Joe—Louis, that is.

The film is being shown at the Belle today, tomorrow and Saturday, and should be seen by all boxing enthusiasts.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By DOUG GREEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Dec. 11 (CP)—That much-discussed Louis-Walcott heavyweight go has drawn a final fling from Tom (Calgary Albertan) Moore.

He voices the suspicion that there must be "plenty of young heavyweights around the country who, were it not for the financial operations that deny them the chance, could whale the tar out of Joe Louis any day of the week and then take on Joe Walcott as a cooling-off exercise."

"Whatever your opinion on whether or not Joe Louis deserved the decision that kept the world's heavyweight champion in his wallet, it seems obvious from all the discussion on last Friday's New York fight that top-flight heavyweight boxing is currently at a low ebb — or else the wrong guys are being given the chance to perform at the top.

"Despite all the recent pre-fight publicity that pictured challenger Joe Walcott as a hungry aspirant for Louis' crown, it must still be remembered he was a former Louis sparmate who was hand-picked as opponent for an exhibition match that was subsequently synthesized into a title contest," says Tom.

There must be something wrong with the picture, he submits, when a challenger of Walcott's calibre can be matched with an admittedly aging champion "in what has always been a young man's game and cause world-wide argument over a split decision."

On another topic — that Winnipeg Blue Bombers-Toronto Argonauts Grey Cup football final of sore memory to westerners — Moore has harsh words for a certain Toronto newsreel editor.

To this "wretch" can be credited the biggest "bull" of the year says Tom — for it seems that in editing the film of the game he "cut out shots of the third-quarter Winnipeg touchdown that was disallowed, deciding that because there was no score there would be no interest in the play."

"At Ted Reeve suggests in the Toronto Telegram, the lad deserves a dozen of the best coaches' association crying towels."

HORNETS HEAD AMERICAN LOOP BY EIGHT POINTS

Rival Teams Finding the Pittsburgh Club Harder to Stop

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets today head the American Hockey League's western division by eight points and rival teams are finding them tougher to stop.

Last night Hornets mauled Hershey Bears 8-0, dropping the defending champions into second place in the eastern circuit, back Reds.

Reds stayed at the top in the east by dumping Philadelphia Rockets 12-4 and Springfield Indians moved out of the eastern cellar by virtue of their 5-3 victory over St. Louis Flyers.

Wingmen Tod Sloan and Bill Benson each racked up two counters to pace the Hornet team to their 18th win in 25 starts. Les Costello, Fleming Mackell, Bob Dawes and Armand Lemieux each scored once.

Harvey Fraser paced Providence goal-getters with three tallies while two each were picked up by Whitey Prokog. Pete Kaputsa and Roger Bedard. One each went to Johnnie Chad, Jack Stoddard and Harry Taylor. Ken Kilrea, Steve Wochy, George Defelice and Alex Motter scored for Rockets.

Paul Courteau led the Indian uprising as he scored three times with Eric Unger and Elder Kobussen scoring once. Pete Backor scored twice for Flyers while Paul Gladu tallied the other.

New York, Dec. 11. (AP)—Detroit Tigers' Billy Evans maintains that everybody in the American League was "scared" by the Red Sox and Indians' dealings —especially the price. "How can you pay $85,000 for a utility infielder" Billy asks, and answers by saying "we can't." . . The National Leaguers at last seem to be trying . . . Bob Carpenter, the Phillies boss, told Herb Pennock: "The money is there if you can get anything worth while". But Manager Ben Chapman adds: "You offer to make a trade and they won't talk; then they go home and two weeks later start asking how about it Those guys must think you don't know what they need."

Leo Durocher who was banned from the newspaper columns by Commissioner Happy Chandler last Spring, recently signed a contract to write a book on "Them Bums". . . . Migosh, a whitewashed ghost, too?

Chambers' Last Hope Rests On Ottawa Hearing

Toronto, Dec. 11 — (CP)—Sydney Chambers' last hope to escape hanging — barring executive clemency — rests on an Ottawa hearing when a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada hears an application that the convicted murderer of Marion Rusnak be allowed to present his case to the whole court.

If the petition is denied, the 35-year-old St. Catharines, Ont., stationary engineer will hang Dec. 16 — 51 weeks after the disappearance of the nine-year-old St. Catharines girl, whose body was never found. In a confession accepted by the court, Chambers said he burned the girl's body in the furnace of the cannery where he was employed, on Dec. 23 last year.

He was twice convicted of the crime and the Ontario Court of Appeal confirmed the second conviction. It is this decision that Chambers' counsel, Arthur E. Maloney is trying to get the Supreme Court to reverse. On the first appeal Chambers was granted a new trial.

Chicago Black Hawks Beat Boston Bruins While Rangers Tie Canadiens, Leafs Get Draw

Olympia Ice Dotted With Half-Dozen Fights in Toronto - Detroit Game

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Old Santa Claus gave a special preview of the National Hockey League last night, it could only have been old Santa who fixed it so that the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks beat Boston Bruins and each of the other four teams got a point apiece.

If Santa had been truly impartial he would have split the points between Chicago and Boston too, but who could resist giving the Hawks a lift?

Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs tied 2-2; Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers tied 4-4; and on their home ice Chicago edged Boston 6-5.

That leaves Toronto a fat five points in the lead over Boston and Detroit. Canadiens are three points back of the second-place duo, and still two points ahead of Rangers. And Chicago is well and truly in the cellar, six points behind Rangers.

At Detroit the Wings scored first, by Sid Abel, and Harry Watson's shot tied it up, but Detroit were ahead again on Ted Lindsay's goal before the first period ended. Max Bentley scored Toronto's tying goal in the second period.

That was the end of the scoring and the start of the fighting. The Olympia ice was dotted with a half-a-dozen fist fights in the second period after Ted Lindsay checked us Morison into the boards. Gord Howe of Detroit and Bill Ezinicki of Leafs starred in the fistic melee, which even had rival goalies Harry Lumley and burly Turk Broda way up at the blue line, attending to each other personally.

Four Given Majors

The game was held up 10 minutes before Lindsay and Mortson, Howe and Ezinicki subsided to serve major penalties.

At New York the Canadiens three times took the lead. But Rangers finally tied it with 30 seconds left as Grant Warwick scored from a goal-mouth scramble.

Elmer Lach gave Canadiens a first period lead. In the second Frankie Eddolls, tied it up, only to have Lach score another and Rip Riopelle make it 3-1. In the third Cal Gardner, who hadn't scored a goal all season, potted two within four minutes, and Lach promptly put Canadiens once more on top with his third goal of the night. Warwick's tying off assists from Laprade and Eddolls.

Chicago Game Close

The other uprising at Chicago was just as close.

Doug Bentley and George Gee sent Chicago into a 2-0 lead. Billy Taylor got one back and Bill Mosienko, just back after a long lay-off with a broken ankle, promptly made it 3-1. Big Ed Sandford cut the margin to 3-2 before the first period was over.

In the second Ralph Nattrass scored for Chicago, Sandford once more for Boston, and Alex Kaleta for Chicago again. That left it 5-3 for Chicago going into the final period. It was just 33 seconds old when Roy Conacher scored Chicago's sixth, and then the Hawks were put through the wringer. Paul Ronty and Ken Smith scored for Boston, making it 6-5 for the Hawks but the Bruins couldn't get the tying goal.

Minneapolis Millers Still Holding Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Minneapolis Millers are still leading the northern division of the United States Hockey League, but they haven't solved the attack the Kansas City Pla-Mors throw at them.

The Pla-Mors blasted out a 6-4 victory over the Millers at Kansas City last night for their third successive victory in four games with the league leaders. Minneapolis has lost only six games in 23, including the three losses to the fourth-place Pla-Mors.

Centre Hank Blade was the standout performer in the Kansas City victory last night. He scored in each period. The southern division's leading Houston Huskies were being treated just as unceremoniously at Fort Worth. The Rangers shot into a 5-1 lead and went on to win 5-4. Rudy Brodeur scored twice for the winners while playing coach Mike McMahon of Houston punched in two of the three goals Houston managed in the final stanza.

Second place Dallas crept a notch closer to Houston in the southern Division with a 6-2 victory at Dallas over Tulsa. Bill Shill and George Homenuke paced the winners with two goals apiece.

Tonight's schedule has Fort Worth at Houston and Omaha at St. Paul.

YOUNG RANGERS SURPRISE MARLIES WITH 5-3 WIN

Before Game Victors Had Only One Decision in 14 Attempts

(By The Canadian Press)

According to the book, Toronto Marlboros should not have had a worry in the world when they met Toronto Young Rangers last night in the opener of an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A twin bill. At stake was a four-point game that could put the Dukes into the league leadership, boosting them out of a three-way tie for second-place with Oshawa and Stratford. Young Rangers, with only one win in 14 tries, were at the bottom of the circuit.

But something went wrong. Dukes turned in a sloppy performance and Rangers took advantage of it to chalk up a 5-3 victory.

In other junior A titles, Windsor Spitfires padded their league leadership with a 5-2 triumph over St. Catharines Teepees and Stratford Kroehlers and Oshawa Generals moved into a second place tie by respectively scoring 5-4 over Guelph Biltmores and 5-2 over St. Michaels Majors.

In the senior A loop, Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen took over sole ownership of the third-place berth by breezing to a 7-1 victory over Hamilton Patricias.

The Young Rangers - Marlboroe encounter saw scoreless first period prior to the Rangers settling down to notch three counters in the middle frame before the Marlies retaliated with one. Billy Ringer, Les Biddie and Doug Chapman did the honors for the victors, and Bobby Hassard notched the Dukes' goal.

Started Comeback

Cantley Speers started a comeback effort by Marlboros in the final period, but Doug Ashbee pounded back a pair of tallies within eight seconds of each other. The final score of the game came from Dukes' Ray Timgren.

Spitfires took two periods to get started in their contest with Teepees, turning on the juice in the final stanza with five tallies against one for St. Kitts to make the final score 6-2. Gord Haidy, Doug McKay, Jim Hay, Bruce Giesbrecht, Jack Taylor and John Gibson scored for the victors while Fieri Goegan and Doug Houston netted Teepees' counters.

Stratford Kroehler's triumph over Guelph Biltmores bespoke little for their playing ability. Following two swift goals in the opening frame, Kroehlers turned in a shabby demonstration although holding the lead throughout. Only Don Campbell's stellar display in the Stratford net saved Kroehlers from a possible defeat. Top point-getting of the night was Elwood Small of Kroehlers with three assists.

Generals on Top

In the Toronto nightcap, Jerry Scott, Eric Pogue and Dick Gamble paced the Oshawa Generals with a goal and an assist each, while the Irish tallies were by Bill McNamara and Joe Decourcey.

In the senior loop, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen cinched the game 4-0 in the first frame. They notched one in the second stanza and two more in the third against Hamilton's solo effort in the last period. Lloyd Roubell and Flash Hollett scored two apiece for the Dutchmen and Nick Philips scored for the losers.

No games are scheduled in either league tonight.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

There are a number of people who won't agree with this, especially the long - faced Gloomy Gus reformer type who think boxing is legal mayhem, engaged in by riff-raff, which has no ethics of decency, morals, or the desire to earn a living by their (Gloomy Gus) standards.

• • •

But in our opinion, Joe Louis has done more for racial tolerance during his regime as heavyweight champion of the world, than any other member of the sports fraternity — and that goes for white and colored man.

• • •

The Brown Bomber may be at the end of the trail. There is a lot of people who think that he is, especially after his showing against Jersey Joe Walcott the other night. It may be that he is. The fight next June should definitely prove the point. But if Joe does taste the cup of defeat, it won't be bitter. For he has held high the banner of sportsmanship throughout his long reign as the king of the heavyweights. And in our opinion Joe's idea of sportsmanship was never better examplified than during and after the heavyweight battle in Madison Square Garden last Friday night.

Joe Louis

• • •

As an Ottawa writer puts it, "It was one of the cleanest fights ever seen in a prize-ring. Because this championship bout was between two colored men, representatives of that race which, in years past, was thought by some to be unworthy of prize-ring supremacy (remember the clamor for a "white hope" to defeat the colored champion, Jack Johnson)."

• • •

The Ottawa scribe was right. But there is a vast moral difference between Jack Johnson, and Joe Louis, the first colored man to reach the heights, since Johnson blinked in Havana sunlight while lying "unconscious" on the canvas, with cumbersome Jess Willard leering over him.

• • •

The taint of scandal has not blemished the Louis escutcheon. Throughout his long boxing career, he has lived as he fought, clean and fair. No touch of "white slave" rottenness has marred his record. He can not be accused of "laying down" literally or figuratively, and throwing a fight. He has never stretched prone on the canvas and shaded his eyes from the brilliant sunlight while a referee counted him out. And he has never received a surreptitious wink from his handlers that the "fix" had been "fixed."

• • •

That was partly the reason for the "clamor" that the Ottawa writer mentions, for a white hope to dethrone Johnson. That Joe Louis is a tremendous favorite with white and colored man alike, was typified in the reverberating roar of acclaim that greeted him when he entered the ring last Friday night. That explosion of applause was for a truly great champion whether white or colored.

• • •

And, on the other hand, the ear-splitting acclaim given Jersey Joe Walcott after the decision was announced was for a plucky, gallant warhorse, a third-rater so to speak, who had stunned the crowd with an outstanding exhibition of guts, ability, and stamina. The boos heard later, in our opinion were not for Champion Joe Louis, but for the decision handed down by the referee and judges.

And, as the Ottawa writer remarks, "There have been many great ring championship battles fought, mostly between whites. None was ever fought in a more manly or sporting way than last week's contest. Walcott apologizing when he unintentionally hit Louis with the back of his hand (a misdemeanor so slight that the referee failed to notice it), Louis walking to Walcott's corner at the fight's close to say "I'm sorry, Joe" — these things told that so long as there are colored men like Louis and Walcott there is no particular need for a "white hope" to bring boxing back to sportsmanship.

• • •

The two Joes will likely fight again next June. The tub-thumpers for the bout will soon start the publicity rataplans for the "greatest fight in the world". It won't be that. There has been better fights. For in our opinion, Joe Louis, in what is rumored to be his last public appearance, as a heavyweight champion, win, lose or draw, will train to the finest hair, for this one of the most important battles in his long career. Joe is only human. No one likes to lose. But there are few who can take defeat like the Brown Bomber. If he does go down, he'll sink with colors flying, and a hand outstretched in congratulation to his victorious opponent. But, in our opinion, Joe Louis, one of the greatest heavyweight champions in fistiana, will once more emerge the victor, this time by a clean-cut victory, and retire, if he does, with record unblemished, and honor unstained.

• • •

The Belleville ANAFS Senior "B's" will get a test of their strength here on Friday night when they stack up against the Queen's University Senior Intercollegiate hockey squad in an exhibition game. This team is not the squad that is currently performing in the Kingston City loop but the one which will carry the Tricolor hopes in the Intercollegiate series this season. The studes form a young strong aggressive team, the oldest member of the aggregation being 25 years of age. On the team playing centre ice is none other than Jerry Wagar, of this city, who was a star player for the Batawa baseball squad a couple of years ago. Jerry starred with the college squad last year and is going great guns in the pivot position this season.

• • •

"Moon" Flanigan, former Sudbury junior and last year with Kingston Lions is the captain of the team which carries such players as Tom Barret, Merrill Gulick, Bev and Harry Hamilton, Lionel Cook, Bob. Clark, Ron Kemp, Charlie Hews Rene Lefebre, Gerry Mercier, Larry Moffatt, Don Murray, John Stevens, Norm Murie, Jack Wallis and George Weber.

• • •

The college team is coached by Gene Chouinard, former National and minor hockey leagues star. He started with the old Ottawa Senators, played one year with the New York Americans and the next six with New Haven in the American League. Following two years with the Tulsa Oilers, and he quit active playing for full time coaching. He coached the Ottawa Senators and received an offer to assist Dick Irvin of the Montreal Canadiens. He masterminded the Perth Blue Wings for four years, and in two of these took the squad to the Eastern Ontario junior finals. This is his first year with Queens.

• • •

But tonight is the night for local fandom and those of the outlying districts, for the doughty RCAF Flyers tangle with their youthful foes the Belleville Rockets juniors in the curtain-raiser of what should be the most exciting twin-bill of the District League season. And topping that will be the clash between Campbellford and Stirling and that should be a spine-tingler to say the least. Much is at stake in both games and the fans can depend on a night of sizzling, tingling hockey. First game at 7.30 sharp and from then on you are on your own.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (AP) — Now that the flat-racing season has ended the folk at the Suffolk race town of Newmarket have stopped chatting long enough about Gordon Richards and other big-time jockeys to sympathize with Albert Haygreen. Ruddy-faced Albert has a complaint.

Albert, tall and 50, has a job—or rather he did have—snaring fiery-eyed runaway racehorses. He's given it up because there's no future in it, not with tips at 10 shillings ($2) a time.

He made a habit of catching runaway horses that had thrown their jockeys at the starting post simply by planting his feet in the soft countryside turf and flinging his arms about in all directions in front of the charging horses. He was successful in his job but the financial returns were meagre.

For instance, Albert tells about the time he caught Owen Tudor a Derby winner which he values at £50,000 ($200,000). "And you know what I got? Just a thank you."

Albert then wrote the Jockey Club officials complaining rewards weren't sufficient. He asked them to substitute a recognized scale of payment for people in such dangerous jobs but he was told "it's between you and the trainer."

His last catch—the one that finally determined him to quit the game— occurred when, as Albert says: "I stood in front of this here horse, flung my arms to stop it, I did. Then a chap in a car came along and gave me ten bob."

"Think I'm going to risk injury again for that? Not if my name's Albert Haygreen."

The ceremonial Olympic flag sought since the Allies entered Berlin, has been discovered by troops in a bank vault and sent to the organizing committee of net year's games.

The flag, bearing the Olympic rings which symbolize the five continents of the world linked in unity, was presented to the International Olympic Committee by the Belgian committee when the games were held in Antwerp in 1920. It was flown to the Olympics in Paris, Amsterdam, Los Angeles and Berlin.

George Fox member of the Mitcham, Surrey, Harriers and a Welsh international runner, won £10,650 ($42,600) in a football pools dividend and his first act was to run 10 miles "to cool off." He is an orderly in a London County Council mental hospital.

The 100th anniversary of the birth of W. G. Grace, one of the greatest cricket players of all time, will be observed next July 14. The Marylebone Cricket Club has arranged a special anniversary match at Lord's — Gentlemen versus Players.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In bridge we have a saying: With so few bidding words available, employ them where they do the most good. And another: A convention is good only if its advantages exceed its disadvantages.

An opening of two in a suit promises nine tricks or better. These are enough to warrant a try for game. So, it is used as a convention to signal partner not to stop short of a game contract.

Combined for this convention are the words two and any suit. So, combining the words two and notrump can be employed for an entirely different convention signal.

For what convention signal are the combined words of two and notrump used? To signal a notrump hand that is not quite enough for a game contract; a hand with only eight notrump tricks.

It says: "My hand contains eight high cards; not enough for game. They need the help of one high card for game. So, partner, this does not force to game unless you have at least one high card."

In answer to such an opening, therefore, partner with no high card should pass. With a high card or better, partner should make a bid of some kind. Then is when they should not stop short of game.

The logic of this is easy to see. It takes nine tricks to make a game in notrump. Eight tricks are not enough. If the opener has only eight he needs the help of one more from partner for a game.

You have this south hand:

♠A 6 4
♥A 9 7 3
♦A K 4 2
♣A Q

This hand contains seven tricks; six high cards and a short in clubs. Not enough tricks for an opening of two in a suit. Not enough high cards for an opening of two notrump.

It has enough for an opening bid of one. So, the correct opening with this hand is one diamond. Why do some players open such a hand with two notrump? They like to gamble.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 11 —(AP)— Today's movie news brings notes about husband-and-wife teams, which are growing more common lately:

Myrna Loy says she may do a picture with her husband, producer-writer Gene Markey, sometime in the near future. Myrna, who has done three films this year, will take a good rest after "Blandings" and then consider another vehicle. Since she is a free-lance, it could well be for Mr. Markey, she says.

The Fredric Marches assure that their teaming is not unbreakable — at least in stage and screen appearances. Co-stars of the stage "years ago" and the film "Another Part of the Forest," they are signed together for "The Judge's Wife" and "The Life of Columbus." "But," says Fred, "if something comes along that doesn't have a role for Mrs. March, she would be the first to tell me 'go ahead.'"

Bette Davis surprised bystanders by hugging and kissing an extra, costumed as a sailor, after a subway scene in "Winter Meeting." The extra turned out to be her husband, William Grant Sherry, who was doing it for a gag.

Other Notes on Famous Couples . . . Paulette Goddard finishes "Hazard" in time to join Burgess Meredith in New York for Christmas. He'll be coming from England, where he made a documentary . . . Susan Hayward and Jess Barker are still trying to make a go of their marriage against the normal Hollywood odds.

10-Second Review

"Good News" (M.G.M.) comes close to being the liveliest musical of the year. It is a revival of the familiar college hit, out lots of new ideas in singing, dancing and personalities have been added. June Allyson, Peter Lawford and Joan McCracken head the young cast, and all hands contribute a wealth of bounce and verve. It gives film musicals a much-needed lift.

Ban on Farm Products to U.S. May be Relaxed

Ottawa, Dec. 11 (CP)— The impasse which has developed in Canadian-British trade talks on Britain's food contracts with Canada will be placed before the Cabinet today amid speculation that if the contracts are not renewed the export ban on farm products to the United States may be relaxed.

The Cabinet will take up the matter which yesterday was discussed in a Liberal caucus and which involves British contracts for bacon, beef, cheese, eggs and even wheat, amounting to millions of dollars annually. It is expected that the Cabinet will reach some decision soon when a statement will be made to parliament on what course is to be taken.

Yesterday's Liberal caucus was left with the impression that the talks between a British Mission headed by Sir Percival Leisching and Canadian officials, have made little headway because of a condition laid down by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the British Exchequer. Sir Stafford is said to have insisted that the $317,000,0000 credit Britain still has in the Canadian loan, be used to boost United Kingdom exports rather than to import food.

Britain is said to want to use the remainder of the Canadian loan to buy such things as copper, zinc, lead, aluminum and perhaps leather to use in making exportable goods which will bring in more American dollars The view is that the British people can get along with the foods that can be bought in other markets for Sterling.

Canada is said to have taken the position that if she is continue to sell wheat to Britain at below the world price, Britain should buy bacon, beefs, eggs and other farm products covered by agreements now expiring and at prices nearer open market figures.

CHAPTER 18

"When you return, Kay," he said, his heart in his eyes. "I'd like to dance with you—a lot of times."

She bit her lip. Her blue eyes were very wide, luminous. He wished he had been the one to make them so.

"You're—you're sweet, Harry," she said gently. "It's too bad I'm not in love with you."

"Then—don't make the mistake of marrying a man you can't love."

Fortunately, Chuck arrived with her wrap just then and she could avoid answering.

Chuck laid the black velvet gently across her shoulders, thinking, "For once, I'm in luck. Webb so far gone he won't miss her; this necessary trip home for a fresh gown; Harry brought a girl. Perfect!

Some of this was revealed in his assured air when he handed her into his convertable coupe. She sensed his elation and settled beside him in happy abandon. She was so close that she could smell the clean freshness of his recently shaved face. A feeling of security came over her. He started the motor and they whirled out to the street. She was all right now, she was safe. Would that these few minutes of his companionship would never end!

Chuck had nothing particular to say to her for several long throbbing minutes. It was as if his feelings were too deep to be expressed in words, or that he had too much to express, so much that it stifled speech.

Now and then she glanced at his clean-cut profile when they paused at a red light. But his square jaw was sternly set; he looked like a man to whom suffering had become a habit.

"It's very kind of you, Chuck—to do this for me," she finally hazarded.

"Not at all, he responded curtly.

That was the extent of his reply. She waited, but he made no further comment.

She gazed out at the blinking stars, the big full moon, and gained courage. She breathed deeply of the crispy clean fall air. "What a glorious night!" she said vibrantly.

"Are you still—after what happened back there—are you still determined to put yourself in jeopardy?" he demanded irrelevantly.

Her hands clenched in her lap. She began to tremble violently.

"We've—we've gone over that before," she said low.

"But Kay!" He paused. What he had to say seemed wrung from his very soul. "It's for life, perhaps—the length of your life! I can't let you marry him—unless I know all will be well with you."

Oh, must she annihilate this beautiful moment—destroy it forever? Yes—and everything pertaining to it that contained a Chuck Nourse. God grant that he would never know, never realize what it cost her. "Aren't you—taking a rather heavy burden on your shoulders?" she asked unsteadily. "Or isn't deciding my love life a weighty burden?" She tried a laugh that became a sob.

"My love for you gives me every right to insist upon your happiness," he declared. "It's true, I'm just a poor sap—just one of the men you might have loved. Sorry I'm not blessed with a legacy. By the time I've made my pile, it will be too late."

"Perhaps," came from her brokenly.

"Kay!" he exclaimed, "Here it is again—the conviction that you do love me! I have it so often when we're together. Then when I'm not with you—I'm uncertain again. For the moment, you seemed the girl of my dreams—the girl who would be willing to help a man make his way in the world. Not like the super-modern, insincere girl you pretend to be. Why am I fool enough to have such hulluicinations about you?"

Tears stood hotly in ner eyes, but if he had looked at her then, he could not have seen them as they rode through the shadowy tree-lined street.

"Because, Chuck—you are such a dear—dear fool."

He paid no attention to this, but rushed on as if to make her realize all the pent-up emotion within him.

"I've been working like mad, Kay—getting the factory started—trying to make it a big paying proposition for the company that is giving me—giving us a chance. I had your sudden interest in Webb Taylor as temporary. But now you're going on with it—you're being married to him. In three weeks, Kay—three weeks!"

"Please!" she choked out. "Please—don't! I can't listen to you—I mustn't! Can't listen to stand? It's something— there's something—"

She checked herself by main force. She had caught herself just in time to keep from blurting out the truth to him. Now that he was doing so well with the factory, now that his career was moving into successful channels, could she ruin him? No—her love must be stronger than herself.

He stopped the car under a street lamp, turned to her imploringly.

"Kay—what is it? If you have no love for me—even if you hate me—you must tell me what stands between us. It might make me feel toward you as you feel toward me. Then at least I might get away from the daily torture of wanting you—knowing it can never be. Tell me, Kay—tell me, darling."

She hesitated an instant, then flung her arms wildly around his neck, sobbing violently.

"There, there, dear," he soothed, gathering her hungrily to him.

Gently he pushed the tangled golden hair from her wet face; she stopped sobbing at his touch. His lips closed on hers, sending an ecstasy of fulfillment through her veins.

All at once, she drew back, got out her hankerchief and dried her eyes.

He waited for her to say something. When he could no longer contain himself, he asked swiftly, "What shall we do now, darling? In a few hours, it will be morning. We could get a licence then—be married quietly.

Kay swallowed hard, said in a quivering voice, "No, Chuck—you've misjudged my actions. I didn't mean—to go through with all that. I—I only wanted you to kiss me—for the last time."

He stared at her in amazement, grew lived with anger.

"You're not the sort of girl who kisses on a dare—or for a thrill. Why did you single me out to be made a fool?"

She was sick with the hurt of his words. She was ashamed.

She said tonelessly, "Please go on—get me home. I'm supposed to return to that dance you know."

He glanced at her a full second in utter dismay, then turned from her without another word. He slammed in the gears, and the little car sped down the white ribbon of the road ahead.

A stiff breeze came in through the open windows. Kay huddled in her corner of the seat, shivering with cold and hopelessness. Her world had suddenly gone black.

The car wound swiftly around the Millstrom drive and stopped before the big doors of the house. Chuck, his face immobile under the porch light, accompanied Kay into the hall.

"Wait in the library if you like—I think there's a fire in the fireplace," she said over her shoulder, and started upstairs.

She went to her suite, trying in vain to still the tumult racing

OIL FIRE CONSUMES 55,000 BARRELS

One man was killed and several others injured when a 55,000-barrel oil storage tank exploded at El Segundo, Calif. Flames shot 150 feet into the air and a mushrooming cloud of black smoke was visible in downtown Los Angeles, 15 miles away. The explosion, of undetermined origin, came during a thunder and lightning storm, with some snow which drenched the area.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, How rediculiss, William, here's a man named Dr. Osgood Wingate, apparently a foremost sycologist, and he claims the surest way to warp a child's mind is to let him believe in the existence of Santa Claws.

Sycology is in its infancy, pop said, and ma said, According to this Dr. Wingate, a child who has been encourraged to believe in Santa Claws will sooner or later suffer such a harmful shock or disillusionment that he'll grow up with a warped complex that his parents are not to be trusted and that all adults are deceetful. According to this Dr. Wingate, little childern should be told from their earliest beginnings that Santa Claws is just a pleasant myth and a good natured fairy tale, she said.

If there was nothing but sycologists in the werld, I'm sure there would never be a dull moment, pop said. This Wingate is talking through his windbag, and we've got the proof right here. How about that, Benny? Did you have a nasty rude shock when you found out there's not really any Santa Claws? he said, and I said, G, pop, I cant even remember that long ago.

There, my dear, you see? pop said, and ma said, Yes, if he cant even remember, it couldn't of caused a very violent upheaval in his nature. Haven't you even a faint recollection of how the news affected you, Benny? she said.

Well, I dont remember the ferst Chrissmas when I found out, but I remember a lot of Chrissmasses afterwards pretending I still believed in him on account of not wanting to spoil all the pleasure for you and pop, I said, and ma said, Oh my, I wonder what Dr. Wingate would think.

Yee goods, pop said. Benny, if it's not too late, I'd like to thank you for your tolerance and deep understanding of adult nature, he said, and I said, Aw, that's all right, pop.

Being the end of the subject.

MUST HAVE HEADLIGHT AND TAIL LIGHT TOO

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 11—(AP) — Warren Keehon has the problem of providing a tail light for his horse.

Keehon fitted a merry-go-round horse with an engine and wheels. When he got his invention perfected so it would travel 15 miles an hour, turn at the touch of the reins and pull a sled or cart, he applied for a patent.

He also visited the Washington State patrol to see if the officers could classify his mechanical nag.

They could. It is a motor vehicle and to be licensed as such must have a headlight and tail light.

Soviet Leaders Are Moulded At Party School in Moscow

By DON DALLAS

Moscow, Dec. 11 —(Reuters)— Immense pains are being taken in the Soviet Union to keep its 193,000,000 citizens informed on all matters of Communist policy, both internal and external.

Party chiefs supervise a tight educational structure that aims at enlightening the people on many things — current national events and plans — the "forces that threaten the development of the country," why they must be "always vigilant, always prepared."

Each citizen must know why the Soviet man, publicized as "the pride of our times," is superior to the man of the bourgeois capitalist world, why culture in the capitalist words is degraded and vulgar, why the old world capitalism and imperialism is doomed.

Spearhead of all organizational and propaganda work is the closely-knit Communist party with its organizations in factories, workshops, collective farms, offices and stores.

Every place of work has a party group, affiliated to a city district group, above which is the city organization, in turn responsible to the party organization for the krai or oblast (both large administrative areas, similar to a small state in the United States.)

The chain is completed by the party organization of the individual republic linking directly with the central committee of the Communist party of the U.S.S.R.

Marxist Education

The job of training the party and soviet (municipal) leaders, who must be the best informed people in the country, is entrusted to the higher party school of the central committee of the Communist party in Moscow — the "Communist University" of the Soviet Union.

There, scome 980 students are undergoing a comprehensive three-year course covering wide fields, from current events to culture. More than 500 others, including party leaders of many years' standing, are doing a short nine months' refresher course.

New instructions issued by the party central committee in the last 12 months have aimed at a purely Marxist, as distinct from a "bourgeois" approach to the fields of art, literature, science and philosophy.

The teaching and lecturing staff, men and women specially picked by the higher party chiefs, include two academicians (members of the acamedy of sciences, top scientific qualification in the Soviet Union,) 11 other members of the academy of sciences, 60 professors and 32 lecturers.

The scientific council of the school has the right to accept theses for a scientific degree and to confer the degree of candidate of sciences, somewhat similar to a bachelor of science.

The school has two faculties, the party and the soviet. The 13 chairs at the party school are in: history of the party, history of the U.S.S.R., general history, political economy, economic and political geography, dialectical and historical materialism, international relations (including the foreign policy of the U.S.S.R.), Russian language and literature, Soviet economy, party construction, state law and Soviet construction, journalism and foreign languages.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce

Mr. A. E. Arscott, C.B.E., President of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, announced today the appointment of Mr. James Stewart as General Manager of the Bank. Mr. Stewart succeeds Mr. Stanley M. Wedd, who assumes the position of Executive Vice-President after five years as General Manager.

Mr. Stewart has been one of the leading executives of The Canadian Bank of Commerce for some years. He was appointed an Assistant General Manager in January 1937. He had, however, wide experience in banking before he became a member of the administrative staff at Head Office, having served in various capacities in the Province of Quebec, at New York, Hamilton and Halifax, as well as Manager at Mexico City. In November 1941 he accepted a war service post as Administrator of Services in the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, remaining in that capacity until February 1943, when he resumed his position as Assistant General Manager at the Head Office of the Bank. In recognition of his wartime service he was awarded the decoration Commander of the British Empire.

DISAGREEMENT ON

Mr. King said that members will be asked today to discuss extension of the Transitional Powers Act after giving momentary attention to the government's dollar-crisis legislation.

Finance Minister Abbott will introduce for first reading emergency measures which will include bills covering import restrictions, extending aid to gold mining companies and amending the Excise Act. House Rules prevent discussion at the first reading stage of a bill, but Mr. Abbott may give a brief explanation of each measure.

He said it was the government's intention to have debate on the legislation carried over until after passage of measures providing for the extension from Dec. 31 to March 31 of the Transitional Powers Act and the Agricultural Products Act. Under the first act the government is empowered to enforce rent, price and other control, while under the second it is authorized to requisition farm products needed to fill long-term contracts with Britain.

At the House opening, Mr. Abbott said announcement is expected shortly on the question of increases in salaries for civil servants.

Speaker Gaspard Fauteux rejected a motion by Col. A. J. Brooks (P.C.-Royal) calling upon the House to adjourn its regular business to discuss the "plight" of veterans. Speaker Fauteux ruled the matter could be discussed later or it could have been discussed by participants in the now-adjourned debate in the Throne Speech.

First reading was given a private bill, sponsored by Wilfrid Lacroix (Ind. L-Quebec-Montmorency) that would ban the Labor-Progressive Party and Communist organizations in Canada.

Claims No Mandate

In resuming debate on the trade agreement, Mr. Howe said a sampling survey taken from 2,2500 companies indicated they exported $3350,000,000 worth of goods in 1939, $670,000,000 in 1944 and that they expected to be able to export $1,200,000,000 after completion of modernization and expansion projects.

"This means," he said, "exports are about 3 1-2 times as much in value terms or 2 1-2 times in volume terms as before the war."

He said the agreement would not have been possible if the Commonwealth nations had not consented to some concessions in the British Preferential Tariff system.

T. L. Church (P.C.-Toronto-Broadview) said the government had no mandate from the people to enter into the agreement. He charged the government was trying to turn from the Commonwealth, "this country's greatest market," to trade with United States.

LEFTISTS LAUNCH

Slum-Dweller Killed

The strike arose out of the plight of Rome's estimated 80,000 unemployed. The issue was seized upon suddenly by the Leftist foes of Premier de Gasperi after a skirmish between police and jobless rioters in the slum suburb of Primavalle, in which a slum-dweller was killed.

Similar labor troubles, instigated by the Left, have stalked up and down the Italian peninsula for weeks, punctuated by political disturbances, rioting and bloodshed. This was the first time, however, that the capital itself had been affected.

The Chamber of Labor said it wanted a sweeping program of winter relief for the unemployed and a Christmas dole. The Premier's party, the Christian Democrats, said the strike was a political manoeuvre aimed at de Gasperi, who threw the Leftists out of his cabinet last May.

Santa's Workshop No Brighter Than This Toy Factory

Washington, Dec. 11 —(AP)— Believe it or not, ice cream ranks only No. 4 on the dietary hit parade of kids under five.

Given a free choice of diet, says Dr. Harry Bakwin of the pediatrics department New York University College of Medicine, young children rate foods in this order:

Meat, butter, fruits, ice cream, milk.

Their attitude toward vegetables "differs just as does adults," he says, and "raw vegetables are often preferred . . .

Cereal is the food most often refused and it may be safely omitted from the diet."

Bakwin discusses ways and means of dealing with cases of "poor appetite" in pre-school youngsters in the Journal of Pediatrics.

One of his hot tips to parents: "There should be no insistence on this or that food. The food likes and dislikes of childrens should be respected just as in adults." Let em eat fried or highly-seasoned foods, sauses and gravies if they want such, says the doctor, and— "food should be prepared interestingly."

"Parents should be urged to forget calories, vitamins and minerals and rely on the child's appetite. It is reasonable to assume that we were endowed with appetite for some purpose."

(Bakwin told a reporter he meant by this that children, if good wholesome foods, would be guided—by appetite— to select an adequately balanced diet.)

The doctor says poor appetite may stem from some deep-seated emotional disturbance or be the aftermath of some acute infection.

Other Causes

But, if your child is healthy and emotionally stable—and still isn't eating much—here are some other causes, together with Bakwin's suggestions for treatment:

1. The need for food is less between the ages of one and five compared with the needs of the infant. During the first year of life, a child gains about 15 pounds, tripling its birth weight.

But between one and five the child has an annual average weight gain of only about five pounds. Hence corresponding to the relatively slow weight gain, there's a smaller appetite.

2. A child may refuse to eat, even though hungry, just because he knows it will get his mother riled up.

Bakwin warns against trying to force the child, or to bribe or reward him. Just put the food out, leave it there a reasonable length of time, then remove it without comment or show of emotion.

If the child requests something between meals—a cracker, fruit, or the like—give it to him.

3. Poor training habits in eating may have balled-up Butch's appetite.

4. others who continue to feed their children after they're able to feed themselves and if denied this, they get balky.

5. Entertainment at mealtime is "generally overdone." Hence don't go into excessive antics to entice the child to eat."

WANTS NO MORE GOATS FROM MYSTERIOUS JULIUS

Lorain, O., Dec. 11 — (AP) — Miss Margaret Novak said today she isn't looking forward to Christmas — unless police can convince a mysterious "Julius" he shouldn't send her any more goats.

A goat was tied to her front porch a month ago. Another was left in the same place this week.

The second goat bore this note: "Keep him and feed him, and I'll send you another on Christmas. (Signed) Julius."

Miss Novak told police she suspected the goats were sent by a young man she refused to date. Officers gave one goat away. The other "vanished," they said.

"Glad to Tell Others How Much Syntona Helped Me"

Happy Over Relief From Stomach Disorders, Backache, Nervousness and Rundown Feeling. "Haven't Felt So Well in Years," She Says.

MRS. MAUD ENGLAND

MRS. MAUD ENGLAND, 255 James Street, North, Hamilton, Ontario, is glad to pass her experience along to other people because she knows what it means to get relief from stomach disorders and other health troubles that dulled appetite, robbed her of sound sleep and for a long time kept her feeling sick and miserable from day to day.

"I am very glad to tell for the benefit of other sufferers how Syntona Herbal Compound has relieved me of health disorders about which I was greatly worried," said Mrs. England. "I was very rundown and many days felt so weak and tired I could hardly summon up enough energy to do my housework. I suffered constantly with indigestion, gas, bloating and heartburn. Dizzy feelings, backache and sick headaches all combined to make me feel more and more concerned about my health. I became very nervous and couldn't get to sleep after going to bed at night.

"It was a friend who first told me about Syntona and although many other things failed to benefit me, this medicine has relieved all of the troubles from which I suffered. I cannot tell you how pleased I am to be free of stomach disorders and those awful aches and pains. Now that my nerves are calmed down I am able to do my work better and to get sound sleep. I don't tire as I did before and actually feel better than I did for years."

You will find Syntona pleasant to take. It is mild-acting and contains no harmful drugs. Many people, like Mrs. England, say it is the best medicine they have ever used.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

Sandwich Holdup Suspects Arrested After Hectic Chase

Four Youths Fire Three Shots At Pursuing Police Cruiser

Paris, Ont., Dec. 12 — (CP)— Four youths, believed to have fired three shots at a pursuing police cruiser during a 70-mile-an-hour chase earlier in the day and suspected of participating in the holdup of a Sandwich, Ont., service station last night, were arrested by Paris police today.

Police said they had not located the automobile from which the shots were fired and had not definitely identified the four arrested men as its occupants. Sandwich police left for Paris to question them regarding the holdup, in which $90 and a gold watch were stolen.

Police here said they found a large amount of silver and a gold watch in the Paris railway station where two of the youths were arrested. The four men, all giving Montreal addresses, were Joseph LaMarche, 18; Raymond Grevier, 18; Maurice Dupre, 18, and Marcel Desgrasulliers, 21.

Police said the amount of money recovered at the station tallied closely with the amount missing in the holdup, in which the service station attendant, William Matson, said his assailants conversed in French and spoke only halting English.

Police Constable Ken Stephenson said he knew nothing of the holdup when he sighted a sand-colored auto with a Quebec licence on a Paris street and pulled up his police cruiser to investigate.

The car sped away with the cruiser in pursuit and one of the occupants fired three shots at Stephenson. Alone in the cruiser, the constable was unable to return his fire, and his car skidded into a ditch.

Police said they had not been able to locate the bandits' car.

RENT AND PRICE CONTROLS LIKELY UNTIL MARCH 31

Opposition Party Leaders Agree to Extension After Lengthy Debate

Ottawa, Dec. 12 (CP)—Opposition party leaders disclosed yesterday in the Commons that they will agree to the extension of the government's rent and price controls to March 31, but they added sharp criticism of the way controls have been handled.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, struck the first critical note in the debate with a warning that unless the government does a better job in handling controls than it has since the end of the war it will return to parliament in the new year to face "not an evasive opposition but the wrath of the Canadian people."

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, charged that the removal of controls was responsible for the high cost of living and urged an extension of control powers beyond March 31.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said that while his party would support the short-term extension it would demand that consideration be given a long-term policy under which bureaucratic controls would be replaced by automatic controls.

Supporters of the opposition leaders added their words of criticism in the debate initiated by Justice Minister Ilsley, who moved a resolution that would extend provisions of the Transitional Powers Act from Dec. 31 to March 31.

Three Survivors Still at Wreck Of C-54 Transport

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 12—(CP) — A group of tired rescuers, who had kept an all-night vigil in the Labrador wilderness over three injured survivors of a United States Air Transport Command plane crash waited for favorable conditions today to evacuate them to hospital at Goose Bay where three others were already under treatment.

Work of rescuing the six survivors among the 29 passengers and crew members of a four-motored C-54 which plunged to earth near the northern air base 550 miles northwest of here Tuesday night was cut short last night by darkness after three men had been taken out by helicopter.

Members of the ground rescue squads and doctors flown to the crash scene by helicopter set up an improvised shelter and cared for the three men who had to be left behind.

It could not be learned immediately the extent of injuries suffered by the survivors.

Members of an R.C.A.F. ground rescue squad believed to have been the first to reach the wreckage of the plane, flashed back the message that there were survivors and that there were "several seriously injured."

Although the big plane, which was taking off for Westover Field Mass., at the time, crashed only eight miles from Goose Bay it took ground squads 20 hours to pick their way over the lake-studded, densely wooded territory towards the wreck scene when weather conditions prevented immediate rescue attempts by air.

The helicopter flown up from the A.T.C. base at Westover Field, set out from Goose Bay yesterday and put down on a frozen lake a mile from the wreck. Doctors at once began to treat the injured and the job of taking them back to hospital one at a time began.

Fires in N.S. Coal Mine Brought Under Control

New Waterford, N.S., Dec. 12—(CP)— Miners ascending from the depths of No. 16 colliery here today reported that two fires which broke out at separate places had been brought under control.

No injuries were reported among the 7,000 men estimated to have been underground.

Officials of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, operator of the colliery, could not be reached for comment.

Miners who had been lifted from the underground caverns by electrically-operated "rakes" said flames broke out in two places but it could not be ascertained what had been the cause.

Rescue squads and fire-fighting and first aid equipment swung into action seconds after the first report and the miners were being taken from the pit in an orderly manner.

Edward Rebelled at Costume Worn At Investiture as Prince of Wales

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, writing of his investiture as Prince of Wales, says it was during this ceremony that he realized that "I recoiled from that which tended to set me up as a person requiring homage.

In the second of a series of three autobiographical articles in Life Magazine on his youth, the Duke describes minutely the great state ceremonials in which he participated and also writes frankly of his days as a student at Oxford University and as a young cavalry officer in London.

At the investiture, which took place when he was 17, Edward rebelled unsuccessfully against the costume he was expected to wear, which he described as "fantastic" and a "preposterous rig."

The ceremony was held in Wales and David Lloyd George, later Prime Minister, had taught the young Prince some Welsh sentenres to speak, telling him that "all Welshmen will love you for that."

After the investiture, Edward wrote he was "half fainting of heat and nervousness" but "I delivered the Welsh sentences which Mr. Lloyd George, standing close by in the ancient garb of constable, had taught me."

"In the midst of all this commotion, I made a painful discovery about myself. It was that while I was prepared to fulfil the duties bound up in my heritage, I recoiled from that which tended to set me up as a personage requiring homage. After all, hadn't my father drilled into me that I was no better than anybody else?"

Kaiser Sat in Saddle Instead of Chair

The Duke, in telling of his early travels on the continent, relates one anecdote concerning a courtesy call upon Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

"He was sitting in uniform behind an extraordinary high desk and in greeting me rose in a most curious manner, as if dismounting from a horse," Edward wrote. "Upon drawing closer, I perceived to my astonishment that he had risen from a wooden block shaped like a horse's back; to this was girthed a military saddle, complete with stirrups. . . .

"The Emperor explained condescendingly that he was so accustomed to sitting on a horse he had found a saddle more conducive to clear, concise thinking than a conventional desk chair."

GOVT. ANNOUNCES NUMBER IMPORT AMENDMENTS

All Changes Become Effective Tomorrow

Ottawa, Dec. 12 —(CP)— Finance Minister Abbott today announced a number of amendments to the government's emergency exchange conservation orders, including relaxation on certain items, some new prohibitions and some clarifications.

Meat extracts and fluid beef and paperboard containers have been removed from the prohibited list and now may be imported without any restriction.

Manufactures of feathers — including badminton birds and parts of fly-fishing equipment — glass tableware and cut glassware have been transferred from the prohibited list to a quota list.

The prohibition on precious and semi-precious stones has been re-worded to make it clear that it does not apply to diamonds or glass imitations of stones used in the manufacture of medium and low-priced jewelry.

The clarifications also include a re-wording of the sections dealing with pulp and paper, "which in effect permits unrestricted entry of certain technical specialties used in industry such as electric insulation board and special types of containers."

Jumbo rolls of facial tissue, paper tags, labels and wax paper are added to the prohibited list. The section dealing with prohibition on electric light fixtures has been reworded to include floor and table lamps.

All changes become effective Saturday and, in the case of new prohibitions, will apply to goods not actually in transit to Canada today.

The new prohibitions include plywood, nickel or electro-plated cutlery, table flatware, domestic water-heaters, public address and communications systems, domestic humidifiers and chemical permanent-wave preparations.

A fifth quota group to come into effect Jan. 1 has been announced. It includes a wide range of prepared foods of a kind for which the United Kingdom, Australia and France were normally the Canadian principal suppliers.

This new group includes such items as pickles and sauces, meat and fish pastes, cheese, pickles and preserved fruits, canned fruits and chocolate and confectionery products. The national quota will be 200 per cent of prewar and the individual importer's quota from scheduled countries will be 28 per cent of his imports during the 12 months ended last June 30.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 12—(CP)—Synopsis: Skies are clear over northern Ontario but considerable cloudiness persists over southern sections of the province where scattered light snowflurries are occurring. Temperatures over Southern Ontario are near normal but in Northern Ontario temperatures are 10 to 30 degrees below zero. A weak disturbance west of the Great Lakes is causing light snowfalls in that region. This snow area is expected to remain south of Ontario however some cloudiness is likely on Saturday over Southern Ontario.

Royal Roads, R.M.C. Become Tri-Service Colleges For Officers

Ottawa, Dec. 12 — (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton announced today that the Royal Military College at Kingston and H.M.C.S. Royal Roads on Vancouver Island will be operated on a tri-service basis "as a major step in the all-important work of training officers."

They will be known as the Canadian Joint Services Cadet Colleges.

"Officer-Cadets will begin combined operations by training together and getting to know each other on a first-name basis," said Mr. Claxton.

"Courses at both colleges are designed to train officer-cadets for commissioned rank in any of the three services, and all accepted candidates will be obligated to serve as officers in either the reserve or full-time forces of one of the three services, whichever they may elect, if so required."

He also announced details of the courses and requirements of admission to both colleges.

The Royal Roads course is two years. The one at R.M.C., starting next September, will be four years. Cources at both colleges will be equivalent during the first two years. Subsequently, either a general course or an engineering course may be taken at R.M.C., with specialization starting in the third year.

Naval cadets of the executive and engineering branches will take a two-year course at either college. Other naval cadets are all army and R.C.A.F. Cadets will take the four-year course, the first two years at either college and the last two at R.M.C.

R. M. C. graduates, if so recommended, may enter the final year in civil, chemical, mechanical or electrical engineering at certain Canadian universities with a view to obtaining a degree in one year. The law societies of certain provinces also admit R. M. C. graduates for the study of law and call to the Bar on the same basis as university graduates in the faculty of arts.

One-half of the candidates for Royal Roads and R. M. C. will be selected on provincial quotas determined by population, the remainder in open competition.

Candidates must have reached their 16th but not their 20th birthday by Jan. 1 preceding entrance if they are army or air force candidates and must be less than 19 on the same date if they are naval candidates.

Academic requirement is junior matriculation or its equivalent.

Foreign Secretary Bevin Says Britain Will Surrender Palestine Mandate Before May if Possible

London, Dec. 12 —(CP)— Foreign Secretary Bevin said today Britain will surrender her Palestine mandate even before May 15 if possible.

Bevin endorsed an appeal by his predecessor, Conservative Anthony Eden, to Jews and Arabs to end the bloodshed brought on in the Holy Land by the United Nations decision to partition Palestine.

"That appeal which I endorse will, I believe, be paid great regard to in Palestine and the neighboring countries," Bevin said. "May I express the hope that it will be paid the same regard to in Great Britain, New York and outside, and not exaggerated and thus make more difficult the task that is to be seen through."

Concluding a two-day Commons debate on Palestine, Bevin also said Britain has "made it clear that May 15 is the latest date" on which it intends to surrender her Holy Land mandate.

"If negotiations with the United Nations moves more quickly than we now think, and an earlier date can be fixed, that will be done," Bevin added. He reiterated that British troops would not help enforce partition.

August 1 was the earliest date the government could fix for the final withdrawal of British troops from Palestine without incurring great loss in regards to stores and equipment.

After what Britain had to put into Palestine during the last 30 years, he did not see why she should have to stand a bigger loss than necessary.

"But here again if we can speed up withdrawal we shall do so," Bevin declared.

Priority was being given to the removal of war supplies, for "dangerous toys" must not be left behind.

Declaring the right thing to do was to try to get agreement between Arabs and Jews, Bevin said: "If that had been left to the British administration without interference from outside, I quite believe we could have done it.

"The government came very near to getting agreement only to have the cup dashed from their lips. It is very bitter to have to face this fact."

Bevin began by expressing a hope that the appeals made in the Commons not to increase the difficult tasks ahead would receive attention in Palestine, the neighboring countries, in Britain, the United States and elsewhere.

May 15 had been fixed for the termination of the mandate "after most careful consideration." Transfer of power to the United Nations was not simply walking out of Palestine.

Palestine belonged to the sterling area and currency, trade and many economic matters had to be dealt with. Britain did not want to add to the chaos by economic disorder.

Four Kitchener Hockey Players Injured in Crash

Hamilton, Dec. 12 (CP)—A level crossing crash at nearby Burlington last night resulted in injuries to six persons, including four members of the Kitchener Greenshirts Junior 'B' hockey team homeward bound from a game in which they beat St. Catharines Lions.

Reported in "fair" condition in hospital here today were Greenshirt players Jack Novak, 15, with head injuries, and Dennis Barnes, 18, head injuries and shock; and George Hummel, 34, of Kitchener, a passenger, who suffered rib fractures and shock.

Two other Greenshirt players were discharged from hospital after treatment. They were Earl Reibel, 17, who had slight chest injuries, and Arnold Miller, 19, abrasions to the right ankle. Also discharged was the driver Lloyd Gross, 42, of Kitchener, who suffered head abrasions and chest injuries.

Constable Frank Wayne of the Burlington police said the car in which the four members of the Ontario Hockey Association team were travelling stalled on the railway tracks in front of Burlington's Plaza restaurant and a Canadian National Railways freight train from Fort Erie, Ont., struck it squarely in the middle.

The car was twisted around and thrown 10 feet against a hydro pole which it snapped off 10 feet from the ground.

Structural Steel From All Countries On Banned List

Ottawa, Dec 12 (CP) — A blow to new large building projects was contained in one of several additional import restrictions announced yesterday as the Commons gave first reading to the government's emergency measures bill.

The bill, part of the program to reduce Canadian expenditures in the United States to conserve dwindling reserves of U. S. dollars, includes a ban on imports from all countries of structural steel, newspaper printing presses certain publishing equipment, automobiles and motor vehicles — unless import licences are granted.

Construction will be hard hit because the U.S. is the chief source of structural steel used in the Dominion.

Contractors whose structural steel buildings are well advanced however, probably will be able to obtain permits to import the steel needed for completion of construction.

Newspaper presses which no longer may be imported without a permit are those of a retail value of $1,500 or more. Typecasting and typesetting machines used in printing offices, off-set lethographic printing presses and type-making accessories also are banned.

P.E. ISLANDERS RETURN LIBERAL GOVT. TO POWER

Has Increased Majority Of at Least Three Seats

Charlottetown, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Premier J. Walter Jones announced today he would call the island legislature into session early in February after Liberal forces yesterday swept back into power for the fourth straight time in the province's 21st general election. The House usually meets in March.

Voters handed the Liberals an increased majority of at least three seats. The government won 23 seats, the Progressive Conservatives six, with one still in doubt.

Here are the standings:

	1947	1943
Liberals	23	20
Prog. Conservatives	6	10
Doubtful	1
Total	30	30

Standing before dissolution of the House for the election stood at 20 and 10. Six by-elections since 1943 had failed to change the party standings.

The C. C. F., failing in its second bid for representation, polled more than three times as many votes as it garnered in 1943. But all 16 candidates lost their $50 deposits for failing to poll at least half the winner's vote.

Winners Poll 51 P. C.

Incomplete tabulation by The Canadian Press of the party vote for assemblymen — the closest approximation to a popular vote compilation — showed that the Liberals polled 51 per cent, Progressive Conservatives 45 per cent, and C.C.F. four per cent.

Because a voter for councillor must own property or be a clergyman or veteran, it is impossible to obtain figures for the exact popular vote. Qualifications to vote for an assemblyman are less restricted, and councillor voters may also vote for assemblymen.

Prices Will Remain a Lot Higher Than Skirts in 1948 Says Hal Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Dec. 12 — (AP)—I am going to unwrap the old crystal ball and give you an advance look at 1948, trusting that everyone kindly has forgotten that nine days before Hiroshima was wiped out I predicted the Japanese war might last another full year.

The forecast is for a strange and exciting year. In fact, frazzled 1948 will be like 1947 hopped up by vitamins.

Here are the prospects:

Prices will remain a lot higher than skirts. A genuine t-bone steak of pre-war thickness will be exhibited at the American Museum of Natural history and draw thousands of admiring visitors. It will be flanked by two armed guards.

The slogan of single ladies will be "the new look before you leap" at the bachelors they'll have to propose to, since it will be leap year.

But "the new look" won't improve with age, and neither will the ladies who wear it. More and more they will come to realize why an open stadium attracts more people than a tent show.

Santa Claus will pension his reindeer and write an anonymous letter to the newspapers complaining he had to pay $500 over the list price to get him a new automobile.

Somewhere a woman driver will hear a knock in her car's motor, stop, open the hood and see coiled inside — a rattlesnake. (This has happened every year since Henry Ford quit playing marbles.)

A member of the National Association of Manufacturers will send John L. Lewis an eyebrow comb, and George Bernard Shaw will again disclaim any responsibility for mankind.

An attempt to return cut plug to popular favor by developing a new "bubble chewing tobacco" will fail.

A musical diaper will be put on the market that plays "Break the News to Mother" when the baby needs a change.

Anll in all, however, bears will have more fun than people in 1948. They hibernate.

Mother Dies From Shock After 3 Sons, Husband Killed

Only Survivor, a Daughter, Not Told of 5 Deaths

Tillsonburg, Dec. 12 —(CP)— Mrs. Louise Howey, 40, whose husband, Elmo, and three sons, were killed yesterday in a railway-crossing accident two miles north of Straffordville, died from shock early today at the home of friends here.

She had been taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Climie here soon after the accident to be near the Soldiers Memorial Hospital, where her husband and one son died, and her seven-year-old daughter, Mary Lou, only survivor of the crash, were taken.

She spent the night in a bedroom with Mrs. Climie who ministered the stricken woman throughout the night. At 5.45 a.m. Mrs. Climie heard Mrs. Howey gasp three times and she called to her husband, sleeping across the hall, for aid.

A doctor rushed to the Climie home but Mrs. Howey was dead when he reached her bedside. He said it was simply a case of the woman's heart being unable to bear the shock and grief of the tragedy. She suffered severe shock shortly after the accident when she stopped near the Canadian Pacific Railway crossing where her husband's truck collided with a train, and asked what had occurred.

Did Not Know Identity

A young man standing near the scene, unaware of the identity of the woman, told her "the Howey family has been killed." She was overcome with shock and taken to the home of Mrs. Harry Kennedy where she found first aid being given to her little daughter, Mary Lou.

Hospital authorities today reported Mary Lou's condition as "good." Her injuries were mostly facial and she has not been told of the deaths of her father, mother and brothers.

At the time, Mrs. Howey, born in Stratford, was hurrying to her home with a nurse who attends Mrs. Howey's aged father, Lawrence Fulton, of Stratford, who is critically ill. Mrs. Howey's mother was also ill and living with another daughter, Mrs. W. Jones in Kitchener.

Eleven-year-old Kenneth Howey, only other son in the family has been in hospital for two weeks for treatment and had he been well, would probably have been in the ill-fated truck on his way to school with his brothers and sister.

Only last night coroner C. W. Sinclair said he would call an inquest into circumstances of the deaths of the four members of the Elgin County family. Date of the inquest has not been set but it will probably be held in Straffordville early next year.

Victims of the collision between the truck and a Canadian Pacific Railway train were: Elmo Howey, 42, driver of the truck, and his three sons, James 15, William 13, and George nine. James and Williams were killed in the crash and George died soon after being admitted to hospital here. Mr. Howey died five hours later.

GOVT. TO ASSIST MINES ON CASH BONUS BASIS

Will be in Effect for Three Years and Help Ease Production Costs

Ottawa, Dec. 12 (CP)—A new plan of financial assistance under which the government will pay Canadian gold mines a cash bonus for the next three years to help ease production costs and stimulate output, went into effect today.

The new proposal was announced to the Commons last night by Finance Minister Abbott who said it would replace the scheme announced Nov. 17 by which mines were to have been paid $7 an ounce on the amount of gold produced over and above the production in the year ended last June 30.

Broader and more generous than this original proposal, the new plan is retroactive to Dec. 1.

Under it, a payment will be determined by taking half of the amount by which the mine's current cost of gold production exceeds $18 a fine ounce and applying this to the amount by which production in the current year exceeds two-thirds of production in the basic year, the 12 months ended last June.

This means that if a mine's production cost is $28 an ounce it will receive $5—one half of the excess over $18—for every ounce of new production over and above two-thirds of what was produced in the base year. If the base production, for example, is 1,200 ounces, $5 will be paid for every ounce of new production over 800 ounces, the two-thirds figure.

New Mines Helped

In the case of new mines, the payment will be made on the entire production in the year and in the succeeding years, on the amount by which current production exceeds two-thirds of the first year's production.

Enabling legislation to be introduced in the House will include definition of such terms as "cost of production" and will limit the assistance to "straight" gold mines rather than include those metal mines which produce gold as a by-product.

Mr. Abbott said the Nov. 17 proposal was withdrawn because of protests by the industry itself that it was not sufficient to assist uneconomic mines and objections of the international monetary fund, to which Canada is a party, that it might have violated the fund agreement.

Representations had been received from the mining industry to the effect that the original plan would not prevent "continued deterioration of the industry, closing down of additional mines and consequent hardship to many northern mining communtities."

KINGSTON CAR FOUND ABANDONED

Found abandoned on a sideroad near Riley's Pavilion on the Belleville-Trenton highway, an automobile stolen from a Kingston man was recovered by Provincial Police at Belleville on Thursday. During his regular highway patrol the traffic officer noted the abandoned car and checking the licence number later learned that the car had been stolen in Kingston.

It Does Not Pay To Leave Car With Motor Running

That it does not pay to leave an auto unattended with the motor running was learned Thursday night by Bernard O'Carroll, R. R. 6 Belleville, who shortly after midnight reported to police that his auto had been stolen. O'Carroll told police that he had left his car with the motor running outside a local poolroom to get some cigarettes. When he returned a moment later the car had disappeared.

Police in district centres were notified of the theft, but the car was recovered a short time later, it being found parked on the lot of a Front Street service station. Police put the incident down to the work of a joyrider, or to someone who played a prank on the owner.

Articles Stolen

George Jordan, Port Perry, construction employee at the new plant of the American Optical, reported a windbreaker, flashlight and a set of wrenches stolen from his truck. The truck had been left unlocked, he stated.

Christmas Travel Expected to Set Peacetime Record

Christmas travel this year will be one of the heaviest since the middle years of the war, according to railway officials.

The volume of reservations and demands for the special Christmas rates is exceptionally heavy and present prospects point to a large exodus and influx of people to the city.

Railways are issuing special rates of fare and a half good from December 20 to January 7, and many people are taking advantage of the reduction in fares.

We have not been so busy in years," one ticket office agent said, "and that does not include the last-minute traveller who makes up his mind to visit his relatives or friends a day or so before Christmas."

Jury Recommends That Police Renew Their Efforts

Toronto, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Spurred by the recommendation of a coroner's jury that they should continue investigating the strangle-slaying of George Vigus and Iris Scott, police today renewed their efforts to find the "person or persons unknown" responsible for their death.

The five-man jury, directed to its verdict yesterday by Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson, established the time and place of the slaying but found nothing in the evidence of the 30 witnesses heard to indicate the parties responsible for the crime.

Dr. Lawson cautioned the jury that direct evidence was necessary to produce a murder conviction and said no such evidence had been produced in the five days of testimony.

The jury said the murder had occurred within a few hours of midnight Sept. 10 in the vicinity of York Downs Road at the city's extreme North end. The bodies were found 24 hours later, locked in the trunk of an abandoned automobile in west-end High Park.

Chief suspects were two men seen with Vigus and his blonde 21-year-old former stenographer in the York Downs district shortly before midnight. Another witness reported hearing a violent argument and a girl's call for help from the same spot a short time later, followed by the sound of an automobile pulling away at a high speed.

The girl's landlady and business associates reported that she had been seeing Vigus regularly, although the family of the 39-year-old box factory superintendent said they had not known of any improper relations between them.

The murdered man's widow and 19-year-old George Vigus, Jr., said they had known Iris Scott only as a business associate of the elder Vigus. Neither had any idea who might have murdered the couple.

Harold Meyers Elected Pres. Dealers Assoc.

Harold Meyers, manager of the Truck and Farm Supply Company and International Harvester Company dealer here, was elected president of the Retail Farm Equipment Dealers Association at a dinner meeting held in the Queen's Hotel on Wednesday evening. Mr. Meyers succeeds former president John Wilson, Cobourg, as head of the organization.

Over thirty members of District No. 10 of the provincial organization which extends from Cobourg to Kingston were in attendance and heard an interesting address from Mr. A. L. Thompson, provincial president of Chatham, Ont.

HAROLD MEYERS

Other officers elected were vice president, William Box, Massey Harris Co. dealer, Napanee; secretary treasurer, Clarence Whiteman, Belleville representative of the Cockshutt Plow Company Ltd.; directors, Joseph Lee, Ellis-Chalmers Co., Belleville; Arthur Bateman, Oliver-Goodison Company, Belleville and George Montgomery, Stirling representative of the Case Company.

Retiring president Wilson in brief address voiced his appreciation of the fine co-operation afforded him by members of the organization during his tenure of office and bespoke the same spirit of competitive fellowship for his successor.

Mr. Thompson, in his address stressed the value of co-ordination and co-operation among dealers in this particular phase of business. "He was pleased," he said, "to see so many in attendance and he felt that it was a happy augury for the increased membership of the district branch." It was a pleasure, for him, he went on, to note so many representatives of different companies mingling and exchanging views in a friendly happy atmosphere.

He drew attention to the meeting of the provincial organization being held in Toronto in January and expressed the hope that as many as possible from this district will be in attendance. He paid special tribute to the growth of membership in this district defining it as a big step towards the promotion of a better class of dealers through the co-operation of members within its ranks.

Zeller's Staff Entertained at Informal Dinner

Last evening an informal dinner party was staged for members of the staff of the local Zeller's Store in the dining hall of the restaurant "Chez Henri," with entertainment provided by members of the staff.

Highlight of the occasion was the exchange of Christmas gifts from a beautifully decorated tree, and the distribution of Christmas bonuses.

All the guests report a very enjoyable evening, as a delightful beginning of future Christmas festivities.

Govt. to Oppose Application For An Injunction

Toronto, Dec. 12 — (CP)—Two officers of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department will oppose application for an injunction filed by Archie Haines of Jordan, Ont., tentatively scheduled to be heard in Ontario Supreme Court Monday. Mr. Haines seeks an injunction restraining Carl Hanniwell, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Niagara Falls, from acting as a member of the Niagara Falls Bridge Commission.

Mr. Haines was one of three members of the commission who were ousted by Premier Drew last June following the controversy over the inscription on the main bell of the carillon at the Ontario end of the Niagara Falls Rainbow Bridge. Mr. Hanniwell is one of four legislature members who were appointed to the commission in place of those dismissed.

In his application Mr. Haines claims that he was appointed to the commission for life or until his resignation. The Ontario government contends all such appointees hold office at its pleasure and may be dismissed with or without cause.

Four Awarded $18,175 Damages

Lethbridge Herald, 40 Years Daily, Issues Edition of 288 Pages

Lethbridge, Alta., Dec. 12 — (CP)— The Lethbridge Herald embarked today upon its 41st year as a daily, the best wishes of Canada and the northwestern United States speeding the newspaper and its publisher, Senator W. A. Buchanan, on the way.

The 40th anniversary was marked by a 2 1-2 pound, 288-page edition, followed a few hours later by a dinner tendered Senator Buchanan by the city's board of trade and attended by his newspaper and business colleagues in two nations. More than 250 attended.

Great as has been Senator Buchanan's contribution through The Herald, the influence of his personality had left its mark in fields outside the scope of the newspaper, said Victor Sifton, publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press and vice-president of The Canadian Press, in presenting the 71-year-old publisher with three Southern Alberta landscapes on behalf of the CP members.

That was the keynote, too, of other honors heaped upon Senator Buchanan

Honor Heaped on

Senator Buchanan

There were telegrams from Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who said part: "May The Herald continue, through the time to come, to uphold the principles which have become a part of its tradition;" from Federal Cabinet ministers; Hon. W. McL. Robertson, government leader in the Senate; Lieut.-Gov. J. C. Bowman and Premier Manning of Alberta, and President W. M. Neal of the Canadian Pacific Railway and others.

Senator Buchanan said he was "overwhelmed by the many greetings which I have received today and I feel very humble and unworthy of all these expressions."

The most influential newspapers were those which did not fear to criticize the political party of their choice. Moreover, he said, he felt publishers should not have investments in any public organization which might tie their hands and prevent their newspapers from expressing themselves freely.

"It is the duty of a newspaper to represent the needs of its community and surrounding district and it should stand for what is in the community's best interests."

Paintings Gift of CP

The paintings, work of Canadian artist A. Y. Jackson, were presented Senator Buchanan in recognition of his services as president of The Canadian Press from 1944-46 "when on to his broad and generous shoulders was fastened the burden of guiding the institution through very difficult war years."

Reviewing the origin and the growth of the CP, Mr. Sifton noted Senator Buchanan was the sole charter member of Western Associated Press — a forerunner of the CP — still engaged in active newspaper work. He had had the satisfaction of seeing in the pages of the Herald "the fruits of his vision and courage"—the present CP.

"The existence of an independent news service, the right to publish facts and opinions without licence, is too frequently taken for granted," Mr. Sifton said.

"Freedom of the press is only important because it is a symbol and a guarantee of freedom of expression for every individual."

No newspaper man could contemplate Senator Buchanan's career without admiration.

"His term as editor, as far as I know, is surpassed by only two men in Canada — J. E. Atkinson and J. W. Dafoe — and in England only by C. P. Scott of the Manchester Guardian and Edward Russell of the Liverpool Daily Post. The reign of such legendary figures as Delane of The London Times and Garvin of The Observer is far outdistanced."

MOTHER

London (CP)—Still expecting a toy train from Santa to be under his Christmas tree at home, 11-year-old Kenneth Howey played hopefully at a children's hospital here today.

Nobody has told him yet that a real train killed his father and three brothers yesterday and that his mother died from the chock during the night.

The brown-haired boy, eager to go home—his mother was to have called for him Saturday—brought tears to the eyes of nurses as he chattered about Christmas, home, school and what he will do when he is home.

While hospital authorities sought relatives who might tell Kenneth he is an orphan, visitors were excluded from the section where Kennth is playing lst someone drop a chance remark.

Accidents on Farms

Farm accidents on Canadian farms from June 1946 to June 1947 totalled 37,200 accidents, says the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as the result of a recent survey. Of this number 11.9 per cent were in the Maritime Provinces, 28.7 per cent in Quebec, 24.1 per cent in Ontario, 32.9 per cent in the Prairie Provinces, and 2.4 per cent in British Columbia.

Among the interesting facts brought to light is this that of the total accidents 31.5 per cent happened to farm people in the age group of 25 to 44 years and 25.3 per cent in the age group of 45 to 64 years.

May was the month of the largest percentage of accidents, 13.7 per cent. More than half of the total for the year happened in the six months from May to October inclusive.

Farm accidents in sixty per cent of the cases on farms laid up the victims for a total of from two weeks to as long as four months.

Fires reached a total of 8,000 in the period under survey. By provinces the fires were as follows: Maritimes 5 per cent, Quebec 30 per cent, 40 per cent in the Prairies and 5 per cent in British Columbia. Only 8.8 per cent of these farm fires were caused by lightning. Inflammable liquids were responsible for 11.3 per cent and heating and cooking equipment in the homes caused 23.8 per cent. Ten per cent were caused by defective chimney flues and 35 per cent were classified as from miscellaneous or unknown causes. 3,000 of the 8,000 fires occurred in houses and 3,600 in barns and other buildings with the balance of 1,400 in other places on the farm.

When You Drive in Winter

Winter always brings new hazards to drivers of cars. It is the most dangerous season of the year on roads and streets. The increase in risk is not confined to Canada but affects driving in the United States where an immense amount of interest has developed in the effort to reduce the toll of accidents.

The National Safety Council of the United States has a Committee on Winter Travel Hazards and this latter body has been carrying out a continuing study of the special dangers which slippery surfaces and reduced visibility in the wintertime bring in their wake. Here are a number of sound rules, drawn up by the chairman of this committee, based upon research spread over the past eight winters. They are of interest not only to American drivers of cars and occupants but also to Canadians who use the roadways and highways:

Get the "feel" of the road on starting out.

Adjust speed to weather, road conditions.

Slow down well in advance of intersections, curves.

Use tire chains when snow or ice prevails.

Keep windshield free of snow, ice, fog and frost.

Follow vehicles at safer distances.

Signal inten of turns or stops.

Apply brakes with a gentle pumping action on glare ice.

When these rules are pointed out to a driver, he will recognize that these are reasonable and should be respected.

The American survey says that it is an established fact that "braking distances increase from three to twelve times on snow or ice as compared with dry surfaces," says the New York Times, commenting upon the findings. "Tests have shown, too, the common theory of reducing pressure on tires below normal to provide better traction on ice is fallacious. It merely accelerates tire wear. Adequate defrosters, wipers and other devices to aid visibility are essential. You cannot drive with even minimum safety if you cannot see.

"Remember that sleet, snow and ice and shorter hours of daylight constitute this year greater hazards than ever because of the over-age conditions of the great majority of motorcars now on the road and because of the war-damaged road surfaces themselves. If you do your share to protect yourselves and fellow-users of road and street, do not forget that these are the months and days for extra precaution."

Every government, every organization of motorists, every newspaper, every body whose aim is safety for all never lose opportunity to stress the means of safe driving and of avoiding accidents.

For a Fellow Man

A few days ago was told the thrilling story of the bringing by plane from the Arctic area to a hospital in Winnipeg of Canon John Hudspith Turner who had been accidentally wounded in the head by a bullet. News of the canon's condition indicated that probably he would not recover. Since then he has succumbed.

But the labor spent in the cause of a suffering fellow human being is not lost. It has shown in high light the heroism of those men who served him in his far north home and of those who defied the elements to bring him out to Winnipeg. Their self-sacrificing zeal sheds about humanity a halo which is a proof of the heights to which fellow men will rise in their willingness to save.

Occupying the prominent place in this story of human suffering and human courage is the late Canon, whose devotion to his Eskimo friends in the Arctic is a chapter in the world's book of faith, hope and courage. The clergyman loved them. At one time he would have died, lost in the north, but for them as he was left alone in the waste when his dogs broke away and left him and his sled. There were good Samaritans who came his way, the Eskimos who saved his life at that time.

There are few hearts which do not thrill at this story of human greatness shown by all those who had a part in that saga of courage in the Arctic, with man weak as he is, triumphant over the powers of nature, which can never quell his spirit.

Austerity's Silver Lining

A London newspaper has started a campaign for Britons to "start talking success" and give up the idea of "strength through gloom." This seems to us an excellent idea. Of course, nothing is to be gained by a fatuous Micawber-like optimism nor sugar-coated Pollyanna platitudes. But a certain robust good cheer has always been one of Britain's greatest assets and can help to put her present crisis into proper perspective, says Christian Science Monitor.

After all, the other side of austerity is production — and Britain is producing. Much more than before the war. She is exporting 20 per cent more than prewar. She is growing considerably more food than ever before in history. Coal production is going up. The average time lost in strikes this year has been only 80 seconds a week for each worker. British moral prestige has in some ways increased as British material power has in some ways declined.

To look at these facts and take heart from them is not merely to whistle in the dark. It is to have faith that honest effort must bring results, no matter how long the night of austerity may seem to last.

Absorbing Theme

Christmas has cast its shadow before. Its warmth of feeling permeates business, business men and their staffs.

Already many have done a good share of their buying. The crowds on the streets, laden with parcels, is a happy augury of a Merry Christmas just twelve days away, just a little beyond next week.

The Christmas theme is ever absorbing, so much so that the time speeds swiftly by, bringing near the great festival.

No other festival or observance so fills the imagination and the heart.

Education should be a lifelong pursuit. No matter what one's age may be, there should be the same wide-awake interest in not only what is going on in the way of current news, but in the discovery of new ways of learning and in strengthening the memory for what is best, says Amherst, N. S., News.

REMINISCENCE

Time was—and it was long ago—
My Nellie said she'd rather
I'd get a final "yes" or "no"
From her devoted father.

Said I: "We've set our wedding day.
Our every action shows it.
Why ask your father if we may?
I'll bet the old boy knows it!"

She answered: "Father you must trust.
No cause have you for dreading,
But ask him for my hand you must,
Or there will be no wedding."

We took a walk in early May,
The afternoon being sunny.
I said to him: "I know a way
Henceforth to save you money."

The old boy questioned: "Tell me how,
Before my answer 'yes?' is?"
I said: "Give me your daughter now.
I'll gladly buy her dresses."

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who were the Huguenots?

The Huguenots were French protestants and correspond to the Calvinists of Switzerland, the Lutherans of Germany and the Presbyterians of Scotland.

There were about 400,000 French Calvinists in France in 1556 when the "Protestant Party" became a political power, and the Huguenots, concentrated in certain parts of the country, became a state within a state.

Whole sections of France were devastated and an estimated 2,000,000 people lost their lives in the civil wars between the Huguenots and the Catholics that started in 1562 and ended when the Catholic party captured the Huguenot stronghold of La Rochelle in 1629. At that time the Huguenots in France numbered between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000.

Their chief leaders were Prince de Conde, Admiral Coligny and Henry of Navarre. About 20,000 Huguenots, including Admiral Coligny and many other leaders, were killed in the massacre that began in Paris on St. Bartholomew's Day, April 24, 1572.

Henry of Navarre ascended the throne in 1580 as Henry IV with the aid of the Huguenots. In 1593 Henry IV abjured Protestantism for the second time, but on April 13, 1598, at Nantes, he signed an edict that gave the Huguenots considerable religious liberty.

This edict was confirmed by Louis XIII in 1610 and by Louis XIV in 1658, but in 1585 Louis XIV revoked the Edict of Nantes, with the result that Huguenots were again dealth with as heretics.

Huguenots who remained in France were liable to be put to death unless they abjured their faith. Many yielded to authority and formally accepted Catholicism, but several hundred thousand perished rather than renounce their faith, and about 400,000 chose exile and migrated to Switzerland, the Low Countries, England, the English Colonies in America and other parts of the world. About 200,000 of them settled in England, where they engaged in silk manufacture, glass making, weaving and other handicrafts and industries.

The new form of payment, which the government hopes will "contribute in some degree to the reconstruction of our depleted gold reserves," will be made through the mines department.

U. S. Gives Approval

Washington, Dec. 12 — (AP) — The world monetary fund last night gave approval "in the present circumstances" to the Canadian government's new gold production bonus plan.

At the same time, the fund said it would not necessarily approve similar gold policies which might "undermine or threaten to undermine" exchange stability.

"The fund has determined that in the present circumstances the proposed Canadian action is not inconsistent with the policy stated by the fund."

The policy statement referred to said that gold production subsidies "regardless of their form" are inconsistent with the funds articles of agreement "if they undermine or threaten to undermine exchange stability."

"This would be the case, for example, if subsidies were to cast widespread doubt on the uniformity of the monetary value of gold in all member countries," the statement said.

"Subsidies which do not directly affect exchange stability may, nevertheless, contribute directly or indirectly to monetary instability in other countries and hence be of concern to the fund.

"A determination by the fund that a proposed subsidy is not inconsistent with the foregoing principles will depend upon the circumstances in each case.

"Moreover, the fund may find that subsidies which are justified at any one time may, because of changing conditions and changing effects, later prove to be inconsistent with the foregoing principles.

"In order to carry out its objectives, the fund will continue to study, and to review with its members, their gold policies and any proposed changes, to determine if they are consonant with the provisions of the fund agreement and conducive to a sound international policy regarding gold."

P.E. ISLANDERS

Voters cast a total of 76,584 votes, an increase of about 8,000 over 1943, and about 1,000 more than in 1939.

The Liberals received 38,784 votes, Progressive Conservatives 34,284, and the C. C. F. 3,430. This compared with 35,392, 31,849, and 1,185, respectively, in the last election.

Premier Wins by 66

Premier Jones, 69-year-old farmer and champion cattle breeder, won by a reduced majority of 66 votes in 4th Queen's over his Progressive Conservative rival.

The Progressive Conservative leader, Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan also was returned in 5th Queen's. It was the fourth time the 66-year-old physician and former Premier had led his party into a general election.

Mr. Speaker Thomas Cullen and T. W. L. Prowse, minister without portfolio, lost their seats in 2nd King's and 5th Queen's, respectively.

The seat still in doubt was in 3rd Prince where the Progressive Conservative candidate held a 10-vote lead with one poll still to be heard from.

The three chief campaign issues were the Dominion-Provincial financial agreement, labor and the high costs of feed grains and fertilizers.

NUTRITIONAL DEFICIENCY

As all nutrition investigators and authorities know, the ordinary everyday diet of most Americans, even the well-to-do and perhaps over-stuffed classes, supplies considerably less than the minimum daily requirement of several of the vitamins and minerals which are essential for good nutrition.

There are many books about the everyday complaints which are the familiar but as yet seldom recognized manifestations of these nutritional deficiencies, and we can't attempt to mention these manifestations here. I suggest these books, which you can probably find in the Public Library, if you really want to learn something to your advantage about nutrition and health:

Let's Cook it Right, by Adelle Davis, (Harcourt Brace) — the only cook book that commands shelf space in by library.

Chemistry of Food and Nutrition, by Henry C. Sherman, (Macmillan) — perhaps the most quoted authority.

The Little Things in Life, by Barrett Sure, (Appleton-Century) —shows how some of the "little things" may be vital importance.

The National Molnutrition, by D. T. Quigley, (Lee Foundation for Nutritional Research)— this book tells the truth about white flour and white sugar and therefore, I wot, has little chance of reaching any great number of the people who should read it.

The Wheel of Health, by G. T. Wrench, London, recently reprinted by Lee Foundation, Milwaukee.

The essentials of good nutrition most commonly lacking or present in insufficient quantity in the everyday diet of Americans are vitamins D and B complex (particularly thiamine and riboflavin), calcium, phosphorus and iodine, I believe. Therefore I myself eat a good daily ration of these along with breakfast or lunch —daily to supplement my regular diet — and I believe this keeps me feeling just fine and dandy—and feeling as I do, I'd be a fool to take a drink of beer, wine or liquor, and miss even a few minutes of the joy of being alive, wouldn't I?

This is not to imply that eating a daily ration of the essentials mentioned will keep any youth from experimenting with alcohol. What I am trying to teach is that the youth, or for that matter the child or the mature adult, whose nutritional condition is maintained at or above par has the least possible need for or craving for the narcotics of which alcohol is the most alluring and the most deceptive.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Catarrh

Elderly woman has had catarrh for years and she drinks a pint of milk every day. Several persons tell her people with catarrh shouldn't drink milk, as it forms mucus. (Mrs. S. L. T.)

Answer—In your aunt's place I'd keep on drinking a pint or better a quart of milk every day. Whatever "catarrh" may be I dunno, but the notion that milk "forms mucus" is absurd.

Reduce But Keep Fit

Will vitamins increase the weight of a person trying to reduce by less intake of fattening foods. (Mrs. I. P)

Answer—On the contrary, it is essential to supplement the reducing diet with an adequate ration of vitamins if you hope to make a success of it. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet Rules for Reducing.

Tall Tales From the Woods

Recently a friend told a story of a white woman marrying a man who had a trace of negro blood, and their baby was a negro. z (L. D. B.)

Answer—Interesting, but it never happens.

The I.O.D.E. and Club 56 of the Centre also name representatives.

$2 Fox Bounty In P.E. County Is Turned Down

Picton — Though several county councillors reported foxes as becoming both numerous and bold and inflicting heavy loss on farm flocks, a majority of members refused to endorse a proposal that the county give a $2 bounty on foxes. Warden D. Thompson advocated the bounty. He said the present price of pelts $1.50 is not sufficient to interest hunters.

Warden Thompson said South Marysburgh township paid a $2 bounty and sixty foxes had been shot. Reeve C. Allison of Sophiasburg said that township had paid a similar bounty on fifty foxes shot this year.

"The situation is getting acute. Foxes are coming right up to farmers' barns and killing considerable numbers of turkeys, geese and chickens."

"It wouldn't be fair to pay $2 on every baby fox dug out of a den. Some men would make $20 to $25 per day," said Hillier Reeve John Taylor.

"That is one way to get rid of the menace," commented the warden.

Reeve H. Cleave pointed out that foxes shot in neighboring counties might be brought to Prince Edward in order to claim the bounty.

Reeve Elmer Vader of Athol reported foxes bolder there. In one instance they ate the heads off chickens in a coop, he reported.

The Warden said that foxes have rabbits pretty well cleaned out and were forced to look for food elsewhere. This prompted Reeve J. Cleminson to declare that a bounty on foxes should mean one on jack rabbits also.

The motion to pay a bounty during 1948 was lost on a 4-7 vote.

22 VESSELS TO COME DOWN

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 12 — (CP) — There are still 22 Canadian vessels to come down from the head of the lakes before the close of navigation at midnight Dec. 14. A blinding snow storm last night forced the steamers Renvoyle, Hastings and Westmount into an anchorage above the Sault, but they were expected to get underway again today.

Ice is forming in Mud Lake, but not in sufficient strength to hinder navigation.

WEDDINGS

SHORT — BEAUDRIE

In Bridge St. United Church, decorated with white and bronze "mums" and green foliage, Ruby Adeline Alberta Beaudrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Beaudrie, of Eldorado, became the bride of Wilfred Augustus Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Short, Belleville. Rev. D. C. Amos officiated for the ceremony, and Mr. Alec Gordon, church organist, supplied the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly gowned in white slipper satin with pointe d'esprit lace yoke and inserts in the full-length skirt ending in a short train. A floor-length veil fell from a sweetheart headdress, and she carried a bouquet of crimson roses and white "mums".

Miss Gladys Beaudrie, as her sister's maid-of-honor, wore a gown of coral silk bengaline, featuring a sweetheart neckline. She wore a matching headdress and carried an arm bouquet of white and blue "mums".

The bridesmaid was Miss Kathleen Short, sister of the groom, who wore a gown of heavenly blue bengaline similarly modelled to that worn by the maid-of-honor, and she carried an arm bouquet of white and pink "mums".

Mr. Albert Short ably supported his brother as groomsman, and the ushers were Messrs. Lavern Beaudrie and Donald Eves.

Receiving for the reception held at "Chez Henri", the bride's mother wore a gown of fuchsia crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of matching baby "mums". She was assisted by the mother of the groom in a gown of black crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of mauve baby "mums".

For travelling to Toronto and other Western cities the bride chose a suit of brown gabardine with matching accessories and a fur top coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Short will reside in Belleville.

MILLIGAN - GREEN

Trenton — At two o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, Dec. 10th., Alma Vera Green, daughter of Mrs. Martha Green and the late Mr. Green, 267 Dundas Street, West, in Trenton, exchanged marriage vows with Ross Elwood Milligan, son of Mrs. Milligan and the late Mr. W. H. Milligan, Trenton, at King Street United Church, in a ceremony performed by Rev. J. D. Martin, before a background of large chrysanthemums in pastel shades. Mr. George Downs, organist, supplied the wedding music, rendering "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, and the soloist, Mr. Claude Huffman, contributed "O, Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Harry Mawson, the bride was becomingly gowned in white crepe, featuring a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and sheath basque. A coronet held her fingertip veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Miss Ada Green was her sister's only attendant, making a charming picture in periwinkle blue crepe, her shoulder length veil falling from a juliet cap with fuchsia trim. She wore gold accessories and carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Gerald Paro, of Trenton, and the ushers were Messrs. Robert Gamble and Duncan McDonald.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors where Mrs. Green received the guests wearing a two-piece dress of dove-grey crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of mauve and white baby "mums." She was assisted by Mrs. Milligan, mother of the groom, who wore a poudre blue ensemble, with black accessories and a corsage of pink "mums."

For travelling to Ottawa, the bride chose a suit of brown wool with gold accessories, topped by a muskrat coat, with a corsage of "mums."

Mr. and Mrs. Milligan will reside at Richard Street, in Trenton.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Barrie, Belleville, St. Ola, White Plains, N.Y., and Rochester, N.Y.

Miss Johnstone, Director of Nursing, gave a report on the two wheel-chairs to be purchased for the Hospital and also gave the requirements of any nurse-in-training who wished to apply for the annual scholarship provided by the Auxiliary.

Mrs. E. McDonald and Mrs. Russel Scott, co-conveners reported on the Charity Ball to be held at Albert College.

A letter was read from Mrs. Christie, secretary of the Ontario Hospital Aids, notifying Mrs. Gilbert Scott, president of the local Auxiliary, of her appointment to the Advisory Board of the Ontario Hospital Aids Association.

Mrs. Scott gave a very interesting report of the Hospital Aids convention, and Mrs. Mikel also gave a talk on the Ontario Hospital convention. These were held simultaneously at the Royal York Hotel in November.

Mrs. Mikel was re-elected to the Board of Directors of the Ontario Hospital Association.

A treat is in store for the members and any others interested at the next meeting, January 14, when Mrs. Graham Harkness of St. Catharines, the newly-elected President of the Hospital Aids of Ontario will be here to address the ladies.

During the meeting the members sewed for the Hospital and at the close tea was served by Miss Johnstone, after which the members were escorted to the Hospital by the Administrator, Mr. Englestad and shown the newly-installed x-ray table.

HOLLOWAY STREET W. A.

Members of the Holloway St. United Church W.A. held their December meeting in the church parlors in the form of a Christmas party.

In the absence of Mrs. L. Buck, who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, Mrs. Ed. Shortt presided. Following the acceptance of secretarial reports, Mrs. C. A. Perkins conducted an inspiring Christmas Worship Service, reading the story of the birth of the Christ Child from the 2nd. chapter of St. Luke's gospel, and offering prayer. "The Shepherd's Story" as told by a mythical character who stayed on the hillside to tend the sheep while other shepherds went in search of the Christ, was read by Mrs. Perkins. The reading was interspersed with several carols; and two solos by Mrs. F. Jeffrey, with Mrs. E. Hubbs as accompanist.

Mrs. G. Dobbs presided for the election of officers for 1948, with the following results:

President — Mrs. A. Campbell

1st Vice President — Mrs. L. Hopkins

2nd Vice President — Mrs. M. Hicks

Treasurer — Mrs. W. Oliphant

Recording Secretary — Mrs. F. Scott

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. W. Johns

Parsonage Committee — Mesdames F. Wilson, H. N. Quincey, S. P. Hagerman

Flower Committee — Mrs. O. Denyes, Mrs. B. Moorman

V.O.N. Representative — Mrs. G. Dobbs

Press Reporter—Mrs. J. Cordes.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Hicks, impersonating Santa's helpers, distributed gifts from a prettily decorated Christmas tree, and a social hour was spent while refreshments were served by the executive.

Woman's Club Sponsors Successful Bazaar in YMCA

Yesterday afternoon "the lounge" in the Y.M.C.A. was crowded with ladies attending an afternoon tea and bazaar under the suspices of the members of the Prince Edward - Belleville Woman's Club. To the room, made festive with Christmas decorations and lighted candles, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. M. B. Weese, president, and by Mrs. G. F. Lent.

Convening the tea were Mrs. G. Goraline, Mrs. J. Weese, Mrs. Charles Earl and Miss C. Anderson. Presiding over the silver tea services at either end of an attractively appointed table, where a miniature Christmas tree and tall red tapers in crystal candelabra formed an artistic centrepiece against the creamy lace cover, were Mrs. Cunningham with Mrs. Reid; Mrs. Wardner with Mrs. G. Spencer; Mrs. A. Calnan with Mrs. G. French.

Assisting in serving the guests were Mrs. J. N. Boyd. Mrs. C. Ackerman, Mrs. C. Calnan, Mrs. J. W. Cavers, Mrs. Carefoot and Mrs. Holmes.

Replenishing the crystal trays and silver tea urns were Mesdames Bellamy, Young and Button.

Mrs. S. Anderson was convener of a bazaar table where household linens, aprons, knitted wear, novelties and china were offered for sale.

A homemaker's table, laden with all sorts of delicious homemade confections including candy as well as several containers of canned fruits and vegetables, was in charge of Mrs. Garbutt and Mrs. N. Montgomery.

Treasurers for the afternoon were Mrs. L. Wannamaker and Mrs. P. Parliament. The results of this annual project have proven very gratifying, socially as well as financially, and the ladies sponsoring it are deeply grateful to all who contributed to its success.

RENT AND PRICE

Mr. Ilsley said the government did not "know how many of the existing controls would have to be continued beyond the end of the fiscal year, but a decision would be made during the period covered by the extension.

Mr. Ilsley and Agriculture Minister Gardiner were the only cabinet members to participate in the debate.

Mr. Gardiner, reviewing the question of prices for the farmer's point of view, said it now was "pretty generally recognized" that the government's proposed increase in the initial wheat payment, now at $1.35 a bushel, will boost it to "at least $1.55."

Besides the debate, the day brought these developments in the Commons:

Pay Mines Bonus

1. Finance Minister Abbott announced that the government had decided to pay gold mines a bonus based on production costs instead of on amount of gold produced.

2. Mr. Abbott introduced and obtained first reading of a bill that would give legislative force to the prohibitions and quotas on imports under the exchange conservation program announced Nov. 17.

3. Mr. Gardiner said negotiations for the renewal of Anglo-Canadian food contracts were "proceeding" and he added he had heard nothing of a report that a British mission here for talks was going home.

4. Alistair Stewart (CCF-Winnipeg North) tabled a petition signed by 41,000 trade unionists asking for re-imposition of price ceilings and re-establishment of subsidies on food and farm produces.

Deals With Criticism

Mr. Gardiner dealt with criticism of the government's removal of the subsidies on coarse grain. He said the government had announced well in advance that the subsidies were to be of a temporary nature.

There had been some suggestion that the government should do something for farmers who had sold their feed grains during the period immediately prior to the removal of the ceilings because they had lost money. There also had been suggestions that western farmers withheld their grain from the market in the hopes of price increases, but this was not so.

He felt the most effective control on feed grains was the fixed wheat price and the fact the American border was closed. If the price of feed went any higher, farmers would begin to feed wheat and the price of feed would fall.

Party Opposed to Principle

Mr. Bracken said his party was opposed to the principle of controls "except under very emergent conditions." He said the control bill was up for extension now simply as a result of the government's own mismanagement.

If the session had not been called until next month the bill would only have expired March 31. Yet the government had called the session in December to have parliament pass the exchange conservation measures and the Geneva trade agreement, both of which already were effective or could be made effective without immediate action of parliament.

Parliament had been called to "rubber stamp" what the government already had done.

Mr. Coldwell, urging the re-imposition of controls, said the government had promised in the throne speech read at the opening of the last session to protect the consumer against a sharp and drastic rise in living costs, but had failed to abide by that undertaking.

There was no indication that the advance which began four months ago would slacken.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 12 (CP)—Coincidence or well-planned strategy finds General Dwight Eisenhower with an out-of-town speaking engagement while most of the presidential candidates are taking their traditional roasting at the hands of Washington's gridiron club tomorrow night.

President Truman and three of those who are anxious for a chance to beat him in the White House race next year are scheduled to sit at the head table for the fall dinner of the executive organization of Washington correspondents.

There are those who believe that General Eisenhower himself arranged it so he would have a good excuse to be absent from the dinner.

Not that Eisenhower would try to escape the merciless ribbing the gridiron members give their political guests.

It Might be Embarrassing

He is still army chief of staff and the President—the logical Democratic candidate next year—is his commander-in-chief. If he attended the dinner he would be received as a candidate for president and would be so treated. And ti might be embarrassing.

About two years ago Presidem Truman was guest of honor at a dinner given by newspaper men, not the gridiron club. Half way through the evening Eisenhower, who had just flown in from Europe, was brought in by friends who caught him in the hotel lobby.

The grinning supreme commander, fresh from the battlefields, stole the show even from the President and from the cream of entertainment personalities who held the stage.

Recently Eisenhower addressed a National Press Club luncheon. He had to be escorted through a mob of people who assembled about the entrance and in the lobby to catch a glimpse of the man most people concede could be elected easily if he gets the Rpublican nomination next June.

Under such circumstances it may well be that Eisenhower, who is in the running whether he likes it or not, made sure of a good excuse not to get into any embarrassing position with his commander-in-chief tomorrow night.

Eisenhower and MacArthur

It is generally conceded that if Eisenhower succumbs to the growing demand and becomes a presidential candidate he can be elected over any opposition. The same cannot be said of any others in the field.

The threat to Eisenhower's chances, if he entered a race for the nomination, would be the dramatic return of General Douglas MacArthur for the welcome, after 10 years' glorious service during which he has not been home, which probably will outshine any reception the country has given a returning hero.

If that happened and MacArthur proved to be a willing candidate, he probably could win hands down.

New Field Opens In Attempt To Conquer Cancer

Toronto, Dec. 12—(CP) — The discovery that some bacteria are capable of destroying cancer-causing substances has opened a new field of work in the attempt to conquer the baffling disease.

Writing in the current issue of Science Magazine, Frederick D. Sisler and Claude E. ZoBell said, "Nearly 100 species of bacteria, yeasts and molds have been shown to attack various hydrocarbons.

"Such organisms have been found widely distributed in nature, from terrestial as well as marine sources. The list of hydrocarbons which have been found to be subject to microbial attack is rapidly growing."

The scientists noted that ever since someone investigated to find why English chimney sweeps had more than their share of skin cancer, it had been known that some coal tar products and synthetic substances of related chemical make-up could produce cancer in experimental animals.

They are said to have strengthened the theory others have held that some bacterial agents may usefully be employed in the treatment of cancer. For the past 100 years, it has been noticed at infrequent intervals that an occasional patient, apparently dying of cancer, has been cured spontaneously after contracting a bacterial infection.

The writers quoted from the records of the late Dr. William B. Coley of New York who demonstrated infection of erysipelas had caused disappearance of cancer in several "hopeless" patients. Studies are still being made with a fluid he developed to assist a cure.

He held the theory that inoperable cancer might be treated by deliberately inducing a second disease to combat it. A similar principle has been developed in the fever treatment for general paresis in which the patient is infected with malaria. A fever cabinet also is used.

Radio Phones Speed Logging

Parksville, B.C. —(CP)— Frequency modulation radio-phones are saving lives, speeding logging operations, aiding in fire-fighting and smoothing business communication for Vancouver Island timber operators.

One logging company has nine pieces of equipment with radio telephones including maintenance and mechanics' trucks, besides the dispatchers office.

When a man is hurt a doctor can be called to meet the victim on his arrival at camp, assuring earliest possible treatment.

The communication system saves time and tie-ups in moving logs. In the past truck dispatchers estimated the number of trucks required to keep each loading "side" clear in a day, and sent out equipment on that basis.

Then any production lag caused expensive trucks and drivers to stand at the "side" often 15 miles distant waiting for a load.

Now with radio-phones in their cars, supervisors order only the number of trucks needed.

When fire breaks out fire-fighters and equipment can be ordered to the scene immediately.

CHARLES SEMARK
A Pioneer in the AO Belleville Plant

There's a special reason why we're delighted to feature Charles Semark in this message. Here's why. A quarter of a century ago the Belleville plant of American Optical Company Canada Limited was organized to manufacture ophthalmic lenses. Among the first to be employed was Charlie, as he is familiarly known. Accordingly, his length of service equals exactly the life of the AO Belleville plant, a rare distinction in any concern.

After 25 years of continuously efficient service, Charlie is entitled to be called a true pioneer in the AO plant. When the Ten and Fifteen Club was recently organized to honor AO employees with long employment records, he was elected president, certainly a logical choice.

An expert lens polisher, Charlie has had an exceptionally varied experience in all phases of lens manufacture. In fact, he and his skilled co-workers are one of the principal reasons why AO ophthalmic lenses are famed for their quality and precision .. why the AO plant has progressed and become an important part of Belleville's industrial life.

In his leisure time, Charlie likes to play hockey and fish. He has another hobby—upholstering—and can show you Semark-decorated chairs that would do credit to a professional upholsterer.

One additional fact .. and a highly significant one to us. Charlie's brothers — Jack and Jimmie — also work for AO and the combined employment of the three brothers totals 60 years!

Frankly, we're very proud of the Semark service record for two reasons—First, it indicates we like their work; second, and more important, it proves they like us and our employment policies.

Fullest Use of Local Newspaper Facilities Urged to Secure Publicity For U.K. Municipal Governments

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 12 — (CP)—Fullest possible use of local newspaper facilities and establishment of an efficient public information office are recommended by a government committee as the best means of getting publicity for municipal administrations.

Publication of a "civic news sheet" should be attempted, it said, only if press co-operation cannot be obtained and if care is taken by the local authorities "to see that good relations between them and the press are not thereby impeded."

The committee was established by the health ministry, which has jurisdiction over municipal governments. At the time an increasing number of councils controlled by the labor party was banning the press from council meetings.

The committee said there must be occasions when council meetings should be closed but they should be "comparatively few" and in most cases "more authority should be given for information to be supplied to the press where the admission of the press is not appropriate."

It recommended that council agenda and documents should be given to newspaper men as soon as they are given to councillors and "that there should be no embargo on publication or comment by the press before the meeting of the council."

"The committee . . . feels strongly that full facilities should be given to the press through the taking in open council of all business of public interest.

"While recognizing the difficulties, particularly the risk of the inclusion of potentially defamatory matters, attaching to the advance issue of documents which are to be brought before the full council, the committee is convinced that local government cannot flourish on the 'backward look.'

"A main weakness of local government publicity at present is that in many cases public comment is not possible until decisions have already been reached."

Little Benny's Note Book

I saw pop getting off the bus and we walked home together for company, and I said, Did you notice that kid just went passed, pop?

Not closely enough to be able at give an accurate discription of him, pop said. Is there anything notewerthy about him? he said, and I said, Sure, pop, he's famous. He can imitate a munkey so naturel he's funnier than a good many real munkies, I said.

Oh well, I've known munkies that could imitate people so perfectly that they were funnier than a good many of my own frends, pop said, and I said, But G, pop, that guy gets invited to every party just so he'll do his munkey imitation. Gosh, pop, the other fellows even call him Munkey Miller, and they mean it for a compliment. That's how good he can imitate a munkey. I wish I could, I said.

Come, come, dont let it get you down, pop said. Munkey Miller is probably a boy of one talent, and he'll grow up to be a lob sided caracter, but you're a boy of parts, he said, and I said, Aw G, what can I do?

Your modesty does you credit, pop said. Just let me run over a few of your more outstanding endowments. You can ask more questions and pause for fewer answers than any boy I ever met. The length of time it takes to get you to bed is only exceeded by the time required to get you up in the morning. You can get your shoelaces into knots that would of presented difficulties to Harry Hoodeeny in his palmiest days. You can make a greater litter on the living room floor just by bilding a dog house for a Great Dane. If you really concentrate, you can go through an intire meal without getting more than 2 stanes on the tablecloth. In other werds you are an all around boy and may easily develop into a man of distinction, he said.

Gestapo Thugs Dodge Sentences Decreed for Them

Hamburg, Dec. 12 — (AP) — The little Nazi bosses — Gestapo thugs, leadership corps opportunists, bullies — have been dodging the punishment decreed for them by the International Tribunal at Nuernberg.

Hundreds of them, tried by GGerman tribunals in the British zone for membership in organizations branded as criminal by Nuernberg, have received only nominal sentences and fines.

Even so, owing to the way the tribunals allow for the period they have spent in internment, many of them have no further imprisonment to serve or any actual cash to pay towards their fines.

This situation was described by a report of the legal division of the British Control Commission on the progress of "operation old lace" — the whimsical title given to the handling of about 25,000 cases of membership of criminal organizations by about 100 specially constituted German tribunals.

The report disclosed that only one of the thousands tried had received the maximum 10-year sentence and commented:

"Concern is felt, however, by the central legal office, by the majority of the prosecutors and by this division at the apparent leniency of certain of the sentences and at the over-generous reckonability against sentence of the period already spent in internment. This concern is also reflected in the German press."

An analysis of sentences showed that 20.1 per cent were acquitted while only 0.6 per cent received more than three years' imprisonment.

The British military government has emphasized that the whole operation has been carried out by the Germans themselves.

A. and P. Puckists Take Empire Groceteria 8-4

The purveyors of groceries donned their skates again on Wednesday afternoon when A. & P. and Empire Groceteria locked horns in another merchants league battle at the Memorial Arena. The A. & P. Tea laddies emerged victors by an 8-4 count in a scrambly, for the most part, but clean game that had its moments of speed and combination.

A. & P. forged ahead on goals by Bush and Haw, then Empire broke the goose egg with a count by L. Meagher. From then on A. & P. led the parade by a comfortable margin. Bush and Haw got one more each and McBride bulged the net twice. Gerow and Duffy got one apiece. Martin was the Empire sharpshooter with two goals while Barrett and Meagher each snared one. Huffman and Shoniker were a solid defence pair for the big store and Gerow and Bush shone up front. Barrett, Meagher and Martin were the pick of the Empire squad.

Rev. Father J. Carley, who refereed the game in a satisfactory manner, saw no infraction of the rules worthy of penalty and the entire game was played without an occupant in the hoosegow.

The Teams

A. & P. — Goal, M. Atkinson; defence, G. Shoniker, R. Huffman; centre, B. Gerow; wings R. Haw, E. Bush; subs., J. McBride and A. Duffy.

Empire — Goal, S. Domenico; defence, J. Buckley, B. Moher; centre, L. Meagher; wings, E. Barrett, F. Morrell; subs, H. Martin and P. Finkle.

Council Criticizes Adverse Price Of Feed Grains

Picton (Special) — At its final session of the year, Prince Edward County Council passed a resolution calling upon the Federal government to take immediate action to remedy the situation in regards to adverse price of feed grains. It was felt that immediate action should be taken to prevent further depletion of the county's livestock population and a consequent decrease in production of dairy products, as well as of hogs and poultry.

Tired of discussing hospital accounts that have been disputed for a long time, council granted Prince Edward County Hospital $2,000 to cover claims of $2,077, urging the hospital to attempt to collect from individuals. These accounts had been rejected and laid over during the year and council had been unable to reach any agreement with the hospital as to who was responsible for their collection.

There was a lively discussion on roads. Council decided to place an order for a snowplow and wing at a cost of $1,300. There was some criticism that in the past the county had taken over too many roads. Reeve N. Whitney criticized the five-man road committee named this year, two more than in other years.

Hospital Sweeps Endorsed By County Council

Picton — Prince Edward County Council yesterday went on record as favoring the nationalization of hospital sweepstakes or, failing this, that hospital sweepstakes be legalized as a provincial measure. The resolution by Brant County endorsed stated, "We believe that it is the feeling of ninety per cent of the general public that sweepstakes should be nationalized in Canada and the profits devoted to relieving the high cost of hospitalization, thus keeping in Canada the millions of dollars now sent out illegally for the benefit of other countries, despite the efforts of postal authorities to prevent the mails being used for this purpose."

Reeve Norris Whitney of Ameliasburg said that sweepstakes might as well be nationalized as a great many people always buy them. "It might as well be brought out in the open," he declared.

In opposition, Reeve James Cleminson of Wellington said such action would encourage gambling. "Too many people would get the idea they should get something for nothing," he said, to which Reeve Whitney retorted amidst laughter, "they already have that idea."

In the vote, eight were in favor and four opposed.

IF IT'S BLADDER TROUBLE

Here is a medicine made specially for it!

What are you doing about your bladder trouble? If you are hoping that the burning, scalding and irritation will correct themselves naturally, you are taking serious risks with your health. Those painful symptoms may mean that impurities are in the bladder. Look to your kidneys—they may be the source of your suffering. These all-important organs have the vital task of helping to rid the system of waste products. If they become sluggish the pain-causing impurities accumulate and give rise to discomfort and distress. There is a way of helping to stimulate those kidneys to function naturally with a medicine made for the very purpose. For over half a century De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills have been relieving bladder troubles by helping to cleanse and tone up the kidneys. Our files of world-wide testimony could convince you that this remedy can be relied upon for kidney and bladder troubles. De Witt's Pills are sold at drug stores everywhere.

Prices 60 cents (40 pills). LARGE SIZE $1.00 (100 pills).

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Loyal followers of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who nearly wrested the Dominion football title this year from the vaunted Toronto Argonaut club, bewildered at the strong showing the westerners made, now feel that at long last, the west can meet the east on equal terms, as far as the gridiron is concerned.

• • •

And now they're wondering what to do next year. One comes forth with a brainy suggestion, this from Winnipeg, that a "$50" club be formed which would raise the necessary finances to hold present high class imports and secure additional ones. The author of the scheme proposes to enlist the aid of 1,000 businessmen of the city who would "kick in" with fifty bucks per, making a total of fifty grand with which to finance the Bombers.

• • •

The suggestion goes on that the members would have few if any privileges, the main one being of course the opportunity to drop fifty simoleons on the football drumhead.

• • •

The idea, the suggestion goes could work equally well in any other city, provided the sportsmen are prepared to come across with the lettuce and join the club for the interest of the game. It would provide several advantages to the enjoyment of all concerned in that it would provide a high calibre of competition, good equipment for clubs and a chance for them to approach local and outside players with the money talks idea.

• • •

The idea could be tried out in Belleville inasmuch as the groundwork is now being laid for a Junior "A" hockey club. Hockey visionaries here picture such a team in the near future with the aid of the Philadelphia Rockets. But the Rockets cannot be expected to supply an entire team, and there is a decided scarcity thus far of players of junior "A" calibre in local circles. That means that imports must be brought in and that again means plenty of the mazuma laid on the line.

• • •

It would cost at least(and we are open for correction) $10,000 to properly finance a Junior "A" squad. And brothers, "them ain't peanuts, hay, or what have you." Junior "A" hockey is attracting sellout crowds at each home game in other centres where this calibre of the sport is being played. In fact we know of one city which had all its reserved seats sold before the season started, or nearly all. And there is no reason why Belleville would not support a junior squad of the "A" variety.

• • •

But that part will take care of itself. To get back to the ancient bugbear, initial financing, the above-mentioned suggestion from the prairies could be tried out next year ... Of course this village cannot be compared with a hamlet like Winnipeg, but surely there are 1,000 persons residing in these wigwams alongside the Moira who would be willing to throw ten bucks in the hockey pot. Or is that a large order? At least we have counted that many rabid fans in the arena at a playoff game who looked sufficiently prosperous as to be able to donate a sawbuck to see a crack Junior "A" squad wear the colors of this city.

• • •

Armed with a rule-book, 3 dictionaries, four boxes of cough drops, two sets of brass knuckles; a megaphone, fire in his eye and a treatise on "Great Indoor Battles" Alderman Claude D. Tice, accredited representative of the Belleville Sneior "B" ANAFS, took the two-thirty puddlejumper for Toronto this afternoon, where he will hurl the gauntlet of defiance at the haughty moguls of the OHA at their meeting tonight at which the various groupings will be drawn.

• • •

He may come back bloody but you can bet your life he will be unbowed. He toiled diligently all yesterday afternoon with four secretaries mapping out his campaign, and during rehearsal, he phoned the armouries here to see if Sten guns were available. Satisfied at last he ran through a quick workout with three sparring partners, quaffed a beaker or two of buttermilk and declared himself ready for the fray. "On to El Toro" was his battle cry. You have to know Spanish to appreciate that one. A blow-by-shout description of the joust will be featured in these columns tomorrow.

• • •

The Senior "B" squad went through a strenuous workout under the eye of Coach Smoky Harris in the Arena on Wednesday night, in preparation for their joust with the Queen's U. Intercollegiate squad here this evening. The Red team is confident that it can lower the pennants of the Tricolor, while Queen's who have some sort of a reputation in intercollegiate circles will go all out to turn back the saucy upstarts which form another "town" team. Curtain at 8:30.

• • •

Those two games played in the District Hockey Association last night, or at least the results, put another grey hair in the already silver thatch of the official league statisticians. Flyers' 10-1 victory over the junior Rockets shot them into undisputed first place over Napanee by virtue of goals for and against although both squads have eight points. Juniors hold third slot with five points and that spot is final while Hornets are sitting in fourth place with four points. Point Anne has three and meets Bloomfield in the final game next Tuesday.

• • •

In the "B" section, Stirling now holds the top rung with 7 points after the tie with Campbellford last night. Trenton is in second place, sharing that rung for the moment with Cobourg. Campbellford who gained a point last night sits in 4th place with five while Madoc comes fifth with four points.

• • •

But Cobourg and Madoc meet here on Tuesday night in the final sectional game, and much hinges on the result. If Cobourg defeats Madoc, the Haynes crew will vault into first place over Trenton and Stirling with eight points. If Madoc wins there will be a three-way tie for second place which automatically eliminated Campbellford If the teams tie Cobourg will go into a first place tie with Stirling while Madoc and Campbellford will be tied for fourth slot. If this happens, Madoc will be eliminated via the goals route. The standing to last night is published elsewhere— so you guys figure it out.

• • •

The Flyers and Junior Rockets will resume their feudin' and afussin' next Thursday night in the first game of the quarter-finals playoffs. This game was ordered played last night by the executive of the league. The second game, of course hinges on Tuesday night's outcome.

The Big Seven

Elmer Lach, Montreal and Buddy O'Connor, New York, pulled within four points of National Hockey League leader Syl Apps of Toronto last night. Each with 23 points is in the second place spot. O'Connor picked up three assists while Lach was limited to one. Maurice Richard Montreal scored one goal to move into a tie with Ted Lindsay of Detroit for third place with 22 points. Other scoring leaders were idle.

Capitals Benefit From Recent Swap

(By The Canadian Press)

Indianapolis Capitols today appeared to have benefited from their recent swap with Detroit Red Wings, that sent Rod Morrison and Marty Pavelich to the N.H.L. in exchange for veteran Eddie Bruneteau and Gerry Couture.

For last night in Indianapolis the Caps stopped the fast-moving Bisons 5-3, with Bruneteau and Couture each blinking the light once. Other Cap goal-getters were Enio Sclisizzi, Nelson Polosky and Cliff Simpson.

Les Douglas paced the herd with two markers and Floyd Curry scored the other.

In the other game last night St. Louis Flyers upset New Haven Ramblers 4-1 for their ninth of the year. Don (Count) Grosso, Ernie Trigg, Normie Tustin and John Raynak accounted for the St. Louis scoring while Harry Bell tallied the New Haven goal.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By H. DENT HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 12 — (CP)—Tired of Christmas shopping on the hoof? You sportsmen should try a stay-at-home type of entertainment.

A great insight into how life in the sports circles has progressed, comes from William (Ottawa Journal) Walshe. You just wander into a sports store and pick up the available catalogues, wander home, put your feet up, and peruse.

For sports who refer to skis as barrel staves, Bill points out such advertised features as perfect balance, perfect matching, flexibility, lightness, and strength, as well as the various waxes for wet, dry and clog snows, waxes for climbing and running, for downhill or slalom or jumping.

"Now," he says, "if they have a special wax for standing still in a clubhouse we would probably be more interested."

Leaving out the weighty list of ski bindings, clothes and other accessories right down to life insurance policies, the armchair shopper can find any number of other interests in available literature.

"In the old days," says Mr. Walshe, "one of those red-painted hockey sticks that would never break, bend, or even mark, a pair of skates often clamped on boots and a tin can or block of wood was enough to start a game, but not now."

Fans can add their own particular list of pads, gloves, star-plugged boots and sticks, and even referee whistles.

Self-styled Santas can have a hey day, however, in the Izaak Walton department. Try, for example, a two x-ruby eye wiggler! a one-eyed wobbler, or a pearl kidney spoon, on one of your fisherman friends. Or a Calamity Jane, a deep sole or cash-in putter on your golfing chums.

Just name your sport. All you need is the cash, says Bill, and a truck to carry it away.

"Just about

"Just when we were about completing our Christmas list there came a reminder that there are no boys or men in the family," he added, "and would we please hurry up to help pick some pretty little gifts from the lingerie stores."

Fort Worth Rangers Hold Second Place

(By The Associated Press)

Fort Worth Rangers hold second place in the southern division of the United States Hockey League and Lex Ritson, Ranger wing, had a four-goal performance in the books.

Ritson fired in three goals during the first two periods and added his final tally in the last stanza last night at Houston as the Rangers were downing the Texans 7-6.

Meanwhile St. Paul Saints were only five points behind the leading Minneapolis Millers in the north division after cutting a three-game Omaha winning streak 6-3.

The Saints, tied 3-3 beginning the final period, drove in a trio of counters in the final 20 minutes. Lin Bind and Joe Levandowski scored two goals apiece for the winners, Bind getting his in the last period.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Flyers Swamp Rockets 10-1 In Rough, Bruising Battle; Campbellford-Stirling Tie

In a rough bruising battle that nearly got out of hand in the second period, the Trenton RCAF Flyers went into a first-place point tie with Napanee in the "A" section when they swamped the Belleville Rockets juniors under a 10-1 score in Memorial Arena last night. In a closely fought game that was in doubt up to the last few minutes, Campbellford scored a dying moments goal to draw with Stirling 5-all. The win gives Stirling undisputed first spot in the "B" Section with Trenton and Cobourg tied for second place.

RCAF Flyers 10—Belleville Jrs. 1

Both teams let their figurative "hair" down during the first two periods of the game and the result was a heavy bruising battle with players playing the man rather than the puck. The first chukker was featured with plenty of roughness although it provided the closest hockey of the game. Flyers scored in this period but the boys were intent on the rough stuff and there was little to enthuse about for those who love good hockey.

Things started to happen in the second period and fistfights, injuries, arguments and everything in the red side of the hockey calendar happened. Players ripped into each other with more or less abandon and Defelice of the Rockets and Edwards of Flyers drew major penalties when they threw gloves and started a donnybrook. Flyers scored twice in this period from the sticks of Edwards and Bullock while the Rockets lone counter also came in this period when Johnny Green fired home the rubber from Wardhaugh's pass.

Third All Flyers

But the third heat was all Flyers, although Robertson had to be on his toes at times to ward off the Rocket thrusts. The Rockets showed little organization in this period and the result was that Flyers rammed home seven goals without a return from the opposition.

In any event roughness or no roughness the Flyers showed too much power all along the line for their younger opponents, and in the third period when the players had cooled off somewhat and settled down to business they turned on the heat and their goalward forays clicked beautifully.

Both team managements turned in complaints regarding the officiating but this was ironed out by members of the executive during the second-third period interval.

Bullock was the scoring hero from a Flyers' standpoint ramming home the rubber three times and drawing an assist. Christie, Middleton, and Edwards got two goals each with Ault and Miller donating the remaining pair. Sargent worked like a Trojan during the game although he did not figure in the scoring while other standouts were those in the score column.

Schreider the Pick

Schreider was the pick of the Rockets with Defelice and Green turning in good efforts. LeFort played a sterling game but his defence as well as his attacking divisions for the most of the time left the icelanes open to the opposing attacking forward lines.

Thirteen penalties, four of them majors were handed out by officials Speedy St. Louis and Don Lee, Jud Semark was the bad boy of the Rockets with three trips to sinners' avenue while Defelice, and Hurst of the Rockets and Christie and Edwards of the Flyers drew majors for fighting. Hurst was hurt during the game and was carried from the ice but returned after repairs.

Campbellford 5 — Stirling 5

This was a ding-dong battle in distinct contrast to the first affair. Both squads set a fast pace from the start and maintained it through the sixty minutes of good hockey. It was one of those affairs that saw the lead go first to one side and then the other with the climax coming with 49 seconds to go in the third period when Campbellford trailing by a 5-4 score fired home the equalizer to split the points of the game. The goal, was claimed by Goaler Bridgeman of the Stirling team, to not have entered the net, but the officials and goal judge ruled otherwise and that was that.

It was fast clean hockey with only one penalty being handed out, and that to Tanner of Campbellford for a minor infraction. Stirling grabbed a goal lead in the first period on markers from the sticks of Lavender and B. Bastedo after Hendy had drawn first blood for Campbellford after two minutes of play.

Robinson tied up the score on B. Bastedo's pass in the first 2 minutes of 2nd period and Poloquin put the Campbellford squad one up a minute later. The teams battled on even terms with both goalkeeper standing out, for the remainder of the period and the session ended three-two for the Northumberland lads.

Bastedo Tied Count

Dougie Bastedo again tied the count after four minutes had elapsed in the third heat but the tie was short lived and at the six minute mark Pettigrew took Hay's pass to put Campbellford once more in the lead.

Lavender tied it up with his second goal of the evening and two minutes later scored the hat trick to put the Stirling squad on the long end of a 5-4 score. For the next nine minutes the teams battled on even terms with both goals having narrow escapes and both goalies standing out with exceptionally good efforts. Came the 19.11 mark and on a ganging attack on the Stirling goal Pettigrew rammed home the rubber to tie the count although as was said before the goal was disputed by the Stirling team.

Lavender got three of the Stirling goals with Doug and B. Bastedo getting the other two. The Bastedos and Meaghers, Robinson and Lavender turned in fine efforts with a nod to Donald in goal. Pettigrew, Peloquin, Robinson, Blake and Hendy looked the best for the Campbellford squad.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Rough and ready responders have no taste for the finer things in bridge. These larrupers like to roar to their destination with whoop and a holler. They disdain delicate approach to a decision.

Once they see what looks like a game or slam they flop right into it. If they land in the right spot their exubrance booms all over the place. If the result is ungood they cuss their luck.

Such players give you what looks like a good argument in favor of their policy. "What's the use of fooling around," they will say. "If you know where you are going, get there and be done with it."

However, not often enough are they sure they know where they are going. They only think they do. No player knows exactly where the pair should go until he knows all that partner can tell him.

When a responding hand looks like a game, it may be short. Or it may be enough for a small slam. When it looks like a small slam, it may be only enough for a game. Or enough for grand slam.

A sound set of bidding rules (Horse Sense) reveals these margins before final decision need be made. They tell precisely where to end. If one cares to stretch or be conservative, he knows how much.

A takeout or assist or notrump admits and denies certain values. A non-jump shows only its minimums. A one-jump shows more than higher jumps. An immediate jump promises more strength than later jumps.

Obviously, a pair with these precision instruments will reach a higher degree of accuracy. It remains only for them to understand their use and stick to the correct application of them.

South opened with a heart when north held this hand:

♠Q
♥Q J 10 5 3
♦K 10
♣K 8 6 3 2

The first response by north is not an assist in hearts. Takeout comes first. Nor is it a jump at once without two sure tricks. First bid two clubs. To make some partner do this you need a club.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 12 (AP) — They burned Ingrid Bergman at the stake this week and no one enjoyed it more than the actress herself.

The costly conflagration was for "Joan," a production whose bill is now pegged at $4,600,000. It may well be termed "The Last of the Epics," since the skittish movie market will make such outlays rare indeed during the future years.

The event took place in the Medieval town on RKO's ranch the same precincts that Charles Laughton stalked as Quasimodo in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Some 349 costumed extras hovered around the set, shivering in the chilly San Fernando air. One hundred and fifty other workers went about their often mysterious duties in preparing the scene.

Miss Bergman, clad in black slacks and a wooly flight jacket, was all over the set, shooting the scene with a small movie camera. I tracked her down and asked her how she felt about the burning, "I can use it to warm up on a morning like this," she answered.

She had arisen pretty late this morning—6.30. Then she was off again, climbing a ladder to a high platform for another shot with her camera.

An hour later the technicians had performed their tasks, the morning sun had risen to a photogenic height and the burning was ready to begin. Director Victor Fleming took the microphone and instructed the extras slowly: "This is May 30, 1931, and Joan of Arc is going to be burned. You are excited..."

The instructions over, the familiar cry for "Quiet!" was sounded. Four precious color cameras began grinding and "Action!" was ordered. As the cart bearing Joan was drawn through the crowd, each extra gave his $15.56 worth of clamor. A few, with lines, got $22.

CHAPTER 14.

through her whole life being. Chuck loved her, wanted to marry her!

Instantly now, the weight of her dilemna seemed again too heavy to bear. How long would his love continue when fanned by her apparent indifference? There was so many women in the world, so many who would be willing to love him, women who would put themselves in his path.

She hurried out of her damp gown, stinging her senses with cruel insistence. She would put on the silvery blue chiffon that Chuck had once greatly admired. He said she looked like a sweet Madonna in it.

No, she musn't do anything to make him love her any more tonight. She must make her every effort to turn his affection from her. He couldn't go on loving her; it was wicked of her to desire it.

He disliked crimson. She had a crimson velvet gown so boldly cut that she had not liked it after purchasing it, and had never worn it. She would put it on now. It would thoroughly shock Chuck, put the finishing touches to her night's work.

She had given Jinnie the night out. Jinnie had gone to the suburbs to visit her sister. It would be impossible to hook that crimson velvet on her herself. So unfortunately—the crimson velvet gown—was out!

Abruptly, she was filled with self-pity. Tears rolled down her cheeks. She stood hesitantly in the centre of her gold and white dressing-room, knowing that she would not be able to return to that gay party back there in the Comer home.

She must get away—away from Chuck—from Webb. She couldn't face that sympathy and significant glances of the crowd that would result from the fiasco made by her fiance—her revoltingly intoxicated fiance. No! She couldn't see them again tonight.

She flew to her wardrobe, took out her tweed suit and a brown silk blouse. She dressed faster than she had ever dressed before since she could remember. Brown kid walking shoes, a brown felt hat. She crammed her overnight bag with silk underthings, threw in her toilet articles, a lace negligee, mules, pulled the zipper across the top. She gathered up brown gloves, brown handbag.

Now dressed and ready to go, she hesitated. Then she opened her old ivory desk and scribbled a note to Jinnie, telling her not to worry, telling her that she had gone away for a rest. She placed the note prominently beside the little electric clock on the desk's top. Cora—she would write to her later on the train.

She crept carefully out now through the dimly-lighted back hall, down the servants' entrance in the rear. Cautiously she went across the back lawn to the alley and over to the next street.

A taxi came careening around the corner and she waved the driver to a squeeking stop. Breathlessly, she climbed into his car and asked to be taken to the railroad station.

The taxi swung along at breakneck speed. It was around twelve and the nearly deserted streets made swift travel pleasant through the pungent, clear night air.

Several times, Kay was on the point of directing the driver to turn back, but checked that impulse resolutely. She visualized Chuck sitting impatiently in the library or pacing the floor in a fit of angry humilation.

What she made of herself in his eyes tonight seethed through her in a wave of rebellion. Accepting his kisses, his love for one short golden moment, then misrepresenting her love for him. What must he think of her now?

Chuck Nourse at dawn awoke shivering in a deep chair before the dead ashes in the Millstrom fireplace, and wondered where he was. He yawned, stretched his arms wide and came thoroughly awake.

Then immediately he was alarmed. He had been waiting for Kay—last night. Now, it was daylight. What had happened? Where was Kay?

He stumbled to his feet, went out into the front hall, listened for a sign of life in the big lonely house. He did not know that Kay had put all the servants on a half-day schedule, that they worked only afternoons.

The house seemed filled with the deepest of silence. Nothing in it stirred. It was ghostly in the thin morning light.

Chuck dashed upstairs two steps at a time, calling Kay's name. The echo of his voice was the only answer.

He stood stock-still in the upper hall. No servants about—nothing. This was a darned funny piece of business.

He opened the first door he came to, knowing his way about because of his convalescence in this home. This was Kay's suite. Yes—there lying on the floor was the black gown she had worn—as if she had no time to pick it up. He advanced across the room now on tiptoe, his nerves adjusted to any horrible finding.

He went to her bedroom. The bed hadn't been slept in.

The bath? So many tragedies happened in the bathrooms. But it also revealed no secrets.

He was hurrying back through the dressing-room when he discovered the note propped up on Kay's desk. He read it quickly, without scruple? Jinnie? She was, he remembered, the one person in whom Kay might confide.

"Wonder where Jinnie is," he pondered aloud, thrusting the note into his coat pocket.

Kay had gone? Why? What she running from? Was she running—from love? She need not have done that—he would have kept out of her way—he wouldn't have annoyed her. It was all so complicated, so foreign for a sensible girl like Kay to act. What did it mean? Would she eventually return and marry Webb? Or was she running away from him?

Well—he would wait here until Jinnie came in. She was eventually to return, or Kay wouldn't have left the note.

He went thoughtfully downstairs and into the music-room. He could visualize Kay at the piano. It was too much. He couldn't endure it. He went into the front hall just as Jinnie came in through a side entrance.

She drew back in alarm, not expecting to see any man, specially one in rumpled dinner clothes, in this house so early in the day.

"She's— she's gone!" Chuck blurted out. "Kay's gone—left you this message!" He trust the note into her hands. "Read it!" he ordered excitedly, "See if you can make any sense out of it."

Jinnie swiftly read the message. A serene smile replaced the look of alarm on her plain, thin face. She's simply gone away for a time. It's all right. She's been needing a change."

"Then you're not worried about her—you don't think harm will come to her?"

"Young man, you'd better go home and get some sleep. You look as if you'd been up all night. Miss Millstrom is priveleged to go on a trip, isn't she? She's quite able to take care of herself."

Jinnie's tall, gaunt frame drew up rigidly.

He did not think it necessary to inform her that he had slept very well most of the night in this very house. Instead, he felt and acted sheepish.

"I-I see," he stammered. "Thanks—thank you very much, Jinnie."

He rushed out the front door and away in his car, wondering how many more times women would be able to place him in embarrassing positions.

Kay, whirling through the streets in the taxi, had managed to count the bills in her purse. She had twenty-five dollars and her check-book showing a small balance in a Deweyton bank. This would see her through nicely, if she were careful, until her next allowance from Buenos Aires was due.

For three whole weeks she would revel in freedom! Three weeks! Three weeks before she must marry Webb Taylor! No one should discover where she was staying. In fact, at this moment she had no idea where that blessed haven would be.

She soon was hurrying through the station. She came to the ticket windows, laid a bill before the man behind the wicket, saying, "This much train fare, please—without compartment."

He flashed her a glance, hesitated.

She flushed but stood her ground.

"It's—it's sort of dare with myself," she felt compelled to explain.

He grinned in friendly appreciation. "I can just about route you to Kansas City on this amount."

"Fine! I like that town!"

He soon handed her a long strip of green ticket, remarking, "The train should be in the shed now."

"Thank you sir," she said, rushing away.

She followed a redcap to her car. As she tipped him at the door of her compartment, she was inclined to get off this train, retrace her steps home. Before she could thoroughly translate this impulse to action, the train began moving slowly and smoothly out of the shed. There was a lulling element in its motion, and suddenly she was glad she had yielded to the rash resolution to run away.

She began settling herself for the remainder of the night, all at once realizing how tired she was, too tired for the indefiniteness of this trip to worry her. At least, she would be alone; by morning she would be able to concentrate clearly upon her problems. This was nearly impossible to do at home, where there was so much social hubbub. Even when she shut herself up in the house, there were innumerable telephone messages to be answered, mail, all sorts of household arrangements to be met.

Yet when she squarely faced her reason for running away, she was forced to acknowledge that there was only one big reason. That was— Chuck. But surely, this was reason enough. He was the only man she had ever met who merited such attention, the only man whose love could dominate her very existence. And now—

Canadiens Reach Lowest Standing In Many Years

(By The Canadian Press)

The once-mighty Montreal Canadiens reached a new low today for several seasons in the National Hockey League. They were in a tie for fourth place with the New York Rangers.

The Rangers, in the only game played Thursday night, continued to hold their mastery over the Canadiens. Right at Montreal Forum the New Yorkers won by 4-2, for their fourth victory in five starts against Montreal. The other was the 4-4 tie at New York Wednesday.

The Ranger jinx over Montreal was working at full power, with considerable steam added by the veteran Phil Watson, who drove three goals behind Bill Durnan in the Montreal net. Grant Warwick got the other.

The crowd of just under 11,000 at the Forum saw Rangers lead 1-0 after the first period, 4-2 after the second. They had practically nothing to cheer about until Canadiens finally started clicking in the last six minutes of the third frame.

Canadiens by that time were throwing desperate attacks against the New York defence and goalie Sugar Jim Henry. Billy Reay broke the shut-out with a score on passes from Glen Harmon and Bobby Carse, and Maurice Richard got Canadiens' second on Elmer Lach's pass with only about two minutes left.

The Rangers will be at Toronto Saturday night to try their luck against the Leafs, who have a five-point leadership margin over Boston and Detroit. The only other Saturday game has the tail-end Chicago Hawks at Detroit, with all six teams in action Sunday.

Request for Major Loop Recognition Has Been Rejected

New York, Dec. 12. (AP)—Expansion of major league baseball to other territories "is a virtual certainty during our lifetime," a high major league official prophesied today.

That prediction took some of the ache out of the hearts of the members of the Pacific Coast League delegation who started their long journey back home with the sad news that once again their request for major league recognition had been rejected by the major leagues.

In a carefully worded statement yesterday by Walter Mulbry, secretary to Commissioner A. B. Chandler, the majors said they recognized the probability of eventual expansion but that there appeared no minor league which was entitled to such classification at present.

The Coast League requested either unconditional major league status or a rise in classification by increasing the draft price of its players from $10,000 to $25,000 and extending the draft eligibility from four to six years.

Meanwhile a couple of deals that might become important factors in the major league pennant races were completed.

New York Yankees finally came out of their trading lethargy by swapping outfielder Allie Clark to Cleveland Indians for pitcher Charles (Red) Embree.

In the second deal, Philadelphia Phils traded pitcher Tommy Hughes to Cincinnati for outfielder Bert Haas and a player to be delivered by next Spring.

Most important among other business matters discussed at the joint session concerned Cuban baseball. The majors decided to allow some of their players to play winter ball in Cuba during the 1947-48 and 1948-49 seasons. Those who have not played more than 45 days in the majors are eligible, but no more than two from any one team.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Worcester, Mass. — Phil Terranova, 132, New York, knocked out Timothy (Buddy) Hayes, 129 Boston (6).

Pittsburgh — Filberto Osario, 126, Puerto Rico, outpointed Joe Barone, 125, Pittsburgh (10).

Atlantic City — Harold Johnson, 173 1-2, Philadelphia, outpointed Kid Wolfe, 167, Washington (8).

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Phil Watson, New York Rangers who paced the blueshirts to a 4-2 victory over Montreal Canadiens with three goals last night.

Grant Warwick, New York, who scored once and assisted twice against Montreal.

Buddy O'Connor, New York who picked up three assists against Canadiens.

Louis to Retire After Next Fight

New York Dec. 12 (AP) — Joe Louis, who almost a year ago remarked he wanted to retire in 1948, was on record today as saying he plans to call it quits after his return match with Jersey Joe Walcott.

"Lose win, or draw, the fight with Walcott in June is my last" the heavyweight champion told Bronx Home News reporter in an interview.

Louis expressed confidence, however, that he would knock out Walcott the next time.

12 Arabs Killed As Bombs Tossed Into Market Place

British Armored Cars Continually on Prowl

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

Jerusalem, Dec. 13 (AP). — Bombs killed 12 Arabs and wounded 81 in Jerusalem and Jaffa attacks today.

Two anti-personnel bombs were tossed into the teeming Arab market place before Jerusalem's ancient Damascus Gate, killing six Arabs and injuring 41 others.

A bomb tossed from a speeding truck at a coffee house in all-Arab Jaffa killed six more Arabs and injured 40 others.

Outside the old city's gate an Arab mob assaulted a British constable, who was slightly injured, and fired on a Jewish policeman. British armored cars prowled the area.

With the Holy Land's communal fighting in its 14th consecutive day, the Arab communities counted 97 dead; the Jews, 104. In addition, six Britons, two Armenians and one Mauritian soldier have been slain. Deaths in all the Middle East have totalled 326.

Eye-witnesses at Jaffa said the bomb was thrown from an army truck driven by Jews who entered from the direction of all-Jewish Tel Aviv. The explosive wrecked the coffee house, and damaged an Arax taxi company and the Alhambra motion picture theatre.

In Jerusalem's old city police fired machine-guns over the heads of a milling Arab crowd after the explosions. Witnesses said the bombs came from two Jewish taxis. The blast damaged two buses. Two of the Jerusalem dead were women.

Police said the taxi from which the bomb was hurled escaped through winding streets after engaging a police car in a gun battle. The fleeing occupants dropped a flash bomb and sped off.

The taxi later was found abandoned in the Jewish quarter.

The Jerusalem district police chief, George Haddingham, said the "bomb was thrown right into a big crowd of Arabs waiting for buses and that at least 30 were hauled off to hospitals."

Tension mounted steadily in the Damascus Gate area as news spread through the Arab quarters of the attack and Arabs swarmed to the scene.

Associated Press photographer James Pringle who was at the scene of the explosion said that b mobs had gathered in

GOVT. RECOVERS $478 MILLION ON WAR CONTRACTS

Loses $90 Fight With Petrillo, Boss of the Musicians' Union

Ottawa, Dec. 13 (CP). — The government did a little re-negotiating—and recovered $478,851,221 from scores of war supply contractors. But it lost a $90 fight with James C. (Little Caesar) Petrillo.

A paragraph deep in the bulky 1946-47 public accounts tabled in the Commons yesterday relates how the National Film Board coughed up $90—apparently for no reason other than that Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians (A.F.L.) laid down the law.

The money went to a standby orchestra conductor. Here's the story as Auditor-General Watson Sellar reported it:

"The Film Board contracted with a producer for sound recordings for certain films. The contract covered the services of the members of the orchestra and a conductor. The music for the production, 'Occupational Therapy', was written by a member of the Board staff, and the orchestra was conducted by him."

But the conductor, a member of the A.F.M., was not a member of the Union Local at the point of recording, and the union "required a standby".

"Therefore, the Board paid (1) the conductor's fee as included in the contract price of $2,630; (b) the charge of $90 for a st conductor, salary ing."

YEAR-LONG PRICE CONTROL MEASURE BEATEN IN HOUSE

Present Session Will Adjourn Friday Night

Ottawa, Dec. 13. (CP)—The government, seeking extension of its rent and price control powers until March 31, was placed in the position in the Commons yesterday of having to vote against an opposition motion that would have prolonged the extension to December 31, 1948.

The C.C.F. Party backing up its requests for re-imposition of wartime controls on prices, introduced an amendment to a resolution that would extend from Dec. 31 to March 31 the government's powers under the Transitional Powers Act. Under the amendment the act would have been extended to the end of next December.

Justice Minister Ilsley, speaking before the House defeated the amendment 129 to 24, said he felt he would have to oppose it. He considered it a compliment that an opposition party should have sufficient confidence in the government to leave to it the power to decide what controls should be retained and what controls should be relinquished.

While the government had no intention of allowing all controls to lapse March 31, it was not yet in a position to decide what controls should be extended beyond that date. The decision would be made between now and the expiry date.

C.C.F. Leader Coldwell said the amendment had been moved because Finance Minister Abbott had given an emphatic "No" to a consumer's delegation which earlier in the day had urged reimposition of controls.

Mr. Abbott said he had told the delegation the same thing as he had told Commons earlier in the week—that no over-all price control policy could be enforced in peacetime unless the people were ready to accept over-all control by the government of the country's economy. He had held out no hope to the delegation that over-all price control would be re-instituted.

Appeal Rejected

Although all parties through their leaders, have indicated their willingness to support extension of the government's powers to the end of the fiscal year, an appeal for passage of the legislation before the weekend adjournment was rejected.

King George to Spend 52nd Birthday Quietly At Home With Family

London, Dec. 13. (CP)—The King will be 52 tomorrow and like most family men he has chosen to spend his birthday quietly at the fireside with his wife, daughter and household dogs.

At the Royal Lodge, an unpretentious mansion in Windsor, the King, Queen and Princess Margaret will enjoy the simply furnished lounge.

Later Queen Mother Mary will join the family circle at a small birthday dinner at which roast beef or chicken, the King's favorite dishes, will be served. The return of Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, from their honeymoon in Scotland will make the day complete.

Officially, the King's birthday will not be celebrated until next June when as customary it will be marked with the triumphal glitter of the trooping-of-the-color parade by the brigade of guards.

Only last Thursday the King passed the 11th anniversary of his succession to the throne and friends remarked how little he had changed during the years of his reign.

Apart from greying hair and certain tiredness around the eyes, he retains much of his youthful appearance. He still has his boyish figure, abundant energy and a clear, healthy complexion.

Recently he has taken to wearing glasses for reading. Among the papers on his wide-topped mahogany desk at Buckingham Palace is the first draft of his Christmas Day broadcast which he will rewrite many times before going on the air.

The King's attitude towards the broadcast has changed considerably since his Coronation in 1937. Then he hated and dreaded the ordeal. But so gallantly has he overcome his former hesitancy in his speech that friends say he now is enthusiastic over the annual talk to the Commonwealth.

Of late the King's duties followed much their usual pattern. Desk work occupied his attention each morning from 9 a.m. until noon and part of the afternoon. In addition world events, Empire problems, home politics and various functions all had their place in the royal program.

Infants' Deaths Remain Mystery

Brantford, Dec. 13 (CP). — Deaths of two infant sisters from fractured skulls remained a mystery today after a coroner's jury brought in a verdict of death by a fractured skull "caused by means unknown to us" in the death on Aug. 25, 1946 of seven-months-old Betty Anne Draper.

The baby's body was ordered exhumed Oct. 29 after her new sister, five-weeks-old Nancy Carol died of a fractured skull on Oct. 24. An autopsy prompted last night's four-hour inquest.

Both parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Draper, denied on the witness stand any knowledge of how the infants had been injured.

The father testified Betty Anne had been recovering from whooping cough in the summer of 1946 when she became ill again. He said he spanked her to start her breathing again when she took a bad spell while he was taking her on a walk.

As for Nancy Carol, the baby had seemed in fairly good health but cried a great deal.

To further questioning he replied he married Mary Smith on Nov. 1, 1943 and that Betty Anne was born at Galt on Jan. 31, 1946. Later the couple moved to Brantford.

15,800 Firms Manufacturing In Province

Lindsay, Dec. 13. (CP)—Ontario now has more than 15,800 established manufacturing firms employing over 600,000 persons, Provincial Treasurer Frost told the Lindsay Canadian Club last night in a speech on Ontario's position in Canada's trade and commerce.

He said the gross value of goods manufactured by these firms was between $4,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000, 51 per cent of Canada's total.

Mr. Frost estimated the population of Ontario which he referred to as one of the great cornerstones of confederation, at 4,200,000 and an increase of 500,000 since 1939.

The use of electric power in the province is twice as much per capita as the quantity used in United States, Mr. Frost said, and four times as much as that used in Great Britain per capita.

Sharison said Ward became a leading actor in Mexico, appearing in two American films made there, including "The Fugitive".

48-HOUR STRIKE BY ITALIAN REDS ENDED IN ROME

Government and Reds Both Claim Victory

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT

Rome, Dec. 13 (AP)—A 48-hour Communist-led general strike in Rome, latest skirmish in the left's unceasing war against Italy's middle-of-the-road cabinet, ended today after a steely show of government might. Both sides claimed victory.

The Communist - dominated Chamber of Labor of Rome Province, which ordered the work stoppage Wednesday night and called it off last night, effective at midnight, used only one word in its daily news bulletin this morning: "Victory."

Il Popolo, organ of Premier De Gasperi's Christian Democrat party, declared just as flatly in a secretly set and printed issue timed to appear as the strike ended: "Strike fails."

Giuseppe Di Vittorio, Communist secretary-general of the National Labor Confederation, who helped negotiate the end of the work stoppage, told 120 union leaders who endorsed the Chamber's strike-ending vote, the victory was "brilliant."

A Chamber of Labor communique said appropriations by the city of Rome and Rome province, added to what the national government already had offered for winter relief for the unemployed, satisfied its demands.

Resentment in Rome Against Strike

Observers said they believed growing resentment of Rome's citizens against the strike, which crippled all but railroads and essential services, may have influenced the chamber's decision.

In an interview later Di Vittorio said the work stoppage served a useful purpose in obtaining immediate public works appropriations to relieve widespread unemployment and in focusing national attention on the plight of an estimated 1,300,000 jobless.

De Gasperi, on the other hand, declared that large-scale public works projects already were in the mill and told reporters that the agreement which ended the strike could have been reached before it began.

Even before the official end of the strike, thousands of workers defied the leaders and went back to their jobs under the protection of 67,000 police, strongest such force ever assembled in Rome.

Labor leaders were frank to admit that the efficiency of Interior Minister Mario Scelba's security precautions surprised them.

London, Ont., Dec. 13 (CP).—A vendor, who moved a small house on historic Covent Garden Market on the edge of the shopping district, has officials pondering this first major violation in a longtime of the market bylaw. The vendor also violated a regulation prohibiting movement of houses without a permit.

3 Gunmen Shoot, Kill Three Men, Wound Two Others

One Slain by the Police And a Second One Seized

Chicago, Dec. 13—(AP)—Three gunmen, described by police as "mad dog killers," went on a shooting rampage last night and early today, shot and killed three men and wounded two others before one of the gunmen was slain by police and a second was seized.

Bodies of two of the victims of the gang's shooting spree were found in western suburbs early today, about 10 hours after the trio had slain one man in a south side garage and abducted four men.

Two others who had been taken on the "gang ride" had been shot and wounded and also dumped into a highway in suburban Brookfield. However, one man, not seriously wounded, telephoned police.

The four had been kidnapped at the south side garage of Nick Kuesis, 40, after the gunmen had fatally shot Nick's brother, John, 33, owner of a used furniture store.

Kuesis's slayer was identified by police as Tom Daley, 42, an ex-convict, who was slain by a squad of detectives early today as he attempted to flee from a west side apartment. His slaying followed the seizure of one of his companions.

The companion, seized as he entered a west side hotel where he was spending his honeymoon with his bride of 10 days, was identified as Lowell Fentress, 19. Police said Fentress told them the third man in the gang and driver of the car was James Morelli, 19.

Fentress, in calmly relating details of the shooting, described Daley as being "wild, crazy drunk" at the time.

Daley's companion told police that after shooting John Kuesis and abducting four men in the garage they drove to Brookfield where they shot John Kuesis' brother, Nick, and Frank Baker, 17, and pushed them from the car.

Nick, not seriously wounded, telephoned police.

Police said John Kuesis, father of five children, had beaten Daley recently and that they had been on unfriendly terms for the last several weeks after Kuesis had appeared as a witness against Daley during his trial on a robbery charge.

WIFE DIVORCES HER "PRIVATE EYE" HUSBAND

San Jose, Calif., Dec. 13 (AP)—Eunice Moulton was granted a divorce yesterday after charging that her "private eye" husband, raham (I spy) Moulton, had beaten her and called her vile names. Mrs. Moulton had helped her husband rig hidden listening devices and peek over boudoir transoms during his regular work of investigation in connection with other persons' divorces.

Lewis' Move Seen as Sign He Intends To Play Independent Part in Election

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP) — John L. Lewis has divorced his 600,000 miners from the American Federation of Labor again in a move viewed by some labor men today as a sign that he intends to play an independent part in the 1948 presidential election.

The second split between the United Mine Workers and the American Federation of Labor came 11 years after Lewis first marched them out of the parent body and less than two years after he marched them in again. It was no surprise.

The 67-year-old Lewis has had his hat in his hand ever since the last A.F.L. convention, when the executive council refused to go along with him in an all-out fight against the non-Communist provision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The formal break came last night with a typical Lewis gesture of contempt.

"Green A.F.L.—We disaffiliate. 12/12/47."

These words, scrawled in green crayon on a torn-off half sheet of cheap paper, were all the notice Lewis sent President William Green of the A.F.L.

While other union officials declined to be quoted off-hand, several said a desire by Lewis for political independence next year probably hastened the end.

In view of his strained relations with other A.F.L. leaders, they said it was likely that he did not want to be committed to whatever political role may be played by the new A.F.L. "Labor's Educational and Political League."

Lewis had exhibited his political independence before. He broke with the committee for industrial organization in 1940 when the C.I.O. plumped for President Roosevelt against his wishes.

The miners, after 46 years with the A.F.L., had joined the C.I.O. in 1936 during the great split between proponents of craft and industrial type unions which Lewis himself brought about.

The miners came back to the A.F.L. in January, 1946, and Lewis was promptly elected to the 15-member executive council.

He quit the council at the October convention in San Francisco when the members voted to change the constitution so that they would not be "officers" of the A.F.L. within the meaning of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Thus they got around the requirement that all officers of a union must sign the non-Communist pledge if its affiliates are to have any standing with the National Labor Relations Board.

Although strongly anti-Communist himself, Lewis was furious at this knuckling under to a law he wanted to fight all the way.

FEDERAL TREASURY REPORTS SURPLUS OF $572,916,120

Expected Some Cuts Will be Made in the Income Tax

Ottawa, Dec. 13 — (CP)—Amid opposition demands in parliament for reductions in Canadian taxation, the Federal Treasury today reported a surplus of $572,916,120 for the first eight months of the current fiscal year, $388,796,424 above the surplus for the same period of 1946.

In the monthly statement of receipts and disbursements, the comptroller of the Treasury showed that from April 1, 1947 to Nov. 30 this year, revenues amounted to $1,826,183,491 and expenditures to $1,253,267,371. In the same eight-month period last year total revenues were $1,797,699,248 and expenditures $1,613,579,552.

The surplus was $31,242,880 above that reported by the treasury at Oct. 31 and its continued increase has led to renewed demands in parliament for heavy cuts in income taxes in the next budget, but at the end of the fiscal year, March 31. Speculation in Ottawa is that such cuts will be made, but finance department officials have remained silent on just what steps will be taken.

Canada's federal treasury surplus at the end of the 1946-47 fiscal year was $352,000,000. Since the present surplus is more than $220,000,000 ahead of that figure with four months of the financial year yet to run, observers predict the 1947-48 surplus will be the biggest in history barring unforeseen circumstances.

However, it is expected that even under normal conditions, revenues will drop and expenditures will increase from now until the end of the fiscal year. This is the usual trend for the latter part of the year when tax cuts made in the previous budget begin to make themselves felt.

Alert Police Quickly Recover Stolen Cheese

Prompt work on the part of the Belleville Police Department this morning recovered four 90-pound cheese stolen earlier in the night from the Selby Cheese Factory north of Napanee.

Working only on a meagre description of the car seen leaving the cheese factory, local police stopped the car on Dundas Street and when the four cheese were discovered in the car, the driver, Matthew Kolbuc, Erie Street, St. Catharines, was arrested.

When the break-in at the Selby factory was discovered Provincial Police at Napanee were notified with the description of the car being given to police in outlying centres. The only description given was that it was a coupe with shielded headlights.

On notification of the break-in from Napanee, Police Sgt. George Westlake and Constables Reid and Foster checked cars coming into the city from the east with result that two cars travelling together were stopped and the occupants held. In the second car were Joseph Leyzac, Dundas St., West, Toronto, and John Dynan, Shaw St., Toronto. Leyzac has no ownership card for the car he was driving so he and Dynan were held for investigation.

FAILURE TO STOP INVOLVES THREE CARS

Failure of a motorist to stop at a "stop" street resulted in a three-car collision at the corner of Yeomans and Bridge Street this morning. No one was injured in the accident.

James P. Ray, R.R. 5, Belleville was driving south on Yeomans Street when he failed to stop before entering Bridge and crashed into a westbound car driven by Wallace Lindsay, R. R. 2 Belleville. The impact spun the Lindsay car around causing it to strike a car parked on the south side of the street and owned by Theodore Roblin, R. R. 1 Belleville.

The Ray car was damaged about the grill and headlights while the Lindsay car had the right rear fender crushed. Both rear fenders of the Roblin car were crushed.

Solar 'Explosion' 1,000,000 Miles High Observed

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—A recording-breaking solar "explosion" which drove flaming, gaseous material more than 1,000,000 miles above the sun's surface was reported today by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The titanic solar "prominence" which makes the mushrooming cloud from an atom bomb the merest puff by comparison, was photographed at Carnegie's Mt. Wilson observatory more than a year ago.

Measurements which established its altitude at 1,064,185 miles were completed only recently, the institution's annual report said.

Other news of the sun's activity included a finding that sunspot disturbances in May, 1947, were the most violent for any month since May, 1778. Sun spots are cyclonic storms on the sun, rather than explosions.

The others were injured in a head-on collision on Hogg's Hollow hill, just north of the city limits.

Catalouging of Prime Minister King's Correspondence Big Task for Girl

Ottawa, Dec. 13. (CP)—In a small, high-ceilinged room deep in the heart of the public archives, a dark-haired girl sits at a desk buried in a mass of correspondence.

Hundreds of letters jam the filing-cabinet which surrounds Jacqueline Cote, of Kapuskating, Ont., and many are stacked in folders on th efloor. All these and more must be examined before the 24-year-old Queen's University graduate has finshed the task she began a year ago of assisting in the cataloguing of the historic documents in the prime minister's office.

Born in Amos, Que., the slender French-Canadian Miss spends anywhere from eight to nine hours a day in the red-carpeted room, the walls of which are hung with pictures of some if the great names in Canadian history.

As for entertainment afterhours, she sets aside at least two evenings a week to go swimming in a city pool.

Under the direction of F. W. Gibson, former lecturer at Queen's University, Kingston, Miss Cote has been working for the past 12 months on the prime minister's correspondence of the 1920's Reticent when it comes to discussing the job in any detail, she says nevertheless that she is finding the work "very interesting."

Perhaps the fact Jacqueline Cote majored in history, and acquired more than 14 scholarships during her college career, has something to do with the reason she was chosen to help arrange this correspondence which probably contains some of the most significant documents of modern Canadian history.

When she graduated last year she took along with her the Prince of Wales prize, most important award which Queen's can offer its senior students in Arts.

History has always interested Miss Cote, and that is why she chose to become a specialist in the subject. I feel it is pertinent to present-day living," she says.

Once her work in the Capital is finished she plans on returning to Queen's for a Master of Arts degree. But just when that will be she isn't sure. At the present time it is hard to guage how long it will be before the cataloguing of the prime minister's correspondence is completed.

GOVT. RECOVERS

Another $4,627,491 in "excessive" war contracts still is outstanding. Ten contractors, if they contest the government's demand for that sum, have recourse to the Exchequer Courtr.

Under law, the Reconstruction Minister may order refund to the crown when he is satisfied the total paid a war supply contractor is in "excess of fair and reasonable cost of performance and of reasonable profit." The vast majority of the 7,176 whose contracts were reviewed did not fall into that category, the report showed.

It added that the $478,851,221 demanded — and received —by the government was not a "revenue windfall" because most of it would have been paid in taxes.

The Dominion's total revenue in the 1946-47 fiscal year— $3,007,900,000 — was the second largest in Canadian history, exceeded only by the $3,013,200,000 in 1945-46. Fifty eight per cent of tax revenue was from direct taxation, $607,500,000 of it from personal income tax.

Other figures: Corporation income tax and excess profits tax $644,500,000; excise tax, $579,024,000; sales tax $328,073,000.

Demobilization and reconstruction costs accounted for $1,314,800,000 or 49 per cent of the total expenditure. War service gratuities and re-establishment credits totalled $318,300,000 post-discharge rehabilitation benefits $96,800,000 and medical treatment and pensions for Second World War veterans $84,700,000.

Family allowances amounted to $245,100,000. Subsidies and compensations to the provinces under taxation agreements totalled $108,200,000.

Other points in the report:

Fines amounting to $857,170 were collected for infractions of Prices Board regulations.

Five by-elections in 1946-47 cost $52,658.

Whisky Watered In Liquor Store Chairman States

Toronto, Dec. 13 (CP) —Several employees of the Ontario Liquor Control Board's store at Waterloo, Ont., have "been permitted to resign from the service" after they had been discovered watering bottles of whisky, Col. William Griesinger, chairman of the board, said last night.

He added: "Our investigation is not yet finished but there is no doubt about what was taking place. The seals were soaked off the bottles, part of the contents removed and water substituted. Then the seals were replaced. We received a number of complaints from citizens in the Waterloo area and inspectors were sent to investigate."

Tests of bottles removed from the Waterloo store showed a greatly lowered alcoholic content.

"We don't know whether these employees consumed the liquor themselves or disposed of it for gain," said the chairman. "I am inclined to think they drank it. They have resigned and their places have been filled by other employees."

Col. Grisinger said the Board had no intention of taking proceedings against the employees involved. "I think we caught this tampering before it had gone very far," he said.

The Board was expected to issue a report next week giving details of the incident the number of bottles tampered with.

CACHE OF OLD COINS FOUND

Munich, Dec. 13 (AP)—Bavarian police announced today discovery of a cache of old gold and silver coins they said they believed were tucked away by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Hitler's deputy.

The coins—about 6,000 marks in gold and 1,000 marks in silver —were dug up at Auerbach, near the site of one of Goering's homes. Police turned the find over to the United States military government.

(The mark was worth 40 cents at the pre-war rate of exchange).

Father on the Farm

'You Can't Work if You Don't Eat'

By KENNETH C. CRAGG

Father was always a good feeder.

"You can't work if you don't eat," he would say with reasonable logic and urge another helping—guest or hired man, it didn't matter.

He had a deep distrust of a finicky appetite and, while he could and sometimes did ignore pain that would prostrate another man, any loss of appetite would put him in a state marked by sighing and vague references to events after he was gone.

Inquiries about his health on such occasions would bring what mother called "his brave look" and 'I guess I'm a bit off my feed."

He would still be able to eat for breakfast a brimming bowl of oatmeal, an egg or two, and two or three thick slices of bread.

"I managed to choke it down," he would say.

Broke Table Rule Once

There was one rule on the farm, no one was to be turned from the door at meal time. And it was kept, too, except once, and although there was ample provocation father always felt a little uncomfortable about it. It went against his grain.

But mother's' conscience remained serene. They were rascals, weren't they? City rascals at that, both of them. So why should they be fed? To her it was as simple as that.

The pair were real estate fly-by-nighters, rascals, because they wanted to trade off a ridiculously over-valued double house in a broken down section of a Toronto slum street for "the other places"—the hundred acres that lay alongside the home farm. They hadn't counted on father getting a quick check on their slum property. True, a distant neighbor tried to deal off cemetery lots on father for the same farm, but in his case it was slightly different.

For one thing he wasn't an outsider and he had been stuck with the cemetery lots himself. Another, it had always been whispered that he drove a hard bargain, which might mean anything from being slightly tight-fisted to concealing stones in a load of hay until it was weighed, and throwing them away before it was delivered at the manse to feed the preacher's horse.

Father claimed that to be skinned by an outsider was bad, but to be bested by a neighbor was worse. "You ought to have sense enough to know your neighbors," father claimed. As a matter of fact, it was the code not to skin a neighbor. To deal something off on him in a friendly trade—like a spavined horse—was all ri[illegible] money off him anyhow, was bad.

He Was Good Provider

Anyway, father was hospitable and a good provider. He might go to court with his neighbor over a line fence, but if he came around at meal time he would ask him in. And mother set a good table at a time and in an area noted for good eating, even if some farm women did lean a little heavily, in father's opinion, to fancy cooking.

Some had favorite cooks and favorite places to eat, just as every man got to know as surely as his own name which were the best places to thresh. Women strove to get a name for good cooking and it was always interesting to watch where the implement agent and such always managed to wind up at dinner time.

In those days the big custom thresher went into a neighborhood and usually cleaned out one barn after another. Before threshing started any experienced man could predict what kind of food he was going to get at every house.

There was never any question but what he would get enough, and enough meant plenty. Nobody picked at his food when he had started to work as soon as it was light enough to see in the mow, stopped one hour at noon and threshed again until it was too dark to see the sheaves.

Oh, some men sometimes did get pickey, but that was from too much smut or rust in their stomachs, and not the fault of the farmer's wife. Threshers usually blamed her husband, sometimes unfairly, and cussed him as they heaved and sputtered, and sometimes threw up at the side of the barn dump.

At some places the men knew that the housewife would have prepared for the event by buying a large quantity of "threshing meat" and boiling it, and at some there would be a big tender roasts. He knew who made the best apple pies, or rather the few who made poor ones, because most were the best—the lightest biscuits and the richest preserves.

Hunger Cures Most Faults

They also knew that they wouldn't get bad food and even if the threshing meat was a bit tough or tasteless, hunger would cure most of its faults. There were some even who put down a few well remembered threshing meals as the best in their lives—better even than Christmas dinners, although Christmas dinner, being special, made comparisons unfair.

Some liked to talk about the hot fowl suppers in the church basement, and they had their points, too, what with the weather coming sharp. But father did not follow the ruck. He had a special. He used to say that if there was anything better than properly baked beans for supper after a day in the bush cutting wood or getting out saw-logs, he would like to know.

He used to say that after a spell in the woods he wouldn't trade the best meal in the King Edward for beans, flavored with molasses, an onion, a touch of mustard, and a ham bone or a well-smoked hog jowl.

It seemed with father he always associated his best eating with an axe or a crosscut saw. On such occasions he was also partial to soup made from whole home-canned tomatoes, slightly thickened and pale with rich milk or scalloped potatoes layered in their baking dish with slices of onion and bits of ham. Unquestionably, he had something.

Father had a hearty contempt for the plain food school: "Now, don't mind me. Don't go to a bit of bother—just a piece of bread and meat and potatoes", and was equally critical of the pickle, pie and cake eaters. Actually his style ran to plain food with gimp in it.

Public Relations Policy Good

He lost mother the presidency of the Ladies' Aid one year by referring loudly and in the open to the 'blamed truck" women made for their teas, forgetting that each member had given her all (particularly the women running for office) in slaving for a couple of days ahead to produce cakes, brown, white and yellow, in layers and out, and pastries hot and cold for presentation in a competition that was as hot as fresh-baked spareribs.

Mother didn't speak to him for a day, which showed great restraint on her part. When she did open up it was at considerable length about the shame to which she was exposed in the church and throughout the whole community, her mental, agony and the cruelty of such a selfish remark. She summed it up: "It wasn't as if I hadn't catered enough to you at home."

In the end mother started a new faction in the Ladies' Aid that pretty nearly spit the church in two and drove the preacher's wife into a prolonged spell of ill health. It might have been called the "sit down to tables or pass-around" controversy. Before it was over the executive of the Ladies' Aid had resigned and mother was elected president to finish out the year.

"But it was no thanks to you," she told father.

Probably his most noted dinner was one he didn't know about and he just barely missed being unaware of his supper. It happened in haying time. Two loads had been brought in during the morning before it started to spit rain. Father, if anything, was consistent, so, sure enough, he looked at the clouds, ventured it would only be a passing shower and guessed we'd get in just another load.

Shower Became Downpour

But it wasn't a passing shower and that became obvious shortly after he'd hooked onto the hay loader. It started to rain harder, so father put the horses lickety split down the windrow and the hay tumbled like a cataract from the loader. He leaped around the wagon, piling it on which way, and when there was a tall heap on the back of the rack, the wagon hit a furrow.

Father staggered, tried to recover and went sliding over the side head first, landing seemingly on his shoulders and the back of his neck. He said he wasn't hurt, unhooked the loader, drove the horses at a jog trot through the rain to the barn, unhitched, stabled and unharnessed them. It was still before noon.

Just as father was sitting down to supper that night he suddenly looked queer and said:

"Where am I?"

No one noticed him for a moment, but he got lots of attention when he announced the last thing he remembered was going out to get the load of hay.

No, he didn't remember going to town. He didn't remember bringing home the barrel churn mother had been wanting for a year to replace her old dasher. He had to be shown.

"Well," said he. "I always intended to get that barrel churn."

It put quite a test on mother. Facts were facts. She had a new churn, the metal parts trimmed with gold paint and the oak staves of the barrel bright with green stain.

She wanted to be pleased, but couldn't quite make the grade.

'It isn't as if he bought it when he was right in the head," she wailed.

SWING FILLS THE BILL

Toronto, Dec. 13 — (CP)—Just because the younger generation is addicted to swing music does not mean it's all washed up, says Leslie Bell, director of music for the Ontario Department of Education. He told a parent-teachers meeting last night that the youngsters as always, "cling to something novel which gives them a chance to express themselves physically, and modern swing fills the bill."

20 Die When U.S. Army Plane Explodes, Crashes

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 13 (AP)—A United States army C-47 plane burst into flames with a flash seen two miles away and crashed into an open hillside near here shortly after dark Thursday, killing at least 20 persons and possibly 21.

The big craft slashed through a small wooded area within two miles of the Memphis Municipal airport and twisted into a sage field, scattering bodies and wreckage over a quarter-mile path.

Small trees were torn down. In one, a half-open parachute dangled. Twisted masses of metal hung on other limbs and dotted the ground.

Col. Donald F. Fargo, commanding officer of the 468th air forces base unit, announced the toll as 20 and said another body possibly was in the wreckage.

G. V. White said he saw the plane explode and burst into flames from his home two miles away.

"It wasn't more than two seconds before it hit the ground," he said.

MayHeatHighway With Hot Water To Prevent Icing

Portland, Ore., Dec. 13 (AP)—A highway heated by hot water is proposed by the Oregon State Highway Commission.

The project, on which bids probably will be called later this month, involves a 510-foot section of the Malin highway on the east edge of Klamath Falls—an extension of that city's main street.

Natural hot water wells in the area would be tapped to pipe hot water through the pavement and prevent it from icing in the winter.

Mail Early for Christmas

This is the time of year when a little co-operation will do a great favor and add to the pleasures of many. As there is to be no Christmas Day delivery of mail, parcels and letters and cards will have to be sent to their destinations sufficiently long before the festal day to assure delivery.

For instance letters posted at Belleville must be in the mail before December 15th in order to reach British Columbia. For Alberta and Saskatchewan mail must be posted before December 16th and for the Maritimes postal parcels, cards and letters must go forward before December 17th. To Quebec and Ontario outside Belleville the mail must be posted by December 18th. In Belleville itself there is no guarantee that mail posted after December 19th will have been delivered by Christmas Eve.

People have opportunity to render a real help and to assure delivery of mail in time if they will go one better than the dates laid out above as the last dates possible for mailing., With the heavy mass of correspondence and special holiday mail going out at this season, even the greatly enlarged staffs cannot be expected to cope with the deluge in a few days before the greatest of holidays.

The task that falls to the postal authorities is one of the heaviest tasks falling to anybody at the Christmas season.

The senders can assure themselves that the letters and other mail will reach their destination in time if they will just take it by the forelock and mail even earlier than the recommended dates. It will cause the sender no inconvenience to do so and it will leave him or her more time for other duties in preparation for the festival.

It is also recommended that persons mailing letters and cards for this city should place local letters in one packet and marked for the 'City of Belleville' delivery and the other for outside delivery in a packet marked 'Forward Mail,' which means that the packet encloses letters and other mail for out of town, to be sent to other post offices.

In connection with Christmas cards, it is noteworthy that if the envelope is unsealed the card must contain not more than five words besides the signature if the letter is to go for a one-cent stamp.

The post office authorities here and in every part of Canada are making every effort to satisfy the demands of the time but late posting or mailing can place such a burden on the hard-worked staffs that they will not be able to make up for time lost by the senders through tardy posting. These staffs work very strenuously at Christmas and everyone should ponder, "In what way shall I be able to help and not overload them with work at this time."

Ready for Olympics

In the rush preparatory for departure for the Olympics in Europe Barbara Ann Scott was putting in at least five hours a day on skates in preparation for the defence of her titles. At this weekend she leaves for England by plane and thence will go to the Continent.

Canadians will feel a thrill such as this young artist on skates feels as she goes to the defence of her European and World championships and to the Olympics. They have followed her brilliant career and wish her every success in the competitions in which she will engage.

She has had ever since she could skate a dream of going into the Olympics. Now that time is very near. That she will give at St. Moritz in Switzerland a perfect demonstration of her ability as a skater her friends in Canada realize.

Even when she arrives in Europe she will go into intensive training at Davos, Switzerland, in order to accustom herself to the higher altitude and to the open air rinks of the European competitions.

Refundable Portion

Many hundreds of thousands remember that during war days in the latter part of 1942 there was collected what was known as the refundable portion of the income tax payments made for that year. To most people these were known as "forced" savings. This tax was continued through 1943 and for the first half of 1944.

Well, the time for the 1942 repayment grows near. In the Revenue Department at Ottawa there is piling up a vast number of cheques to be sent out to those entitled to refund. That refund will amount to no less a figure than $59,608,000. On the last day of March 1948 these cheques will be dropped into the mails, going out to 1,329,139 Canadians.

This money will be welcome to these Canadians. What they will receive has been figured out on the average, but every one knows what he or she paid in to this purpose.

The average married man who earned between $1,200 and $1,500 in 1942 will receive a $16 refund in the late March mail.

Other refunds will run:
$22 between $1,500 and $2,000;
$53 between $2,000 and $2,500;
$70 between $2,500 and $3,000;
$100 between $3,000 and $5,000;
$225 for over $5,000.

For single taxpayers the refunds will average:
$20 under $1,000;
$38 between $1,000 and $1,500;
$52 between $1,500 and $2,000;
$63 between $2,000 and $2,500;
$73 between $2,500 and $3,000;
$86 between $3,000 and $5,000;
$237 over $5,000.

Air Survey of Colonial Empire

Britain's Colonial Empire is being surveyed by aerial photography. Part was photographed in 1946. In the present year 300,000 square miles have been or are being photographed in East, Central and South Africa, and similar work is going on in Malaya, North Borneo and Sarawak.

Britain's vast Colonial Empire covers 2,215,000 square miles, an area which will take years to map.

Accurate mapping is a prelude to the organized development of any country. By aerial photography the world is getting something new, which the explorers of old could not furnish.

Pictures are taken from a height of 15,000 feet above ground level. Photographs are so made that draughtsmen can "weld" them into a complete map of a whole area. Radar is used in connection with the work. Besides information for mapping the country, there is secured data on geology, forestry and agricultural conditions and there is information gathered which may go to solve mineral and oil possibilities, to show the outlook for coal, for groundnuts, and to provide data for study of soil erosion and for resettlement of tribes away from eroded localities into areas where they may become self-sustaining.

A-Energy Exhibition

Travelling through Britain on a six months tour and housed in two railroad coaches, has been an atomic energy exhibition which has been organized by almost all U.K. scientists who took part in the development of atomic energy during the war.

The first part of the exhibition deals with the basic principles of atomic energy, illustrated by charts, photographs and working models. Among the matters shown are detection and production of radio-elements, detection of fission impulses and the principles of isotope separation. For example members of the public are able to ring a piece of uranium to a detector and observe the effect of the radiations sent out. In the second part the applications of atomic energy are shown with models illustrating the chain reaction in uranium and the principles of separating isotopes and atomic energy piles. There is mention of the relation of atomic energy to medicine and biological science. An ordinary element is bombarded with neutrons after which it will be shown to be radio-active. The tour will last until April.

Russia and the United Kingdom will resume trade talks shortly. The Ottawa Journal remarks that "even the smallest inclination to compromise on the part of the Soviet Union is now looked on as a good omen."

It is the time now to count the days to the coming feast of Christmas for the days move swiftly by at this season.

ELUSIVE GLASSES

Of all the world's elusive things,
I'm sure my glasses head the list.
High search for them each morning brings;
At evening they again are missed.

Now since they've neither legs nor wings
And cannot run or fly away,
I hold, as all man-fashioned things,
Where they are left they ought to stay.

"Nobody touches them," I'm told.
The women say the fault is mine,
And hint that I am getting old,
Which is a woman's favorite line.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What does "Pittsburg plus" mean?

"Pittsburgh plus" is applied to a system, formerly practiced by the steel industry, under which the price of steel products at any point in the United States was the Pittsburgh price plus the freight from Pittsburgh to the point where the products were purchased. In other words, plants outside Pittsburgh charged the Pittsburgh base price plus an amount equivalent to what the railroad freight charge on the products would be from Pittsburgh to the consumer if such products were actually shipped from Pittsburgh.

Suppose a man living in Houston were to buy a ton of steel from a plant in Gary and further suppose that the price of such steel at Pittsburgh were $30. Under the Pittsburgh plus plan the ton of steel would cost the customer $30 plus what the freight from Pittsburgh to Houston would be, notwithstanding the fact that the steel did not come from Pittsburgh. The actual freight from Gary to Houston would be paid by the steel company. In 1942 the Federal Trade Commission ordered the United Steel Corporation and its subsidiary companies to discontinue the Pittsburgh plus system on the ground that it was an unfair method of competition and in violation of several Federal statutes.

Where is Lake Chargoggagoggmonchauggagoggchaubunagungamaug?

That is the name of a beautiful body of water lying within the limits of Webster, Mass., and near the Connecticut line. It has an area of almost two square miles and is noted chiefly for its unusual name, which is believed to be a combination of the names of three Algonquin Indian villages that once stood on the shores of the lake, with a termination meaning "fishing place at the boundary" thrown in for good measure.

The lake has three divisions, upper, middle and lower, and according to a popular story two Indian tribes living on opposite ends of the lake had a long dispute as to which tribe had the right to fish in the middle section. Finally they framed a treaty providing that each tribe had exclusive fishing rights in its own end of the lake, but neither had the right to fish in the middle section, and they applied to the lake a name made up from the terms of the treaty and meaning: "You fish on your side; we fish on our side; nobody fish in the middle."

The word is pronounced CHAR-GOGG-a-GOGG-mon-CHOWG-ga-gogg-CHOW-bun-agung-a-mogg. The average native of the region is satisfied to call it simply "Lake Chaug." In 1932 a committee appointed by the Commonwealth government to determine the correct spelling of the names of cities, towns, lakes and rivers in Massachusetts decided that Chargoggagoggmonchauggagoggchaubunagungamaug—44 letters—is the correct spelling of the name of this lake.

TEETH AND HEARTBURN

Readers complaining of sour stomach, gas bloating, waterbrash, hunger pain, heartburn, hyperacidity, general crankiness may save their own time and mine by just sending me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and asking in writing (not with a clipping) for the pamphlet Yankee Stomach.

I warn you, however, that in the pamphlet, I harp on the state of your teeth and the efficiency of your salivary or mouth digestion. If this does not suit your book don't bother your head with my foolish teachings — stick along with your nineteenth century dentist and your latest discovery in queer doctors.

The people of England have poorer teeth than the people of America, for two good reasons: (1) The per capita consumption of milk and milk products is and always has been lower in England than it is in America, and milk and milk products constitute the best source of calcium and phosphorus (not to mention vitamins A and D) for the building and maintenance of sound teeth. (2) There is much more sunshine available the year around in America than in England, and the ultraviolet rays of sunshine produce vitamin D in the skin—if the skin is exposed to sunlight—and vitamin D is essential for proper assimilation, utilization and retention of calcium and phosphorus.

If the majority of American dentists did not lend their influence to the tooth-brush propaganda, either by active approval or by timid silence in the face of such ridiculous claims as the one that "a clean tooth never decays," a much larger portion of the American public might learn by experience that it pays to have dental treatment early and often.

For health's sake do not lose sight of the state of the teeth in relation to any of the familiar manifestations of Yankee Stomach. If you have lost one or more of your own teeth then the sooner you bet a new denture to function in its place the better for your digestion, health, physical efficiency and longevity. This is especially important if the missing tooth is a back tooth. And the younger you are the more vital the need for a full set of teeth, whether your own or dentures to replace the teeth you have lost.

Another way in which a good many Yankee Wiseacres show their ignorance is in patronizing cheap John dentists who offer to make or remake dentures at bargain counter rates. Even if they do not cause local lesions, badly fitting dentures interfere with mastication. I quote this from an instructive article by J. T. O'Rourke, D. D. S., Sc. D., in the May 1, '47, issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association:

"Musser pointed out that, as a result of this" (badly fitting dentures) "older people with dentures will often refuse to masticate starchy and carbohydrate foods."

Whether it be an undisciplined child who is allowed to consume unlimited amounts of pap, pop, sweets and cheat-foods, or a grown-up who elects to stagger along with cheap, poorly fitting dentures, the inevitable consequence is nutritional deficiency, lack of vite, impairment of health and shortening of life.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Blackheads and Pimples

Please send me several copies of your pamphlet on Acne—I have two children and know of several others who need such advice for blackheads and pimples. (Mrs. T. J. L.)

Answer—On written request accompanied by stamped self addressed envelope I'll sent the pamphlet Blackheads and Pimples (Acne). If you ask for more than one copy inclose ten cents for each additional copy. Do not inclose more than one stamped envelope—all copies must come to you for whatever you may care to do with the material.

It is the Bunk

Please state whether there is any advantage or harm in the blowing of smoke from pipe, cigar or cigarette into the ear to relieve earache. (Mrs. E. L. R.)

Answer—It can't do any good and it might conceivably do harm.

Bed-Wetting

Four year old boy wets the bed within an hour after going to sleep. No matter how many times I get him up at night, it happens just the same. (Mrs. C. W.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing (no reply if you send clipping) for pamphlet. The Bed-Wetting Habit.

Scientists Agree Sorrow Can Bring Actual Heartbreak Causing Death

Toronto, Dec. 13 — (CP) — Leading medical and surgical authorities agreed today that it's possible to die of a broken heart. That is, of a heart broken by emotion.

It happened yesterday when Mrs. Elmo Howey died at Tillsonburg.

This was no ordinary level crossing accident in which one or two persons are killed by flying locomotives. In this case a father and three of his sons were killed. The mother died within 24 hours of a broken heart.

Newspapers printed pictures of the Howey family. There were Elmo Howey and his handsome wife standing at the rear. Seated in front were the five children—four stalwart boys and a pretty little girl. They were James, 15; William, 13; Kenneth, 11; George, 9; and Mary Lou, seven years old.

Of the seven there were left today just 11-year-old Kenneth, in a London hospital with an illness, and little Mary Lou, who was in the ill-fated truck and escaped with minor injuries. She still doesn't know the toll of the accident. Neither does her brother Kenneth, and sympathetic attendants at the London hospital are squeamish about the task of telling him.

Smashed Truck

Mr. Howey was driving a truck, taking the children to school, when he moved across the level crossing near Staffordville. A Canadian Pacific Railway work train smashed the truck. Sons James and William were killed instantly. Father Elmo and son George died in hospital within a few hours. Mrs. Howey died early yesterday after suffering a heart attack while sleeping at a neighbor's home, near the tragic scene.

Mrs. Howey had herself passed the crossing within a short time after the accident. She and the persons with whom she was driving stopped to investigate. A young man among the crowd, who didn't know her, told her that "the Howey family has been killed." She collapsed.

Mr. and Mrs. Howey will be buried Sunday. The three children will be buried today.

Death Certificate Signed

Mrs. Howey's death certificate, signed by Coroner Dr. R. E. Weston of Tillsonburg, says: "Heart failure due to coronary thrombosis."

He suggested that the mental shock produced by severe emotion may have caused the heart to stop momentarily. "A clot may have formed and plugged the coronary artery. With no blood nourishing it the heart would fail."

Toronto specialists agreed that "no one ever died of a broken heart — but if ever anyone did, it was Mrs. Howey."

They said there is a mysterious agent in the body which produces a maiden's blush — an agent which in everyday instances causes increased circulation as far as some mental emotion causes a sympathetic dilation of the blood vessels and makes the heart beat faster.

Medical science so far hasn't identified this body agent but has given it a name—the "H-like substance" — because its action is comparable with histamine, a body-produced stimulant.

HIS SPEECH A THREAT?

London newspapers reported that the Moscow radio quoted an address by George M. Malenkov (above) of the Russian politburo saying that the Soviets were drilling leaders to carry out the cominform's "external policy." Malenkov's speech was delivered last September at the founding of cominform (Communist international information bureau) at Warsaw. After accusing the U. S. and Britain of imperialism, Malenkov declared: "Leaders will be taught how to defend the interests of the Socialist state in the international arena."

Rocket Planes Might Have Won For Hitler

(By ohn C. Ross, condensed from Esquire for the Minneapolis Star.)

It is well over two years since the war in Europe ended and we have not been able to develop a rocket motor approaching the power performance of that which propelled the German V-2 missile with half-a-million horsepower at speeds of nearly 3,000 m.p.h. Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, deputy chief of air staff in charge of research and development, says the Germans were 10 to 15 years ahead of us in fundamental research and up to five years in research on turbojets and rocket power.

The great German rocket superiority seems all the more unaccountable because one of the world's foremost rocket authorities was the late Dr. Robert Hutchings Goddard, an American scientist, from whom the Germans borrowed heavily.

This shy scientist solved some of the most fundamental problems of rocketry. He was the first man to fly a liquid-fueled rocket; he flew the first automatically steered rocket; he solved basic cooling problems and was granted in all, more than 60 patients for rocket improvements.

However, while the German government soon noted the promise of rocket development and advanced millions to further it, the U.S. government turned an embarrassed shoulder to those rocket crackpots who, it was generally understood, expected to fly to Mars. So American Rocket society members had to finance the only organized rocket research this country felt it could afford.

Considering its resources, the society did some amazing things. It tested its first liquid-fueled rocket in 1932 and made its first liquid-fueled rocket flight the following year. Its findings provided information which gave the United States a start when our government, hastily arming, decided there might be something to this rocket business. The motors, which last December powered the Bell XS-1 were built by Reaction Motors Inc., which was formed by members of the American Rocket society in 1941.

Meanwhile, the society's members had some noteworthy achievements. One member, James Wyld, had by 1938 built an experimental rocket motor which used regenerative cooling—one of the ideas proposed by Goddard which later made possible the wonderful performance of the German V-2.

Under army air corps sponsorship another group produced very satisfactory solid-fuel rockets, during the war in the form of a bazooka, aircraft rockets, barrage rockets, and big attack rockets like "Tiny Tim". When Japan attacked Pearl Harbor neither our army nor navy had a rocket in service use. At war's end, the army was buying rocket missiles at the rate of $150 million per year, and the navy at the rate of $1,200 million per year.

The Germans were ahead of us in rocket ordnance, but not so far ahead that we couldn't catch up. Even today, however, we have not caught up to them on the more significant liquid-fueled jobs which power aircraft and giant guided missiles.

The German army took over experimental rocket work in 1933 and rocketry became a secret military development. In 1936 the huge research centre the Russians now occupy was built at Peenemunde on the Baltic.

By 1938 a successful motor with over 2,000 pounds of thrust had been manufactured This was the A-3, a small prototype of the V-2. The calculations for V-2 (officially called A-4) began in 1938 and design work began in 1940—a year before American builders of our XS-1 motor had even been organized.

• • •

The V-2 motor has been called the most important invention of World War II, after the atomic bomb. It is plain that only years of intense research and experimentation could create it. Nor was it the only pioneering liquid rocket type that the Germans produced. Almost as ingenious were the Walter bi-fuel rocket motors which were used in guided missiles and rocket planes.

With the rocket motors in advanced development, it was comparatively easy for the Germans to develop rocket aircraft. Our own XS-1 has just flown. The Germans, on the other hand, started to design their very fast Messerschmitt Me-168 rocket plane ten years ago. Construction began late in 1941 and was completed by the middle of 1942.

This radical little airplane, with sharply sweptback wings and skids for landing gear, was the fastest combat craft in the skies during the war. Its last production version had a top speed of 500 miles per hour, it could operate at altitudes of more than 50,000 feet and could climb to 40,000 feet in a fraction over three minutes. It was heavily armed with two 30 mm. cannon. It was also faster than the fighter planes assigned to cover American bomber formations. And it was only one of severa lin development.

Why the Germans didn't make more use of this plane is a story of bungling and ineptitude on the part of the German high command.

When they realized that they had been too late with planning all-out production on the 163, the SS hurriedly developed some last-ditch projects. One which was almost ready when war ended was a tiny rocket craft called the "Viper", conceived in August 1944.

The Viper was designed to be launched vertically, like a skyrocket. Its nose was filled with 24 rocket tubes which were to be discharged in a train at enemy bombers. Like the Me-163, the Viper had great speed but only of a few minutes' duration. It could be launched only when bombers were within range. After the pilot fired his rocket tubes at the enemy, he was expected to dive away to safety, slow up as much as he could, and press a couple of buttons to disintegrate the plane and let the rocket motor fall in one parachute and the pilot in the other.

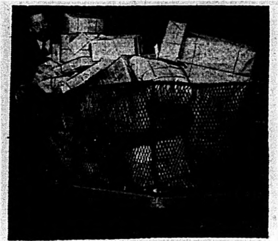
• • •

When Herman Goering was interrogated, he said, "I am convinced that the jet planes would have won the war for us if we had had only four or five months more time". Some Allied observers agree with him.

German defeat was achieved only by the invasion of France, possible only because the Allies controlled the air. Control of the air was possible only because the Germans did not have enough short-range but superfast interceptors with which to counter our long-range and necessarily much slower strategic bombers. The bombers did far more damage to the German war machine than anticipated; delayed production of aircraft, destroyed factories, halted transportation, and generally snarled German supplies and manufacturing—especially that of aircraft and fuel. Witnessing this vicious cycle, the Germans gave a frantic go-ahead to build fast fighters, but they simply could not be produced in time.

If the Germans had had enough jet and rocket planes they would have driven off our bombers, kept their industry fairly intact, and controlled the air over western Europe with enough effectiveness to have prevented invasion or inflicted more serious damage to our invading troops. Thus the work of German engineers went for naught, but not because of our engineering superiority.

Cheers and roses were the tribute of Progressive Conservative members of parliament to Hon. John Bracken, their leader, on Dec. 11. The date marked the fifth anniversary of Mr. Bracken's leadership of the party. Seen holding the flowers in the Ottawa presentations is C. C. Miller, M.P. for Portage la Prairie. Leading the cheering is Gordon Graydon, M.P. for Peel.



Back to U. S. go these Christmas presents, some of the thousands of parcels containing gifts purchased in the U.S. and valued at more than $25, as part of Foreign Exchange Control Board regulations designed to save U.S. dollars. Jules Gaulin, Montreal customs clerk, is pushing truck.

Nativity Pageant Presented By H.S. Association

Queen Mary H & S Association held a very successful Christmas meeting Thursday evening in the school auditorium. During the business portion of the meeting His Worship Mayor-Elect Storey outlined briefly the need of wise expenditures for our rapidly expanding city. Also present was Mr. Burke of the Board of Education who thanked those present for their support in the recent election and indicated that he would give his co-operation to the Home and School Association. Mr. Wotten, re-elected to the Public Utilities Commission led in the carol singing with Mrs. J. Doig at the piano.

Rev. Mr. O. E. Wagar who was in charge of the program presented the Nativity in pageant and flannelgraph with the help of some of the members. This was very much enjoyed by those present.

The attendance banners were won by Miss Moorcroft for the junior grades and Miss Allen's class for the senior grades.

Mr. Nathan presented the association with a plaque which he had personally hand carved bearing the insignia of the H & S.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Pringle and her committee.

IVANHOE W.I.

The December meeting of the W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Sills with an attendance of twenty-seven. Mrs. W. French, president opened the meeting with a short poem.

The Roll Call was answered by exchange of Christmas gifts. A short business period was conducted. It was decided by vote that $5 be donated to the Santa Claus funds in Stirling and in Madoc. A quilt was donated for a needy family, fruit to be sent to shutins and Christmas cards to the sick. Plans were made for the Institute "At Home" o be held in January and pictures to be shown in Town Hall on the 11th of December under the auspices of the Girls' Club.

Mrs. D. Fleming convener of "Citizenship" then took charge. Mrs. Morley Haggerty led in the singing of Christmas carols. The topic, "The Spirt of Christmas" was given by Mrs. John McInroy who told of customs that other countries used in keeping Christmas and to the different dates for celebration. Mrs. J. C. Sills demonstrated her favorite "Christmas Pudding" gave the recipe with directions for steaming. The hostess served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

BACKACHE

The Plague of Outdoor Men

The outdoor man, whether he be farmer, truck driver, or railway operator, is often subject to backache. This may be the result of exposure to cold and dampness or the result of strain from the jolting and bumping of the vehicle he rides.

To many people, women as well as men, it would be great to be free of backache—one of the most common and annoying of ailments. And here is how you may be relieved of backache and other symptoms of poisons in the blood.

The treatment suggested is Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. By reason of their stimulating action on both the liver and kidneys, you have two chances to one of getting relief from your backache by using Dr. Chase's Pills. The torpid liver is aroused to action, the kidneys are stimulated and consequently these organs help to purify the blood of the poisonous impurities which bring pains and aches and tired feelings.

Keep regular and keep well by using Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. 35cts. a box.

But, because it was plastic, X-rays failed to show the button stuck in the tissues of the little girl's oesophagus. She was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children early yesterday, and, by use of barium, the button was found and removed within a few hours. Huguette will be on her way home again soon.

Women's Activities

CENTRE ST. W.A.

Ladies of Centre Street Church (Hillcrest) met Wednesday afternoon for their December meeting which took the form of a Christmas candle-lighting service, under the able leadership of Mrs Mills and Mrs. Osborne.

Mrs. Mills conducted the Worship period and read "Christ, The Lord is Come". The Scripture lesson was from St. Luke's gospel. "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and other Christmas carols were sung and enjoyed Little Miss Beverley Wannamaker accepted the offering, which was dedicated by the use of hymn, "As With Gladness, Men of Old".

Election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Osborne; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Mills; Secretary, Mrs. Wannamaker; Treasurer, Mrs. McLeod; Press Reporter, Mrs. Vandewater; Buying Committee, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Collins; Visiting Committee, Mrs. Sharpe, Mrs. Weese.

A very gratifying report of the past year's activities was presented, and the ladies held a "Gift Party", when gifts were exchanged. Delicious refreshments were served and the meeting dismissed with the Mizpah benediction.

SCOTT'S UNITED W.M.S.-W.A.

More than thirty members and friends of Scott's Church W M.S. and W.A. attended a joint December meeting held at the home of Mrs. Ross Dafoe and enjoyed a pot-luck dinner served shortly after the noon hour.

During the W.M.S. meeting which followed, Mrs. Lott gave a temperance reading advising the women to hold the line; find out what the liquor forces are planning, and work to defeat them by continuing temperance education."

The president read some C.A.C. correspondence and it was decided to give the matter into the hands of Unionale Institute.

The treasurer reported a total of $92.93 raised during 1947.

The election of W.A officers for 1948 was conducted by Mrs. Lott as follows:

President, Mrs. C. Copeland; 1st Vice President, Mrs. J. A Lott; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Wardle; Sec-Treasurer, Mrs. Vera Sine; Corresponding Sec., and Press reporter, Mrs. Morley Sine; Flower Committee, Mrs. Rose, and Mrs. Frost; Parsonage committee, Mrs. Lott and Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

An impressive candle-lighting service was conducted with the president leading. A large white lighted candle represented Christ's love for the whole world. From this seven ladies lighted candles to represent W.M.S. goodwill and friendship for the Jews of Canada; the Canadian Indians; the French Canadians; the descendants of Europeans, and those who came from Africa and Asia, as well as from the war-devastated countries of Europe; and the candle of Christian Love.

Several Christmas hymns were used during this service, which closed with the benediction.

FOXBORO FILM COUNCIL MEETS

The Foxboro Film Council held its regular meeting on the second Wednesday of December in Foxboro Public School. The secretary reported that sixteen films had been presented during the month of November, with approximately 560 viewing the pictures.

'Clay Hands and Fire" was the subject of a film presented by Mr. Ward, of Peterborough, showing how 'Spode" dinnerware is made—step by step in its manufacture.

The highlight of the evening was a discussion on the constitution of the Federation of Film Councils for Eastern Ontario, presented to the local council by the president, a member on the executive of the Federation. The chief function of the Federation is to advance education in the rural communities through the aid of fims.

Unity among the councils was stressed as being important, for by presenting a united front the councils will obtain a finer opportunity to obtain sponsored films. Eventually, the councils may purchase films for themselves, through the Federation, and catalogues of films will be furnished by the Federation, facilitating an exchange of educational films.

By popular vote the Foxboro Council accepted the opportunity to become a part of the Federation, the annual fee of $10 to be sent promptly to Miss K. Healey, at Queen's University, in Kingston.

It was decided that more operators should receive the training necessary for the proficient showing of these films, and anyone interested in learning may get in touch with the Council Secretary, Mrs. Wanda Sine, at Foxboro.

On Dec. 18, Foxboro Film Council will be on the air over station CJBQ, when teachers using lessons from films will tell what they are doing, and what has been accomplished

At the close of the meeting a nominating committee met to prepare a slate of officers to be presented at Marsh Hill School on the evening of Jan. 14th.

Prince Edward Teachers Meet At Peterborough

Through the efforts of the Women Teachers' Association of Prince Edward County, the teachers of the county were given an opportunity to spend a day observing in the Peterborough schools. The teachers were divided into groups of not more than four and had the privilege of visiting one class in the morning and another in the afternoon according to their individual preference. They were encouraged to discuss freely any points of mutual interest with the teacher in charge.

The following points of outstanding interest were noted:

Print script is used throughout the city in all grades.

Rhythmic arithmetic is taught in junior grades.

Choral reading is used quite extensively. Incidentally little use is made of the Mary, John and Peter reader in Grade I or The Garden of Stories in Grade II. All grades seem to supplement the authorized tests.

Physical training is done in special rooms. Records of Mr. Barker's exercises as used on the school radio broadcasts are used.

One class in each room seemed to be the aim. The better pupils are accelerated or given an enriched course of study in any grade but no child has the opportunity more than once in four years. A modern extension is being built at the Queen Mary School.

Tests Are Set

Standardized tests are set by the inspector. Each teacher receives his class' standing, as compared with the same grade in other schools. Personalities do not enter in. You only know where your own class ranks. These tests are of the objective type.

Tables and chairs are replacing the older stationary type of desk in some rooms.

Statements in problem arithmetic showing expressions of figures, rather than just the bare answer are always demanded.

Grade meetings are held, giving the teachers the privilege of discussing their mutual grade problems. There is uniformity in the work taught. They follow detailed courses of study, prepared by themselves, and based on the Department's authorized course.

Helpful Suggestions

The helpful suggestions offered by the twenty-three Peterborough teachers in six of the city's schools made the day very profitable. Let teachers be broad minded enough to try some of the methods seen.

Since returning, many Prince Edward teachers have expressed a desire to have further opportunities to observe actual classes. Participation in this project was voluntary on the part of the county teachers but it is an evident reality that Prince Edward teachers want to keep abreast of the times on educational matters.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

A BEAUTIFUL SCAVENGER

Beautiful and graceful as well as extremely agile on the wing, Herring Gulls are among our ablest fliers. If practice makes perfect, then this is not to be wondered at, because most of their time is spent in the air. Great numbers and wide distribution make them the best known of all the many kinds of Gulls.

Although thousands nest on the Atlantic coast and small islands just off shore, many breed on our small inland lakes. Towards the end of August they disperse; but before leaving for the south they frequently travel around considerably. The young ones of the previous summer are noted wanderers. The majority of Herring Gulls go by the end of December and do not return to us until some time in March. Nevertheless, it is quite possible to see one perching on a piece of floating ice in mid-winter, for all they need is some open water.

Herring Gulls are born covered with down, and in a day or so can run and swim. By autumn they have about attained their full size, which varies in individuals, but is in the neighborhood of 24 inches. At this season they are dark birds, with bills mostly dark, and generally with brownish feet.

It is three years before they reach adult plumage, which is almost white, with pearly grey mantles and black wing tips. Their bills are then yellow with a red spot, the feet flesh color, the eyelids and gapes yellow or purplish pink. But in the fall the heads and necks of these adult birds are flecked with ashy brown.

This species is at all times difficult to distinguish from other Gulls, but especially when in intermediate plumage. Individuals may be found wearing a mixture in varying quantities of the dark and the light feathers, and with their bills also gradually changing.

Around 1910 the Herring Gulls neared extinction on account of plumage hunters. Since laws against their destruction have come in they have increased enormously. These beautiful scavengers should be protected. If anything edible is thrown from our ocean liners the accompanying Gulls scramble for it. Their familiar "cack - cack - cack" is heard near fishing stations as they await the refuse. They also eat small fish, and have discovered how to open shell fish. These they carry into the air and drop on to rocks in order to break the shells.

Thrifty Housewives Scan Increased Turkey Prices, Ample Supply Guaranteed

(By The Canadian Press)

Canada's Christmas tables may not exactly "groan" under the perennial favorite, the turkey, although an ample supply of gobblers is guaranteed Thrifty housewives are scanning increased turkey prices and are ordering smaller birds, a Canadian Press survey showed today.

With an exceptional growing year producing many birds in excess of the average demanded, dealers are introducing the "split-turkey". The average Canadian family is asking for a 10 to 18 pound bird while many turkeys run 20 pounds and up. In most provinces other fowl are in adequate supply at increased prices.

In Nova Scotia the average family will buy a 10-pound turkey this year paying 59 cents a pound, nine cents more than 1946. In New Brunswick also the demand is for small birds with the retail prices at 65-70 cents, five cents higher than 1946 figures.

Montreal shops have about 25 per cent more turkeys this year than last, with prices five or ten cents lower than last year when birds were scarce.

Ottawa families favor 14-pound turkeys and are paying around 55 cents a pound, two or three cents higher than last year. Dealers are anticipating a surplus and believe prices may fall before Christmas.

Larger turkeys abound on Toronto markets but the average family wants one about 12-18 pounds Prices are higher than last year, ranging from 53 to 59 cents for the Grade A dressed bird. Other fowl are plentiful.

The Manitoulin Island turkey pack is at its height with 70 per cent more birds than last year and prices five cents higher per pound.

The total Manitoulin pack is approximately 200,000 pounds with the gobblers ranging from 14 to 30 pounds.

In the Prairie Provinces turkeys are in good supply but few small gobblers are seen. Prices are about the same as last year.

Large turkey shipments from Alberta are keeping British Columbia dealers well supplied with prices the same as 1946, 48 to 50 cents a pound.

Toronto Leafs Ready to Tackle N.Y. Rangers

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs start the weekend National Hockey League grind in the comforting knowledge that even if the worst comes to worst, they'll still be on top of the standings Monday. That's because Leafs hold a five-point advantage over Boston and Detroit, tied for second.

You think that means the Leafs are rolling along methodically and hoping nothing happens? Not so. They take every game as it comes, and they're always figuring on the future.

Managing director Conny Smythe is already letting slip remarks about the Leafs of 1948-49. He's not talking in detail; just keeping the pot boiling with his familiar talk of youth and strength. If it doesn't bring any more than a "so what" from rival coaches, it at least keeps the Leafian troops on the hop. And that's the main idea.

Tonight the Leafs take on the New York Rangers, who've climbed into a fourth-place tie with Montreal Canadiens. That rise on the part of the New Yorkers was mainly because they've had the Indian sign on Montreal Canadiens all season, winning four out of five against Montreal and tying the other game. Rangers come to Toronto fresh from their 4-2 victory at Montreal Thursday.

But in Toronto the Rangers are just another team. The Leafs have beaten Rangers three out of four up to now.

The only other game tonight has Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit Red Wings. On Sunday all teams are in action, with Toronto at Boston, Canadiens at Chicago and Detroit at Rangers.

In the Toronto game tonight Cy Thomas is expected back in Leaf lineup. The Edmonton rookie who was traded from Chicago had been out for nearly 4 weeks with a fractured wrist. Thomas will probably work on a line with Max Bentley, another Chicago graduate, and Joe Klukay, who's been going great guns at left wing since he was partnered with Bentley.

Maritime Loop Getting Real Play From the Fans

Halifax, Dec. 13 (CP)—It may not be such a classy brand of hockey that's being peddled about the Maritimes this season, but the fans haven't changed a bit from the days in the early 30s when this section of the country produced three Allan Cup winners hand-running.

They still crowd the rinks to scream themselves as hoarse as though they were watching Syl Apps or Phil Watson. They're just as happy.

Biggest frogs in the Atlantic pond are members of the Maritime senior loop—the Big Four and hard-driving machine-like Truro Bearcats are the biggest of them all. Cats have held a death grip on the top spot for the last three weeks.

Moncton Hawks enjoyed the spotlight for the two weeks at the season's start but lately they've slid down to quarrelling with Halifax Crescents over second place. Except for brief spasms of Crescent successes, Hawks have managed to throttle their import-packed contenders.

Saint John fans, who fear their Beavers labor under the illusion of being groundhogs, are looking forward to Feb. 2 in hopes that the team will make a seasonal trip above ground. Beavers have been in hibernation since the opening gun.

North Sydney Victorias won their first game in 17 Cape Breton senior league starts the other night. Their first victim was Glace Bay Miners. Previously they had had to content themselves with three draws.

Scions of the triangular loop are Sydney Millionaires; who are so far in front that Glace Bay can just barely see their goalie. Glace Bay has managed to break about even.

Halifax St. Mary's are still tops in the junior field. Maritime champs and Memorial Cup semi-finalists of 1946, they still are way ahead of local competition.

Walcott Charges He is Being Given The "Brush Off"

New York, Dec. 13 (AP) —A new Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott battle was building up to an impasse today in the negotiations for a return bout between the heavyweight boxing champion and the challenger.

Injecting a new note in the controversy over the split decision Jersey Joe lost to Louis a week ago, this latest development grew out of a war of words.

Shortly after Louis indicated at a press conference that the light heavyweight title-holder, Gus Lesnevich, might be an acceptable opponent for Joe's "last bout," Walcott charged that he was being given the "brush off."

Louis, apparently mindful of earlier warning from the Walcott camp that Jersey Joe would be satisfied with nothing less than a 30 per cent cut from a return match, raised the Lesnevich angle.

Deriding Walcott by claiming that Lesnevich was a "more dangerous" puncher, Louis intimated that Gus had at least as good a chance as Walcott of getting the title shot. The champion insisted however, that it was the promotor's job and not his to make the matches.

In his hotel, Walcott retorted: "Louis has always been a great sportsman and a great champion. Now I have my doubts."

"I'm not out for revenge," explained Louis. "Walcott had his chance; he ran away, I didn't. I prefer to fight Walcott again. fact is, I'd prefer him because Lesnevich is the more dangerous puncher. If he had me in the same spot as Walcott did he's knock me out, for Lesnevich would have known what to do with me, but Walcott didn't."

Brantford Redmen Blanked 11-0 By Toronto Marlies

(By The Canadian Press)

It's becoming more apparent as the season rolls along that Kenny Kipp's Brantford Redmen should never have left the comparative safety of the Ontario Hockey Association's intermediate A group.

The Redmen wearily chalked their 13th loss in 14 starts when they were blanketed 11-0 by the league-leading Toronto Marlboros in an OHA senior A tilt at Maple Leaf Gardens last night. It was the 13th victory in 17 starts for the high-flying Dukes.

In two other senior fixtures last night, Hamilton Tigers strengthened their hold on second-place when they took a shot-in-the-arm 8-1 victory from Owen Sound Mercurys at the mountain city, and Stratford Indians revenged three previous defeats by the Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen when they notched a decisive 7-2 win over the Dutchmen at Stratford.

Barrie Flyers continued as a threat to junior A honors when they bounced the second - place Stratford Kroehlers 10-3 at Barrie for their eighth victory in 13 starts. It was last night's only junior fixture.

Toronto's effortless win at the Gardens was again highlighted by Marlboros' goalie, Howie Harvey. The Dukes completely outclassed Coach Kipp's Brantford crew.

Marlies coasted into a first-period 2-0 lead, added four more in the second frame and five in the final session. Johnny McCormack led the Toronto scoring parade with three counters, followed by Leo Curik, Ray Hannigan and Al Buchanan with two goals each. Marlies' other tallies came from Harry Psutka and Johnny McLellan.

Tigers Win Another

Hamilton Tigers racked up their seventh win in 15 starts relying on a tight defence before goalie Art Childs. They outscored Owen Sound 3-1 in the first frame, made it 5-1 at the end of the second and clinched their victory with a three-goal rally in the final stanza.

Hamilton marksmen were led by Clarence Shillington and Tommy Tindal with two goals each. Swat Mason, Frankie Liscombe, Johnny Conick and C. Smelle tallied Tigers' other counters. Owen Sound's lone effort came from Doug Gillespie.

Stratford Indians moved into a third-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo, chalking their seventh win in 15 starts against the Dutchmen.

They outscored and outplayed the visitors with exception of a five minute Kitchener rally in the third frame. Indians took a 2-0 first-period lead, made it 3-0 in the second and scored four for two in the final frame.

Stratford marksmen were led by Pete Long with three tallies and George Blake with two. Indians' other scorers were Wally Corner and Jim Eady. Dutchmen counters came from Bobby Dixon and Ted Grasser.

Remain in Sixth Place

Hap Emms' Barrie Flyers retained their hold on sixth position in the junior department. They never lost their lead as they blasted a 5-2 first period score and adding three unanswered tallies in the second frame. Stratford rallied, too late, in the third session, scoring three for two.

Gil St. Pierre sparked Flyers' offensive, notching four counters. Other Barrie marksmen were Ray Gariepy, Bill Barrett, Sid McNabney, Gerry Reid, Paul Meger and Bruno Favero.

Stratford counters came from Joe Beda, Elwood Small, Dinny Flanagan, Pierre Cadieux and Candler.

Brantford's Redmen will try for it again when they meet the 6th-place Hamilton Patricias in tonight's only scheduled senior fixture, at Brantford. In the junior loop Guelph visits Toronto Young Rangers and Galt meets St. Michael's Majors in a twin-bill at Maple Leaf Gardens this afternoon. Toronto junior Marlboros go to Oshawa and Windsor visits St. Catharines.

SAVE ELECTRICITY

Facts to date show that consumption of electricity has been somewhat reduced by modified rationing and voluntary savings. The Commission appreciates the effort of all consumers in this connection. But results are still short of being enough.

Electricity costs so little in this province that people have long been accustomed to using it lavishly. For example, your porch light left burning when not needed is wasting electricity. Ask yourself honestly: are you doing all you can to help relieve this situation?

Electricity is precious!

Don't waste it! Save it!

Queen's U. Intercollegiate Team Defeats Belleville 6-4 In Roisterous Hockey Bout

Displaying plenty of power and balance in all departments, the Queen's University intercollegiate hockey squad defeated the Belleville ANAFS senior "B" team in a roisterous exhibition tilt in Memorial Arena last night before a fairly good crowd. The score was 6-4.

Despite the fact that the game was an exhibition affair, it threatened to break out into a flair of fisticuffs at times, as the players spared neither body nor sticks when the going got rough. No less than nine penalties were handed out by Referees St. Louis and Lee, two of them majors. A fight broke out in the torrid third period when Jerry Wagar, Queen's first string centre, and Stew Stewart of the Reds tossed their gloves and started swinging, and for a moment a donnybrook threatened.

Walter Gerow Jr. was seriously injured in the third period and was taken to the dressing room. He did not return and the extent of his injuries was not known at the time of writing.

Checking Hard

The game was fast and furious at times with the students showing a superiority in speed and combination play. Their checking going both ways was one of their outstanding features and speedy back-checking Tricolor forwards cut off not a few goalward thrusts of the Reds.

In all fairness to the local squad, they have played better hockey. They could not, it appeared, get organized in the first period and their passing plays failed to click more often than the other way. Their passes continually went astray or were laid on the stick of a Queen's player, and a fluke Queen's goal in the first period didn't help matters. At that they missed a number of goal-mouth opportunities and with any luck or breaks the score would at least have been a tie.

Battle on Even Terms!

The teams battled on even terms in the first period. Jerry Wagar drew first blood for the students when he swept down centre ice flanked by H. Hamilton and LeFebre. He took the latter's pass close in and made no mistake. At the nine minute mark, Walt Gerow got that one back when he and Leo Goyer swerved in and out the Queen's defence in a neat passing effort, and the rangy winger made no error with a low hard shot.

A minute late Goyer and Williams broke away from a Queen's ganging attack, and eluding their checks broke beautifully in front of the goal with Goyer firing the rubber home to put the Reds one up. Then came the fluke goal. "Moon" Flanigan, Queen's captain, fired a shot from near the blueline that was two feet wide of the net. The rubber struck a Queen's player and caromed into the rigging behind Hayes. The period ended 2-all.

Jerry Wagar put his college mates one up at the seven-minute mark on a neat solo effort, then Moffitt got the gate and the students played a man short. The Reds put on the pressure and in a four-man attack Timmy Williams knotted the count with assists going to Clare Williamson and Lee Goyer. Gulick, and Murphy showed signs of pugilistic tendencies and both were banished. The second line of Bastedo, Keith MacDonald minus Murphy carried the play to the opposition and the two kids staged a neatly combined effort with Bastedo scoring to put the homesters one up. The period ended 4-3 for us.

Play roughened up considerably in the third period and tempers started to flair. B. Hamilton got the gate after fifty seconds had elapsed and the Reds surged to the attack, But on a breakaway, Murray, one of the neatest stickhandlers seen here in some time, broke away in the clear flanked by Flanagan. Hayes kicked out Flanigan's drive but the speedy Murray swooped in to drive home the rebound.

Then H. Hamilton got the gate and the Reds again swarmed around the Queen's net only to be outlucked or outguessed by Cook in the Tricolor nets. McNaught and Guleck started hostilities and went to the sin bin and shortly after they returned Wagar and Stewart tossed their gloves and started to battle, Players started to mix it up and for a minute it looked like a free-for-all. But the officials quieted the rumpus and Wagar and Stewart were given majors.

Murray Scores Clincher

Wallis and Barrett broke away from a Red attack and drove in on Hayes with the former scoring to make the count 5-4. With eight minutes to go, Murray scored the clincher on a pass from Hewes. The Reds stormed to the attack but the heavy checking Queen's squad held them off until the whistle.

Don Barrett played a fine game for the Reds centering the second string with Williams, Williamson, Gerow, Goyer and Bastedo standing out. Jackie Wardhaugh took plenty of punishment but refused to say uncle and battled throughout the game.

Wagar, Murray, Flanagan, the Hamiltons went well for the students with Guleck turning in a good job although he carried a chip on his shoulder all night.

McGill Redmen Defeat Varsity

Montreal, Dec. 13 — (CP) — McGill Redmen took over the Intercollegiate Hockey League leadership last night after staging a three goal rally in the third period to edge Toronto Varsity 3-2.

The Montrealers with three victories in five starts hold a two-point margin over Varsity by virtue of the victory. The loss was the first suffered by the blues in three outings this season.

Jack Miller scored the winning goal in the third period after teammates Reg Sinclair and Tommy Hale had registered one each. McGill came from behind a one goal Varsity lead, chalked up in the second period. Warren Winslow and Don Bark accounted for the visitors' markers, scored in the second and third periods respectively.

Crow Shooting and Solunar Periods

By ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables

There is one branch of upland shooting that is just about as much fun as any that I have tried—crow shooting over an owl. In these days of high prices, it's an expensive pastime because you really can burn up shells, but the amusement and shooting practice that you get out of it makes it well worth the outlay in money. If you set up your rig carefully, you can get shooting that literally keeps the barrels of your gun too hot to handle most of the time.

Along about this time of the year in central Pennsylvania, the crows gang up in preparation for their southward migration. When they find an owl sitting in an exposed position in a leafless tree, the whole black mob of them concentrates on the job of making that owl's life miserable. In their enthusiasm, they lose a great deal of their natural caution and become ready targets.

We acquired our owl—a great horned owl—rather easily. Out at the state game farm constant, unrelenting warfare is waged between the great horned owls and the men who work there. A game farm to an owl means a ready supply of easily caught food in unlimited quantity and these big predators are an ever-present menace to the birds in the pens. Our particular owl is one who committed a slight error in judgment at the game farm. He's a beautiful big bird and we have him muonted on an "L" shaped piece of pipe. The end of this pipe fits nicely over the end of a sapling pole and this, in turn, is lashed to the upper trunk of a medium-sized tree. Crows can spot him a mile away.

When you are planning the location of your crow-shooting blind, try, if possible, to set it near a flyway. After crows have been in any particular territory for a while, they establish their flyways, just as we have our streets and roads. They have their regular feeding areas, their resting trees, where they loaf and preen their feathers, and their roosts where they spend the night. Their flyways are the direct aerial routes between these favored hangouts, and they travel along them almost without deviation. If you can locate your blind and an exposed tree in which to place your owl somewhere along one of these flyways, you will usually get better shooting than if you merely place it in a spot that happens to be convenient to you.

It's a pretty good plan, when you build a crow-shooting blind, to set it up a few days in advance of the time you wish to use it. That will give the crows a chance to get used to it. They are observant, smart birds and any change in their familiar surroundings is regarded with suspicion until it proves to be harmless. Set the blind, if possible against a back-drop of woods or with a high hedgerow behind it. A blind that is set out in the open is much too obvious.

Usually your owl will be discovered by a single crow. After he has made a few passes at his natural enemy, he will fly off. Let him go. He'll be back before long, bringing his gang with him. If you shoot this single sentinel, chances are that you won't have his flock come anywhere near you.

Don't bother about bringing crow decoys with you. Dead crows, with their heads propped up on pointed sticks, make excellent decoys. Be sure to pick them up and dispose of them when the shoot is over if you wish to use that blind again. All the equipment you need will be a crow call, your guns, your owl, and plenty of shells.

It is better if you plan your crow shoots with the aid of the Solunar Tables. Crows respond readily to the Solunar Periods. Before the feeding periods come in they use their flyways to go to the feeding areas. At the close of the feeding periods they are again on the flyways, bound for their resting cover on their roost. Scout your territory ahead of time so that you know where the flyways lead and for what they are used. Then plan your shooting trips accordingly. By timing your trips with the help of the Solunar Tables, you can avoid weary hours of tiresome waiting in the blind.

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The Rockets Juniors will oppose the Trenton RCAF Flyers here next Thursday night in the first game of a double-header which will start the quarter-finals playoffs in the District Hockey Association. And reports from the Rockets camp today stated that it will be a vastly different team which will take the ice against the Flyers on that evening. And it is to be hoped that that statement is true.

• • •

The kids, for some reason or other stepped out on the ice on Thursday night with chips on their shoulders as large as cordsticks, forgetting that players can't play hockey in the penalty box. And at least there should have been a half dozen more of them in the clink than what there was.

• • •

They carried their sticks, knees and elbows high for two periods, and by the time they had arrived back to earth in the third heat, they were so disorganized that they might as well have been playing pinockle in the back room for all the good they were as a team. And Flyers rode rampant thru them for seven goals.

• • •

In all fairness to the kids, and not detracting from Flyers' ability, the air laddies are not ten goals better regardless of what some alleged "experts" who wear the air force blue maintain. If we remember correctly, it was a year ago when the lads of the winged service got a bit careless about their remarks anent the comparable ability of the Belleville Intermediates and the current Flyers squad, much, oh much to their sorrow after the "grudge" game was played.

• • •

However that is all water under the bridge. The officiating was definitely lax for some reason or other, as better refereeing has been done by those in charge.

• • •

But the powers-that-be in the Rocket camp inform us that the saucy young cockerels have had their combs cut, and when they step on the ice next Thursday night, their will be no belligerency, chip-carrying or anything else of a warlike nature. The kids have had orders to go out there, play hockey and stay on the ice. For there is plenty at stake. The game is a sudden-death affair and the losing team goes into oblivion as far as the league is concerned.

• • •

But to the yelpers who thought bloody murder was being enacted under their schnozzles with no justice handed out by the officials in the Flyers-Rockets joust, we might mention that had they been in Kingston on Wednesday night at the Saints-Athens game they would have seen their hearts desire. The pugilistic affairs and referee-baiting of the Rockets game were like a pink-tea in comparison.

• • •

Here is what the Kingston sheet carried regarding the melee:

"With some of the players on their way to the dressing rooms Referee Bill Reason was verbally assailed by one of the Athens players and suddenly became embroiled in a fistic battle after, it was alleged, he was struck by player Frankie Moran who had been serving a major and match misconduct penalty. Other Athens players got into the thick of it and at least three of them lit a la Joe Louis when Reason's aim was not off the "Chin Line."

• • •

"While Moran may not have started the argument he took a prominent part in the act and to such an extent that President Jim Sutherland, who attended the game, suspended him indefinitely. It was then suggested that the Ramblers would withdraw immediately from the series but when it was pointed out to the management that the club would thereby surrender its split of the season's gate receipts Coach Ken Watt announced that the Ramblers will oppose the Saints in the fourth game here Friday night.

Ho-Hum Dept. Word filtered through a few days ago that Vernon Goyer had been reinstated by the Ontario Softball Association. And an executive member of that august body wrote that such suspensions are passed on to the various athletic bodies. Pardon the yawn, but the Goyer suspension was just so much waste paper. It occurred after the last game of the season here, and as for the "various bodies", "not a sound was heard, not a funeral note." Goyer, like other players especially in Peterborough where the hand of the OSA fell heavily, went his merry way in O.R.F.U. and hockey.

The Peterborough scribe penned the following regarding the "suspensions": "It is interesting to note the OASA statement that these players have been purefied and may now play all sports. However, they were playing 'em, anyway. Number of the locals, after the suspension, took part in OHA, ORFU and Inter-Legion games and were preparing for OHA activity this winter. Would have been in OLA and OABA competition, too, had there been any of the softballers who played these games."

• • •

Attention, all kids under 16 by November 1st. Wanna try out for a smart midget hockey club? Yeah? Then get in touch with Bobby Strachan at Symons' Tobacco Store, Front St., before tonight. Bobby will give you all the details as to the first practice of the Belleville Merchants Midget squad. Everybody welcome, so don't be bashful. You might be another Morenz in the making.

• • •

There is a difference between a good senior club and a good intermediate squad. Not much, as some may tell you, but enough to turn the tide of victory. That was demonstrated here last night in the Queens-Belleville game when our 1947-48 senior "B" edition was nudged out of a win by a team that had plenty of balance, power in all departments and reserve strength.

• • •

But it is no alibi to say that the ANAFS have played, and can play better hockey. They did not flash the brand that carried them to a 16-5 victory over the Peterborough Legion squad a few weeks ago. But at the same time they met a heavy, speedy squad that packed plenty of power everywhere. Queen's may not win the intercollegiate championship but they would be a potent factor in any Senior "B" group hereabouts.

• • •

And the tussle was no powder and puff affair. Both teams were willing to lay it on in any way, shape or manner, and the result was plenty of surreptitious illegal checking, high sticks, and the odd poke in the puss. It must be in the air. The faithful hereabouts were nicely getting over that Flyer-Rockets embroglio, and along comes an exhibition joust, upon which, it seemed from a spectator point of view the peace of the world depended.

• • •

The Tricolor squad is a well-coached team. Their passes seldom went astray and generally there was a man ready to take them. They knew what to do with the biscuit when around the goal, and Herbie Hayes was called upon to make some outstanding stops.

• • •

On the other hand the red-sweatered crew seemed unable to find their bearings. True they skated and worked their heads off but the old click was not there. As a matter of fact they were outskated by the speedy Tricolor forwards, and only on intermittent occasions did their passing plays click. And they missed several golden opportunities when standing on the Queen's doorstep. A little more luck and the score may have been different.

• • •

Walter Gerow received a severe injury to a shoulder during the game and was rushed off for repairs. It was thought at first that he had suffered a fractured collar-bone, but late reports have it that no fracture was incurred but several muscles have been torn. He undergoes an x-ray examination this afternoon. In any event, the rangy right winger will be out of the game for some time.

Most horse owners are satisfied to bring down one winner in a day. But back in 1895, T. B. McGibbon sent six of his horses to the post one day at Latonia, Kentucky, and all six came home winners! McGibbon's record still stands as the most winners in a single day by a horse owner.

Wanna bet? Has a hockey goalie ever scored a goal in a major game? Yes. Chuck Raynor, the New York Ranger's goal-tender (if Sugar Jim Henry doesn't beat him out!) performed this unusual stunt in all all-star game at Vancouver in 1945!

Victor W. Nielsen assured a San Francisco court that the races can be beaten, but the percentage wasn't anything to shout from the housetops. Testifying in a divorce case, Nielsen pulled out a little black book on his bets to counter his wife's claim that he blew the family's money on the bangtails. He told the court that in two years he had purchased $311,000 worth of pari-mutuel tickets on an original stake of $4,500. His profit? Hold your breath—$26.41!

One of hockey's most fabulous characters was Bucko MacDonald now a member of the Canadian parliament. Fans who remember the irrepressible Bucko and those too young to have enjoyed his antics will get a big smash out of Ed Fitkin's article on the former great defenceman which appears in the December issue of th eall-sports monthly, Canadian Sports Digest. Fitkin, now publicity director of the Maple Leaf Gardens, is one of Canada's most able chroniclers.

Pauses for a laugh: One evening a young woman and a handsome lad were walking a country road together. The lad was leading a calf and carrying a large pail, a chicken and a cane. They came to a dark lane. Said the girl: "I'm afraid to walk here with you. You might try to kiss me". Said the lad: "How could I with all these things I'm carrying?" Said the girl: "Well, you might stick the cane in the ground, tie the calf to it, and put the chicken under the pail."

A three-year-old horse is not necessarily three years old! A horse's age is not measured by calendar years, but by its age on January 1st. In this way a horse born on December 31st., is classed as a one-year-old as of January 1st, the following day!

FATHER OF CONDEMNED MAN ENDS HIS LIFE

Los Angeles, Dec. 13 — (AP)— Weston Walker, 58, discouraged in his fight to save his only son, Erwin, from execution for murder in San Quentin prison, ended his life yesterday in a gas-filled automobile. Walker was found in his car, a hose connecting the exhaust to the interior, the engine still running.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The violent wrath of Wottaman Gath breaks out when we prove any bridge rule by math. He frankly derides all cut and dried guides, relying on those that his instinct decides.

Any ace or king or queen is a high card, of which there are 12 in a pack. Each high card is counted as a notrump trick. The 12 most likely tricks to be taken at notrump are the 12 high cards.

This leaves a 13er to be taken with some smaller card. It may be with a jack or a deuce or some card between. No one knows which at the time of bidding. It develops in due time.

Who is most likely to develop in good time this 13er? Not the pair with the least controls. It will be the pair with the most high cards and all suits stopped (in theory, four sure tricks.)

If your pair has eight high cards, opponents can have no more than four. The 13er will give your pair nine tricks at notrump. So, eight high cards with four sure should try for a three notrump game.

As partners bid back and forth they tell each other how many high card notrump tricks they have. Also how many sure tricks, when possibly. How? By rules governing minimums shown by bids.

South opened with a diamond when he held this hand:

♠A 6 4
♥A 9 7 3
♦A K 4 2
♣A Q

His north partner responded with a bid of two clubs. How many notrump tricks does north show? He should pass with less than two high cards. So, he promises at least two notrump tricks.

With six of his own, south now sees at least eight high cards in the pair. Holding four sure also, south should try for a notrump game. Signal for game-going is a jump.

With no more takeouts and no assist, notrump will be the bid by south on the second round. How many notrump? A jump to three notrump. When figures don't lie, on figures rely.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 13. (AP)—To most people, Hollywood is like Welsh rarebit—you either like it or you don't.

A large number of visitors, many of them New Yorkers, take a sudden aversion to the town and can't leave too soon. Another group, many of them New Yorkers, fall in love with the place and wouldn't think of departing. To most natives, Hollywood is neither black nor white, but a place that has its pleasant and unpleasant aspects, like any other town. For instance—

That's what I like about Hollywood. . . Watching Fred Astaire or Gene Kelly do a dance number . . . . Stars like Glenn Ford who admits they have the world's softest job. . . .The way the industry remembers its unfortunates with the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Hearing Bette Davis enthuse about picture making. . . .The cheer that greets an old-time film star from loyal fans at premieres. . . Touring the radio studios, watching the world's greatest performers for nothing.

Listening to Alan Hale relate tales of Valentino, Fairbanks and other past greats. . . .The way that Hope, Skelton, Durante, et al, volunteer their talents to any worthy cause. . .

That's what I don't like about Hollywood. . . .doting mothers who try to push their tots into film stardom. . . .Watching a scene filmed 20 times. . .Actors who complain: "I simply must have a rest; I've been working too hard" . . . .

Smoke-filled, jazz-dinned night clubs . . . amateur critics who offer audible comment throughout the screening of a picture . . . So-called fans who loiter outside theatres and night clubs and hurl abuse at celebrities. . .

Class-conscious head waiters. . . . "Gala" parties at which no one knows anyone else . . .Chasing after elusive interviewees like Bing Crosby.

In Manhattan

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 13. (CP)—Tennessee Williams has written a thought-provoking, tense and haunting drama in "A Streetcar Named Desire", the new arrival at the Ethyl Barrymore Theatre.

The central character is a woman who has become a tramp but the author of "The Glass Menagerie" has drawn her as a person more to be sympathized with than condemned.

Against a dreamy New Orleans setting, with fragments of that city's street cries supplying authentic atmosphere, Jessica Tandy does a superb job of interpreting the ghost-ridden mood of Blanche Du Bois, the decayed heroine.

"A Streetcar Named Desire", named after a car line that runs through the French quarter of New Orleans, is a play of mood and clashing personalities. It moves from scene to scene with mounting intensity as the author unfolds his account of Blanche Du Bois—her life on a gone-to-seed southern estate, her marriage to an abnormal man who commits suicide, her subsequent flight from reality and her vain search for security in the company of men.

For World Neighborliness

"The Good Road" an amateur international musical revue aimed at dramatizing the task of remaking the world on a basis of neighborliness, opened this week at the Coronet Theatre. The production, a Moral Rearmament project which later will play in Montreal, Ottawa, Boston and Washington, was presented by the National Committee of Invitation under the leadership of Rear Admiral Richard E .Byrd. It has a non-professional cast of 275 who hope by their "neighborliness" to "unlock hard hearts everywhere".

New Arrivals

Charles Laughton returned to the local stage this week in "Galileo", the season's first production by the experimental theatre and won general critical approval for his portrayal of the great astronomer. Louis Kronenberger of P.M. described this play by Bertolt Brecht as "an exhilarating and often brilliant stage work." . . . . "The Gentleman from Athens", which opened Tuesday at the Mansfield Theatre, deals honestly with contemporary politics but fails to make the grade dramatically. Anthony Quinn does his best with a weak script in the principal role of a California vintner who fights in Congress for a United States of the World.

AT THE McCARTHY — Inseparable pals are Ted Donaldson and the canine star in the title roe of Coumbia's "For the Love of Rusty," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre. The Royal Wedding pictures in Technicolor is a special added attraction.

AT THE CAPITOL — "Professor Ray Milland gets no help from his book in handling Teresa Wright in their new Paramount comedy, "The Trouble With Women," due Monday at the Capitol Theatre. They are co-starred in the film with Brian Donlevy. On the same program "The Chase," starring Robert Cummings, Michele Morgan and Peter Lorre.

CHAPTER 15.

In Kansas City she was even more restless than before. She looked from her room in a centrally located hotel to the kaleidoscopic street below. There were the same sort of traffic jams, milling crowds, motor horns, street cars, police sirens that she knew at home. There were busy traffic cops, intriguing shop windows filled with femine wearing apparel, colorful florists' blooms. Newsboys' yells were as raspy as those in Deweyton. All the noise, smell, motion associated with big cities was here.

She decided to let her mental tangles go hang at least a whole day. She would go out and browse around, infuse herself with all the interesting sights this city had to offer.

She engaged a taxi for the day and soon was riding through the downtown district, getting a view of the skyline from a viaduct leading into Kansas. Then she was driven on out through Penn Valley Park to the Plaza district and to the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of art.

She remained here for two hours, hypnotized by the creative ability of the old masters. The imaginations of Rembrandt, Carot, Hainsborough, Reynolds, men who had set their emotions in oil for all the world to antomize, made her troubles immaterial by contrast. Who was she to take the problem of love so seriously? What had she ever done to make the world one iota better for having sustained her for twenty - two years? Was loving so great a part of this world's plan? Had these masters loved — had they been torn and tortured by love?

At last, she sat in awed fascination before the towering old Chinese temple wall at the end of the Chinese room. This work, wrung from the labor of a people many centuries ago, and preserved by discriminating patrons of art, was the most stirring of all that she had seen this morning. The inscrutable Buddha in the centre made her realize that she was but one of dealt with as the gods saw fit.

She left the gallery in a strangely subdued frame of mind. She was humbled, nearly reconciled to her lot, even to marriage with Webb Taylor. Yes—it was her place in the scheme of things, that big, unfathomable world scheme which defied human desires.

She stood reverently before the sphinxes guarding the World War memorial. The eternal flame atop the shaft, pointing to the heavens, was symbolic illumination for brave young soldiers in an unknown realm. In the nearby museum, as she looked at pathetic mementoes, salvaged from foreign battlefields she could have wept, beholding this sad record of short, eventful lives snuffed out soon after her birth. These men had willingly sacrificed their lives for their country—and she was dreading to sacrifice herself for the love of one man!

What a spineless soldier she was! Yes, she was woefully weak to have fled from the firing line. She straightened her firm young shoulders in the tweed coat. It was quite clear now what she must do, It was her duty to marry Webb—in a little less than three weeks.

She returned to the hotel in late afternoon, thoroughly chastened, all rancor against her predicament gone. She flung herself fully dressed on the bed in her room and slept until dinnertime.

The orchestra downstairs in the grill was softly playing a popular melody when Kay entered, and sat down at a small table. A handsome young tenor came crooning, "I love You, My Own, My Own."

Tears came to Kay's eyes. It was a tune to which she and Chuck had danced, not so long ago. It sent an instant surge of longing through her whole being, so tremendous she had difficulty in writing her dinner order on the pad a waiter had just placed before her. Why did she encounter love everywhere she turned? Was there, she thought rebelliously, nothing but love in the world?

She finished her dinner hurriedly and went to sit in the lobby. She heard people discussing the evening's symphony concert, and as she had no plans for the evening, she decided that she, too, would go to the concert. The prospect of being alone with her thoughts became suddenly unbearable.

She was surprised by the spaciousness of the Municipal Auditorium, the artistically modern treatment of its furnishings. The elegantly appointed hall in which the musicians played enhanced the performance of the artist-musicians a hundredfold. The conductor, lean forceful, conducting without score, at once arrested her attention. His interpretation of "The Firebird" was lovelier even that she had ever heard in the music centers of Europe. She rose to the heights and sank to the depths of emotion during the two hours she sat there surrounded by the well-groomed, highly attentive audience.

She went out into the chilly night air with a soaring in her veins, a song in her heart. She decided to walk to her hotel, and began shoving her way through dense crowd pouring from the auditorium into the street.

Newsboys were yelling their wares, taking advantage of the golden business opportunity offered by this gala night. Kay had had neither time nor inclination to glance at a newspaper all day. She purchased one now, giving the newsboy a friendly smile while dropping pennies into his grimy hand.

There was no power on earth that could have warned her of the newspaper which she shoved so carelessly under her arm as she walked briskly along through the sharply buoyant midnight air.

The usual after-theatre crowd swarmed into the lobby of her hotel as Kay returned, the newspaper she had just bought under her arm. The women in bright-colored gowns and wraps, the men in evening clothes, made a brilliant picture. For the majority of them, a gay night was just beginning, which would end at daybreak in a night club. Kay, however, was not mindful of this. She went up in the elevator, acutely conscious of her aching muscles. She had had a hectic day which she hoped had entirely rearranged her mental condition.

She locked herself in her room, undressed, got into green satin pajamas. Newspaper in hand, she crawled into bed, arranged the two pillows comfortably at her back, switched on the night lamp on the little table beside her. She released a long drawn out sigh. It was good to be alone, out of reach of every one she knew.

She rested the paper against her curled up knees, and began reading the front-page headlines. War rumors of war, flyers over the ocean, beauty contests, a Hollywood romance, the President's activities, murder, suicide —it was all there, as usual.

"The same old stuff," she protested to herself . "Nothing ever happens."

She yawned widely, turned to the second page.

Listlessly, her tired eyes scanned the columns. Then suddenly she stared in unbelief at a headline She upright, crying, "Oh, no! It can't be true! It can't be !"

"Webb Taylor injured" was the headline. She read down the column, remorse engulfing her. While she had been away, trying to forget his interest in her, this man who loved her so much that he was forcing her to marry him had dived into the Jenkins' swimming pool and severly injured his head. He was in Deweyton hospital, not expected to live.

She was convinced that he had dived into the shallow end of the pool when under the influence of liquor . If she had been with him, she might have prevented the accident. She thought this, even while remembering that Kitty West, pretty little southerner, was the guest of Aberilla Jenkins. But then, Webb's flirtation with her at the Comer dinner meant nothing. The girl he soon expected to marry would be the most important to him now in his hour of suffering.

Nervously she dialed the airport, inquiring about planes. There was one going east at eight in the morning. She made a reservation, then called the desk and asked to be awakened at six-thirty.

Sleep was impossible. She stuck her cold feet into green satin mules, and began pacing the floor, blaming herself for her neglect of Webb. He was an excellent swimmer when sober. Yet when had she been able to keep him in this desirable condition? She had to acknowledge defeat along this line.

Finally, she sank into a deep leather chair, too dazed and exhausted to continue her tramping up and down. Her eyes were too heavy-lidded to remain open much longer. She dragged herself over to the bed and flung her exhausted body across its foot. She lay there the remainder of the night.

She was awakened by the ringing of the telephone. It seemed like the middle of the night. Was there a fire? Then she remembered where she was, and answered the call.

A femine voice said. "Miss Millstrom—it's six-thirty."

Mechanically, Kay answered "Thank you" and hung up.

A sudden wave of nausea swept over her. She must do something to prevent actual collapse. She managed to use the telephone again to order coffee and rolls.

She made a pretense of eating this breakfast while dressing. Her fingers trembled so violently that it was nearly impossible to hook the tweed skirt around her waist, to button the brown silk blouse.

She reached the airport half an hour before the eastern plane left the field, had time to wire Webb's mother that she was on her way home. She hoped and prayed that Webb was conscious, that he hadn't said things he shouldn't say, that he was in his right mind.

Shortly she found herself in the intimate safeness of the planes, cabin with six other passengers. She drank bouillon up in the clouds, forced down tea, but could eat no solid food. The hostess, noting Kay's pale tautness, tried to coax her to relax against a pillow.

Ottumwa, Ia., Dec. 13 — (AP)— A bottle containing a $20 bill and a key to a safe deposit box was washed away from the William Fry home here last June in the Des Moines River flood. The bottle had been concealed in a hollow in the basement wall. It was found three months later 4 miles south of town, floating in a river backwater. But it took the finder, Mrs. Fred McElroy six months to locate the owner.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was drinking his 2nd cup of coffee this mornig, saying to ma, My dear, how would you like to adopt a baby?

Did you say a baby? ma said, and pop said, Yes, a baby child.

Now William, what would we do with a baby at our time of life? ma said, and pop said, Oh, we'd watch it grow up, and place small bets with the naybors on the number of ounces it's take on in weight every week, and the number of intches it'll increase in hite. It's a very amusing and harmless little game. I hear a lot of people with new babies are giving up gin rummy for baby betting he said.

Now William think of the responsibility, ma said, and pop said, I'm thinking of the opportunity to settle by personel experience the old argument about which is the stronger influence, environment or hereditty. We'll give the baby the best darn environment a child could cry for and then if it still grows up to be a liar and a forger and a bigamist, we'll be sattisfied that hereditty is stronger than environment, he said.

Maybe you'll be sattisfied, but I wont, ma said. There are certain things I'd rather find out from books for land sakes, she said, and pop said, Well, before we drop the subject, let me tell you my real reason. I actually only want to adopt a baby temporarily until the new people next door with that confounded squeeling puppy agree to arbitrate and get rid of the dog if we send the baby back to the orfan asylum.

Oh, I might of known you were only talking to cultivate the sound of your own voice, ma said. And ferthermore, if you dont speak to those people about that puppy, you'll end up by coming home and finding me not speeking to you. And please remember this will be your 3rd cup of coffee, she said. Meening the last.

Man Who Claimed Britain's Throne Dies at Age of 53

Little Dewchurch, Hereford, England, Dec. 13. (CP)—Anthony Hall, former Shropshire police inspector who claimed to be the rightful King of England, died here Friday, age 53.

Hall, in 1931 sent a long and involved document to the late King George V claiming that he could trace his ancestry directly to a child he claimed was born to Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn before Henry divorced Catherine of Aragon. There is no record that Anne Boleyn ever had a son, a fact Hall ascribed to slackness in birth registration.

For several years thereafter he pursued his campaign in Hereford, South Wales, London and Birmingham despite several arrests for obstruction or disturbing the peace by holding outdoor meetings.

Hall was 31 when he made public his claims to the throne.

He got over such obstacles as the "Right of Succession" Bill passed by Parliament in 1543, directing Henry VIII to name his own successor, by saying that James I was not the son of Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, but a "ringer".

"There being no legitimate male Tudors, we illegitimate Tudors claim that we are the natural leaders of the British people," Hall wrote. "I claim the crown. It is my intention there will be no civil war over the matter."

In his ultimatum he demanded George V vacate the throne on the ground he had "no connection with British royalty". "You are an outsider," Hall wrote. "Leave the country."

His Ultimatum Ignored .. .. ..

Hall's claim to the throne came a couple of years after he returned from Toronto where he had abandoned his stencil business. He and his wife went there in 1927 but she stayed only a few months.

After the silent rebuff over the ultimatum—it was ignored—Hall stated his claim in greater detail during the brief reign of Edward VIII. This time it was: "The Crown of England was won by my ancestor, Henry Tudor, Earl of Richmond, at the battle of Bosworth in 1485.

"Henry Tudor was crowned King Henry VII on the battlefield and his son; Henry VIII, married Anne Boleyn. I am ninth in direct descent from their son, John."

Edward VIII ignored him, but the police did not, arresting him after speeches in Hyde Park.

Hall redoubled his efforts for recognition among "My ever-widening public" but when George VI was crowned in 1937 the people cheered for him and the "pretender" watched the coronation procession from a portable stepladder which he carried on state occasions.

How to Remember Names

(By Carol Lynn Gilmer in Coronet Magazine)

Al Martin, owner of the men's clothing shop in the small town where I lived for many years, had won considerable renown through his poor memory for names. Al was a friendly, likeable old fellow, and we always forgave his shortcoming. But since he would never admit his failing and went to great lengths to conceal it, we took delight in reporting his latest blunders.

At one time or another, most of us, like Al Martin, are caught dipping frantically into a cluttered memory in search of the name that goes with some familiar face. We may mumble incoherently or chatter insanely to cover our embarrassment, but our forgetfulness won't be forgotten. It can cause us to lose friendships, to miss business opportunities. For when we forget a person's name we are saying to him, in effect, "I don't think you are worth bothering with."

On the other hand, by remembering a person's name, by recalling subjects which were discussed casually at earlier meetings, we pay him a sincere compliment. We are saying to him, "I consider you an interesting person."

* * *

The ability to remember names is not a God-given talent but an art which anyone can develop with a little effort. The accomplishments of such men as Charles M. Schwab of U.S. Steel, who could name each of his 8,000 employees at Homestead Mill, or memory expert Robert H. Nutt, of Greensboro, North Carolina, who was once introduced to 220 persons in rapid succession and recalled each name when he met the same group two months later, prove how great is the capacity of the human memory.

James A. Farley, while serving as Democratic national chairman claimed he knew the names of 50,000 people all over the country. Whenever he returned to a town he had once visited, he shook hands with voters he had met before and called each by his first name.

These men and many others have found that remembering names and faces is not too difficult. And you will soon agree with them if you practice these few simple rules:

1. Be certain that you have heard the name correctly.

Many introductions are performed with a hurried mumble. If you don't catch the name of the person being introduced, ask him to repeat it. He will not be offended—more likely he will be flattered.

Once you are sure of spelling and pronunciation, imagine how the name would look if written out. In other words, take a picture of the name with your memory camera.

2. Repeat the name as often as possible during your conversation.

You can tag the name onto your greeting: "How are you, Mr. Brooks." Or precede your questions with it: "Mr. Brooks, do you. . . ." Thus you impress the memory picture on your mind, and again you please the person to whom you are talking, for there is nothing sweeter to our ears than the sound of our own name.

3. Study the person to whom you have been introduced.

William P. Sheridan, a New York detective, developed his powers of observation so keenly that he could recognize any of the 22,000 criminals whose pictures filled the files at police headquarters. If you want to remember people you meet, train yourself to notice unusual features—color of eyes and hair; shape of nose, mouth, ears, head; height, weight and build; mannerisms and favorite expressions.

4. Learn as much as you can about your new acquaintance.

Good salesmen often make notes of topics in which a customer has expressed interest, of little facts about his daily life which might make friendly conversation later. Then, before calling on the client again, they review these notes.

You won't go to these lengths when meeting people casually, but each fact you learn about someone you have just met will help to fix him in your mind as a real person.

5. Establish an association with the name in your mind.

Once you have learned useful facts about your new acquaintance, try to connect his name with a mental tag which will help you recall the name on subsequent occasions. Memory, for the most part, is a matter of association.

A rhyme like Mr. Blair has black hair," ridiculous as it may sound, will create a visual image, which connects the name with the appearance. A sentence like Mr. Shipp is in the export business, links the man with his job.

Suppose you are introduced to A. J. Lyon. Your mind leaps to the king of beasts for an association; now think of two adjectives, using the initial letters for a phrase—"angry, jealous lion" or "awfully jumpy lion".

Often a person has a name familiar to you because it is the same as that of a friend, a movie star, a celebrity. On meeting a man named Allison, your thoughts might run in this haphazard fashion: "Mr. Allison. No relation to June Allyson".

6. Test your memory after introductions.

If you have met a number of people at a social or business gathering, review their names by trying to identify each as you look around the room. Whenever you are in doubt about a name, ask your host or neighbor to help you. Recall the association you made with each name when you first heard it.

Not many days go by that we do not meet one or more new people. At the end of the day, think back and see if you can remember the name and appearance of each person you have met. Perhaps you will never encounter him again, but should you run into him tomorrow, next week or next month, you will be able to place him immediately.

7. Be genuinely interested in each new person you meet.

According to psychologists, we remember best those things which we want to remember. Unless you are truly interested in other people, unless you really want to make new friends, you certainly will not remember names.

Stop and think before you say, "If I can never remember names." Perhaps what you are really saying is, "I'm pretty smug and self-satisfied. I'm far more interested in myself than in other people."

When you can meet a person you haven't seen for years and greet him by name, you have taken the first big step into a new world of friendships and wider opportunities.

Life Imprisonment Imposed on Armed Holdup Man

Glen Davis is 'Potential Murderer' Says Court

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 15 —(CP) —Glen Davis, 31-year-old armed holdup man who was involved in a gun battle with police at a drug store here Nov. 26, was sentenced to life imprisonment today by Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan.

Davis, who was surprised in the act of holding up Wilkinson's Drug Store, elected to shoot it out. He fired one shot at police who surrounded the store. Police opened fire and wounded Davis in the right arm as he ducked into a telephone booth. He immediately surrendered.

Appearing in court the following day, Davis at first was remanded without plea. He returned to his cell where he considered the evidence against him. Davis called a detective and was returned to court where he pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery.

In passing sentence, Magistrate MacMillan branded Davis a potential murderer, a menace to society with no hope of reformation. He declared that if Davis had been more accurate, he would have shot and possibly killed a policeman.

Davis had $84 in his pocket when he walked from the telephone booth at the store and collapsed in a pool of blood from the bullet wound.

Appearing in court with his right arm in a sling, Davis repeated his plea that he committed the holdup because his compensation cheque for $43 had not arrived and he was desperate for money. He had suffered a broken foot while working.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 15—(CP)—Snow occasionally mixed with freezing rain is falling over Northern Ontario. Skies are clear and temperatures above normal over Southern Ontario. Colder weather is expected to overrun the province by this evening. A disturbance area from United States will likely extend into southern Ontario on Tuesday causing snow and rain in the vicinity of the lower lakes. Storm warnings are displayed over Lake Superior, Lake Huron, and Georgian Bay.

KILLED INSTANTLY

Frederick, Md., Dec. 15—(AP) — Charles S. Caltoun, 61, was killed instantly yesterday when he got out of his automobile to look for a pipe he dropped while knocking the ashes out of it. Police said Calhoun was on his hands and knees in the middle of the road when another car came along and struck him. Police found the lost pipe on the running board of Calhoun's car.

Chemical Tests Will Be Made For Powder Burns

Toronto, Dec. 15 —(CP) A second autopsy of the body of pretty Marion Jean Badgley, 23, found dead in her parents' home at Frankford, Ont., has indicated her death was caused by gunshot.

Dr. W. L. Robinson made the examination and scalp and muscle tissue were given to Prof. Joslyn Rogers to determine the presence or absence of powder burns.

Dr. Robinson said burns could not be seen with the naked eye but that chemical process was necessary to establish whether they were there.

He said that absence of powder marks would narrow the probe to one of murder or accident and stated the gun would have had to be more than 12 inches away from the temple to eliminate powder marks.

Four Passengers And 3 Crewmen Slightly Injured

North Bay, Dec. 15 — (CP) — Four passengers and three crewmen today are recovering from minor injuries suffered yesterday when a passenger train collided with freight cars standing in the Ontario Northland Railway yard at Porquis, near here.

The passenger train's engine and two empty coal cars on the passing track were derailed and considerably damaged, officials here said.

Slightly injured were Engineer J. W. Chambers, Cochrane; Fireman D. G. Lowe, Cochrane; mail clerk Kenneth N. White, North Bay, passengers hurt were Peter Morrison, Toronto; R. E. Smith, Kapuskasing; Mrs. G. Kirzh, Cobalt, and P. Lalonde, Englehart.

GOOD LIFTS REPORTED

St. Thomas, Dec. 15 — (CP) — Whitefish catches at the west end of Lake Erie near Kingsville are reaching two tons a lift, report Port Stanley fishermen. A heavy run of whitefish is expected about Christmas in the central part of the north shore of Lake Erie. The fish are bringing from 25 to 30 cents a pound on the United States market.

These People Survived Accidents Which Would Stump Stunt Men

Chicago, Dec. 15 —(AP)— Without even trying, a few unsung individuals performed fancy feats this year that might have stumped Hollywood's most hardened stunt men.

The National Safety Council, in its annual roundup of freak accidents, listed these headliners for 1947:

Mrs. Anne McGinnis fell from a fourth-floor fire escape, struck a clothesline at the third-floor level was flipped through a window and landed in the second floor bathroom of a startled neighbor.

Charles Arter, pitboy in a South Yorkshire, England, mine, fell down a 1,554-foot shaft and suffered only a broken leg. Halfway down, he overtook an elevator cage descending almost as fast as he was. He landed on its roof and rode the rest of the way down.

In Lille, France, Yvon Dherire, a tile setter, fell six stories from a room toward a baby buggy below. The mother frantically snatched the infant to safety. Dherire hit the buggy squarely and was unhurt. As the baby gurgled its appreciation, the mother fainted and broke an ankle.

After her automobile turned over five times, Mrs. Lee Marksbury crawled uninjured from the wreckage in Centralia, Mo. She took a look at the debris, fainted and suffered a cut over her eye.

Leroy Thurman struggled trying to open a case of compressed bedsprings in Oklahoma City. The case flew open, the springs catapulting him against the ceiling. He was placed in a bed with springs—in a hospital.

As fireman Horace Lebouf was carrying Catherine Markowski down a ladder of a burning building in Detroit, flames shot out of a first-floor window. He lost his balance, dropped Mrs. Markowski and landed on top of her. She was bruised; he was unhurt but apologetic.

Stanley Morrison ran into his father unexpectedly one day. When Stanley's truck nosed into the side of a passenger train at a crossing the engineer stopped the train and hurried back to see the damage. He was Stanley's dad.

When a car was stolen in Hollywood, the owner borrowed a neighbor's car and started for the police station to report his loss. Another car smacked his borrowed car from behind as he was returning home. He got out to examine the damage, recognized the car which hit him as his own, and held the driver for the police.

The season came and departed without fishermen Katsumi Nishitawa and Woodrow Wakatsuki realizing their dream of a record mackerel catch. They tried hard —but that was the trouble. They hauled in so many fish the weight sank their boat.

JEWISH LEADERS ASK EVACUATION OF ARAB TROOPS

Would Have Eisler Arrested For Attacks

Jerusalem Dec. 15 (AP)—Jewish leaders called upon the Palestine government today to order the immediate evacuation from Palestine of all Trans-Jordan Arab Legion troops, a detachment of which yesterday machine-gunned a truck convoy near Tel Aviv, killing 14 Jews and wounding 15 others.

The Arab Legion forces, which have British officers are on loan to the Palestine government for police duty in the Holy Land.

Demands for withdrawal of the forces coincided with a grenade attack on a truckload of Arab Legion troops near the Mustapha police barracks in Jerusalem. One soldier was injured in the bombing.

A spokesman for Hagana, a Jewish underground group, decared that "failure of the British to evacuate these foreign troops will be considered a British provocation against the Jewish defence forces."

A Jewish agency official, who also demanded withdrawal of the Arab Legion, said Legionnaires had attacked Jews in at least 3 places yesterday.

The official said that 1,700 Jewish settlement police had been engaged in convoy duty but that they were travelling in open cars and "form an open invitation to massacre." Eighteen armoured cars allotted to the settlement police are now in storage and the government "will not permit their use," he declared.

"The government is conducting a systematic campaign to disarm us," the agency spokesman asserted.

Overland transport throughout Palestine — already badly disrupted — was further demoralized by the convoy attack yesterday. Food supplies in Jerusalem and other cities ran low as the Holy Land began to feel the pinch of broken communication resulting from 16 days of bitter communal strife that has claimed 242 lives.

Hardest hit were the Jewish and foreign communities, which depend for their supplies largely upon imports and Jewish distributors in Tel Aviv. Arabs with donkeys and camels continued to carry Arab goods to their own communities.

In Jerusalem bakers were short of flour and queues formed in front of shops awaiting each baking. Milk supplies were dwindling, meat counters were bare and vegetable vendors kept off the streets.

Disturbing reports, meanwhile, came from other points in the Middle East.

From Lebanon came reports saying that border forces there had been strengthened and had been instructed to shoot at sight any persons approaching the frontier from Palestine.

In Baghdad, Gen. Husein Fawzi, former Iraqi army chief of staff, said the army had released several thousand troops who now would be ready to move to Palestine within two weeks with full equipment to join Arab forces there.

In Cairo, approximately 100,000 demonstrators jammed into Opera Square yesterday and heard Arab League representatives pledge to supply Palestine Arabs with "weapons, equipment and men" to fight partition of the Holy Land.

Private sources in Jerusalem said Arab women and children from an estimated 1,000 families in Jerusalem had been evacuated to the Christian villages of Bethlehem and Beit Jala, mountain top towns regarded by the Arabs as "safe" because inhabitants are 100 per cent gentile.

Father Claims Right To Dress Daughter In Slacks if He Likes

Camden, N. Y., Dec. 15 — (AP) — Fourteen-year-old Jeannette Delahunt had her father's backing for wearing slacks to school today against the principal's orders.

Principal Donald H. Baker said he might press "truancy or illegal detention" charges if the girl did not report in a dress.

Controversy in this Central New York community of 2,000 has been heated since Jeannette was sent home last Tuesday to "get a dress," because slacks had been banned for several years. She remained away for the rest of the week.

Said her father:

"I have a right to dress my child as I see fit, so long as she is clean and decent."

Pirates Board Dutch Ship, Rob Passengers Of Cash and Jewelry

Hong Kong, Dec. 15 —(AP)— A bold, leisurely gang of pirates today robbed 1,600 passengers of the Dutch ship VanHeutz of cash and jewels worth $500,000 and kidnapped six passengers, presumably for later ransom.

Capt. Klass A. Vlick and chief officers of the 4,552-ton vessel were taken as hostages but were allowed to row back to their ship after the pirates made good their escape aboard commandeered junks near Bias Bay, notorious buccaneer hangout some 30 miles northeast of here.

Identities of the captive passengers were not known, and the only description of the band of about 25 pirates was that they wore "American-style" clothes.

A. H. Elston, director of criminal investigation, announced that the vessel was looted and controlled by the pirates for about 15 hours after it was about four hours out of Hong Kong yesterday on a trip to Swatow, Chinese port about 180 miles northeast of here.

The vessel returned today to Hong Kong and Elston questioned crew members and passengers. They estimated the pirates numbered about 25.

Apparently some of the raiders boarded the ship here disguised and passengers and had a rendezvous with confederates at Bias Bay. They took over the ship at gunpoint and searched it from bow to stern, holding the captain and officers in the ship's motorboat. At Chi Leng Point, the pirates left the vessel in the junks and permitted the captain to row back to the ship.

Third Officer Nederkoorn estimated the theft totalled about 1,000,000 Straits dollars ($500,000.)

He said the pirates gathered clothes as they moved about the ship and that some carried as many as five hats on their heads in pyramid style. The pirate leader spent a comfortable night in the captain's quarters while his gang went about its wholesale robbery.

REMOTE PACIFIC REGION SITE OF FIRST FIELD TEST

Radioactive Poison Warfare Program Top Military Secret

Washington, Dec. 15. (AP)— The United States atomic weapon proving ground in the remote Pacific region will provide opportunity for the first field test of radioactive poison warfare.

Because secrecy surrounding the project is of the same high order as that for the atomic bomb and bacterial warfare, military official are not in position to say how far research has progressed nor talk of any planned tests.

However, any work on utilization of radiological poisoning necessarily has been limited so far to laboratory observation and the calculation by scientists of those observations to estimate the possible results of actual release of contaminated material over a wide area.

So far as is known, there has been no broad experiment with weapons to disseminate such poison. Lack of a testing ground, safely removed from populated areas, presumably has been the major factor.

Eniwetok Atoll, in the Marshall Island group, will provide this.

The Atomic Energy Commission, taking care to be no more specific than to mention "atomic weapons," notes that the atoll is isolated, with "hundreds of miles of open seas in the direction in which winds might carry radioactive particles."

Scientists have suggested a variety of means for contaminating an area — and populations —with the silent, invisible but deadly death of radioactivated material. Included have been oil spray, dust and other carrying agencies, easily charged with radioactivity produced as a byproduct of an atomic energy pile plant. Such agents could be conveyed easily by aircraft or put onto a target by long-range missiles or other projectiles.

While Eniwetok will be used for what the commission describes as a "wide range" of experiments, immediate interest is in new test explosions of atomic bombs.

It is noted that almost 1½ years have elapsed since the last A-bomb was detonated at Bikini. Two bombs were exploded then and their nuclear efficiency by official statement, was of low order. They utilized only 1-10th of one per cent of the fissionable material in the bomb.

Neighbors, Veterans Lay Pipeline to Home Of Ill Comrade

Cleveland, Dec. 15 —(AP)— Thanks to 75 neighbors and former servicemen who laid 170-foot pipelines, water flowed from the faucets today in the home of William Smith, Jr., 27-year-old army veteran suffering from a blood disease.

Smith, now undergoing hospital treatment, moved his wife and baby son into their home in nearby Chagrin Falls last March.

Village officials decided contractors' bids were too high for extending water and sewer lines to his front yard. A village ordinance also prohibited installation of a septic tank or outhouse. So for months Smith and his wife carried water in pails from neighbors' homes.

EARL BALDWIN, 80, DIES IN SLEEP AT COUNTRY HOME

Retired as Prime Minister Two Weeks After King George VI Crowned

London, Dec. 15. (CP) — Stanley Baldwin, Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, whose span as prime minister covered the 1926 general strike and the abdication ten years later of King Edward VIII, died in his sleep at his Worcestershire home Saturday night. He was 80.

Lord Baldwin retired two weeks after King George VI was crowned. He received an earldom, was made a Knight of the Garter, and went back to his pigs and his books at Astley Hall at Stourport-on-Severn, turning over the office of prime minister and the leadership of the Conservative Party to the late Neville Chamberlain.

Lord Baldwin had been suffering from a cold for several days and was found dead by a servant who went to his bedroom to call him. The Earldom falls to the former Prime Minister's son, 48-year-old Viscount Corvedale, Labor member of the Commons for Paisley, whose elevation to the House of Lords will cause a by-election.

Royal Couple Return From Honeymoon

London, Dec. 15 (AP) —Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip stepped off the Aberdeen Express yesterday and drove off to Buckingham Palace. The Princess with a pink scarf flipping over her brown hair, and Prince Philip hatless and overcoatless in the chilly dawn air, were coming back to the workaday world of Royalty after 23 days of honeymoon seclusion.

After some time at Buckingham Palace they drove to Windsor Castle for a family party observing the King's 52nd birthday.

Today Prince Philip — still on the active list as lieutenant in the Royal Navy—reported for duty in the Admiralty operations division.

Princess Elizabeth will oversee redecoration of Clarence House, an old mansion overlooking St. James' Park, where they will live. Meantime, the young couple will live at Buckingham Palace.

While the Prince got all set to earn his $51.80 a week as a naval lieutenant, including a marriage allowance of $17.50, parliament was set to fight over whether he should have a proposed $40,000 a year as a Royal Duke and husband of the heiress presumptive to the throne.

The majority of an all-party parliamentary committee proposed the amount, but five of the nine Labor members of the committee insisted he should have only half that much, and that the Princess should get only $140,000 instead of the $160,000 which the committee majority favored.

The cabinet will debate the figures Tuesday before Wednesday's parliamentary debate on allowances for the young couple.

PREMIER STALIN SIGNS DECREE TO CHECK INFLATION

New Currency Issued, Rationing Abandoned

Moscow, Dec. 15 (AP)—Russia is converting her paper rubles in circulation at 1/10th their face value, effective tomorrow, one means of checking inflation which has boosted prices of some goods to 10 or 15 times their prewar level.

War profiteers were singled out in the decree, announced last night, as a target for an involved program of "currency reform."

Coupled with the revaluation was the abolition of rationing for food and industrial goods. Moreover, price cuts of 10 to 12 per cent were announced on such commodities as bread, flour, cereals, marconi and beer.

An adjustment between "the existing high commercial prices (those paid in non-rationed stores) and the excessively low prices of rationed supplies was ordered in a wide variety of other supplies including milk, eggs, tea, fabrics, footwear and clothing.

(This suggested the great bulk of the Russian population would be paying more.

Officially Worth 18 Cents

(Officially, the ruble has been worth 18 cents in exhange with United States money, but there has been no free exchange. A more realistic ratio of rubles to dollars has been the diplomatic rate—diplomats were able to get 12 rubles for $1 in Moscow.

(The decreed cash exchange for unbanked rubles is equivalent to a swap of dollars for dimes, but the new prices of goods give the "dimes" new value.)

The conversion rates for the ruble, aside from cash presented for exchange, is on a sliding scale up from one old ruble for one new one.

While the decree spoke of the reform as a war-induced sacrifice, it said the rate of wage workers and employees, "far from being reduced, are on the contrary being increased, since the commercial prices beinf reduced by several times and in addition the rationing prices for bread and cereals are also being decreased, which means an increase in the real wages for workers and employes."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda hailed the abandonment of rationing editorially as a victory for socialism and said prices were rising in "the capitalistic United States."

Most Russians with paper rubles on hand must convert them by Dec. 22. Those in remote districts are given until Dec. 29.

"Old money not presented by the fixed date will be cancelled," said the decree, "and will lose power of payment."

(The decree was the first admission by the Russian government that the controlled Russian economy had been affected by post-war inflation. The Soviet action came 10 days after a statement in Washington by Robert Lovett, United States under-secretary of state, that something "in the nature of panic buying" had gripped Russia following rumors of impending devaluation of the ruble.)

The currency decree stipulated that rules brought to banks for conversion would be exchanged at the rate of 10 for one new ruble, thus making cash holders the principal losers under the reform.

This exchange must take place between Dec. 16 and 22.

The decree affects persons with bonds, savings accounts and cash. Bank deposits up to 3,000 rubles will be exchanged on a one-for-one basis; accounts up to 10,000 rubles will be exchanged at the rate of one-to-one for the first 3,000 rubles and the remainder on a basis of two new rubles for three old; deposits over 10,000 rubles will be exchanged at the foregoing rate for the first 10,000 rubles and the remainder on the basis of one new ruble for two old.

Will Receive New Bonds

Holders of ordinary state bonds will receive new bonds with a face value of one ruble for each three rubles of face value of the old bonds. Holders of the 1938 issue of state bonds will receive one new ruble for each five of face value

The reform does not affect wages. All factories and officers have been ordered to pay their employees this week in new money their salaries for the first half of the month to enable them to get started under the new program.

The ending of rationing of all "food and industrial goods" will bring consumer goods under unified price control. The announcement said one object of the program was to check inflation and speculation, which had increased market prices of some commodities to 10 or 15 times their prewar level.

Tankers Aflame Four Men Killed After Collision,

Near Enough For Rescue Ship Attempts to Get Boats

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—At least four persons were killed and several reported missing early today after a collision between two tankers off Curacao, Dutch West Indies.

Dispatches from Willemstad, Curacao, said both ships were aflame and that the count of dead and missing was being compiled as victims were being landed.

The Argentine tanker Los Pozos and the Venezuelan tanker Tucapita —collided in Curacao Bay at about 4 a.m. (EST). The Los Jozos 4,810 gross tons, is owned by the Argentine Navigation Company.

Reports to the coast guard here said the British motorship San Eliseo was standing by the burning tankers and attempting to get her small boats near enough to help rescue the crews.

The coast guard said the air was jammed with distress calls and relays in the area, clouding positive identification of the ships and details of their condition.

The Merritt-Chapman and Scott Corp:. owners of the ocean-going tug Killierieg, which ran aground about one mile off Morant Point, Jamaica, B.W.I., said the crew had been taken off but that the master and mates remained aboard awaiting a tug sent from Key West, Fla., to refloat the Killierieg. The crew was estimated at 40 or more.

A company spokesman said the Killierieg was reported in no danger.

James Morelli Suspected Of Triple Slaying

Chicago, Dec. 15 —(AP)— The surrender of James Morelli, 20-year-old convicted robber, brought to an end yesterday a 48-hour police search for two survivors of a trio suspected of a gang-type triple slaying last Friday.

Richard B. Austin, Acting State's Attorney, said he would ask a Grand Jury today to indict Morelli and Lowell Fentress, 21, on charges of murdering the three men in the shooting spree.

Fentress already was in police custody. The third suspect, Thomas Daley, 36, an ex-convict, was shot and killed by police in Morelli's apartment Saturday morning.

Police said Morelli denied firing any of the fatal shots and that he blamed Daley for all three killings and the wounding of two others.

Slain were John Kuesis, 40, a second-hand furniture dealer, Theodore Callis, 29, and Emil W. Schmeichel, 22.

Police said that Fentress had made a statement saying the slayings stemmed from a commission of reprisal against John Kuesis which was intended to be nothing more serious than a beating because he was believed to have implicated Daley and Fentress in a robbery case.

Chambers Will Be Hanged After Midnight

St. Catharines, Dec. 15—(CP)— Sydney George Chambers will be hanged shortly after 12 o'clock tonight on an indoor scaffold because "it is more suitable in this weather" and will avert a public "spectacle," Lincoln county jail officials said today.

Barring last-minute executive clemency, the 35-year-old canning plant engineer and night watchman, "is facing the inevitable" for the furnace-slaying of nine-year-old Marian Rusnak fairly calmly, but he has shown some "signs of panic," Sheriff Will Villiers said.

He said Chambers did not really expect clemency after two convictions, a dismissal of his appeal to the Ontario Supreme Court and a rejection of a motion for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The hanging will be the first in St. Catharines and the second in Lincoln county history.

Only a handful of spectators will be present at the execution and the press will be barred, Sheriff Villiers said.

Those witnessing the hanging will include the sheriff, the jail doctor, governor, coroner and a police escort.

Newly-Weds Get More Headaches With Boost in U.K. Furniture Prices

By JOHN CAPREOL

London, Dec. 15 — (Reuters) — Newly-married couples in Britain who are lucky enough to get a place of their own find it almost impossible today to furnish it unless they have a large bank account — and from next Monday the prices of all utility government-standardized furniture will be increased.

Articles affected by a Board of Trade order include bedroom and dining room suites and existing models of kitchen furniture. The increase is due to higher costs of material.

At present a rough estimate of the cost of utility furniture, which is price-controlled is £164 ($656) for a four-room-home. This sum covers only the bare essentials.

A utility bedroom suite is priced at £65, a dining room suite of table, sideboard and four chairs £45 and a living room chesterfield with two easy chairs from £28 to £42. A kitchen table costs £4, each chair £1 and a kitchen cabinet £10.

The newly-weds are faced not with the question of money but also the problem of dockets — purchase tokens granted by the Board of Trade for specific purposes after much form-filling. They are fortunate if they get the full allotment of 30 dockets, which will buy only a bedroom or a dining room suite — not both.

Clothing coupons are required for certain other items needed in the home. The first 20 yards of curtaining goes coupon free. But six coupons must be given up for a pair of sheets.

Handicapped by dockets and shortages, the young married couple considers the alternative of buying second hand furniture, only to be discouraged by soaring prices which are controlled only by the demand for it.

Samuel B. Rollins, Tweed, Ex-warden Of County, Dies

Lifelong resident of the Tweed district and son of a Hastings County pioneer, Mr. Samuel B. Rollins of Tweed, died at his home on Saturday following a very brief illness. Although in failing health Mr. Rollins had been seen about the street one week ago but on Friday took seriously ill and passed away the following day.

Born at Ivanhoe 87 years ago, Mr. Rollins was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Rollins, pioneer homesteaders in Huntingdon township. He came to Tweed in 1888 and since that time had taken a keen interest in municipal matters. He served many years on the school board and on the village council having been reeve for 15 consecutive years.

A baker by trade, Mr. Rollins served his apprenticeship at Stirling and in 1888 went to Tweed where he entered the employ of the Robt. Robinson bakery. Five years later he purchased the business and operated it for 30 years. Later he entered the flour and feed business at Tweed, a business from which he retired only a few years ago.

Elected to Council in 1908

Keenly interested in all phases of municipal affairs, Mr. Rollins served on the school board before being elected to Tweed council in 1908. For four years he served as councillor and then offered himself for the reeveship being defeated by one vote. The next year, however, he carried the reeveship and from 1914 until 1929 he served as reeve of the village and was Warden of the county in 1928.

Against the wishes of the taxpayers who had voted the project down, Mr. Rollins in 1929 was instrumental in the waterworks and sewer being installed in Tweed. The following year Mr. Rollins and his entire council were defeated at the polls. However, the wisdom of Mr. Rollins and his council in installing the waterworks was a few years later appreciated by the villagers. In the 1930's Mr. Rollins returned to municipal life to again serve as councillor.

Loved to Visit Old Home

Proud of the Rollins' family tradition, Mr. Rollins loved to visit the Rollins' homestead at Ivanhoe and each year at the family picnic always made it a point to visit the scene of his boyhood days. He had never missed a family picnic in the past two decades. Mr. Rollins received his early education at a rural school near Ivanhoe and later attended Ontario Business College at Belleville.

A member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mr. Rollins was still serving on the church board at the time of his death. He was a staunch conservative and never failed to attend a nomination meeting. He was a life member of the Oddfellows Lodge was a member of the Tweed L.O.L. and of the Masonic lodge. February of this year Mr. and Mrs. Rollins celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Surviving are his wife, the former Margaret Murray, and one son Borden Rollins, associated with the McArthur Irwin Paint Company of Montreal.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

L. G. Dandeno Named Manager Of Belleville Region of HEPC, Nine Regional Offices Set Up

Another important step in the re-organization of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario to meet present-day conditions has been taken with the setting up of nine Regional Offices. These offices will be headed by local managers and coordinated by H. D. Rothwell, Special Assistant, Regions, under the direction of A. W. Manby, Assistant General Manager, Administration.

Those who have been named Regional Managers and the location of their offices are: A. S. Robertson, Niagara Falls; R. M. McKenzie, Hamilton; R. M. Laurie, London; E. R. Lawler, Toronto; D. G. Ferguson, Barrie; L. G. Dandeno, Belleville; O. S. Luney, Ottawa; H. H. Leeming, North Bay and D. I. Nattress, Port Arthur.

In their respective districts, these offices will provide the services of various Commission divisions including Operating, Consumer Service, Accounting and Personnel, while they will have direct control of generating stations and transmission lines. In this way, these offices are designed to facilitate liaison with and service to all classes of consumers, including rural. Under this new administrative plan, each Rural Operating Area will come under the immediate direction of the local Regional Managers. It is expected that these offices will be fully functioning in Toronto early in the New Year. Later they will be moved to their respective fields.

Areas over which each Regional Office will have supervision have been determined on the basis of population, industry, generating plants and other factors. For instance the Toronto area is much smaller in the actual territory it embraces than the adjacent Belleville region. The Toronto area, however, includes a heavier concentration of population and industry proportionately than the Belleville section.

Each Regional Office will have similar staffs including a manager, who will control and direct the activities of an operations engineer, a consumer service engineer, a regional accounting officer and a regional personnel officer. Other official designations for personnel holding supervisory positions in the four branches of the Regional Offices will be announced later.

L. G. DANDENO

L. G. Dandeno who has been named manager of the Belleville Region of The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Belleville having been selected as the location of one of the nine regional offices to be established. The office will be located here later in the New Year.

Police Blotter

Perhaps it was merely that Christmas was being celebrated a bit early but local police had an exceptionally busy weekend rounding up drunks who persisted in making a nuisance of themselves. At least a dozen inebriates ran afoul of the law and later regained their freedom by paying the conventional fine and costs.

A combination toaster and waffle iron was reported stolen from Oliphant's Electric Store some time on Saturday, while DeVault's store on Bridge Street was entered over the weekend with drawers being pulled out and the premises generally ransacked. It was not known if anything had been taken.

Takes Wrong Coat With $65 In One of Pockets

Some people are just lucky!

At least that might well be said for a certain resident who on Saturday had his overcoat taken from a local barber shop while he was getting a haircut. In the coat was his wallet containing $65 but with the assistance of police the coat was recovered with the $65 still intact.

Missing his coat the gentleman with the shorn locks notified police who with a description of the coat and accompanied by the informant, patrolled Front Street, with result that the coat was eventually identified.

The answer to the disappearance of the overcoat was that a barber shop customer had taken it by mistake while he was slightly inebriated.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 15 (CP)—Golds slipped sharply about mid-day and losses ranging to 25 cents were numerous for producing mine stocks in the senior and junior lists on the Toronto stock exchange today. Beaulieu traded about 155,000 shares to touch a new low at 22, down nine cents. Industrials turned irregular although gains and losses seemed about evenly divided while western oils were firm.

Volume for the first three hours was 918,000 shares, about 46,000 below Friday's similar period.

With trade spread widely over the mining boards, golds gave ground readily and posted many substantial losses. Down 10 cents or more were Central Patricia, Conwest, Delnite, Dickenson, Eldona, Giant, Kirkland Lake, Little Long Lac, Macassa, MacLeod, Hadsen, O'Brien, Teck Hughes, Sylvanite, Stadacona, Preston, Powell and Pamour. —Seniors down were Bralorne, Dome and Kerr Addison but Hollinger added a fraction.

HOGS

Toronto, Dec. 15 — (CP) — Grade A hog prices remained unchanged at Stratford, $22.75 delivered to farmers, $22.90 to truckers and at Brantford unchanged at $23. At Hull unchanged at $22.75 delivered while unquoted off trucks, in markets reporting this morning.

Former Liberal Member Dies

Lynden, Ont., Dec. 15 (CP)—R. A. Thompson, 87, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature from 1902 to 1908, died here during the weekend.

Born at Orkney, Ont., he had been a resident of this Wentworth county community since 1883 and was president of the Wentworth Liberal Association for more than 25 years. He was in the lumbering and milling business nearly 70 years and in the export turnip business for 54 years.

Mayor Saunders' Broadcast Heard By City Officials

Special guests of Mayor Robert Saunders of Toronto at his regular broadcast "Report to the People" in which the chief magistrate outlines the activities of his council to Toronto taxpayers on Sunday were Mayor-elect D. L. Storey and Alderman Jack Allin of this city.

Mayor-Elect Storey and Alderman Allin were given special seats beside Mayor Saunders who introduced them to his radio audience, over Station CHUM.

In his address, the Toronto chief magistrate paid tribute to this city, pointing out that it had made and was making remarkable strides in progress and prosperity. "The welfare of Belleville means a lot to Toronto," he said, "just as Toronto's progress means much to Belleville." He wished this city continued success and hoped the friendship and mutual interest now existing would continue in the years to come.

Mayor Saunders conducts weekly reports to his "people" over the air, a service which is given free to him by the radio station. Impressions of those who heard him were that he always gives credit where credit is due among his council, and never personally criticizes a comptroller or alderman who may have been in error. In other words "By their good works ye shall know them."

Mayor-elect Storey and alderman Allin attended the annual meeting of the Rameses Temple while in Toronto. Among the candidates for membership to the Shrine were Dr. G. H. Stobie, Edgar Rutherford, Ross Neal, M. MacDonald of this city and Mr. E. C. Metcalfe of Deseronto.

More Canadians Return From U.S.

Ottawa, Dec. 15 — (CP) — A "marked upswing" in the number of Canadians returning to the Dominion after residing in the United States was reported by the resources department today in immigration figures for October.

During the 10 months ended last Oct. 31, a tital of 7,774 Canadians returned under these circumstances. This was an increase of 3,858 over the figure of 3,916 for the similar period of 1946. No statistics are kept on the number of Canadians leaving for the U. S.

October immigration from all countries was 87 per cent higher than in the same month last year, amounting to 8,941 compared with 4,760 in October, 1946. This included 5,231 immigrants from the British Isles against 2,740 in the same month a year ago.

Total of European races during the month was 2,696 against 923.

The first reeve of Beverley township to be elected by acclamation he also served as vice-president of the Millers Mutual Fire Insurance Company for 30 years. Treasurer of the synod of Hamilton and London of the Presbyterian Church for about 20 years before union, he became treasurer of the Hamilton conference of the United Church, an office he filled for 20 years.

Holstein Breeders Hold Successful Banquet at Bonarlaw

Bonarlaw. (Special.) — St. Mark's Church Parish hall presented a very gala appearance with green and red decorations and the three long tables, with head tables on the platform, decorated with cut flowers, lighted candles and dishes of fruits and literally groaning under their weight of good things to eat, when the Hastings County Holstein Breeders' Club held their annual banquet on Thursday evening of last week commencing at 7 p.m., St. Mark's Church Woman's Auxiliary catering.

After about 140 members and guests had partaken of the dinner, Chairman Ronald Longwell, president of the club, proposed the toast to The King and reviewed the work of the club to some extent. He asked Mr. A. O. Dalrymple to introduce guests at the head table. Mr. Dalrymple, secretary-treasurer of the club, called upon the following to take a bow, viz., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson, M. McIntyre Hood, Ronald Longwell, Roy Ormiston, Lindsay Anderson, Mrs. Longwell, Mrs. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hollinger, Herb Watt, Miss Watt, Rev. and Mrs. Paul Christensen, Mr. Broad, Miss Broad, J. E. Tamblyn, and John Hammond.

The address of welcome was given by Rev. J. M. Brownlie, rector of St. Mark's Church, leaving no doubt in the minds of those present of the warm welcome, accorded by all connected with St. Mark's.

The guest speaker of the evening Mr. M. McIntyre Hood, director of Publicity, Department of Agriculture, was introduced by Mr. Fred Wilson, M.L.A., who mentioned that Mr. Hood served in both World War 1 and World War II and is the editor of "The Junior Farmer" and a Scotsman. After Mr. McIntyre took the platform no one doubted this statement although he displayed the witticism of an Irishman by immediately getting his audience in a great, good humor by leading in community singing with Rev. Mr. Christensen at the piano. Mr. Hood then delivered a very interesting and instructive address. He urged his hearers to maintain their herds at top level, improving farm products quality and in order to meet competition, make every unit on the farm produce more; increase the yield of every farm and every cow.

He explained that the government is assisting in various ways. By experiments regarding feeding by elimination of pests and weeds and the loss of stock through disease.

"There should be an improvement in methods of marketing," said the speaker. "Too little money goes to the primary producer on the farm. We should market our own products as far as they can go and Ontario should grow at least fifty million more bushels of feed grain next season." In concluding the speaker spoke of the satisfaction to be found in rural life which cannot be found in the city, of the fact that the farmer sees the beauty of nature all around and has time to think. "Rural life", he said, "is the backbone of society".

David Hollinger, club vice president, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker for his able address, and Herb. Watt, honorary president, moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for the sumptuous repast. Both votes received hearty applause.

Short addresses were also made by Roy Ormiston, district field man, John Hammond and Rev. Paul Christensen, pastor of Springbrook United Church.

Between addresses the following program was given—reading by Mrs. A. B. McComb; instrumental duets, Delbert McComb, (violin) and J. F. Baker, (piano) and Rev. Paul Christensen (violin), J. F. Baker, (piano), vocal duet Rev. J. M. Brownlie and J. F. Baker, (Mr. Brownlie accompanying). Comic song, by J. F. Baker with Rev. Mr. Christensen at piano.

Old Log House On Cordova Road Burns to Ground

Marmora (Special) — About 5 p.m. on Saturday, the old log house on the Cordova road which was for many years the residence of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Winfield, was burned to the ground. It was bare of furniture as it was recently vacated by a family by the name of Booth, who had occupied it for a short time. The barn which stood a short distance from the house was untouched.

Receives Life Membership

Comrade Albert Bartlett Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion, recently received a life membership in the Legion. The certificate is signed by C. H. Price the Dominion president who as Capt. Price, was Bartlett's company officer in the 14th Batt. (R.M.R.) in the First World War. Both were wounded at Sanctuary Wood in the Ypres salient on June 3rd, 1916. —Comrade Bartlett enlisted in the 39th Batt. at Belleville and went on draft to the 14th.

New York, Dec. 15—(AP)—Edward Sweeney's bed in his rooming house caught fire yesterday. Sweeney leaped from the cot, ran to a door, opened it, ran through, slammed it shut.

Firemen arrived, rescued Sweeney's roommate, prepared to leave, heard a knocking, opened a door. There was Sweeney — in a closet.

Yule Nears

Christmas is now so near that it is attracting the major interest of the lives of the people these days. Concerts and Christmas trees with the story of Bethlehem and of Yule are already in action and will continue to absorb a great share of attention, the major interest of course going to the preparations for the homecoming and the family gatherings to be held next week with all the glow and warmth of the family gatherings to be held next week.

During the war there was a restraining influence but as it recedes into the past all the associations which have clustered about Christmastide are back playing their part in the celebrations of the festival this year.

Industry has given many a new gift for the festival and children of today are assured of a wonderland in their homes on Christmas morning because the spirit of Christmas has produced a wealth of gifts of all sorts.

Broken Heart

The world in this age is all too familiar with accidents of all kinds and of such frequency that the public can hardly grasp in all their terror and shock what such tragedies mean in loss and desolation.

The Elmo Howey family of Tillsonburg has been submitted to the hardest blows of fate. Mr. Howey and three sons were killed at a crossing accident the other day, and the wife and mother learned at the scene of the accident the identity of the victims as she was hurrying home with a nurse to look after her ill father. On her mind had been her mother who also was ill.

That Mrs. Howey died of a broken heart can be understood. Fate's unkindness had struck her many blows, more than her heart could endure.

Everywhere the tragic story of this unfortunate family has been profoundly felt.

Comets

When comets come in this age there is no stir except of mild interest. It was not always so. A few centuries ago, a poet wrote for the stage these lines:

> "When beggars die, there are no
> comets seen;
> The heavens themselves blaze forth
> the deaths of princes."

Everyone today realizes that this is not the attitude of the present age. There is no sense of superstitious awe about these heavenly apparitions for progress in science has spread knowledge throughout the greater part of the world.

New York Times referring to the new comet which it calls "Comet X" remarks that "this comet is behaving according to natural law, like water falling over a precipice, and cannot possibly be interested in politics. It cannot foretell famine, pestilence or new wars and if it could, it would unhappily be behind the news. It cannot even foretell some marvellous change for the better, such as a unanimous decision of the human race to listen to reason, cultivate its gardens and behave in a neighborly way toward neighbors. If ignorant people were to take is as a portent it might accomplish something, good or evil, but the explanation would rest in human psychology, not in the behavior of some swiftly traveling compounds of oxygen, hydrogen, carbon and nitrogen."

The writer goes farther and notes that this comet or any comet for that matter cannot even hit the earth such a blow as to end at once the problems now being wrestled with in Washington, London, Paris, Rome and elsewhere. But this is probably immaterial. With our new knowledge of atomic fission we can do things to ourselves which no comet could accomplish. We have plenty of things to worry about, but Comet X is not one of them. It is just a good show, which we can look at, if we have the chance, with easy minds.

Shows Cleaned Pictures

An exhibition of the seventy pictures cleaned since 1936 has opened at the National Gallery in London. An effort has been made to allow most of them to be seen to advantage, as the new exhibition is ragerded as a model for the reconstruction of the gallery in the future.

The pictures are hung against newly painted backgrounds or fresh hangings. Visitors can study many photographs taken before, during, and after cleaning; half-cleaned pictures; paintings in various stages of restoration; and more photographs taken by X-rays and ultra-violet days. A detailed explanation catalogue is provided, with a foreword by the Director of the Gallery, and precise notes on the condition itself have been prompted by criticism of the cleaning of a small number of these pictures in the past.

The cleaning process has completely transformed many of the pictures. Varnish has always been used to protect the surface of paintings, and it tends to grow darker and yellower with age. Thus, with the passage of years the pictures have become darker ,and the color harmonies have been disturbed. Blues have become green, amethysts have turned to black, reds have changed to orange; while the yellow are hardly affected. The removal of the varnish has restored the original colors.

Another problem to be faced in the cleaning and restoration of paintings is the painting over of parts of the pictures by later hands, sometimes to repair damage, more often to "improve" the picture. In Rembrandt's "Woman Bathing," for example, a hand and arm had been completely repainted. This alter painting can be detected by scientific means, and can be removed if desirable.

The third problem of the restorer is one for which there is at present no remedy. Some paints, such as those used by Whistler, become increasingly transparent with the passage of time. The result is that thin layers of pigment over a dark ground look darker, and those over a light ground look lighter.

The result of the National Gallery's work has been to throw a new light on the works of the old masters. It has naturally aroused some controversy, but the removal of the discoloration has undoubtedly revealed the intentions of many of the world's finest artists, which have hitherto been concealed.

Genocide and Justice

Murder is murder, even when dignified by the name of genocide. In fact, genocide is murder multiplied by group hatreds to infamous proportions. It is the deliberate extermination of a race or group of human beings.

It goes beyond the casual slaughter of American Indians in an age when conscience had not caught up to rough frontier energies. It is perfectly illustrated by the purposeful slaughter of Jews in Germany, and includes the techniques of mass killings, prevention of reproduction, and destruction of the cultural life of the group. The conscience of the world has been startled by this black crime, but international law still has not caught up to conscience.

Almost exactly one year ago the General Assembly of the United Nations declared genocide to be an international crime. Later a draft convention on genocide was drawn up and is now in the hands of member governments. So far only six governments have replied to the request for comments. In order that the Economic and Social Council may be in a position to draw up a final convention when it next meets, it is necessary that other governments send in their comments and support the enactment of the convention.

This is more than a formal matter. It is one more small step to be taken toward the eventual reign of world law. Criminal governments may still disregard it if they will, but let them know that they stand condemned in advance by the organized conscience of the world. — Christian Science Monitor.

JUST FOLKS

SIGNS OF CHRISTMAS

When a pair of little nippers
Ask if they can get your slippers
Or put up a furious battle
To be first upon your knee,
When with loving care they task you,
As their grandpa, let me ask you:
Do you need someone to tell you
Just what day is soon to be?

When they watch and wait for your step
And they meet you at the doorstep
Just to smother you with kisses,
Seeming glad your smile to see,
Do you instantly remember
We are almost through December?
Or, does someone have to tell you
Just what day is soon to be?

I could give you forty reasons
Why I live this best of seasons,
But this one should be sufficient—
Or I'll say it is for me:
I thank the Lord above me
That the little nippers love me,
And I like their way of showing
Christmas Day is soon to be.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What was the occasion of the remark made by the Governor of North Carolina to the Governor of South Carolina?

The occasion and the precise phraseology of the remark made by the Governor of North Carolina to the Governor of South Carolina are not known for certain. It is generally supposed, but not definitely established, that the saying originated before the Civil War during an actual conference between two governors of the Carolinas, and several stories are told to account for its origin.

One story is based on references in the diary of Mrs. Nancy Anne Jones, who lived in North Carolina on the road between Raleigh and Durham about nine miles from the former city. In June, 1838, Governor Edward B. Dudley of North Carolina and Governor Pierce M. Butler of South Carolina met by prearrangement at the house of Mrs. Jones.

The governors were ushered into the parlor and served mint juleps. The hostess ordered two slaves to wait on their excellencies while she superintended preparations for dinner. Laney, the slave maid, went to mix more mint juleps and sent a houseboy to fetch cool water. The slave woman was too slow to suit the thirsty governors. She reported to her mistress that she returned to the parlor with the second round of mint juleps just in time to overhear the Governor of North Carolina say, "It's a long time between drinks," and the Governor of South Carolina reply "Damned long."

Another story is traditional in the Morehead family. John Motely Morehead, a Whig, was Governor of North Carolina in the early 1840's when James H. Hammond, a Democrat, was Governor of South Carolina. A fugitive from justice escaped from South Carolina into North Carolina and Governor Hammond demanded that Governor Morehead extradite the fugitive. Morehead refused and a spicy but courteous correspondence followed. Finally the Governor of North Carolina invited the Governor of South Carolina to meet him on the State line south of Charlotte for a conference on the subject.

Morehead still refused to yield up the fugitive and the two governors engaged in a heated argument. After threatening to send the South Carolina militia into North Carolina to seize the fugitive, Governor Hammond, striking his fist on the table, said, "Now, sir, what is your answer?" The Governor of North Carolina, wishing to relieve the tension, paused a moment and then replied: "My answer, sir, is this: It's a long time between drinks." This unexpected and disarming answer had the desired effect and the two governors, after shortening the time between drinks, reached an amicable settlement.

It is hard to determine which, if either of these stories gives the real origin of the saying. The difficulty is that such a saying, once current, would be associated with virtually every meeting of the governors of North Carolina and South Carolina. In fact, a similar story is told of Zeubulon B. Vance and Wade Hampton, who were governors of the Carolinas in the 1870's. Sometimes the speakers in the colloquy are reversed and the saying ascribed to the Governor of South Carolina. Robert Louis Stevenson, in "The Wrong Box" (1889), wrote: "Do you know what the Governor of South Carolina said to the Governor of North Carolina? It's a long time between drinks, observed that powerful thinker."

What President had foreign-born parents?

Andrew Jackson has been the only President whose parents were both born abroad.

Andrew Jackson, Sr., and his wife Elizabeth Hutchinson Jackson, the parents of the President, were born in Northern Ireland. They migrated to America in 1765 with their two young sons, Hugh and Robert. Their third son, Andrew, was born two years later. Andrew Jackson's parents and his two brothers all died before the close of the Revolution.

President James Buchanan's father was born in 1761 in County Donegal, Ireland, and migrated to America in 1783, eight years before his distinguished son was born.

William Arthur, the father of President Chester A. Arthur, was a native of Ireland and emigrated to the United States in his youth and became a Baptist minister.

Woodrow Wilson's mother, whose maiden name was Janet Woodrow, was born at Carlisle, England, in 1826, and came to the United States with her parents when she was nine years old.

Thomas Jefferson's mother, whose maiden name was Jane Randolph, was born in London, England, while her Virginia parents were making an extended stay in England.

EARL BALDWIN, 80,

Several months before the abdication crisis broke on Britain in 1936, Lord Baldwin had said: "whatever may be our behavior and our opinions as private individuals, we are still publicly as a people puritans."

Said 'No' to Edward

He said "No" to King Edward when his marriage to Mrs. Ernest Simpson, who had been twice divorced, was proposed. On Dec. 10, 1936 he brought the King's message of abdication to the Commons and, in moving that it be considered, said:

"No more grave message has ever been received by parliament and no more difficult, and I might say, more repugnant task has ever been imposed on a prime minister."

He related to the House how King Edward, when he told him that the country would not approve the marriage, had said: "I am going to marry Mrs. Simpson, and I am prepared to go."

Lord Baldwin who entered political life 40 years ago after sharing in the management of his father's large iron business, first came into prominence in 1922 when, at a Conservative Party meeting, he sartled his colleagues by demanding that the party secede from the Lloyd George Coalition government.

Back in 1924

His advice was followed, and Baldwin became Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Conservative government of Canadian-born Andrew Bonar Law. The next year he succeeded to the premiership but in the general election a few months later lost his majority and the short-lived first Labor government of J. Ramsey MacDonald followed.

The Conservatives were swept back into office in 1924 and his firm handling of the general strike two years later brought the collapse of the trade union challenge to the government. He is said to have remarked that the breaking of the strike "killed general strikes in Britain for all time."

In 1932, when he was Lord President of the Council in Ramsay Macdonald's National Government, he headed the British delegation to the Ottawa trade talks.

Foremost as Statesman

Ottawa, Dec. 15. (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a tribute last night to Lord Baldwin said that in his death in Britain there had passed from the scene of world politics "one who in his day was foremost as an Empire statesman".

"Throughout his public life, he had an understanding of commonwealth relations second to onne and guided the development of the commonwealth along lines which made possible the close cooperation which prevailed in the testing time of war."

Canadians would retain many cherished memories of Lord Baldwin's visits to Canada during his years of office, remembering that he was the first prime minister of Great Britain to visit Canada while in office. He was made a member of the Canadian Privy Council in 1927.

Mr. King said that Lord Baldwin's contributions to the development of commonwealth relations would prove enduring.

The Prime Minister also sent a message of condolence to Prime Minister Attlee on Lord Baldwin's death and ordered that the flag of Canada's parliament buildings be lowered to half-mast until the funeral.

Can U.K. Grandmother Send Two Pounds To Grandchildren in Canada

London, Dec. 15 — (CP)—The question of whether a granny in Newport, Monmouthshire, will be allowed to send £2 ($8) to her grandchildren in Canada will be raised in the House of Commons.

Peter Freeman, Labor member for Newport, said in a notice of question that customs officers confiscated £2 in a letter from the granny to her daughter in Canada, in need of help for the daughter's six children at Christmas.

Freeman, who did not name the persons involved or give the Canadian whereabouts of the family, will ask if Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is aware that the money was confiscated although the letter said it was a free gift for the children and if Sir Stafford will either repay the grandmother or allow the money to be forwarded to Canada.

Bill to Outlaw Communists from Election Ballot

Rep. Karl Lecompte (R) of Iowa (left), chairman of the U. S. House Administration Committee, announced that he will open hearings when Congress reconvenes on a bill which would outlaw the Communist party from the election ballot. The legislation, introduced by Rep. William C. Cole (R) — of Missouri (right) would deny the right to participate in any election to any political party "directly or indirectly affiliated" with the Communist movement. The American Legion has agreed to appear at the hearing in support of the proposal.

ODD HOUSE IS OUT FOR THE DURATION

Some years ago you had a series of articles about Odd House, and we saved each one, for we were planning to build.. Somehow the series got sidetracked and we were disappointed when you never resumed them. Now we wonder if you ever got around to building a house putting those interesting ideas to the practical test. I am still interested, as many of the ideas you suggested for Odd House are my own, especially doing away with door handles or knobs, putting pockets on dresses and aprons, curtainless windows and ramps in place of stairs. If you did build a model Odd House, please tell us what you use for shading. The mere dusting of Venetian blinds is a tremendous task, I find...

(G. E.)

Mounting costs, even of standarized materials and fitments, put a damper on the project — and even no wit seems ironical to talk about dewdads in a new house when building is such a formidable venture for ordinary folks.

Pockets on dresses and aprons? How did that get in there Let's keep gussets and darts out of it—unless you wish to insert a strip of sandpaper in the seat of your kitchenette to strike matches on, or something like that.

No, Ma'am, I never got around to building a model Odd House. Like most poor geeks, when my wife, and children make up my mind to do or not to do something I do it or do not do it. Why, for that matter there are at least two bath tubs in our house that are rarely or never used—I know I have never used mine and I never shall as long as I can creep into the shower. The tubs are pretty enough, if a bath tub can be pretty, but what a stupid waste of money and space it is to build a tub alongside a shower stall. I suppose it might be easier to bathe a helpless invalid in a tub than in a shower, but even a helpless invalid should have a sponge bath in bed in preference to the perils of a tubbing.

Speaking of door handles or knobs, these are not so bad in the private home but there should be no handles or knobs on the doors of powder rooms, rest rooms, lavatories or toilets in restaurants clubs or other places where food and/or beverages are served. Neither should there be handles or even push or pull gadets on wash basins flush toilets or drinking water fonts. These should be pedipulated—worked with the foot.

Swing doors operated by the "magic eye" seem ideal between kitchen and dining room in restaurants.

The purpose of these innovations is of course to improve sanitation and hygiene and prevent the spread of disease. Just what communicable diseases may be spread by a doorknob, a handle on a sink faucet or push or pull flush toilet handle I do not know, but I'd rather not touch any of these things if I can avoid doing so.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Retarded Development

Son, 16, 68 inches tall, weighs 170, but has never needed a shave and has no more genital development than his seven year old brother. He was circumcised at age 2 1-2 years. Have not consulted doctor as we did not want to make the boy overconscious.

(F. L. D.)

Answer—Without further delay have the family physician consider the administration of endocrine treatment.

Calcium

Could regular taking of halibut oil with vios/te/rol cause an eighteen year old boy to grow abnormally tall?

(V. T. S.)

Answer—I do not think so. Fish liver oil contains vitamin D. Viosterol is artificial vitamin D. Send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for pamphlet "The Calcium Shortage."

Valetine

Feb. 14 Mrs. W. — presented me with the finest valentine I ever received—a fine baby girl, and I think I might say a bouncing baby girl, at least she looks as though she would bounce all right. So far everything is just ducky, but we have half a dozen in-laws, who may come to blows with themselves or with us, unless we get the right answer for everything.

(C. W.)

Answer—The right answer for everything in the circumstances is "Oh, yeah?" If that won't repel them, send 25 cents and stamped envelope bearing your address, from "The Brady Baby Book."

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

Prime Minister Not Likely To Retire Until Situation In Europe Much Improved

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Dec. 15 (CP)—Some Liberal members of Commons in dinner table conversation predict that Prime Minister Mackenzie King will not fix the date of his retirement until he is sure the international situation is on the road to steady improvement.

Gathering at the tables after a caucus at which some believed Mr. King might give some hint as to his future, the members said Mr. King spoke with stirring emotion of the unhealthy state of affairs in Europe.

Some members believe friction between United States and Russia will reach a climax within the next two or three months and that once the climax is reached international relations will steadily improve or quickly deteriorate.

Their own opinion was that Mr. King would not feel his war-time task complete until he had seen definite possibilities of the world moving toward a lasting peace.

While Mr. King was overseas visiting European countries and attending the Royal wedding there was widespread speculation in Ottawa that he would announce his retirement at a National Liberal convention here next August.

But when Mr. King returned he stressed the seriousness of the situation in Europe and said it was impossible to state what might happen there as a result of the efforts of Russia to spread its communistic doctrine and control.

Members said they had not heard of any plans for a National Liberal convention, but if there were such plans they were sure Mr. King would have called for their cancellation as a result of what he learned during his overseas trip.

The mandate of the government runs until 1950.

British Women Demanding Seats In House of Lords

London, Dec. 15 (Reuters) — British women are seeking 1,000,000 signatures to a petition demanding seats for 23 women peers in the House of Lords, the only remaining legislative stronghold in Britain.

In their campaign, the organizers have circulated thousands of copies of the petition and have received supporting messages from Canada, New Zealand and other parts of the commonwealth.

Leading the drive is Baroness Ravensdale, 60-year-old eldest daughter of the late Lord Curzon, former Viceroy of India and foreign secretary after the First World War. She complains that she has never been able to vote in her life. A woman peer is not allowed the voting rights of a commoner.

Women never have been allowed to sit in the Upper House, although there are many women members in the Commons.

Undeterred by the failure of six campaigns since 1919, the organizers base their hopes on the government's offer last year to introduce legislation if the House of Lords is willing to admit women peers; and on the increase in the number of Labor peers sympathetic to the principle of equality of the sexes.

The first drive was launched in 1919 when its leader, Lady Rhondda, became a peer in her own right. The last was in 1930 when a motion by Viscount Astor to allow women peers to sit in the House, was lost by four votes.

There are 25 women peers in their own right— the Barony held by one dates back to 1309—but only 23 are interested in the campaign. The Duchess of Fife, Princess Arthur of Connaught, is not concerned because she is a member of the Royal Family. Another, the Baroness D'Arcy de Knayth and Convers, is only nine years old.

West Huntingdon

ENDEAVOR'S CLASS

West Huntingdon.— The Endeavor's Class held its December meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright when Mrs. Clifford Green presided for the Christmas program, which included singing of choruses and Christmas carols, with Mrs. Geo. Ashley at the piano. Mrs. Floyd Sheffield read the Christmas story and Mr. Philip Carr offered prayer. An interesting and helpful part of the program was a statement by the members of what Christmas means to them individually. Mr Philip Carr gave the address and Mr. Arthur Wilson conducted the election of officers for 1948 with the following results:

President, Mrs. Howard Cooke
Vice President, Mrs. Dan Cooke,
Sec.-Treasurer, Mrs John Moorcroft,
Teacher, Mr. Philip Carr.
Assistant, Mr. Clayton Wright.

The Misses Jean Sheffield and Eleanor Wright contributed a duet and Mrs. Geo. Ashley, two fine piano solos. Following the benediction Mrs. Wright and daughters served delicious refreshments.

A real estate deal of interest to Huntingdon residents was consummated when Mr. Gardiner Welsh, sold his fine farm, on the 5th Concession to Mr. Ted Pollock of Wellman's Corners. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Welsh sincerely regret their leaving this community but are much pleased to have Mr. and Mrs. Ted Pollock as residents and will give them a cordial welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott have moved to Belleville, for the winter months.

Friends of Mrs. Mac Sarles will regret to learn that she is a patient in Kingston Hospital.

Miss Sarah Wilson and Mr. Arthur Wilson were Wednesday guests of Mr. William Preston, of Havelock.

Mrs. Chester Sills entertained the members of the Ivanhoe W.I., for their December meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

The stockholders of the Glen Cheese Company held their annual meeting at the home of the president, Mr. H. R. Burke, and during the business period Mr. Allan Heagle, of Wellman's, was engaged as cheese maker for 1948.

V.O.N. NEWS

From birth to death our lives are built to a great extent upon our habits. We like carrots and don't like spinach. . .or we don't like classical music and we do like jazz ... or we lose our tempers at the slightest provocation because it has become easier than trying to control them. Habits such as these, whether they be of taste, hearing, or of thought, are formed during our growing years. None of them is inherited.

Your baby is born without habits (other than sucking). From the moment he is born he begins to acquire habits ... and you hope they will be the habits that you want him to have.

But do you know how to help your baby to form good habits of eating and sleeping? Do you know how your own behavior affects your baby's behavior?

Why not let a V.O. Nurse call on you the day after you come home from hospital, and start you off on the right foot? Or better still, call her during the days before his birth? You will be even better prepared to care for him, and will not need to worry regarding those first few days at home alone with the precious one.

Most of our problems are of our own making ... can we prevent those that are unnecessary?

Ask your doctor concerning the nurses or call the V.O.N. at 175, week days, and 1125 Saturday afternoons, Sundays, and holidays.

Point Anne Ladies Entertain Husbands To Chicken Dinner

The Ladies' Wednesday Evening Club of Point Anne, with a membership of twelve ladies of the village, held a banquet in the "Bar-B.-Q" restaurant, Bridge St., East, Thursday night, having their husbands as guests.

Following the chicken dinner, the company returned to Point Anne Orange Hall for an evening of entertainment with cards and dancing. A very pleasant part of the program was the presentation of a fine electric toaster to Mrs. A. B. Charlton, president of the club. Mrs. D. Sweeney made the presentation, and Mrs. Charlton graciously expressed her gratitude and appreciation for this very thoughtful gesture.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

You Can't Force Love

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 18, married, and have a baby seven months old. I have been married five months.

My husband and I did not get along together right after we were married. Last month he got us a home of our own, but he is hardly ever there with us. Could it be that he doesn't love either me or his daughter?

I do everything he wants me to do, and I never cause any arguments between us. It is always he who starts them. My husband and my baby are my whole life and if I should lose either of them, my life would be ruined.

"Cris"

Dear "Cris":

Since your baby is seven months old and you have been married only five, I am wondering if the reason for the fraction between yourself and your husband might perhaps be due to the fact that he resents having had to marry you.

Of course I may be wrong in this and he may have been truly in love with you at the time of your marriage, but what you say about the two of you never having got along from the time you were married makes me wonder. It could be, of course, that he had never expected to marry you and so resents finding himself saddled both with a wife, and a child. Any such attitude on his part would be completely unfair, of course, but nevertheless it is to be considered.

About all you can do right now is to try and make your home such a happy place that your husband will want to be in it. You can't force him to stay there or to treat you lovingly if he is not inclined to do so. You can only try to make yourself the kind of person he can't help loving.

She is Interested in a Blind Man

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a year ago I was introduced to a blind fellow at a dance. He is a lot of fun and so self-confident that I did not know he was blind until one of his friends told me. I have been in his company several times since and have grown quite fond of him.

I would like to take him to a dance. Do you think it would be all right for me to ask him, since he has never asked me for a date, and, if so, how can I do it so that he won't think I am asking him just because I feel sorry for him?

"Blondie"

Dear "Blondie":

I don't think you need worry about this young man thinking you are merely sorry for him if you invite him to the dance. On the contrary, I think the very fact that you did invite him would make him feel that you must like him for himself.

People who have handicaps seem somehow to sense instinctively how other people feel toward them, and they know the difference between pity and real friendliness. If you ask this boy in a perfectly natural way to go with you to the dance, I am sure he will respond just as naturally and be delighted that you take him for granted just as you would any other of your boy friends.

You needn't be concerned about inviting him before he has ever asked you for a date. He may feel a little shy about doing so and will be grateful to you for making the initiative.

Her Young Man Has Wandering Eyes

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years of age and deeply in love with a young man of 26. He says that I am the only one he truly loves and wants me to marry him. He is a very kind, considerate and understanding person, but he has one fault that greatly troubles me. Whenever we are together, he has to notice and admire every female who comes into view.

Now I have never made an issue of this, but I get very hurt and humiliated when he calls my attention to the women and still says it is I whom he loves and wants. On the other hand, he doesn't flirt with them. Should I tell him how he is hurting me, or should I just break off with him and try to forget him, as I am afraid I will lose my trust in him, which I believe is essential to a happy marriage.

"Puzzled"

Dear "Puzzled":

Don't you think you are perhaps making a mountain out of a molehill? Most men enjoy looking at other women, even though they may be sincerely devoted to one alone. It is just one of those masculine idiosyncrasies which no sensible woman takes too seriously.

Of course if your young man's interest in observing other women is so trying that he neglects you, that is something else again. But since you say he doesn't attempt to flirt with them, I would hardly think that you have any serious competitors. My advice to you is to ride along with this a while and see if you can't take it more lightly.

Beautiful Broadtail

By ALICE ALDEN

BROADTAIL, ALL by its own shimmering self, is lovely and desirable enough. But when decked out with touches of mutation mink, it assumes new loveliness and desirability. Dein-Bacher of the Waldorf contributes this beauty to the Winter scene. Of supple black broadtail, it is styled with full cape sleeves bordered with silver blue mink. A smart mink ascot sets off the high throat line.

Exercises for Career Girls

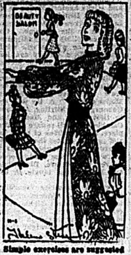
It is important that girls who fare forth to bring home the bacon should keep fit and youthful of appearance. As a rule, her work is purely sedentary. For eight hours a day she carries on. The exercise she gets amounts to practically nothing. Fresh air is something she enjoys only when beating it out to work or dragging home after the work is done.

Her eating habits are likely to be deplorable. A cup of coffee and a nibble of toast for breakfast, and away she flies. With restaurants crowded, as they are in big cities, and service slow, she is likely to content herself with a snack. Along about four o'clock she has hunger pains, suffers from fatigue. The result may be a grouch at the job or depressed spirits. In the course of time her figure may lose youthful lines, assume the contour of the spreading chestnut tree.

Some form of exercise she must have, and no fooling. In the Summer she should swim, play tennis or golf, or take up archery. In Winter she can bowl or join a gym class. Exercise, under the supervision of a teacher of physical education, is both a health and a beauty benefit.

Some girls devote ten minutes every morning and night to calesthenics; they are the exceptional ones. Others say they are too hurried in the morning, too tired at night. If they would make an effort to have a daily muscle workout, they could control weight, have the superb feeling of well-being that comes with improved circulation and strong fit fibres. It was expected that the human body would be muscularly active; it is the only way to head off the ravages of birthdays, to keep the complexion colorful, the health normal.

Women with money and leisure and sufficient intelligence to appreciate the marvelous benefits of regulated exercises are patrons of the body departments of beauty salons. The work being done in these establishments is excellent, productive of results. Courses are arranged to suit the individual, and the patron hangs onto good looks and a state of well-being, mentally as well as physically. But this luxurious indugence is not for the girl whose pay cheque has to be stretched to the limit for living expenses.



Simple exercises are suggested

Simple exercises are suggested. Stand tall, hands on hips. Do the torso-twist, moving the body right and left, pivoting at the waistline. Stand tall, hands out on a line with the shoulders for balance, feet far apart. Lower the body until the buttocks rest on the heels; come up on the toes.

Chest high, head balanced, lift the hands high above the head, touch the floor without bending the knees.

Fashion Flashes

MAGNIFICENT ornamentation marks some of the new evening dresses. An evening dress of white faille, made with a simple bodice, has its full skirt broken by panels of white net onto which are appliqued enormous black velvet pinwheels.

HANDS OUT to slip into the new gloves. A smart 8-button suede glove has one side marked by a series of graduated, generous scallops which merge into the flared gauntlet cuff. The scallops are piped with colorful cobra and overcast in hand stitching.

NOT SO POPULAR for some seasons, silver fox is back again in great style. Coats of black caracul and black Persian lamb are being highlighted with small neck scarfs and big muffs of blazing silver fox. Improved methods of breedings and ranching have improved the species and reduced prices for finely marked skins.

THE SAUVE SUIT of broadcloth with discreet fur trim bespeaks true elegance, far more than the suit that just drips fur. Black broadcloth makes a handsome suit. The smoothly fitted jacket has small collar and narrow, curving revers of black broadtail that merge into the double-breasted fastening. The cutaway jacket hemline is underscored by a flange of the fur.

TWO TONES plus two fabrics are better than one when it comes to glamorous evening frocks, say some designers. Sculptured satin is molded into a side-flaring, one-shouldered, pale blue bodice, the satin beautifully draped, diagonally. The bodice flares out into a basque peplum above a dancing skirt of yards and yards of wine-colored net.

Christmas Card Envelopes or Cards Avoid use of "And Family"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to address a card to "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and Family"?

ABC

No. The phrase "and family" should not be used on an envelope or on a card. If you wish to send only one card to a household, there are other ways, more gracious because more personal, to make a special bow to each member of the household . . . either on the envelope or card.

For example, you may address the envelope to:

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith
Miss Joan Smith
Mr. Thomas Smith

Or to give more personal remembrance to your greetings, address the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith", and on the card, below the message, write "Love and Christmas greetings to you and Joan and Tommy", or "Everyone in our house sends loving Christmas greetings to everyone in your house". Or if the family includes a grandmother and grandfather, you might write, "We all send dearest Christmas greetings too to your mother and father."

These and similar message-makings are simple and graceful ways of circumventing the tabooed "and family". And obviously they are more thoughtful gestures to individual members of the family.

"Hearts and Flowers"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should only the women guests who are relatives of either the bride or groom wear corsages at the wedding, or should all women guests wear them?

F. P.

The bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother generally wear corsages (these are provided by the groom). And any other woman guest at the wedding, whether she is a relative of the bride or groom or a friend of either family, may wear a corsage if she wishes to (this to be provided by herself).

Tuxedo Correct for Bride's Uncle

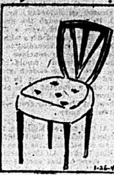
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The wedding is to be in church, at 7 o'clock in the evening; the bride is to wear a white wedding dress and bridal veil, and is to have two attendants. The groom, best man and ushers will be in uniform. If the bride's mother insists on wearing a street-length dress, what type of attire should the bride's uncle, who is giving her in marriage, wear?

R.N.

At this evening wedding, it would be correct for the bride's uncle, who is giving her in marriage, to wear a dinner jacket (tuxedo).

It's About Time . . .



By DOLORES BOLAND

IT'S ABOUT TIME to make seat cushions for a pair of wooden chairs. Consider having them of black tweed tufted with wool yarn of many bright colors. Each tuft a little pompon of the yarn. Adds a gay note to a hallway or to the fireplace these chairs flank.

HAD TO USE RADAR

Los Angeles, Dec. 15. (AP) — Dust was so thick in L. A. Harbor Friday that the Liner Matsonia had to use radar to find its dock. The weather bureau called it a Santa Ana dust storm. In some areas it hit 60 miles an hour, and it whistled down from the mountain passes to settle over the harbor like pea soup.

Rockets Move Into Third Place During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets today remained at the top of the American Hockey League's Western circuit after surviving their most disastrous weekend of the season.

Saturday night the Wasps were held to a 2-2 tie by the third-place Indianapolis Capitals and on Sunday the same Caps bounced the Hornets 4-2.

Hershey Bears, runners-up in the East, also were given rough treatment by opposing teams Saturday. They managed to tie Cleveland 2-2 but last night the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Flyers downed the Bears 9-3.

Philadelphia Rockets moved into third place in the eastern section after defeating Buffalo Bisons 7-3 Saturday and tying the league-leading Providence Reds 1-1 Sunday.

Cleveland Barons dropped a 4-2 decision to New Haven, Sunday and Washington Lions edged Springfield Indians 4-3 Saturday to round out the schedule.

Es Costello saved Hornets from defeat on Saturday when he scored in the third period to knot the county. Billy Benson also counted for Pittsburgh while Eddie Bruneteau and Tony Licari netted for Caps. Sunday goal-getters for Indianapolis were Gerry Couture, Lloyd Doran, Pat Lundy and Lacari. Costello and Phil Samis scored for Hornets.

Bob Solinger paced Celveland to the deadlock with Hersey with a third-period goal with less than eight minutes to play. Pete Leswick scored the other Cleveland goal while Frank Mario and Penti Lund counted for Bears.

Gross Leads Flyers

A former National Leaguer, Don Grosso led St. Louis Flyers to a 9-8 win over Bears with three goals against his team-mates of last season. Ernie Trigg hit the mark twice while Paul Gladu, George Milligan, Steve Black and Bill McComb scored one each. Johnnie Pierson, Gordie Bruce and Jack McGill scored for Hershey.

Wendell Jamieson, Johnny Shewchuk, Phil Hergesheimer, Mike Narduzzi, Steve Wochy, Chuck Kraiger, and Eddie Bush scored one each for Philadelphia, in downing Buffalo. Doug Lewis paced the Bisons with two goals and Bob Filian notched the other.

After two scoreless periods Ray Lapiante put Providence Reds into a 1-0 lead on Sunday but George Defelice of Philadelphia came back to tie the count.

Buffalo put on a better performance for a home crowd on Sunday by downing the cellar-dwelling Springfield Indians. Len Halderson, Les Douglas, Floyd Curry and Jerry Brown scored for Bisons while Harry Frost tallied two goals and Eldy Kobussen one for Indians.

Springfield lost another tough one on Sunday by the same 4-3 score, this time Washington being the victor. Ken Schultz, Joe Cizman, George Hunchuk and Frank Porteus scored one each for Lions with Ken Hayden scored two tallies for Indians. Eldy Kobussen notched the other Springfield goal.

Bing Juckes was the hero in the New Haven triumph, scoring two third-period goals to enable Ramblers to end their three-game losing streak. Chick Webster, Mickey MacIntosh and Jack Lancien scored one each for the winners while Bob Solinger and Fred Thurier scored for Barons.

Olympic Team Defeated 7-0 By McGill Redmen

(By The Canadian Press)

Making her final appearance before leaving Sunday for the European, World and Olympic championships, Barbara Ann Scott stole the show at an R.C.A.F.-sponsored Olympic night at Ottawa Saturday which saw Canada's Olympic Hockey team defeated 7-0 by McGill University Redmen.

The blonde champion of the figure skating world appeared briefly between periods of the one-sided contest which marked the first public appearance of the R.C.A.F. Flyers. Even the score did not indicate how outclassed the Flyers were. Only spectacular saves by Air Force goalie, Corporal Joe Tunney of Newmarket, Ont., kept the score within reasonable limits.

The organization of the new Atlantic amateur hockey league, a six-club affair with teams in New York, Boston, Providence, R.I., Springfield, Mass., New Haven, Conn., and Needham, Mass., was announced today by Secretary-Treasurer Herb Ralby in Boston.

Al Such of New York, has been chosen president of the new circuit whose aim is to make United States youth hockey conscious. All players must be registered with the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States.

Jimmy Demaret of Quai, Calif., won the $100,000 Miami open golf tournament yesterday, tying the 72-hole record of the Miami Springs course with a 13-under-par 267 and increased his earnings for the year to $26,556 to lead the other touring professionals.

Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop swamped a Nickel Belt hockey league team comprised of players from the Sudbury Wolves and Sacred Heart College 12-3 in an exhibition game at Sudbury Saturday night.

Blessed with all the breaks although outplayed by a wide margin, Windsor, A.K.O. won the Junior Ontario Rugby Football Union championship at Windsor Saturday by running up an 11-2 victory over Hamilton Wildcats in a sudden-death final. Windsor now meets Hamilton Tigers, Big Four champions, in the Eastern Canada final at Hamilton next Saturday.

Fifteen members of the Hawaii Warrior professional football team yesterday were convicted of betting on their Pacific Coast League championship game and were fined a total of $675 at Honolulu.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Dec. 13 — (CP) — Canadian sport, it turns out, is serving the purpose of a propaganda agent and is being used as a medium to tell the troubled Old Land something about the way of life in this Canada of ours.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson takes note of this new international play for Canadian Sport and says:

"It's being used to tell the rest of the world about the Canadian way of life and to tell European countries which are battling to get back on their feet, while fighting the inroads and evils of communism, something of the fashion in which we play our games in a democratic land."

The international division of the CBC, as part of its sports broadcasting program, sent to Germany the story of New York Rangers' Thursday night defeat of Montreal Canadiens in an N.H.L. game. It was the first German-language broadcast of a game in Canada.

"Since hockey is Canada's national game there may be some slight bewilderment in Germany to know that a team from the United States beat the Canadian team which won the National League championship last season," ventured Ferguson. "But not much more bewilderment, perhaps than there was among local fandom at the inept display of the Habitants."

Czechoslovakia is the country most interested in Canadian hockey broadcasts to Europe. The Czechs had pretty good hockey teams themselves in pre-war days and has a good team today, built around Jaroslav Droby who played for the Czechs in Montreal last summer in Davis Cup tennis. Although some 4,000 letters have been received in Canada asking for the hockey broadcasts.

Other countries getting Canadian sports broadcasts are England, Scotland, France, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Australia and New Zealand.

McGill University's football team is going to sharpen up next season with some games against American colleges. Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll, passing along this information from Vic Obeck who coaches at McGill, said Vic doesn't know yet which United States colleges will be selected.

"They have what they call an open date bureau down there," Obeck explained. "You put your name in for the dates you have open and later they send you a letter telling you all the other colleges that are looking for games on those dates. We can learn a lot from a couple of games with American teams."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

There seemed to be general satisfaction in hockey circles hereabouts with the groupings released on Saturday by the O. H. A. although the Senior "B" loop would seem a little more like the old days with an Oshawa entry. According to reports from the conclave the Oshawa interests would have no part of the eastern group and wanted to threw in their lot with a grouping in the other direction. That being denied them the Motor City crew withdrew its entry.

• • •

At that the two Kingston, two Peterborough and the Belleville crew should make for some exciting hockey. All three centers are more or less ancient enemies along the sports rialto, and the coming Senior "B" season in the district should prove exciting.

• • •

It is understood that the Peterborough Legion team will play its home games on Lindsay ice while the Petes Hockey Club of whom great things are expected, if you listen to their supporters, will call Omemee their home town as far as ice is concerned.

• • •

The junior Rockets will face three Kingston teams in their groupings and there was a shade of disappointment in the Rockets' camp over the weekend that a Peterborough team was not entered in the grouping. It appears that the teams or team was willing to travel to Belleville but the OHA masterminds thought otherwise. In fact we were in receipt of a letter from a gent in Peterborough who said he had a junior team in tow and wanted an exhibition tilt.

• • •

Walt. Gerow Jr. did not suffer a fracture of the collarbone as was at first suspected. Dr. Austin Walters, Belleville ANAFS club physician stated yesterday that the right winger had suffered a painful dislocation of the collarbone at the shoulder joint and would be out of action for the next three weeks at least.

• • •

It happened some time ago but it was drawn to our attention on Saturday. It was a fine gesture on the part of a sponser of a softball team and evidenced that there are some pretty good guys left in this old world after all. It seems that Tom Burley, player for the Bourgeau's Garage softball team in the Commercial League suffered a severe ankle injury during a league game which not only kept him from playing but from also working at his job. Mr. Bourgeau generously paid his doctor and hospital bills, and the boys of the squad turned over the team deposit which was placed with the organization secretary at the beginning of the season and returned to the team at the end. A tip of the columnar hat, to you, Mr. Bourgeau, and your fine team of sportsmen.

• • •

We note by the various newspaper exchanges that softball leagues teams and associations in the various parts of the provinces have already finished their 1947 business and have organised and laid plans for next season. Nothing has been heard of the Belleville Softball Association during the past three months, so how about it me'lads. Why not get the 1947 business all cleaned up and see what can be done about next year. The annual meeting of the OASA is scheduled for Kingston on Good Friday, and everything should be ready for the coming year before delegates are sent to that convention. There hasn't been much mushball talk going the rounds as yet, but despite that fact there is no reason why organization should be completed for next year long before the fishworms poke inquisitive snouts through the green grass.

• • •

Slingin' Sammy Baugh has thrown many a brilliant pass in his eleven seasons in pro football but none ever gave him more satisfaction than one he pegged many years ago. A huge enemy tackle repeatedly broke through for defensive cordon around the lean Texan, violently hurled Sammy to the ground and massaged his face in most ungentle fashion. Baugh took as much of it as he could stand and then issued orders to his team-mates. 'Let him through on the next play," he drawled grimly.

• • •

The tackle plummeted through and Sammy stood his ground, right arm raised and the ball poised. Then he threw, every ounce of strength in that buggy-whip arm going into the toss. The ball hit that impetuous tackle squarely between the eyes. He dropped like a felled ox. Needless to say, he never bothered Baugh again.

There have been many remarks made about the RCAF hockey squad which will represent Canada at the Olympics next January and which will play an exhibition tilt with the local Senior "B" team here next Friday night. The team will be a lot stronger than the one which played here against Trenton Flyers a short time back, and if anyone has any doubts as to their scoring ability we might mention in passing that the Olympics scored three goals in 34 seconds against an Ottawa City League team the other night. Down Bytown way, they claim that is some sort of a record.

• • •

Another scoring achievement if not a record was that scored by the Duncan twins playing for the Inkerman Rockets against Cornwall Eagles the other night. Irwin Duncan helped his brother Ed score the first goal, and from the face-off Ed. gave Irwin the pass for another in five seconds. Just to prove their fast scoring was no fluke the brothers combined for another fast goal 50 seconds after the third period started.

Cobourg matches hockey wits and sticks against Madoc in an important District League game here tomorrow night and much depends on the outcome. Cobourg can climb into undisputed first place with a win while Madoc with a victory can hop into a three-way tie for second slot which will eliminate Campbellford. A Madoc defeat means elimination as the Campbellford crew has five points against Madoc's four. A tie will see Cobourg and Stirling all even in first place and Madoc and Campbellford all square in third place. But by virtue of goals for and against, unless the score tomorrow night changes things, a tie will send the Madoc crew out of the picture. Bloomfield and Point Anne tangle in the first game.

Several inquiries regarding the dates and winners of various heavyweight fights have reached this desk. In order not to miss any herewith is the lineup of heavyweight fights and champions since the first titular battle under the Marquis of Queensberry rules to the current Brown Bomber.

The first heavyweight bout under the Marquis of Queensberry rules, with gloves and three minute rounds, was between James J. Corbett and John L. Sullivan, September, 1892. Corbett knocked out Sullivan in the 21st round.

Bob Fitzsimmons of Cornwall, Eng., took the title from Corbett, in 14 rounds at Carson City Nev., March, 1897.

James J. Jeffries, won the championship by beating Fitzsimmons in 11 rounds at Coney Island, N.Y., June 1899. Jeffries retired as champion but returned for an exhibition with Jack Johnson and was knocked out in 15 rounds, but Marvin Hart was officially declared champion after a bout with Jack Root with Jeffries as referee. Hart won on a knockout in 12 rounds.

Tommy Burns, whose proper name was Noah Brusso, of Hanover, Ont., beat Hart in 20 rounds but lost to Jack Johnson in Sydney, Australia in 14 rounds in 1908.

Jess Willard knocked out Johnson in 26 rounds at Havana, Cuba in 1915.

Jack Dempsey took the title from Willard with a third round knockout in Toledo in 1919.

Gene Tunney beat Dempsey for the crown in Philadelphia, 1926, on a 10-round decision. Tunney retired undefeated. The New York State Athletic Commission ordered a tournament for the heavy title and Jack Sharkey was declared champion.

Max Schmeling won the championship from Sharkey on a foul in 1930. Schmeling was dethroned for refusing to fight Sharkey in 1931 but they met the next year and Sharkey won the title claim again on a 15-round decision.

Primo Carnera knocked out Sharkey for the title in 1933.

Max Baer took the honor from Carnera in 1934 on a knockout in the 11th round.

Jim Braddock won the championship on points from Baer in 15 rounds, June, 1935.

Joe Louis, second Negro in history to hold the title, defeated Braddock on a knockout in the eighth round at Chicago, 1937. He has defended the championship 24 times.

Any sceptic who thinks the younger fry does not want to play hockey should have glimpsed the response to the appeal of coaches Cy Barriage and Bobby Strachan for players to turn out to the first practice of fthe Merchants Midget squad over the weekend. The arena ice was black with the young fellas and at least forty-five were counted gallivanting over the surface. They came in all sizes from half-pints to Imperial gallons. Manager Newton Wilbur was grinning like a Cheshire cat, tickled to death with the showing. About 22 of the kids were selected from the "mob" and it looks as though Merchants will be represented by a classy squad in the forthcoming midget hockey battles.

RETIRED JUDGE BURNED

Toronto, Dec. 15. (CP) — Judge W. E. Knowles, 75, retired, suffered burns to his face and arms when he accidentally set fire to his bed clothes in a Toronto convalescent home Saturday. He was rescued by his nurse, Margaret Fraser.

Firemen said the judge apparently tossed a match, which he thought was out, on the floor and it ignited a newspaper which set the bed clothes ablaze. Damage to the room was estimated at $50

Kansas City Pla-Mors Trounce Omaha 7 to 3

(By The Associated Press)

Kansas City Pla-Mors trounced Omaha 7-3 in the United States Hockey League last night to avenge the shut-out handed them by Omaha's 17-year-old goalie, Terry Sawchuk, in their last previous meeting.

Johnny Harms flashed three goals past the young net-minder, who has two shut-outs to his credit.

The Minneapolis Millers blasted their Kansas City jinx Saturday night with a 7-3 victory, their first in the last four starts against the Pla-Mors.

Dallas stepped over Fort Worth into second place in the southern division by defeating Rangers 5-3 Saturday, and Fort Worth dropped another game last night, to Tulsa Oilers, 3-2.

Houston snapped back into winning form in a 3-2 triumph over St. Paul last night, after the Saints had downed Tulsa 4-1 Saturday.

No games are scheduled tonight. Minneapolis will play at Omaha Tuesday.

Taxi Driver Saves Three From Path of Speeding Train WINS DOW AWARD

ARTHUR BARR
OF PORTSMOUTH, ONT.
is hero in hair-breath escape

It was a misty night in Kingston, Ontario. A dense fog forced motorists to drive slowly . . . and taxi driver Arthur Barr approached the railway crossing at Division Street cautiously. In the distance he could hear the whistle of a train and he decided to wait for it.

CAR WEDGED IN TRACKS

Suddenly he noticed a car wedged in the tracks. In the fog it had run off the side of the level crossing. Its driver was frantically trying to extricate the vehicle . . . and two women in the rear seat were in tears. Barr didn't hesitate a second. Commanding the driver to move over, he began to gun the accelerator . . . rocking the car back and forth.

IN NICK OF TIME

The train, a double-header freight, was almost upon them . . . its whistle screaming. But, in a last desperate effort, Barr managed to force the car to jump the rails . . . with only a few inches to spare as the freight roared past.

This man's unselfishness and cool presence of mind are deserving of great admiration. We are proud to pay tribute to Arthur Barr of Portsmouth, Ont., through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Seeing that the car was wedged in the tracks, Barr leaped from his taxi and ran to the assistance of the frantic driver.

Working desperately, Barr gunned the accelerator . . . rocking the car back and forth in an attempt to get out of the path of the oncoming freight.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers.

Oshawa Generals In Second Place Of Junior A Race

The old story "well on paper they look pretty good" is brought to fore when you look at an early season ball-of-fire club, the Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association's junior "A" loop.

With their Glen Sonmor-Yacker Flynn-Tatter McClelland first string forward line, potentially as good as you'll find in the league, the Biltmores should be hounding the leaders if not grabbing top-spot for themselves — but instead they seem to be running their own little race with Toronto Young Rangers for the circuit's cellar position.

The ninth-place Guelphites did refute this somewhat Saturday when they decisioned the forementioned Rangers 6-1 in the curtain-raiser of an afternoon twin-bill at Maple Leaf Gardens. It was their fourth victory in 16 starts. The Galt Rockets defeated Toronto St. Michael's Majors 4-1 in the Gardens' second game. Oshawa Generals blanked Toronto Marlboros 6-0 at Oshawa and Windsor Spitfires went to St. Catharines to lay an 11-4 coating over the Teepees, in the other two junior games Saturday.

In the lone senior "A" fixture the cellar-dwelling Brantford Redmen finally moved into the win column, after 15 starts, by downing Hamilton Patricias 7-3 at Brantford.

Shifty Glen Sonmor, with four goals and an assist led the Biltmores as they contributed Rangers' 14th loss in 16 starts. Guelph took a 3-0 first-frame lead, made it 4-0 in the second session and scored two for one in the final stanza.

Ed Bolan and Len Speck tallied Biltmores' other counters. Red Stephen scored Young Rangers' lone goal.

Galt and St. Michael's both drew two major penalties in second period to mark a fair hockey exhibition in the Gardens' second tilt. The Rockets still retain fifth-place with 19 points and the loss left the Majors in ninth position.

Generals Now Second

Galt led 2-0 in first period, 3-0 in second and tallied one for one in the third. Bob Robertson, Ken McNally, Terry Tkachuk and Al Singleton sank Galt counters. Ray Barry scored St. Michael's lone tally.

Oshawa Generals climbed into lone second - place with their win over the fourth-place Marlboros. Oshawa scored four goals in first period, and added the other two in the final frame.

It was Oshawa's 13th victory in 16 starts.

Ross Lowe led Generals' marksmen with two counters. George Scholes, Chuck Blair, George Scott and Heggie tallied one each.

Windsor Spitfires strengthened their hold on first place with their 13th victory in 16 starts — over seventh-place Teepees. St. Catharines was jinxed by a porous defence that afforded goalie Cec Gruhl scant protection.

Windsor's offensive was sparked by Ed Frezell, Gerd Haidy and Jim Taylor with two counters each. Bruce Glassbrecht, Joe Hay, Jim Wilson, Doug McKay and Cam Church accounted for Spitfires' other goals. St. Catharines' marksmen were Bill Kodatsky, Topper Toppazzini, Fiery Goegan and Doug Houston.

Brantford's "blue - sweatered" Redmen were full value for their win as they outskated and outshot Patricias in all but the second period. They led 4-1 at the end of the first period, 4-2 in the second and notched three for one in the third.

Ken Pidgeon led Brantford with two tallies while Russ Hann, Bill Dennany, Hoyle, Luckman and Wiacek scored one each.

Brantford will be gunning for their second straight victory when they visit the fourth-place Stratford Indians in tonight's only scheduled senior game. No junior games are slated.

Toronto Leafs N.H.L. Lead Cut as New York Rangers Continue Surprising Streak

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The National Hockey League spotlight today was in the New York Rangers, hottest pack in the league after 6 straight undefeated games. And the baby spotlight belonged to their substitute goalie Jim Henry, who on Saturday night turned in such a sensational chore of net-minding that a hostile Toronto crowd twice gave him an ovation while his mates were beating Toronto.

The five weekend games left Toronto's leadership margin cut to three points over Detroit, with Boston third by two points and New York Rangers in fourth spot only a point behind Boston. Montreal Canadiens are at a new low, in fifth position a point behind New York. Chicago Hawks are in the cellar, five full games behind the Canadiens.

Rangers beat Toronto 4-1 Saturday while Detroit were edging Chicago 4-3. On Sunday Toronto, which hasn't won a game in Boston since March 6, 1945, gained a 1-1 draw against the Bruins. Rangers and Detroit fought another 1-1 tie at New York and at Chicago the Canadiens came up with three last period goals to defeat Chicago 4-3.

Jim Henry was easily the hero of the piece in the Toronto game Saturday.

Trudell a Star

The Leafs had 18 shots on goal in the first period and only one got by. That was after a wild scramble in the goalmouth when Max Bentley finally scored with assists to Joe Klukay and Cy Thomas.

Rene Trudell earned a share of the Ranger honors Saturday too. After a grey-thatched Neil Colville had tricked Broda out of position and calmly plunked the puck into the net to tie the score, Trudell got Rangers' second goal in the final period. Tony Leswick made it 3-1 for New York before Trudell scored his second goal.

At Detroit Saturday the Wings hung up their fifth triumph over the Hawks with three of Detroit's rookie forwards each getting a goal. Leftwinger Marty Pavelich scored for Detroit in the first period and Adam Brown tied it up in the second. Then rookie Jim McFadden put Detroit ahead to stay after feinting Emile Francis out of position. Rod Moddison, playing his second N.H.L. game, made it 3-1 before the second period was over.

Pavelich was in the penalty box when Ernie Dickens scored for Chicago in the third but Jim Conacher scored another Detroit goal in a couple of minutes and Roy Conacher finished the Chicago scoring.

Syl Apps, the veteran centre and captain of Toronto Leafs, did not get into the Boston game Sunday. His knee was knocked Saturday and stiffened up. The team had been on the ice only 70 seconds when Boston goalie Frankie Brimsek cleared a hot shot from Howie Meeker to the back of the cage and Ted Kennedy grabbed it, shooting to Vic Lynn who scored from close range.

Wilson Scores Tying Goal

With less than 20 seconds of the second period to play, Wally Wilson got the tying goal for Boston on a 30-foot shot

At New York Sunday, the Red Wings took the lead when Doug McCaig scored on a long shot through a tangle of players in front of the New York nets in the first period. Edgar Laprade, one of the stars of the game gained the tie for New York when he snared a pass from Eddie Kullman and scored off defenceman Bill Quackenbush's leg late in the second period.

Ill-feeling kindled early in the game finally resulted in a roughing duel between Kullman and Armand Guidolin of Detroit which continued after the pair were banished with misconduct penalties.

The Canadiens finally came to life in the last period at Chicago Sunday. The 4-3 triumph over the Hawks was their second out of the last seven starts. The Hawks led 2-0 in the first period and 2-1 after the second. Bud Poile and Metro Prystai scored in the first period with Elmer Lach reducing the deficit. Bill Mosienko then pulled the score to 3-1 for Chicago before the Canadiens started rolling. Jimmy Peters, Maurice Richard and Glen Harmon scored in succession.

Swiss Committee Sticks to Guns

St. Moritz, Switzerland, Dec. 15 (CP) — The Swiss Olympic committee went ahead today with plans to hold the winter games Jan. 30-Feb. 8 in the face of renewed threats of a United States boycott that followed recognition of the Amateur Hockey Association's squad as the United States entry.

The Swiss Olympic Committee in an eecutive session ending in an executive session ending team would be admitted if its amateur qualifications are recognized by the Ligue Internationale Hockey sur Glace.

The A.H.A. is a member of the L.I.H.G. while the team supported by the United States Olympic Committee is not.

The United States has threatened to withdraw all its teams from the Olympic games if the A.H.A. outfit — which it contends is "professionally tainted" —is permitted to compete.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Elmer Lach of Montreal, picked up a goal and two assists in the weekend to move up to within one point of leader Syl Apps in the National League scoring race. Lach now has 26 points to 27 for Apps who went scoreless. Canadiens' Maurice Richard garnered one goal to edge into a 3rd-place tie with Buddy O'Connor of New York with 23 points.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Dec. 15 (AP) —The first requirement of a man who runs a big league baseball farm system is a good memory. Red Rolfe, the former Yankee third baseman and Yale coach who recently took charge of Detroit's minor league operations, says that the remarkable thing about the whole business is how his memory has improved since he has had to keep track of the players on a dozen clubs.

The way Red tells it, he'll have to do a lot more remembering because Tigers are just beginning to rebuild a chain that was reduced to almost nothing — first by Judge Landis' famous ruling that freed about 90 farm hands, then by the ear and Jack Zoeller's decision to get out of chain-store baseball.

"We have a few good players way down," Rolfe says, "but none who will be with Detroit soon."

Touch of Color

Examples of notably apt wording on various sport subjects:

Stanley Lowe, Marquette U. ticket director who is trying to satisfy the demand for the New Year's Eve game with Wisconsin: "Now I know what it is probably like to be trapped in a pressure cooker."

Harold Keight, Oklahoma U. publicity: "The Big Six basketball race is wide open as Joe E. Brown's mouth."

Red Smith, New York Herald Tribune columnist, on Friday's bout between Ike Williams and Tony Pellone: "Williams fought like a trout in a landing net."

THE ART OF SAYING "NO"

Saying "No" is more than a movement of the mouth—it is an art. There are lots of ways to say it—but only a few of them are both diplomatic and tactful. Trouble is that most of us give a curt "No" when it would be much kinder to offer a word of help and encouragement. Diplomacy and tact help retain old friendships and make new ones. They are essentials to "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The purpose of a mechanical trick count is to determine how many tricks a hand is expected to take. Up to a game contract, a sound count will usually produce what it promises.

Beyond a game, however, there is danger of a duplication of values. Thus, conventions are aids for advising whether there are enough controls to overcome any duplication that may exist.

However, if a pair discovers a preponderance of tricks in its combined count, high card controls are not always necessary. In lieu of high cards they will have short suits as ruffing possibilities.

In a recent tournament came this deal:

♠Q
♥K 10
♦Q J 10 5 3
♣K 8 6 3 2

WEST
♠7 3 2
♥J 6 5 4 2
♦8 7 6
♣7 5

EAST
♠K J 10 9 8 5
♥Q 8
♦9
♣J 10 9 4

SOUTH
♠A 6 4
♥A 9 7 3
♦A K 4 2
♣A Q

The Horse Sense bidding would go like this:

North	South
1 D	2 C
3 NT	4 D
5 NT	6 H
7 D	Pass

In answer to five notrump, six hearts is convention shower of two kings. Having gone beyond a six bid in the agreed trump suit of diamonds, a bid of seven in that suit is boldly suggested.

In a six bid reply of a king convention, partner should be wary of going beyond the agreed suit. When would it be policy to exceed the decided trump? Only with much more than revealed.

North counts seven tricks. His first response of two clubs is an admission of only three tricks. His raise to four diamonds shows only one more. He has three more than his first two bids revealed.

With so many extra tricks the north hand can count a surplus in their pair. With such a preponderance it is no time to go conservative. A surplus trick holder can be a bit bolder.

Eight Fatalities During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Traffic accidents accounted for four deaths, a man and woman were killed in a murder-suicide shooting, one man was drowned and another died in a fall, a survey by The Canadian Press of week-end fatalities in Eastern Canada showed today.

Mervyn Cotnam, 22-year-old Deux Rivieres man, died in hospital at Mattawa, Ont., Saturday night from injuries he suffered a week ago when his car was struck by a C.P.R. train.

William McIntosh, 67, died in hospital at Hamilton Saturday from injuries received last Thursday when struck by a motor car.

At Montreal Miss Freda Hervey, 22, of Jericho, Vermont, and Miss Virginia Walker, 22, of Burlington, Vt., were killed Saturday when their automobile crashed into a train at a Montreal level crossing. Four others were critically hurt.

The shotgun deaths Saturday in Sarnia of Mrs. Alvin Perry and Williard McCracken, 45, was described last night by police as a murder and a suicide. Police said that McCracken shot Mrs. Perry and took his own life following a domestic argument in a house which McCracken rented from her.

Paul Joseph Hood of Annan, Ont., near Owen Sound, was drowned Saturday evening when the truck in which he was a passenger went into a creek north of Chatsworth.

William Denns, 63, died in hospital at Toronto Saturday night from a fractured skull received when he fell down a basement stairway at his home a few hours earlier.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 15 — (AP) — The famed Broadway song-writing team of Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart will be portrayed on the screen by Frank Sinatra and Mickey Rooney, respectively.

This news comes from Arthur Freed, who will produce the film, to be called "Words and Music." The rest of the cast will include most of M-G-M's musical performers.

Musicals are the keynote of future M-G-M production, since the company's biggest money-maker last year was "Till the Clouds Roll By." Freed has several more in the mill, including "Annie Get Your Gun" with Judy Garland and "In the Good Old Summertime," the baseball yarn with Gene Kelley and Sinatra.

Danny Nervous

Danny Kaye tells me he is nervous about his tour of Britain early next year. When he last played there is 1938 he wasn't much of a hit. But that was before his stardom. Danny is another of those who are recording like mad to beat the Petrillo deadline. He is even making an album of Gilbert and Sullivan, which should be interesting. He starts "Inspector-General" at Warners in April . . .

Bob Hope gets his first big acting chance in "Sorrowful Jones," the "Little Miss Marker" remake. It will be played straight. Bob disclaims any academy ambitions, but don't you believe it. He eyes Bing's Oscar with no small envy. Bob recently did a dramatic bit on the Family Theatre which indicated his unplumbed thespic powers . . .

More Communism

Robert Mitchum is being named for "Up Until Now," Warners' yarn of American communism. The film was announced earlier this year and is being revived ... Felix Jackson, Deanne Durbin's husband, has given up film writing to pen a novel . . . Henry Morgan's Christmas Eve show should be lively. It will be his last for his current sponsor . . .

Cary Grant says he'll get out of town for Christmas "and leave it to the kiddies." He doesn't go to Britain until February since Sir Alexander Korda is coming here to confer on their film.

3rd Sidney

3rd Sidney. (Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wheeler, of Belleville, were recent dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Bailey entertained at a small dinner party on Wednesday evening in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Jewel Bailey, of the Belleville General Hospital staff.

Mrs. Harley Hubble has spent the past couple of weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hay at their home near Rossmore.

Messrs. Harleigh Hamilton, Cyril McMullen, Stanley Spafford, Wilmot Bailey, Fred Westover and Everett Hubble attended the annual meeting of the cheese producers association, held in Stirling on Tuesday afternoon.

The teachers, Mrs. Bates and Miss Palmer and pupils of the Centenary and Hogle schools, are busy practising for the school Christmas concerts. The Centenary-Aikens' young people are contributing a sacred number for the Centenary program.

Several Junior Farmers from this line attended a joint meeting of the Sidney Junior Farmers and the Junior Institute held in the Community Hall on Thursday evening.

This community was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Arthur Saylor early on Thursday morning at the Belleville General Hospital, where he had been a patient for the past few weeks. The late Mr. Saylor had lived on the 3rd Concession of Sidney for several years, where he and Mrs. Saylor had many sincere friends who deeply mourn his passing. Sympathy is extended to the sorrowing relatives.

NEVER ENDING LINE TO SEE WEDDING DRESS

Crowds, most of them women, stretched into three sides of a square around St. James' Palace to view the beautiful royal wedding dress and presents. Many of the queuers travelled from far outside London. Anxious for a close-up of the Princess's "fairy tale" wedding dress, this queue stretches away down the Mall.

NEW JET FIGHTER

Washington, Dec. 15 — (AP)— The United States Navy disclosed today it has a new jet fighter, the Grumman F9F Panther, which combines a top speed of more than 600 miles an hour with the quick take-offs and slow landings needed for aircraft carrier operations. It is the first U.S. war-plane built around a British turbo-jet engine, the Rolls Royce nine.

COMING EVENTS FOR CHRISTMAS

Casting their shadows on the village street of picturesque Lacock, Wilts, Eng., are a "gaggle" of geese and ducks whose days are numbered. Such sights are common in this old-world backwater of England, but with the approach of Christmas and reports of rural-minded "spivs" out to cash in on scarce table birds, a close watch is kept on truant poultry, and the school children welcome the chance to shepherd them back to the farmyard.

CHAPTER 16.

But Kay's storming soul would not be consoled. She knew herself to be a rank coward at heart. She had run away at so inopportune a time; she had been so thoughtless of others. Poor Webb! She never could love him, but she could pity him.

The day dragged out, with stops here and there to relieve the monotony of the feeling of being poised motionless above the earth. Passengers got off, others came in. Kay was totally disinterested in all of them. She was only miserably aware of her own shortcomings. Webb had needed her. She had failed him.

It was ten o'clock in the evening when the plane settled down in the path of searchlights on the Deweyton airport. Snatching up her overnight bag and handbag, Kay was the first passenger down the plane's little ladder.

A pair of strong arms gathered her up and swung her off the last step.

"Chuck!" she grasped weakly. "Chuck!"

"Yes, dear."

She burst into tears, her arms clinging desperately to his neck as he carried her across the runway.

"Darling—try to be calm. My own darling."

Never had she heard such confident endearment in his voice. Her wet eyes glanced up at him inquiringly when he set her inside his coupe and got in beside her.

"Webb?" She said. "Is he—how is he?"

He turned from her, fussed with the ignition key, said gruffly, "He's all right—will probably recover."

"Oh," she faltered, a sudden giddiness creeping over her.

She nearly wished that Chuck had not come to meet her. It would make her return to Webb so much more difficult.

"You're taking me to the hospital?"

All the sparkling gladness of a few brief moments before had gone out of her voice.

He did not push the starter but turned to her now, his face strangely drawn.

"It's not necessary for you to go there, Kay. In fact—it might be bad for Webb to see you—at this time. It might retard his recovery."

"You mean—"

"It's that Kitty West—he'd rather have her with him," she guessed swiftly, but did not voice this suspicion.

"I saw Webb this morning, Kay. He asked for me as soon as he regained consciousness. He—he told me—everything."

She gripped herself by sheer will power. She could not, dared not ask what this meant.

"He told me about finding the note I wrote you—on the floor of the lounge in the City Club. I remember being there the day I lost it. He said he went to Hennington Blare's apartment that night to protest against his marrying you. Henn was furious and made a pass at him—so in self-defence Webb came back with a blow that landed Henn against the edge of his desk. It was all an accident."

"How—how horrible!" whispered Kay. "Then it was—it was Webb who did it. He told me—it was—"

"Yes—he told you it was I. After Henn was dead, he laid my note beside the body—then went after you with a story about meeting for cocktails in Henn's apartment. You know the rest."

"What—what a miserable story for Webb to invent. Oh—I knew you couldn't have done it, Chuck!"

"Yet in order to save me, you were willing to marry Webb. He told me that to."

"How I hate him!"

"Don't do that, darling. Webb's not all bad. His conscience bothered him cruelly at the last—he made a clean breast of the whole affair—he's ready to take the consequences. He—he releases you from your engagement. He said to tell you."

An awkward silence fell now. There came a sudden swish of sleet against the closed windows. Kay drew a long quivering breath that somethow released all the pent up bitterness she had been storing within herself for so many weary weeks.

It was his one cue to probe her with the ancient query of all lovers.

"You have said you do not love me, Kay—but you need no longer be—a beautiful liar."

She laughed shakily, her hand groping for his.

His fingers closed over hers.

"I'd do it all over again for you, dear," she said with a brave directness. "And— I do love you."

"My—darling," he murmured huskily, against her hair.

The storm beginning to rage outside this cosy retreat could not equal the grateful tumult in their two hearts beating in harmony. They knew that behind the dark blanket of clouds was a sun, a moon, and stars to light their heaven—the heaven of their destiny.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop drank his coffee kind of sleeepy this morning, saying to ma, I had the confoundest dreem last night. I dreemed you kept waking me up without rime or reason. Yee gods, it seemed so vivid I swear I feel as if I hadn't closed my eyes all night, he said.

It was even more vivid than it seemed, ma said. I mean I actually did wake you up every time I was aroused by that little puppy crying in the garage next door, she said, and pop said, For Peet sake did it make you feel any better to know I was losing sleep too?

Well naturelly, ma said. I certainly had no intention of tossing and terning in solitary confinement while you slept like an innocent top with your gilty conscience, she said, and pop said, What the doocee has my conscience got to do with it?

You know very well you should of spoken to those people about that puppy at least 2 days ago, ma said, and pop said, If you'll pardon an obvious question, why couldn't you of spoken to them?

Because they've just moved in, and it would hardly be good nayborly for me to start their acquaintance with a complaint, ma said. But it's different with you. You're a man and your shoulders are broader, she said, and pop said, Maybe so, my dear, but your logic is narrower. But all right, you win. I'll speek to them. At least I'll speak to the wife. She's an attractive little thing and I flatter myself that I know my way around a pritty woman, he said.

Oh, I wouldn't call her a raving bewty, ma said, and pop said, I'll come home erly, while her mug of a husband is still away, and I'll bring her some flowres, and everything will go off fine.

Oh, dont bother your stupid head, I'll attend to it, ma said.

Which she did, talking to the lady after breakfist, and the lady promised to let the puppy sleep in the house instead of the garage, partly for the dog's sake and partly on generel principals.

SHE'S DREAMING OF A WARM CHRISTMAS

When Santa Claus comes to Hollywood he can't wear his heavy red suit and furs. For Hollywood at Christmas time is bathing suit country. Here is Gloria Grahame whose Christmas tree (a cactus) is hung in Yule style with colored balls.

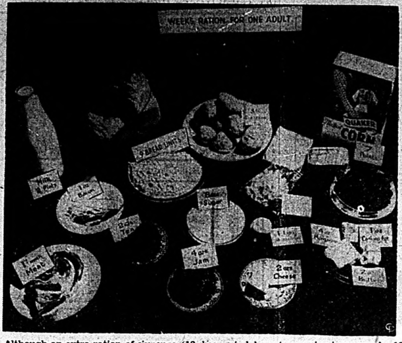
"ROYAL COURT OF THE ROSES"

Here are the seven beauties chosen from among 3,500 co-eds of Pasadena, Calif., city college as the royal court of the roses. Six of them will be princesses and one will be selected queen of the annual tournament of roses, highlighted by the New Year's Day parade. The lovelies are, left to right, top: La Jean Galloway and Ethelyn Joyner; centre, Dorothy Young, Virginia Goodhue and Donna Duggan; bottom, Arlette Barnes and Sherry Beth Cobb.

ELEANOR BRINGS LOVE INTO U. N.

Love that laughs at locksmiths has finally crashed into the sacrosanct councils of the United Nations. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt gave it the boost at a meeting of the U.N. human rights commission at Geneva, where she is shown chatting with French delegate Rene Cassin. Love bowed in when Mrs. Roosevelt suggested that an article in the human rights declaration should state that women and men have equal freedom to marry. Russia's Alexander Bogomolov took issue with Mrs. R., retorting that such a proposal would have been "revolutionary back in the 17th century" but that what was needed now was protection of the family by the state.

HERE IS CHRISTMAS MENU FOR A BRITON



Although an extra ration of sixpence (10 cents) worth of meat, a pound and a half of sugar and four ounces of candy have been added to the Christmas menu, British table won't groan under the traditional Dickensian Christmas fare this year. Austerity rules more stringently than ever. Above is one week's food ration for the average adult. Although the official milk ration is two pints, as shown, people in many urban areas can only get one and a half pints. The weekly nine bread units have been used here to acquire two pounds, 10 ounces of bread and one pound of flour. To purchase "austerity cake" half of the small loaf or half of the flour would have to be sacrificed. The one egg per week has a big "if" — if you can get it. And the same goes for the one ounce of bacon. Canned goods are a luxury with high point value, one pound of canned tongue, for example, costs 48 points. So only very large families can afford to be so extravagant.

STREET CARS BURNED IN EGYPTIAN STUDENT RIOT

Brass-helmeted firemen look ruefully at the remains of one of the street cars burned by Arab students in Cairo during the demonstration to protest recent partitioning of Palestine. The students first "commandeered" the vehicles for their parade and burned them when police tried to break up the demonstration.

Gold Mines Study Effects of Aid

(By The Canadian Press)

The trials and tribulations of gold and a spurt by western oils featured Canadian Stock Exchanges last week, while in New York stocks were in considerably better form than a week ago.

Canadian gold mines got a measure of assistance from Ottawa which they haven't figured out yet, but it is not as much as they feel they need, and gold stocks dropped Friday.

The most cheerful reaction came from Halifax where R. Douglas Graham, president of the Nova Scotia Gold Mines Association, said the assistance program is "the best news we have heard in a long time."

The aid is a complicated matter. If production cost is more than $18 an ounce, the government will pay half the excess cost on all production above two-thirds of that produced in the year ending June 30 last.

It will take a while for each mine to figure out what it means to it, and what plans it should make, but roughly it is believed to favor high-cost mines with low-grade ores and that it will help mines compete in the labor market.

In Toronto on the week, Industrials were down .04 on the exchange's index, golds were down .39, base metals up 1.32 and western oils up 2.99.

Western Oils at 29.53 are at their highest since early August, following almost solid gains in the last two days concurrent with an increase in price for crude oil.

In Montreal, index changes showed Banks down .21, Utilities and Industrials combined down .20, papers up 3.93 and mines up .20.

There are hopes in reports from Ottawa that negotiations may yet be successfully concluded with Britain to continue expiring food agreements. These arise from the fact that the British Mission has delayed its return sailing date.

Murder, Suicide Police Theory

Sarnia, Dec. 15. (CP)—After investigating for 30 hours, police last night labelled as murder and suicide the shotgun deaths Saturday of Mrs. Alvin Perry and Willar McCracken, 45.

Following a domestic argument, police said, McCracken shot the woman in the house that he had just rented from her and then turned the gun on himself. Police were called to the house by McCracken himself and they arrived to find the woman's body lying in a pool of blood in the living room.

As police arrived at the front door they heard the blast of a shot gun and found McCracken seriously wounded in the basement. He was taken to the hospital but died within an hour. Police said that he failed to shed any light on the shooting.

Ten-year-old Clement de Sutter of Belgium, a war orphan, is seen giving Mary Pickford, Canadian - born former film star and now movie producer, a big hug. The war orphans will stay in the United States for 10 days and will live with their foster parents.

Charges Administration With "Playing Politics"

U. S. House Majority Leader Charles Halleck (R) of Indiana (right) charged that President Harry Truman is "playing politics" with both European relief and high prices at home. Halleck, shown with Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R) of Ohio (left), declared during debate on the stop-gap foreign aid bill that the Democratic administration has "terribly mismanaged the foreign affairs of the nation."

Swedish Newspapers and Citizens Express Misgivings Over Russia's Interest in Internal Affairs

By THOMAS HARRIS

Stockholm, Dec. 15 — (Reuters) — Increasing misgivings are being expressed by newspapers and private citizens in Sweden over Russia's growing interest in the country's internal affairs.

Criticism of Communism in the right and centre press is sharper and new attacks are being made against the 1,000,000,000 crowns credit which Sweden's Socialist government granted to Soviet Russia for reconstruction purposes after the war.

Russia Attempts to Censor Broadcast

Most unpopular recent Russian action in Sweden has been the attempt of the Soviet Ambassador here, Ilja Tchernychev, to censor a broadcast by the Stockholm radio on the 30th anniversary of the Bolshevist Revolution

Having learned that four Scandinavian authors would speak — two for communism and two against it — Tchernychev requested the foreign office to instruct the radio station to remove the two critics of the Soviet Union from the program.

The foreign office refused and the Conservative and Liberal press opened a barrage of criticism against Tchernychev which continued intermittently until the end of November.

Sees 'Revival of Nazi Attempts'

The Liberal Dagens Nyheter, Sweden's biggest newspaper, described his action as a "revival of Nazi attempts to exercise a preventive censorship over expressions of public opinion in Sweden." Indignant readers wrote to their newspapers stressing the need for Sweden to emphasize her independence.

The Stockholm press was indignant, too, when asked by the Soviet Legation here to publish a report from the official Soviet news agency, Tass, on the demonstrations outside the Soviet Legation in Rio De Janeiro after Brazil had broken off diplomatic relations with Russia. Editors refused, pointing out that reports of the incident had been received—and published — on the previous day from the Anglo-Saxon news agencies.

The Swedish man-in-the-street, worried over the growing economic crisis here, has been most concerned by Russia reaction to the plans for a Scandinavian customs union put forward again this month by cabinet ministers in the northern countries. He reads articles by Scandinavian economists in his newspaper, but on turning to the foreign columns finds Moscow radio reported as issuing a warning against the formation of any "Nordic bloc."

Canadian Corps Assoc. Charges Mismanagement

Toronto, Dec. 15 — (CP)—Ontario command of the Canadian Corps Association meeting here Saturday passed a resolution asking an explanation from the Ontario government of the status of the 1914-1918 canteen fund, charging that through mismanagement the fund had dwindled from $1,797,085 in 1927 to $742,030 last year.

The convention further resolved that all payments to veterans from the fund be suspended until the recommendations of a brief prepared by a special committee are acted upon.

Roland Michener, provincial secretary in the Ontario government, said last night the Ontario government is conferring with the Federal government to have the canteen statute under which the fund is regulated, revised to deal with the Ontario section of the fund more satisfactorily.

"The provincial government," said Mr. Michener, "has had the problem with which the Canadian Corps is concerned under consideration, and has been considering what revision of the administration and use of the fund is desirable."

Although the trustees of the Ontario fund are appointed by the provincial government, the fund was set up by federal legislation in 1925, he pointed out.

The fund was raised from proceeds of canteens and was turned over to provincial governments after the First World War on a per capita basis. Ontario's share was $1,797,085 and was to be used to help veterans not in receipt of pensions. A Board of Trustees was set up to administer the fund.

One of the charges of the special committee's brief was that administration costs "appear to be out of proportion" it said that for every $100 paid out to veterans in 1927-1931 the trustees received $12. In the period 1942 to 1946, the brief said, the trustees received $64 for every $100 paid to veterans.

"The policy throughout the entire period appears to have been one of treating the fund as an investment rather than as a fund for relief of the 1914-1918 veterans," it said. "It was a policy which built up the fund each year for investments, keeping the capital intact at the expense of the veteran in need of assistance. Many veterans have been barred from assistance which they had a right to expect."

BATA EMPLOYEE DROWNS IN TRENT RIVER

Big Four Fails In Talks With Russia on Germany

Western Powers Likely To Unify West Germany

London, Dec. 16 —(AP)— High diplomatic informants said State Secretary Marshall will begin with Foreign Minister Bidault tonight the first of a series of Western Power talks on the unification of Western Germany.

The informants said Marshall set his staff of German advisers to work early today drafting proposals which he might tentatively advance to Bidault for the merger of the French zone with the British and American zones, now that the four-power organization of all Germany has been ruled out, for the immediate future, at least, by the breakdown of the Big Four talks here.

Bidault held a press conference in which he said there "will be conversations to see where we stand" on Western Germany in the near future.

He told reporters that he regretted yesterday's breakdown and that "our sorrow was greater than our surprise."

Deputies of the four foreign ministers scheduled a meeting for tomorrow to begin what may be their last joint effort to write a treaty for Austrian peace and independence.

Bidault also said he expected to see Foreign Secretary Bevin before leaving for Paris Wednesday night. Talks between Bevin and Marshall also are due.

Bevin is expected to report to parliament at the earliest opportunity. Britons said he is expected to tell the Cabinet tomorrow of the factors leading to the conference breakdown.

The collapse of the Big Four foreign ministers council here, which occurred at 7:18 p.m. Monday, leaves Europe more firmly and formally divided than at any time since the war ended.

There was no arrangement for any future meeting of the foreign ministers and no hint that anything was in the wind for healing the breach.

The final failure of the London conference, sixth session of the foreign ministers' council since the end of the war, was in many respects an anti-climax. It followed a pattern which had been foreseen and dramatics were few. The real explosion occurred last Friday when Molotov bundled up all the known Soviet charges about the other occupying powers and threw them in the faces of the others, who already had denied them to Molotov's face.

Then, and again last night, Molotov stood firm on his demand for billions of dollars in reparations from Germany's future production. The western ministers

SYDNEY CHAMBERS PAYS THE PENALTY FOR GIRL'S MURDER

Walks Calmly to Gallows Still Protesting His Innocence

St. Catharines, Dec. 16. (CP)—Sydney George Chambers, 35, paid the death penalty for murder early today, just 51 weeks to the day after nine-year-old Marian Rusnak was lured away by a stranger on the street and never seen again.

The former canning factory fireman twice was convicted of the murder of the little girl whose body never has been found. The Crown contended that he had enticed her to the canning factory, smothered her and thrown her body into the plant's furnace.

His first trial resulted in conviction, which was successfully appealed. His second trial also resulted in conviction and sentence to be hanged on Dec. 8. That sentence was deferred while his second appeal was argued. The second appeal was dismissed by the Ontario Appeals Court a few days ago and the death sentence set for Dec. 16 was carried out.

Chambers sang three hymns and recited the 23rd Psalm in his cell last night before walking calmly to the gallows at midnight, still protesting that he was innocent.

It was just a few minutes after midnight when prison officials informed Chambers that the time had come. As Chambers reached the last of the 13 steps to the waiting noose, Sheriff William Villiers asked if he had anything to say.

"I didn't do it, Sheriff," the doomed man replied in an even voice. "I say the same thing now as I did then. . . . .I didn't do it."

The trap was sprung at 12.12 a.m., and death was pronounced at 12.26.

Chambers was buried in the jail yard.

The executon took place inside the Lincoln County jail. It was the first execution in St. Catharines, and the second hanging in Lincoln County history.

Arthur Machen, Famed Novelist Dies in England

Beaconsfield, Buckinghamshire, England, Dec. 16 — (Reuters) — Arthur Macken, 84, the novelist who originated the famous First World War legend of "the Angels of Mons," died here Monday.

Deeply affected by the Battle of Mons in which 5,000 British soldiers were killed in August, 1914, Machen wrote shortly afterwards a story in which St. George and a host of English bowmen were shown to aid the hard-pressed British Army and rout the Germans.

It was soon rumored that the tale was true and soldiers claimed to have seen the heavenly vision and the legend was born

Machen was nearly 60 when his novels won wide recognition. Among his best known works were "The Hills of Dreams" and

Born in Wales, Machen went to London in his youth and earned a meagre living as a cataloguer of occult books, an experience which probably led to the vein of fantasy which colored his writings.

Despite his literary successes, he never earned great wealth. In 1932 he was granted a $400-a-year pension by the King for distinguished service in the arts.

Britain, U.S. Suffered Propaganda Defeat at Parley Says Newspaperman

By WES GALLAGHER

London, Dec. 16 —(AP)— In a newspaper man's view, the United States and Great Britain suffered a propaganda defeat if not a diplomatic one during the abortive conference of foreign ministers.

Except for the last day, the dominant voice of the 17 sessions was that of Foreign Minister Molotov, reiterating the theme that the Soviet Union was Germany's only friend.

Day after day he took the initiative in manoeuvring the discussion around — no matter what the subject — to his favorite topic: the Soviet Union's desire for a strong, central, liberal democratic government for Germany.

Before the conference started the British and American delegations expressed the belief Molotov would use the conference largely, if not solely, as a sounding board to the German people. They said they would stop him or cut him off.

But Molotov did just what they feared he would do for 16 days. All attempts to stop him failed.

He was repeatedly charged by Foreign Secretary Bevin and State Secretary Marshall with speaking not to his fellow ministers but to the German people. There was no sign that he ever heard these accusations.

Day after day he repeated the same charges against the west: That they were profiteering on German misery, that they were holding back Germany's industry, that they were partitioning Germany, and dozens of other similar charges which have been made in the Soviet press and radio for months.

Day after day Bevin and Marshall denied the accusations, but this did not stop the Russian. He repeated them as though they were new each time and no answer had ever been made.

It was high level application of an old propaganda axiom: That if you say something often enough not only your listeners will believe it but you probably will soon believe it yourself.

WARTIME CONTROL POWERS EXTENDED UNTIL MAR. 31ST

Want Price Ceilings On Food, Coarse Grains

Ottawa, Dec. 16. (CP)— The Commons climaxed three days of dawdling debate last night by adopting a government resolution for a three-months extension of wartime control powers due to expire Dec. 31 and then turned to another measure to continue the authority of government food purchasing boards.

Running through the long, and at times spiritless, debate on emergency powers was a thread of opposition criticism of the government's decontrol program and its recent removal of feed grain subsidies and the discussion concluded with two government members joining the call for continuation of control policies.

The Liberal speakers were Bano Arsenault (L-Bonaventure) and Dr. P. F. Gauthier (L-Portneuf), who urged that the government re-impost price ceilings on food and coarse grains.

Specifically, the debate was on a resolution for extension to March 31 of the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, which gives force to price and other controls still in effect. Later, the government will introduce separate bills for the further continuation of specific controls it believes will be needed.

With that measure carried, Justice Minister Ilsley moved adoption of a second resolution to give similar extension to the Agricultural Products Act, under which the government requisitions food needed to fill long-term contracts with Britain.

Cattle Buyer Slain After Being Forced To Write $9,800 Cheque

Council Bluffs, Ia., Dec. 16 — (AP) — C. R. Burntlett, 50-year-old Iowa farmer has admitted he shot a wealthy cattle buyer and cut the body into small pieces to make it burn faster, authorities said.

Bruntlett, a former convict once sentenced to life imprisonment, will be charged with murder in the death of Percy J. Smith, 57, missing since last Monday, police officials said.

Police said Bruntlett told them that he forced Smith at gunpoint to write a $9,800 cheque last Monday, ostensibly for 60 head of cattle, and then shot him twice in the head.

The farmer then related that he piled cobs on top of Smith's body threw kerosene on the pile, and set it afire and later cut the body into small pieces to make it burn faster scattering the remains in a cornfield.

Conspiracy Case Against Union Official Dropped

Windsor, Dec. 16. (CP)—One of Canada's most unusual Labor cases involving rights of picketing was closed today with announcement that conspiracy charges against Harry Rooney, business agent for Local 195 of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) have been dropped.

Rooney, chairman of the Chrysler unit of the local during the 112-day strike of 4,000 workers in 1946, was tried twice with George Burt, Canadian director of the U A W, and Thomas MacLean, assistant director, on charges of conspiring to watch and beset the plants of the company with a view to preventing workers entering.

At the first trial a year ago the jury disagreed in all three cases. A new trial on Dec. 2 last resulted in acquittal of Burt and MacLean, but the jury disagreed in the case of Rooney who was released on $500 bail.

Yesterday the attorney-general's office in Toronto advised Crown Attorney E. C. Awrey here that the charges against Rooney were being dropped.

The local case was the first time the conspiracy section of the Criminal Code had been invoked in a labor dispute. There was admission that pickets marched in close ranks before the plant gates and evidence that executives and other employees could not enter when they wanted to work. But the Crown had difficulty in showing that accused had actually conspired to bring about illegal picketing.

There was no evidence that Burt or MacLean had been seen on picket lines but there was evidence that Rooney was on the picket lines.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 16 —(CP)—Synopsis: Snow is falling over Central and Northeastern Ontario due to an intense disturbance centred near Ottawa. This storm moved rapidly northeastward from the Gulf of Mexico on Monday. As a result the associated rain and snow arrived in Southern Ontario some 12 to 18 hours sooner than expected. Continued rapid movement will result in fairly rapid clearing over the province today. Colder but generally clear weather will continue on Wednesday.

OFFICE ALARM CLOCK

Hamilton, Dec. 16 —(CP)— An office alarm clock set to ring 15 minutes before it is time for her to go to council meetings is Ald. Ellen Fairclough's method for being on time. She says it is an impressive way of telling a visitor that she must go soon.

Armed Guards Accompany Ship Against Pirates

By WAYNE RICHARDSON

Hong Kong, Dec. 16 (AP) — The Dutch passenger ship Van Heutz, raided by Chinese pirates who kidnapped six voyagers yesterday, sailed dauntlessly out of port again today for Swatow.

Aboard the 4,522 ton vessel was its full compliment of 1,600 passengers. But this time to buck the buccaneers were seven well armed guards.

The Van Heutz was defenceless yesterday. About 25 pirates leisurely roamed her decks and gathered up loot valued by a ship's officer at $500,000. The freebooters carried off six passengers for ransom, presumably to some hideaway on Bias Bay, 30 miles northeast of this British colony. The Van Heutz returned to port.

Shipping officials said the boarding of the Van Heutz was the latest instance of a post-war resurgence of piracy plaguing coastal shipping lanes. Singapore and Hong Kong are reported the main plotting stations of pirates who are using modern methods.

They are reported to be operating a modern intelligence system.

Officials said most pirates apparently travel as well dressed passengers, seizing control of a ship at some predetermined point where confederates lie in wait. That is what seemed to have happened in the Van Heutz raid.

From 1922 to 1928, 34 ships ranging from small junks to vessels of more than 2,000 tons fell victims to coastal pirates. The raids reached a peak in 1923 during troubled mainland conditions.

Say Offer Made $10,000 Week to Miss Truman To Sing at Restaurant

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Owners of a Times Square restaurant said yesterday they had asked Margaret Truman to appear at their restaurant after a Washington singing concert Dec. 22 at a salary of $10,000 a week. The owners said they would offer President Truman's daughter six weeks with options if she consented but they have received no reply as yet.

THIEVES LEAVE $12 ON TILL FOR SIPHONED GAS

Huntsville, Dec. 16 (CP)—Courteous car thieves have turned up here. Councilman James Simpson had his car stolen Saturday and when it turned up in Toronto it had more gas in the tank than when stored here. The thieves also left $12 on the till at the storage station, from where the car was taken, for gas they siphoned from other cars.

HAGANA FIGHTERS SURROUND BAND OF ARMED ARABS

Pitched Battle Taking Place North of Tel Aviv

Jerusalem, Dec. 16 (CP)—Hagana headquarters at Tel Aviv reported today that a Hagana force had surrounded a uniformed and "heavily armed" band of Arabs at Yarkona, fives miles north of Petah Tiqva, and that a pitched battle was taking place.

A spokesman for the Jewish defence forces said the Arab band, which he described as "a large force," was believed to be a scouting party from the Arab village of Tulkarm.

The Arabs were first observed north of Tel Aviv and were pursued northward by Hagana fighters, finally taking refuge in several abandoned houses on the outskirts of Yarkona.

An official announcement said three Arabs and one Jew wounded in previous incidents died today, bringing the Holy Land death toll to 253 since the decision to partition Palestine on Nov. 29. The death toll for the entire Middle East stood at 374.

In the Yarkona fight, which opened the 17th consecutive day of Arab-Jewish blood-letting, Hagana said the "larger part" of the Arab band had been "destroyed."

In Cairo, the premiers and foreign ministers of the seven Arab states prepared to wind up their "war conference' 'tonight and said they would issue a statement at the close of the meeting regarding discussions on what help to give Palestine's Arabs.

Decisive Answer

Syrian Premier Jamil Mardam Bey was quoted in Cairo dispatches as saying the announcement would be a "decisive" one. He said it had been drafted by the premiers of Syria, Iraq, Trans-Jordan and the Deputy Foreign Minister of Saudi Arabia.

Reuters News Agency said a Cairo dispatch quoted a newspaper report that Premier Nokrashy Pasha of Egypt had told his cabinet of an Arab League decision not to put regular Ardb forces into the Palestine "fight against Zionism."

The Premier added, according to this report, that this attitude would be revised after the British withdrawal and in the light of the International situation then prevailing.

Meanwhile irregular Arab armies would be stationed along the Palestine borders to watch the situation inside Palestine and facilitate the arrival of new weapons to volunteer units.

According to the report, Hofrashy Pasha said the Arab government had decided to raise an initial fund of £1,000,000 ($4,000,000) to finance the liberation of Palestine, of which Egypt's share would be 42 per cent.

HELD UP AT GUNPOINT AND THEN ROBBED

L. Stojan Trapped When Car Plunges Over River Bank

Companion in Hospital Suffering From Shock

Dropping 20 feet into the Trent River when their car went out of control to plunge into the water below No. 2 powerhouse at the northern limits of Trenton, Louis Stojan, Trenton, age 29, was drowned early this morning, while the driver of the car, Theodore Kravacek, is in Belleville hospital suffering from shock.

The two men were on their way to work at Batawa when driving north on No. 33 highway at the north end of the town the car is believed to have skidded on the slushy pavement and plunged into the river. The highway at this point runs close to the river the embankment being 20 feet above the water. The car dropped into approximately 12 feet of water.

Trenton police who investigated the accident stated that Kravacek had managed to get out of the car and had climbed ashore but there had been no sign of Stojan. However, when the car was recovered about nine o'clock it was empty and it is believed Stojan was swept to his death beneath the river ice.

Dragging operations were conducted for some time at the point where the car plunged through the thin ice but were unsuccessful.

The Stojan family live just north of Trenton with Kravacek rooming at the same house. The two men had left in Stojan's car for work at Batawa when the accident occurred.

Food Proposals By Canada Studied By UK Cabinet

London, Dec. 16 — (CP)—British cabinet ministers today are examining Canadian proposals for continued food contracts with Treasury Under-Secretary R. W. B. Clarke, one of their representatives at the Ottawa negotiations, available for consultation.

Clarke left Ottawa before the Canadian proposals were submitted during the weekend but when his return to Britain was announced a source said he would be able to advise the ministers on the background of the talks and the financing difficulties faced by both countries.

Clarke was No. 2 man of the mission to Ottawa headed by Sir Percival Leisching and he may return to Ottawa after the London talks.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Food Minister Strachey, and Philip Noel-Baker, Commonwealth Relations Minister, are expected to pass on the Canadian proposals. Their decision may go to Ottawa tomorrow.

The Dominion suggestions were passed to the ministers with a report of the officials who termed them "practical."

Army Men Go Back to School, Learn More Science, Mathematics

Ottawa, Dec. 16 —(CP)— The army is putting its soldiers back to school to learn more maths and science.

Defence Minister Claxton announced today that the army's electrical and mechanical corps schools at Barriefield, Ont., is organizing special courses with an eye to the future need for soldiers with good grounding in matriculation mathematics and science.

Although recruits may be accepted in the post war active force if they have a scholastic standing of junior matriculation or its equivalent, the minister said men with higher standards are needed for radar and wireless technicians, engineers, instrument mechanics, electricians and for other skilled army trades.

Such jobs require a sound grounding in matriculation mathematics and science.

The courses will be split into two parts running consecutively, the first covering junior matriculation maths and science and the second taking in senior matriculation maths and science subjects. Thus the soldiers will sweat it out over geometry, algebra, trigonometery, physics and chemistry.

MENNONITES PLAN TO LEAVE WEST FOR PARAGUAY

Migration from West Central Saskatchewan to Stretch 6,000 Miles

Gouldtown, Sask., Dec. 16 — (CP)—Twenty-three Mennonite families have decided to leave this west central Saskatchewan district for life in a new continent as soon as they can arrange transportation.

Numbering approximately 90 people, they will join more than 2,000 from Mennonite communities at Halbstadt and Altona, Man., in a migration that will carry them more than 6,000 miles to central Paraguay in South America.

The sect originated in Holland in the 17th century and migrated first to Prussia, then to Russia, to escape the bitter persecution that followed it. When they became liable in Russia to military service, which they have always refused on religious grounds, they came to North America.

Warns Motorists To be Cautious

Toronto, Dec. 16 —(CP)—Snow and rain fell generally throughout Ontario during the night but although motorists were advised to drive slowly, there would be no emergency caution warning issued, Highways Department officials said today.

Snow and rain was reported by weather bureau officials in the eastern part of the province, but the falls were expected to halt this morning. Snows as heavy as eight inches were reported in some parts of Northern Ontario, with flurries and drifting general. It was expected the snow flurries would move into Bruce Peninsula and along the southern shores of Georgian Bay and Lake Huron.

With temperatures gradually dropping below the freezing point roads may become icy in Southern Ontario where most of the snow which fell during the night is too wet to drift. Authorities said that any snow which falls during the balance of the day will probably drift due to a strong north-west wind.

In Southern Ontario, highways officials said roads at present were plowed but slushy. North of Orangeville, Guelph, Kitchener and Stratford, where snowfall was reported as much as eight inches, roads were heavy. Falls as heavy as 10 inches were reported in Northern Ontario, with snow still falling.

Kinsmen Wrap Christmas Gifts For C.A.S. Wards

It was parcel wrapping time for members of the Kinsmen Club Monday evening when at their regular bi-monthly supper meeting at the Hotel Quinte Christmas gifts for wards of the Children's Shelter were wrapped. Gifts of all description, including toys and candy were wrapped for the Shelter kiddies and prior to Christmas will be distributed to the grateful children.

Wives and girl friends of the Kinsmen were guests at the meeting and later turned in to do a really smart job of wrapping the Christmas parcels.

Two new members, Gordon Hartman and Dave Hamilton, were accepted into the club with President Arthur Cruji officiating at the installation ceremony. Leo Riggs presided at the piano for the sing song led by Gardiner Duff and later favored with two much appreciated piano solos, while Mrs. Mildred Landon, Ottawa, added to the entertainment of the evening with two humorous readings.

Christmas Treat For Boys, Girls

Madoc — On Saturday afternoon over 700 boys and girls and tiny tots of Madoc village and surrounding community were given a Christmas treat by the Madoc Community Club and businessmen of the village. Owing to hydro restrictions the usual Christmas Tree was omitted. Santa Claus, arriving by car, greeted the children at Madoc Armouries and all paraded to the Empire Theatre where they were presented with popcorn, candy and fruit, also a free picture show in the Empire Theatre. The Community Club has made this occasion an annual affair for some years and, with the aid of the business men, with their cash donations, give to the children a pleasant outing eagerly anticipated.

Many Veterans' Families Living In Misery and Hardship for Lack Of Proper Housing Says R.R. Secy.

"It is no exaggeration to say that 90 per cent of city residents living in comfortable homes, have no conception of the appalling living conditions under which many Belleville families are existing," Mrs. Myra Kerr, Rooms Registry secretary, said today, reporting on the last month's activities of her office.

"Veterans' families in some cases, are living in barns, garages and woodsheds. It is almost impossible to find living quarters large enough for couples with one child, let alone two or three or four children," she added.

More Acute in Winter.

The shortage of accommodation is always more acute at this time of year, Mrs. Kerr pointed out, due to families living in unwinterized accommodation desperately seeking warmer quarters.

"But never," Mrs. Kerr said, "has there been so many stories of misery and hardship where small children are concerned. The average home cannot spare more than one or two rooms for rent. What Belleville needs are many moderately priced homes and self contained apartments."

The demand for light housekeeping rooms and boarding places is still greater than the supply. There is seldom a call for a "bedroom" only. The high cost of living in general and restaurant meals, in particular, force almost all applicants, except restaurant workers, to ask for cooking privileges, the rooms service secretary said.

Her office in the Y.M.C.A. is well known to all the construction companies now operating here and each week she is in receipt of applications from subcontractors for accommodation.

Many Female Applicants.

A large proportion of other applicants are young women teachers and office workers, all in search of a home. "Daily," Mrs. Kerr said, "we realize the urgent need of a Young Women's Christian Association branch here. It is not unusual to receive applications from former members of the Women's Division of the armed services who, during the war, made use of the Y.W.C.A. Hostess House on Campbell Street and who now long for something to take its place."

During the month of November, Mrs. Kerr received 101 new applications for accommodation. This represented 199 persons. During the month 142 persons received accommodation through her office. Those willing to share their homes are requested to telephone the Rooms Registry Office, Y.M.C.A., at 2738.

Trent Valley Loop to Operate With Ten Teams

The Trent Valley Hockey League held a meeting in the Marmora Legion Hall on Sunday afternoon with president Art Duncan of Batawa in the chair.

Purposes of the meeting were the organization for the coming season, acceptance of entries in the league and the final passing of rules and regulations.

Ten Entries Received

Ten entries were received namely Campbellford, Hastings, Warkworth, Norwood, Lakefield, Batawa, Frankford, Stirling, Tweed, Madoc and Marmora.

Representatives from each of these municipalities were present. A single schedule with home and home games was decided upon.

The first six teams will go into the playoffs in the following order: 1st and 3rd play best 3 out of 5. 2nd and 4th play best 2 out of 3. 5th and 6th play best 2 out of 3 to declare winners.

Winners of 2nd and 4th teams playoffs meet winners of 5th and 6th in home and home games with goals counting to decide winner to meet the winner of 1st and 3rd teams in the finals which will be a best 3 out of 5 series.

Winners Get Bye

The league has entered a team in the O.H.A. Intermediate "B" series and it will receive a bye until the league championship is decided.

The league will hold its next meeting in Hastings on January 18th.

The schedule is in course of preparation and will be released shortly.

The league season will open on or about January 1st.

Must Conserve Forest Areas Says Zone Forester

The importance of conservation of forest and woodland areas and the way in which their preservation ties in with the future supply of fish and wild game life was stressed before members of the Belleville District Fish and Game Association at their monthly meeting held Monday evening at the Y.M.C.A.

Speaker for the occasion was W. E. Edwards, zone forester of Napanee, who talked in a general way on reforestation and how this tied in with the sportsman's interests by providing protection and the proper environment for fish and wild game.

Greater care was needed for the protection of present forest and woodlands with cutting recommended to be on a selected basis. Cutting of small timber was wasteful while "clear cutting" was a great mistake and was mistaken economy on the part of the owner.

Municipalities such as counties and townships had realized the necessity of reforestation but their small programs were but a drop in the bucket. Private individuals and owners were needed to take an interest in reforestation.

Urged to Support Watershed

The fish and game club was urged to get behind the watershed survey proposed for the Moira River as the completion of a watershed authority would do much to prevent floods, soil erosion, and would serve to provide better fishing and better hunting by giving a natural environment for wild life. The club was urged to commence a reforestation project of their own and to provide prizes for public speaking competitions on woodlot management.

Wild Life Overseer Bob Sheppard of Tweed also spoke briefly to members on the many ways in which club members could cooperate with the department in enforcing regulations and also on the conservation of wild life. In a question period following the overseer answered many questions put by club members.

Fees Increased

Membership fees for the club were raised from 50 cents to $1 with President Elmer Sandercock stating that additional money was needed to take care of increased club expenses in arranging for programs and other details. Members voted unanimously for the increased dues.

Committee reports were heard with George Brown giving the report of the gun club and announcing planned future activities. Moving pictures of wild life, together with the report of Secretary Joe Shortt, completed the evening's program.

Inter-Service Club Council Opens Exchange

The Belleville Inter-Service Club Council comprised of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Y's Men and Optimist service clubs have inaugurated a "Christmas Cheer Information Exchange," which will greatly facilitate efforts of the various city organizations who dispense Christmas parcels and baskets to needy families in the community.

First of all, the exchange will inaugurate a card index system in which will be tabulated the names of families receiving Christmas cheer from city organizations.

Organizations are requested to send in their lists at once to Mark Vanner, Chairman Special Committee, Inter-Service Club Council. Mr. Vanner can be reached at the Belleville Sargent Company Ltd. here.

Immediately upon receipt, the list will be indexed. Whenever it is found that more than one organization is giving to a certain family, the organizations concerned will be notified by telephone and they will be free to govern themselves as they see fit. This, it is felt, will save unnecessary over-lapping.

Information regarding the above will be given out by Mr. Vanner but only to official representatives of organizations.

Lists of families should be sent to Mr. Vanner by sponsoring organizations not later than December 19th. After that date the index will be in full operation and all information will be available on request. All information will be held in strictest confidence.

Gould of Marmora investigated.

Federation of Agric. Pleads for Govt. Action To Stabilize Industry

Directors' meeting of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture was held last Saturday to find ways and means of getting the Federation on a sound financial basis. It was decided that all delinquent municipalities should be approached to see if they would give a levy of one-fifth of a mill to Federation.

Considerable discussion took place regarding Federation broadcasts over CJBQ. The Federation appointed Wes Neelands, Frank Tummon and Ronald Longwell as a committee to supervise the broadcasts. It was also recommended that a special effort be made to acquaint farmers with these broadcasts.

The following telegram was sent to Hon. Jas. Gardiner, Geo. H. Stokes and George S. White:—

"We, the Directors of Hastings County Federation of Agriculture recommend in view of heavy marketing of poultry, cattle and brood sows and seriousness of feed grain situation immediate action must be taken by Dominion Government whereby farmers may be assured of the future of the agricultural industry."

IN MEMORIAM

LANCASTER—In loving memory of our dear Norman, who passed away while serving as wireless operator on Hope Island, Georgian Bay, Dec. 16th., 1944.

I cannot say and I will not say
That he is dead. He is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land.
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since he lingers there.
And you—oh, you, who the wildest yearn
For the oldtime step and the glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear,
In the love of there, as the love of here.
Think of him still as the same, I say,
He is not dead, he is just away.

Sadly missed by mother, dad, Myrtle, Rae, Harry and Erna.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Financial skies were uncertain yesterday with Canadian and United States market trends tending to move in opposite directions.

In Toronto and Montreal the move was downward as golds continued an accelerated retreat. The industrial field was mixed and stocks moved in both directions. Newsprints weakened despite reports that the industry had reached new peaks in production for the first 11 months of 1947, showing an increase of 7.3 per cent over the same period in 1946. Shipments were 8.5 per cent better.

The New York market was lively with stocks moving upward. Ever sensitive to international influences, the market managed to balance news of the collapse of the Foreign Ministers conference with news that the $597,000,000 emergency foreign aid bill, providing winter relief for France, Italy, Austria and China, had been sent to President Truman for approval.

In Canada both industrialists and stock market traders still were unravelling import restrictions and Geneva trade agreement details to see how they would affect their business and favorite stocks.

An example was seen in last week's sharp increase in stock price of Aluminum Ltd. Reason was that the Geneva agreements call for reduction Jan. 1 of the United States tariff on aluminum from three to two cents. Another example last week was announcement by United Steel Corp. Ltd., that it was decided to defer action on a common stock dividend until such time as the result of import restrictions became more definite.

Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd., in Hamilton, announced that a blast furnace and coke oven plant would be installed at a cost of $15,000,000 which was expected to aid in relieving Canada's annual steel shortage of 500,000 tons.

Suggest Lighting Arrangements Be Left to Merchants

Toronto, Dec. 16 (CP)—A store merchants' deputation representing several Ontario cities suggested to Ontario Hydro Electric Commission officials that lighting arrangements be left to merchants provided there is no increase in power consumption.

The meeting was Hydro Commissioners George Challies and Ross Strike was arranged by the Windsor Chamber of Commerce and was attended by merchants from St. Catharines, Hamilton and Kitchener.

The commission recently permitted the use of one 100-watt light in each self-contained outside show window, provided there was a reduction in interior lighting to compensate for usage of the outside light.

The deputation claimed that the 100-watt light was of "little" use in some store windows and asked that merchants be given discretionary powers to use their available power.

Carillonic Bells Installed In Bridge Street Church As Memorial to Late F.S. Deacon

One of the first installations of its kind in Eastern Ontario a set of carillonic bells to be played from the console of the church organ have been installed in Bridge Street United Church. The bells are a gift to the church in memory of the late Fred S. Deacon of this city.

Manufactured by Schulmeric Electronics of Sellersville, Pennsylvania, carillonic bells, combine the tonal qualities of carillon bells such as adorn towers of famous European cathedrals with the playing ease of the organ console. Tones of the miniature bells are amplified thousands of times to sound out over a two-mile radius.

Tested on Saturday

Belleville residents first heard the carillonic bells from Bridge Street Church tower on Saturday as Chas. F. Kohler, installation engineer of the American firm tested the bells following their installation.

Although carillonic bells have all the volume and range of actual carillon bells there is no comparison as to the size of the two installations. For instance the heaviest bell of the carillonic system such as installed at Bridge Street Church is but eight ounces as compared with its equivalent carillon bell weighing three and one-half tons. Range of the bells installed is two full octaves, from low G to high G. The bells are played and fully controlled from the organ console.

Are Not Chimes

"Carillonic bells are not to be confused with chimes", it was pointed out by Mr. Kohler, installing engineer. "The bells are real and although of miniature size are manufactured from real bell metal." Sound of the miniature bells is not used but rather vibrations of the metal as it is struck by hammers is picked up and amplified through speakers placed in the church tower. This enables finer tonal qualities to be maintained.

Under ordinary conditions the bells will be heard up to a distance of two miles as the sound is broadcast from the 100-foot church tower. However, this distance will be dependent upon weather conditions.

Another feature of the installation is the organ-choir microphone enabling the sound of the organ and of the choir to be picked up and broadcast through the tower speaker. This will permit Christmas carols and organ concerts to be broadcast over the city. A special speaker set behind the organ pipes enables the congregation to hear the sound of the carillonic bells. The organ-choir microphone can be used independently.

Organ Console Control

The entire system is controlled by a special panel set at the side of the keyboard of the organ console with the organist having full control over volume.

Finkle Electric of this city did the installation under supervision of Mr. Kohler.

First carillonic bells to be installed in Canada were placed in Westminster United Church in Winnipeg two years ago with Canadian installations since that time growing constantly.

Technical Hitch Causes Barton To Meet Match

London, Dec. 16 (CP) —Dick Barton, Special Agent and wholesale smasher of foreign plots who regularly teaches Scotland Yard a thing or two to the spine-tingling adoration of 15,000,000 youngsters — and adults — lost his first case last night. The results were dramatic.

His millions of radio fans heard a suitably sad-voiced announcer say: "There will be no Barton tonight," and apologize for a "technical error."

Youngsters feared the worst—there hero was in a spot and couldn't escape — and hundreds gallantly volunteered their services to help Dick .

"What's happened is he in a jam?" many asked harassed BBC telephone operators. "Can we save him?" queried others. All telephone lines to the BBC were jammed betwen 6:45 and 7 p.m.—time of the program—and three carloads of children drove to the broadcasting house to free him.

Some thought it was a BBC trick and they telephoned to complain. After all, it wasn't funny because at his last appearance Dick, wrongfully suspected of murder, had been followed to a house by the police and as the episode ended an ominous knocking sounded on the door.

They wanted to know how Dick would escape another near thing—as escape he would — and it was no time for tom-foolery.

The explanation of the whole thing was elementary. The gramaphone reproducer refused to reproduce at the crucial moment.

"The announcer put over the usual announcement but the program engineer in another studio was unable to get the recording on the air," a BBC official told inquiring newspaper men.

"No. No question of sabotage, shootings, kidnaping or anything of that sort."

In the meantime, engineers are working feverishly to overcome that villain of radio "technical hitch" so that the kid's hero won't be foiled again.

Los Angeles, Memphis Feel Earth Tremors

Los Angeles, Dec. 16 —(AP)— Short and fairly sharp earthquake tremors were felt in Los Angeles early today.

The California Highway Patrol said the earthquake occurred at 1:03 a.m. PST. They received no early reports of any damages.

There was a rattling of windows and shaking of household furniture. Several who felt it said it lasted only a "second or so."

Memphis — What apparently was a mild earth tremor shook parts of this city and sections of southeastern Tennessee., northeastern Arkansas and northwestern Mississippi late last night.

No damage or injuries resulted.

Bennett Auction At Estate Brings Good Prices

Mickleham, Dec. 16 (CP)—The sound of an auctioneer's hammer echoed through the cream-walled drawing room yesterday where the late Viscount Bennett, former Prime Minister of Canada, once entertained his many friends.

Collectors, bargain hunters and dealers from all parts of London converged on the stately Juniper Hill home of the peer, who died last June, for the start of a three-day sale of the household furnishings. The first day's sale closed with 240 items out of 800 selling for about £8,000.

Despite the gasoline scarcity some 50 automobiles swept up the wide tree-lined parkway from tiny Mickleham Village and parked outside the large conservatory fronting Lord Bennett's home. Many others trekked one mile from the bus stop while taxis brought London visitors from Leatherhead and Dorking.

Several valuable pieces of furniture were knocked down to John Leigh, son of Sir John Leigh of near-by Witley Park in Godalming, Surrey, who bought Juniper Hill, and will take possession at the end of this month.

They included a set of Adam style sidetables bought for £58, a set of dining room chairs for £250 and a grand piano for £225.

Lord Bennett's own walnut writing desk, which stood under a high window overlooking the rolling Surrey downs, raised the bidding to as high as £575 when it sold to a Dorking resident.

Among Lord Bennett's many friends and neighbors attending the sale was Dr. Marie Stopes, well-known medical writer, who bought a tiger skin rug from the Peer's drawing room for £23.

Lord Bennett's own mahogany bedstead—four feet, six inches wide—went for £60. A set of 12 mahogany dining chairs fetched £250 bedsteads without mattresses £140. pillows £5, a typewriter £50, a vacuum cleaner £20 and a weighing machine £20.

A London furniture dealer paid £510 for the William and Mary three-piece suite from Lord Bennett's lounge, and £475 for an embroidered settee and two armchairs.

Prices are expected to be higher still tomorrow when Persian rugs, tapestries, silver, glassware and pictures will be auctioned, and brisk bidding is expected Wednesday when 7,000 of Lord Bennett's collection of 8,000 books will be offered.

One thousand of his books were left to the Royal Empire Society and the Royal Society of Arts, while Kenneth Forbes' portrait of Lord Bennett in the Bennett Library was bequeathed to the New Brunswick Museum.

One of the books to be sold is a leather bound volume of "Industry and Humanity" by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Lord Bennett's political opponent during the early '30's.

On duty at the sale was burly F. S. Middleton, the village constable who for years past has organized a Christmas party for the village children sponsored by Lord Bennett.

"Thanks to Lord Beaverbrook (a close friend of Lord Bennett), we'll be holding the party as usual this year," Middleton said.

Still working in the mansion is Charles Epps, Lord Bennett's friend and butler, who is leaving at the end of the month to take a post at the United States Embassy in London.

Miss Alice Miller, Lord Bennett's secretary for 35 years, recently returned from Canada, but would not discuss her future plans.

BIG FOUR

took the position that this would make Germany an economic vassal of the Soviet Union and it was on the reparations issue that the conference finally foundered.

The British press reflected little surprise today over the collapse but editorial opinion on the development differed widely, on paper calling the end of the talks a "world tragedy" and others a "wise" move.

The Conservative Daily Mail, under the heading "dead, done and damned," declared that "the breakdown will be followed by increased international suspicions and tensions, and it is hard to see how the United Nations can survive as a universal body.

"One can almost hear the clanging —as thicker plates are riveted to the iron curtain."

The Conservative Daily Graphic proclaimed that the "adjournment was wise" and expressed the view that "the door had not yet been finally slammed" on a Big Four agreement.

Lord Beaverbrook's Independent Daily Express termed the breakdown a "crushing disappointment" and "a defeat for British policy," while the Liberal News Chronicle said there was "no need to take a pessimistic view.

"It may be that relations between the east and west will be better if they are not built upon pretences of agreement which no basis in reality."

On Roads and Highways

November record for traffic fatalities on the highways and roads of Ontario as taken from reports in newspapers shows that the class suffering most heavily in the lists was that of pedestrians. Out of 72 deaths reported no fewer than 28 were those of pedestrians or 36.6 per cent. Passengers in motor vehicles who lost their lives were 20 or 27.78 per cent, drivers of motor vehicles 17 in number or 23.6 per cent, cyclists 4 or 6.55 per cent, motorcyclist one or 1.4 per cent and one whose classification is not given.

If there is a lesson to be learned from this it is that the pedestrians should use much more care, by greatly increasing their precautions against being struck down. They know that cars and trucks are naturally on the road and that when pedestrians walk across the road or highway or on the edge of the road, their responsibility to themselves and the travelling public is to do nothing which puts them in the way of danger or death, or anything that may cause risk to the lives of drivers and other occupants of cars.

It was naturally to be expected that persons in cars would suffer the greatest number of fatalities from the very nature of things in that they are occupants of a fast travelling object. The total of those in cars either as drivers or passengers was 37 out of 72, more than half.

One of the outstanding facts shown by the list is that of the walkers killed twenty were adults and the great majority of these elderly, while two were nineteen years and the other six were children.

These facts have lessons for both pedestrians and for motorists.

Britain and the Arts

England was said to be a "nest of singing birds" in the days of Queen Elizabeth towards the close of the sixteenth century. Now in the middle of the twentieth century she is still the land of music besides of achievements in many other fields.

These have been trying times, what with the repercussions of the war, the unsettled condition of the Continent in which Britain is so deeply concerned as a European nation and with the recent economic situation which has absorbed much of the attention of the British Isles. Nevertheless Britain has shown her greatness in the realms of music and drama and the interest of these arts in the hearts of the people at this time as always in the past.

The Arts Council has just announced that during the year under review, in the second annual report, 3,389 concerts were provided either directly by the council or in association with local bodies. 53 companies produced 419 plays or ballets throughout Britain, while 92 art exhibitions were held in 335 different places. The Council received $1,280,000 from the Treasury which was an increase of $340,000 on the previous year, these funds being disbursed in the form of financial support and guarantees to various ventures.

The record of history of the contribution of Britain to culture and freedom is one of which she must be proud for the influence which she has exerted upon the world.

The happy sign is that in spite of trials and strain of war days and of the post-war times, the British people are holding firm. It is an augury of her coming triumph over the strain of these days of recovery out of the greatest of wars.

Export Progress

Britain has set a new mark in her export industry on which she is depending a great deal in these days of "asperity" and stringency. The value of the industry's export of vehicles, parts and accessories in October was just under $35,000,000, which is nearly six times the average monthly figure for 1938. Exports of motor cars in the same month reached a volume of 15,216 surpassing by one tenth the previous peak figure of 13,854 cars exported in July of 1947. The monthly average in 1938 was 5,684.

Joined to this sign of progress is the encouraging news of the progress of the production drive in steel output which is still running at an annual rate in excess of the 1948 target of 14 million tons. The cotton industry has responded to a call for higher production and in eight weeks the spinning section reached its immediate target of a ten per cent increase.

Yule in Britain

In many lands a few years ago Christmas brought ideas of feasting and merriment in the good old way of generation after generation, but two great wars have changed the scene. In many lands at this festive season people are hungry and need food from more prosperous parts of the world.

There is one country, no matter how tight the conditions have been, which has not forgotten the other peoples, the lands where there is great need. That country that does not forget the others is Britain and while she has had to think of her own stringencies as to food, she has not failed to hear the appeal of the less fortunate and to point out their greater need.

She herself is passing through a crisis out of which she will emerge because she has the qualities which will bring her through, and her people have the instinct for the right way.

Just now her food is limited but the British Government is allowing for Christmas an extra ration of ten cents worth of meat, four ounces of chocolate and a pound and a half of sugar. The British people became enthusiastic at the news which had been held back because of the provincial by-elections as the Government did not wish to allow this to influence the voting. This may seem not a large gift ration to peoples who have more food, but the Briton is as ever grateful.

Such a people cannot but come through their ordeal for they have proven themselves so eminently fitted to serve the great role they have been performing in the world in the extension of mutual understanding and freedom and democracy and in sharing with the other lands her own blessings.

Gypsy Flight

Globe-circling takes bizarre forms these days. There is something especially pleasing to the imagination in the exploit by Clifford W. Evans, Jr., and George W. Truman. A leisurely ramble around the world in a Piper Cub is less dramatic but certainly no less adventurous than a high-powered race against time in a converted A-26 bomber.

One of the two "flivver pilots' 'who completed their joint globe-circling flight in four months remarked casually: "I suppose there are 100,000 pilots in the United States who could have done the same thing."

Maybe so, maybe not. It is true that a Piper Cub is an almost foolproof little craft that all but flies itself, but transoceanic flying is something else again. Good weather information and lots of time — but, above all, first-class judgment — are prerequisites for such air-gypsyings.

And don't forget the delighted friendliness that greeted them at their 49-world-wide stops. That helped, too. — Windsor Star.

Rector Era is Gone

There was only a brief notice last week telling of the death of George Rector, son of the celebrated Charles, but there were many thousands all over the world to whom news of the death brought back nostalgic remembrance of a sparkling era in which the name Rector was one of the brightest jewels.

It was the era of the Girl from Rector's, an era of fine foods in colorful eating places, and in that era Charles Rector and later his son George stood out as hosts.

The standard was set by Charles. George started to study law, gave it up and undertook to master the culinary arts. After peeling potatoes, cleaning chickens and studying in Paris under master chefs he retaurned to operate his own Rector's. Oddly, he always championed the hot dog "as a better food than many of the fancy things all of us eat."

He and his father were leading citizens of a bright and comfortable period. — Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

KEEPING HOUSE

"Keeping house" some lightly call it.
"Keeping home" I'd rather hear,
Since against what may befall it
Love must guard it, year by year.
It must keep it gay with laughter,
And with comradeship and song,
And with faith for what comes after,
Since no joy can last for long.

"Keeping home" needs patient labor
And a woman's lovely skill;
Needs the art of being a neighbor
When someone nearby is ill.
"Keeping house' 'is done by others
With the strength that money hires.
"Keeping home" needs dads and mothers
Whose devotion never tires.

Lest its growing youth forsake it,
Love must keep it warm and bright,
And a safe, sure haven make it,
Where all things are set aright.
"Keeping house" means sweeping, dusting.
It is listed as a trade,
But by stout hearts and by trusting
The enduring home is made.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did "Huguenot" originate?

Exactly why the French Protestants were called Huguenots is not known for certain. There are several theories attempting to explain the origin of the term.

Some authorities suppose the term was originally political rather than religious and was first applied by the adherents of the Duke of Savoy early in the 16th century to the Geneva revolutionists and their Swiss allies.

One of the leaders at Geneva was Bezarson Hugues, and some authorities derive Huguenot from his surname. Members of the party who supported the Swiss confederation in opposition to the Duke of Savoy were known as "Eidengois," which is believed to be a peculiar alteration of German "Eidernoss," from "Eid," oath, and "Gnoss," confederate, and literally meaning "oath-companion."

The earliest dialect form of Huguenot in French was "eiguenot." Since the old French name Huguenot is merely a double diminutive of "Hugu," the final form of the term may have been influenced by association with "Hugues," the name of the Geneva syndic and revolutionist.

It is said that a coin of small value, issued in the 10th century in the time of Hugh Capet, was known as a "huguenot," and this has led some to adopt the farfetched theory that the Huguenots were so called because their enemies said they were not worth a huguenot.

In his "Curiosities of Literature" Isaac Disraeli accepted the notion that Huguenot was suggested by the fact that the proscribed Protestants hid themselves in secret places and appeared at night "like King Hugon, the great hobgoblin of France."

The secluded places in which the Huguenots met secretly for worship, as well as their assemblies, were known as "Deserts." "Church of the Desert" and "Synod of the Desert" occur frequently in connection with the Huguenots. In English the term is generally pronounced "HEW-ggenot." However the word originated, Huguenot probably was introduced into France from Geneva, and undoubtedly it was first applied to the French Protestants by their enemies as a contemptuous and scornful epithet, but later the French Protestants adopted the derisive nickname as a badge of honor.

C. V. D.

Cardrovascular type people, people who are most likely to develop high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis and the heart cerebral and kidney changes that underly it do not play, do not know how to play. When I say play in this context I don't mean playing bridge or spit in the ocean or rummy. I mean playing a game that requires action, use of your muscles, and preferably one in which you can acquire sufficient skill to compete against others.

A great American evil which in my opinion, is, along with nutritional deficiency, the chief cause of cardiovascular degeneration, is the popularity of "sport"—sitting on your ischial tuberosities (fanny to you) watching hired professionals play games. As a pastime this would not be so bad for honest working people, who do the work of the world; but it is bad medicine for white collar people, professional people, parasites, students, children, business people and all who live by their wits. What we who never work need as pastime, recreation, rest and compensation for our wrong way of life is exercise, action, doing things, playing our own games.

Le'me see, now, we're talking about cardiovascular degeneration—slow heart failure, arteriasclerosis hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, hypertension, angina pectoris coronary occusion or thrombosis, enlarged heart, fatty degeneration (not just accumulation of excessive fat around the heart) and all that sort of thing.

After all, my dear misguided people, when you imagine you are just working on your nerves or using hypothetical "nerve energy" or threatened with a "nervous breakdown" it is your cardiovascular system, your circulation, that needs medical attention, not your nerves. By the same token, if you are one of those ninnyhammers who diagnose their own cases or accept the diagnosis of other Wiseacres, let me warn you at least not to settle for a complete rest, relaxation or anything like that. The odds are hundred to one that the corrective remedy you need is work or play—of course moderate work or play—and not just rest or relaxation. Test this for yourself by going out for a good walk twice a day—even if it is just a walk to and from your place of occupation.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Terpin Hydrate

Several people have told of getting marked relief from obstinate cough by taking terpin hydrate two-grain capsules. Please state just how these are used, and for how long.

(J.A.T.)

Answer—Terpin hydrate consists of large colorless crystals or white powder, with faint or no odor, and should not have an odor like turpentine. It may be taken in capsules, pills or in solution in simple elixir, most conveniently one two-grain capsule after food three times a day, for say a week, for relief of obstinate chronic cough. If you have chronic winter cough or bronchitis send twenty-five cents and ctamped self-addressed envelope for booklet "Call it Cri."

Tough on Mucous Membranes

The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year, of stuffy nose and raspy throat and mucous membranes sere...not so much worry about fuel, but we begin to understand now that your teachings are much more to the point than we ever realized before.

(T.W.A.)

Answer—Return of the season of indoor heating means return to the desert, extreme dryness of the air, for most people, and this is accountable for much mucous membrane and skin trouble through the winter. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on "Humidification." A couple buckets of water evaporated in the air daily will make all the difference in the world in the indoor climate.

Therapeutic Hotfoot

Positive and quick cure for "athlete's foot" (ringworm)—submerge feet in water as hot as can be endured for twenty minuts. Ten minutes will not cure, twenty minutes will.

(R.H.K.)

Answer—Thank you, sir. Several years ago, Reader E. H. C. reported he held his feet in water heated to 124 degrees F. (by accurate thermometer) for twenty minutes and cured his foot itch, and he added that he had determined that the feet would stand 126 degrees for that length of time. That degree of heat, if the feet will stand it, for that length of time, will probably kill all the fungi or parasites.

Howey Family Dead Buried in Common Grave

Tillsonburg, Dec. 16 (CP) — Five hearses carried bodies of five members of the Howey family — who died as a result of a railway crossing accident last Thursday—to a common grave 16 feet long and eight feet wide.

They were Elmo Howey, 42; his wife Lulu Fulton Howey, 40; (who although not a victim of the accident, died of shock the next day); and three sons — James Lawrence, 14; William Elmo, 13, and George Henry, nine.

Five groups of pallbearers carried the bodies yesterday from the the funeral home to the hearses, and then at the Tillsonburg Cemetery to the Howey family plot.

Six cousins were pallbearers for Mr. Howey. They were Harold and John Howey, Straffordville; Basin Baldwin, Port Rowan; Clare and Verne Baldwin, Eden, and Louis Abbott, London.

For Mrs. Howey, pallbearers were six prominent Tillsonburg residents including her physician Dr. Howard Alexander. The others were Ralph Hillborg, Magistrate R. G. Groom, R. B. French, George Elliott and D. F. Gibson.

Classmates of the oldest boy, James and his brother William, at the Tillsonburg high school were chosen as their pallbearers.

Fellow-pupils at the Eden Public School were Pallbearers for George.

Earlier today, the two surviving members of the family — Mary Lou, seven, who was slightly injured in the accident, and her brother, Kenneth, 11, who until last Saturday was a patient at a London hospital, visited the funeral home. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scrimgeor, who with Harley Howey, an uncle told them Sunday of the tragedy.

Eire's Food Production To Increase Next Four Years

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dublin, Dec. 16 —(CP)— Sharp increases in Eire's food production expected during the next four years as this country's main contribution to European recovery.

Even before Prime Minister De Valera reached agreement with the British Government on a new trade agreement giving higher prices for agricultural produce, his administration was committed to boost food output. The agreement, however, gives the plant greater hope of success.

Irish farmers in the past have shown no particular desire to increase the production of their small holdings at De Valera's request. Almost all their export went to Britain and the prices that country would pay were strictly controlled. With the prospect of higher returns, the reaction may be different.

There may be big political advantages for De Valera's Fianna Fail Government, too. An election is to be held early next year, forced by Fianna Fail by-election reverses. While the British agreement involves restrictions on the use of gasoline in Eire and foreign exchange for travel, there is wide belief that higher returns for the farmers of wheat in primarily an agricultural country may improve De Valera's chances of re-election.

Paris Conference

Eire's promise to increase food output was made at the recent Paris conference where the nations of Western Europe drafted their over-all reconstruction program.

Biggest boosts will be a doubling of egg production. Milk output will go up by one-quarter, along with butter. The cattle figure is to be raised from 4,175,000 to 200,000 and pigs will be raised to the pre-war level of 1,000,000 head by 1951.

Production of meat is expected to decline in 1948-49 but then the plan is to raise it again to 384,000 tons, 21,000 above the pre-war average. Potato output is to go up by 1/10th; it is already 20 per cent above 1939.

Trade Problem

Eire's urgent need to merge its economy with that of the United Kingdom is clearly shown in trade statistics for 1946, just made public in Dublin.

No less than 96 per cent of Irish exports totalling £35,496,636 were consigned to the United Kingdom and in the same year 48 per cent of imports which had a total value of $41,073,704 come from the United Kingdom.

Study of Hormone Production May Yield Clues in Search for Cancer Cure

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New Haven, Dec. 15 (AP) — By sabotage of tiny living factories, Yale University scientists are learning more about how and why some types of cancer get started.

The factories are glands which produce minute but extremely potent amount of hormones, the hormones are chemicals that regulate many bodily activities and functions.

Good health depends upon the manufacture of just the right amount of these hormones either in steady output or well regulated cycles. Hyperthyroidism, a disease due to excess energy, results when a goitre sabotages the thyroid gland causing it to produce too much thyroid hormone. Diabetes results when something happens to prevent manufacture of insulin by the pancreas gland.

Cancer investigators have long known that injections of certain harmones could bring on cancer in animals by sabotaging the balance of harmone production. Doses of sex harmones often bring improvement in women with breast cancers. Castration helps in some cases of prostrate gland cancer in men.

The Yale investigators are trying to discover exactly what the normal hormone balance is in animals, and what happens when that balance is upset. The knowledge later may benefit humans.

Dr. W. U. Gardner, chairman of the Department of Anatomy at the Yale School of Medicine, and Dr. Min Hsin Li, a research fellow who since has returned to China, found that the pituitary gland is directly involved in some tumors of the ovaries in mice.

The pituitary, located at the base of the brain, is a master gland which secretes many hormones. One of them stimulates the ovary, making it produce the female sex hormone, estrogen. The estrogen in turn causes the pituitary to stop sending out the ovary-stimulating hormone.

Drs. Gardner and Li transplanted mice ovaries to their spleen. The extrogen produced by the ovaries was then destroyed in the liver and thus couldn't shut off the flow of pituitary hormone. Cancerous tumors developed when the ovaries were consistently stimulated in this way.

FLIVVER FLIERS END ROUND-THE-WORLD HOP

George Truman (left) and Clifford Evans are kissed by their respective wives after they landed at the Teterboro, N.J., air terminal to complete a round-the-world flight of 24,000 miles in their Piper Cub light planes. Their flight is the first in which the world was circled by planes of the four-cylinder, 100-horsepower type used by the two war veterans. They took off from Teterboro last August 9.

SYDNEYCHAMBERS

"He was game to the end," said Lt.-Col. Wallace Bunton of Toronto, Territorial Prison Secretary for the Salvation Army, who spent part of the afternoon and all evening with Chambers. He was accompanied by Adjutant Marsland Rankin of Niagara Falls, Chambers' spiritual adviser throughout his trials.

"Chambers said he had no fear, he was ready to meet his God, and he asked me to take a message to his wife and daughter in Toronto which I shall be pleased to do," said Lt.-Gen. Bunton.

Chambers was quoted as saying: "If I had my life to live over again I would be more loyal and with all that has taken place I still love you just the same. I want you to be as happy as you can under the circumstances."

It was learned that Chambers' wife made no attempt to see him and had not inquired about him. His body was not claimed.

Ate Good Meal

Chambers was served his last meal at 5 p.m., and he ate a good portion of three pork chops, mashed potatoes, bread and butter, pears, cookies and tea. The pork chops were specially ordered by Chambers and they were the first he had eaten during his long stay in Lincoln County jail.

He spent his last few hours reading the Bible and singing hymns with his two spiritual advisers. He sang "Abide With Me," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Let the Lower Lights be Burning." After completing the 23rd Psalm and several chapters from the Gospel of St. John, Chambers "voluntarily said the Lord's Prayer by himself." He then said: "I hope to meet my mother and father in a better land."

Question of disposal of the $1,000 reward posted by St. Catharines city council for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Marion Rusnak has yet to be decided. City officials said the matter probably would not be considered until the new year when advice would be sought from the city solicitor.

GENERAL STRIKE PROCLAIMED IN PORT OF CATANIA

Rome, Dec. 16 —(AP)— The Communist newspaper L'Unita reported today that a general strike in the Sicilian port of Catania and the province of the same name had been proclaimed by the local Chamber of Labor.

The paper said the strike had been called to support a demand for unemployment relief. Catania has a population of about 240,000.

GREELY S. CURTIS DIES

Marblehead, Mass., Dec. 16 —(AP)— Greely S. Curtis, who experimented successfully with the manufacture and operation of flying machines before the Wright Brothers' flight in 1903 at Kittyhawk, N.C., died yesterday at his home. He was 76. In 1895, he and Otto Lilienthal made successful glider flights in Germany.

WARTIME CONTROL

Tribute Paid

As the House opened, Prime Minister Mackenzie King and other party leaders paid tribute to Earl Baldwin, the former British Prime Minister who died in Britain during the weekend.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the House he knew nothing of a report that 10,000,000 pounds of New Zealand butter was being imported into Canada, but said there was nothing to prevent anyone from making such an importation.

Mr. Ilsley said he would table shortly correspondence he has exchanged with Provincial Attorneys-General on the question of the legality of a Canadian Bill of Rights.

The House gave first reading to a bill, sponsored by James Sinclair (L-Vancouver North), which would legalize the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine in Canada.

H. O. White (PC-Middlesex East), said two events during the day would be disappointing to farmers. The first was the introduction of the margarine bill. The second was a press report about the New Zealand butter.

It was queer he said whenever the government wanted to find cheap food it could do so quickly. Yet when it came to finding markets where farmers could get higher prices for their products there always was some excuse why the market was closed to Canadians.

J. A. Charlton (PC-Brant) said the government had no policy with respect to Agriculture. The only answer there was to the opposition's criticism of agricultural policies was Mr. King's threat of a general election.

Mr. Charlton said he would welcome an election and he would welcome a visit of the Prime Minister to Brant constituency to explain "the mess" the government had got farmers into.

Farmers wanted a statement on the future prices of farm products and they wanted the statement now.

F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) placed the Social Credit party on record as being in favor of a national plebicite on the question of whether price control should be continued, although his party preferred subsidy payments and a system of "checks and balances" to keep prices on an even keel.

Meanwhile, the Senate approved the government's control resolution after hearing Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, charge that the government's control policy was a "police administration" and that the sooner controls were abolished the sooner Canada would "get back on an even keel."

WEDDINGS

McCOY—MAINES

Bridge Street United Church, Bellevile, was the scene of a quiet but very pretty wedding at half-past ten o'clock on the morning of Saturday, December 13, when Mary June, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maines, of Bloomfield, (R.R. 1), in a double ring ceremony became the bride of Clifford Edward McCoy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. David McCoy, of Collins Bay, Ont.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. C. Amos, and wedding music was supplied by Mr. Alec Gordon, organist of the church.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a street length model of white wool, trimmed with gold sequins. She wore a corsage of red roses, and carried a white prayer book with a shower of red rosebuds and white satin steamers.

Miss Ellen Lauder, of Trenton, was the bride's only attendant, wearing a street length dress of grey silk jersey, with a corsage of yellow roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Jack Milligan, of Belleville.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McCoy left immediately for Prescott and Ottawa. They will later take up residence in Belleville.

Mr. Samuel Pope Honored by Members Sons of England

The executive officers of Lodge Oxford, No. 17, Sons of England, paid a surprise visit to Mr. Samuel Pope at his home in Cannifton, on Monday evening, December 15th., to honor him on his attainment of fifty years of membership in the order.

District Deputy Supreme President Bro. Harry Taylor presented Bro. Pope with the fifty years' membership jewel with the compliments of the Supreme Lodge.

Bro. Pope feelingly responded by thanking the members for their kindness towards him and regretted that he was unable to attend the meetings as he did in the days gone by, having reached the age of 86 years, but said he still has a warm spot in his heart for Oxford Lodge and its members. He recalled many anecdotes of the good old days and oyster suppers enjoyed in Wallace's lunch rooms near the old Hastings House.

Mrs. Pope and her daughter proved real hostesses by providing a good English cup of tea and other refreshments.

All the members are looking forward to another pleasant hour with these good folk in the near future.

W.C.T.U. REPORT

The Christmas meeting of the W.C.T.U., was held Friday afternoon, Dec. 12th, with Mrs. E. Farnsworth presiding. The opening number was quiet music by Mrs. Moore and the singing of the carol "Joy to the World".

During business session reports were given followed by a discussion on future activities, it was decided to hold a rummage sale in January.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Moore.

The guest speaker, Rev. D. C. Amos, spoke emphatically against the many improprieties that occur in the attempts to celebrate Christmas; especially in the use of alcoholic beverages.

"If we were honoring the birthday of a friend we would do our best to please that friend and would certainly refrain from introducing an activity contrary to his way of life. Let us this year strive to keep the birthday of the King of Kings with humility and purity." Mr. Amos closed his address with reading of a beautiful old legend.

The meeting closed with a hymn of consecration.

"The one underneath is Owlie...he's upholding my fair name!"

Christianity Subject of Talk At Baptist Ch.

"Christianity does not come by inheritance. Your mother and father cannot pass it on to you. Neither can it be given to you by your friends as a Christmas gift. You must decide for yourself and accept it as a free gift of God. You must either accept Christ or reject Him." So spake the Reverend Arthur Glass, a Christian Jew, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, before a large congregation in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday night. His message was challenging, straight from the shoulder. He pulled no punches.

"There can be no neutrality," warned Mr. Glass, "for with God neutrality is a declaration of war. When God tells us we are born in sin and shapen in iniquity we had better believe Him. When He tells us that Jesus is the only way out we had better believe Him and say 'amen God — thank you.' God is just and holy. He cannot countenance sin. Sin must be punished. If He wiped us out like He did in the days of Noah, or in the days of Sodom and Gomorroh, He would still be glorified. We would simply get what we deserved."

Read Psalm Every Night

Referring to the ninety-fifth Psalm, on which he based his address, Mr. Glass said that as a boy, before he knew the Lord Jesus as his Saviour, he used to read this psalm every Friday night in the Synagogue without appreciating its true meaning. "We have before us a living lesson from a dead generation," he pointed out. "There is a saying that dead men tell no tales. That is true in a material sense. But here is a case where dead men, who though disintegrated centuries ago in the dust of the earth, speak with a loud and living voice. That is because it is the voice of God speaking through them, as all Bible scripture is the voice of God.

"God has always spoken to man. He has never stopped speaking. In times past He spoke by the prophets and then He spoke by His Son. He is speaking in history. God has been speaking to my people, the Jews, that the way of the transgressor is hard. Look what has been happening to them all these years. That is because they hardened their hearts and rejected His Son, the Messiah.

"We hear of a calamity that has happened to somebody and we say 'isn't it too bad?' But God is speaking to us through that calamity. It may be our turn next. Today we must deliberate, for today is the only time that God has given us for our disposal. Tomorrow is too late because it is not our time — it is God's time. By accepting Christ today you become a child of God for eternity. Death for the Christian ushers him into the presence of God.

Easier to Harden Heart

"If we do not hear the voice of God it is because our hearts have become so stony we do not recognize His voice any more. There is a stark possibility of hardening your hearts. The trouble is, every time a sinner rejects Jesus he makes it easier to harden his heart. Hearts become so adamant, so icy, that the message of salvation has no effect on them.

"People come to church Sunday after Sunday and hear the Gospel," concluded Mr. Glass, "but it runs off them like water off a duck's back. The inside is still dry and hard. When a sinner refuses the love of God, he richly deserves inevitable doom."

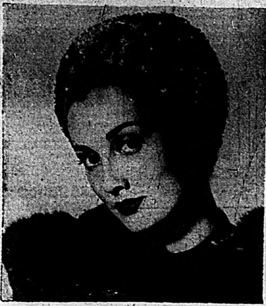
Jewelled Puffball Hat



By ALICE ALDEN

Sally Victor calls this rounded little cloche helmet a puffball, but such a mushroom could come only from her deft fingers. It's to wear with your dressup costumes. . . for dinner and the theatre would be an ideal occasion, as you could sit through the play wearing it without reprisals from the seat behind. The entire cap is paved with mock jewels and bright sequins.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Name Not Changed Until Divorce is Final

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
I have been separated from my husband for two years and during this time have continued to use his name. . . let's say, "Mrs. John Smith". Now the divorce proceedings have just been started. During this time should I continue to use "Mrs. John Smith" or change to 'Mrs. Robinson (my maiden surname) Smith", the name I intend to use when the divorce is finshed. Some of my friends have advised me to use the latter name now because the divorce has been started. Which is correct?

Julia S.

You should continue to use "Mrs. John Smith" until the divorce is final. . .and then use, as you have correctly planned, "Mrs. Robinson Smith".

Dress for Girl Ushers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
In the middle of January my school is giving a play, and several of us girls have been asked to be ushers. What kind of attire should we wear? Since it's to be in the evening, should we wear evening dresses? Or would street-length dresses be better, or even sports clothes?

Elaine

You should get this information from someone in authority in the school, the principal, or your class teacher or the dramatics teacher. I'm quite sure she won't suggest you wear sports clothes for this important evening occasion. She may suggest street-length afternoon dresses or, if she thinks the audience will dress with more formality, evening dresses of "dance frock" type.

Wedding Cake Only at Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
My sister is to be married in mid-morning, very few to be invited to the ceremony ad only members of the families to the luncheon to be given after the ceremony. But later in the day, beginning about five o'clock, there is to be a large reception. Mother would like to know if we should order two wedding cakes, one small one for the bride to cut at the luncheon for the families, and a large one to serve at the reception? Or, since both the luncheon and the reception are to be at our house, should we have only one large cake and have the bride cut the cake twice, once at the luncheon and later at the reception

Sister

Since the members of the families will be present on both occasions, I suggest that you have only one cake, a large one to be cut at the reception.

Where to Send the Anniversary Gift?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
Very dear friends of our are having their thirtieth wedding anniversary soon. The Open House party to celebrate this occasion is to be given by their daughter and her husband at their house. Under these circumstances should my husband and I send our anniversary gift to them at their house or at the daughter's house?

Reader

Usually wedding anniversary gifts are taken to the anniversary party, and if you think this is to be the plan, you and your husband should take your gift with you. If it is something that can't be carried or if you haven't any interest in presenting it and having it shown at the party, you may send it to the home of the couple whose anniversary it is.

Should Show Respect for Her Mother's Memory

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:
My mother died five weeks ago. She lived in a town quite a distance from this city where I now live because of my position here. In this morning's mail I received an invitation to a bridal shower to be given in honor of my closest friend here. It is to be a party only for the group of girls I know best here. They did not know my mother, and under these circumstances, I wonder if you think it would be proper for me to go to the shower?

Phoebe

No matter what the circumstances, and whether or not the girls knew your mother, for you to go to this shower so soon after your mother's death would certainly show a lamentable lack of respect for your mother and her memory.

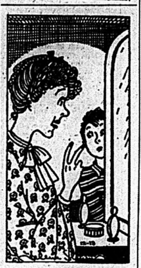
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Facial Massage

Massage is a rejuvenator, a really wonderful beautfier. It is one of the oldest weapons known for fighting the attacks of Time. Time, however, is not always responsible for wrinkles and sagging tissues. They can come because of ill health. Neglect of the skin and indulgence in unpleasant emotions are other causes of accordion pleats in the complexion. Women who frown, pull their eyebrows together, draw down the mouth corners are abusing their faces to an unwarranted degree. No woman with a horrid disposition and a sharp tongue can hope to retain the smooth facial surface. Cosmetics will not help her. She might just as well throw them away, because her face is always clouded.

Sit before your mirror and talk and laugh. Note the expression of your face. You may find out where those little creases around your eyes come from, also the railroad tracks that trek across your forehead. To do facial acrobatics is to court furrows. Be calm lady, be calm, though the chimney falls down and the children try to burn down the house.



Sit before your mirror and talk and laugh

In youth the entire facial mechanism— muscles, small fibres, tissues and epidermal covering,—is marvelously elastic. With care this happy state of affairs should continue. There are women who, ever attentive to beauty chores— creaming and patting—have arrived at the autumn of life with satin-smooth faces. They have had good health—mental, physical and emotional.

If you have reason to believe that your petals are falling, if you observe little crinkles in your countenance, give yourself a ten-minute facial treatment every night.

For this purpose you will need a heavy cream, one that offers resistance to the fingertips. Apply to a clean surface. Use soap and plenty of warm water, so the flesh will be glowing. Dry thoroughly. Cream is more effective when applied to a dry surface.

Start the application of the emollient low on the neck, sweeping upward. With all four fingers of the right hand, press circles along the jaw line from ear to ear. Give the ear lobes a lick and a promise while you are at it.

With flattened fingers, do wide rotary movements over the cheeks, being careful not to press the flesh up around the eyes. Place the first finger on the upper eyelid, pass it along to the temple, come back under the eye to starting point.

With thumb and finger of one hand, spread the cream over the forehead and, with a zig-zag motion of the other hand, run rapidly but gently across the forehead several times.

If frown lines are present, place the thumb at lower end, first finger at the upper end. Hold the finger stationary, iron upward with the thumb to lift the flesh out of the groove. Finish with brisk slapping and patting.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Nurse is in Love With Her Patient

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19 years old and madly in love with a fellow in the hospital with T.B. I am his nurse and am always with him.

He has told me so many times that he loves me, and I love him, too. He has told me not to wait for him and to go out and have a good time with other fellows. I have tried that, but I am just not happy with anyone but him. My mother keeps telling me that I don't really love him, and she says I don't know my own mind because I have dated many fellows and thought I loved them and later found out I didn't.

Should I keep waiting for him, or do as my mother says and forget about him? I don't think I ever could forget about him, though.

"A Constant Reader"

Dear "Constant Reader:"

It is perfectly possible, of course, that you have really met the man you love. But, because of the particular type of circumstances under which you have become acquainted with him, I think you should give the matter a special amount of time and care before making a decision.

As this man's nurse, it is very likely that you would have a protective and maternal feeling toward him which could easily develop into tenderness. The fact, too, that circumstances keep you so close to him all day is another reason why it would be easy for you to develop a special sort of feeling for him. But a feeling of this kind is not necessarily the kind of love that is best for a happy marital relationship.

I certainly don't think you need to decide arbitrarily to "forget" him, which would certainly be next to impossible as things stand. But I would advise going out with other men in your hours off duty and not concentrating any more than you have to on this sick man. I suggest that you follow the plan for six months to a year and then see how you feel.

Don't Concentrate on Any One Friend

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am married, but separated from my husband. He is in the service but I was separated from him before he went in.

The girl friends that I have been going around with is single, and I have stopped going with her because I thought people would talk. Would you tell me if it is a bad thing for a married girl to go around with a single girl?

'Corky"

Dear "Corky":

There is nothing wrong with your going around with a girl friend who is single, and there is no reason why people should talk unless you give them reason to do so.

Of course it would be foolish for you to devote yourself exclusively to any one friend. This is never a good idea under any circumstances, as it limits your social contacts and deprives you of the opportunity to make all the friends that every person ought to have. Everybody has a "best friend", and if this girl is your best friend, that is all right. But have a lot of others, too.

Fourteen is Pretty Young for a Steady Girl Friend

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 14 years old and very fond of a girl who lives in another town, but my folks don't want me to write or phone her. They say I am too young to have a girl friend.

I don't think it would hurt to correspond with her, as I am really fond of her. Do you think my parents are right?

"Tom"

Dear Tom:

The answer to your question is "Yes", and "No".

I think your parents are right in saying that you are too young to have one steady girl, but I don't see why they should not be willing for you to write to this girl or call her up occasionally, as long as you don't carry either of these to extremes.

My suggestion is that you let your parents know that you have lots of friends and show them that you have by going around with them and phoning or writing them, too. I am sure all they are concerned about is that you don't get yourself into too serious a state of mind about any one girl, while if they think she is just one among many, they will have no objections to your keeping in touch with her.

Black crepe dinner dress

VERA WINSTON

VERY MUCH in the current mode is this handsome dress, right for a cocktail party, for dinner and dance wear. It is fashioned of black crepe and its fitted bodice is treated to a low oval neckline that just escapes the shoulders. The skirt takes a one-sided pouff leaving the back and one side slim and straight. This is the sort of dress that is worn over and over again because it is smart fashion right, attractive, yet unobtrusive.

R.C.A.F. Flyers Must Improve Or Stay at Home

Ottawa, Dec. 16 — (CP)—Canada's 1948 Olympic hockey hope, R.C.A.F. Flyers, get a second-chance "trial" here tonight and on their showing depends the makeup of the Dominion's entrant in the world amateur hockey arena she once dominated — perhaps whether she'll send a team at all.

As Flyers prepared for a 'we'll show 'em' go against Ottawa Army in a senior city game, sports writers and hockey followers were still writing and talking about their 7-0 collapse before McGill University Redmen in an exhibition Saturday night. And most of the comment was caustic.

There were suggestions that questions should be asked in parliament about spending public money for "such stuff as this". That Flyers just weren't good enough to represent a country considered the cradle of hockey and that perhaps Canada should let the hockey end of the '48 Olympic go by default.

In Montreal last night, Norman Dawe, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, suggested that Canada be represented at the Games by an all-star team picked from college teams across the country, with University of Toronto, winner of the Intercollegiate League title last year, getting first chance.

Dawes is coming to Ottawa tonight to view the Flyers in action for a second time and he said he would watch with an open mind. He'll sit with Flyer coach George (Buck) Boucher, who picked the team from among the best hockey talent available from air force stations across Canada.

After the game, between the two of them and Air Commodore D. E. MacKell air member for personnel who fostered the idea of an R.C.A.F. Olympic hockey representative, they'll decide what is to be done — whether the team will be polished up as is, will be bolstered with other players perhaps from other service or civilian squads, or will be substituted entirely for a new entry.

Today the consensus seems to be that the "help wanted" sign will be up before morning unless Flyers show vast improvement in all departments, particularly their attacking plays.

Granby Eagles Withdraw From Quebec League

(By The Canadian Press)

Granby Eagles, whose players went on strike for back pay and refused to take the ice for two week-end games, have decided to withdraw from the Quebec Provincial Hockey League.

President Ernest Conte last night said the Granby players woud be divided among three of the circuit's other five teams—St. Hyacinthe Gallos, Lachine Rapides and Cornwall Cougars—and will give the P.H.L. a "better balanced" league. A revised schedule will be drawn up later, Conte said.

The Granby team started the season as the Verdun Eagles, but the franchise was transferred to Granby when the club's executive ran into financial difficulties. The players went on strike Saturday and refused to take the ice until they received three weeks' back pay they claimed was owed them.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—By a roundabout way comes a report of the embarrassment of Bing Devine, recently-appointed public relations man of the St. Louis Cardinals, during dickering for the sale of the club to Bob Hannegan...Bing, returning from a west coast trip, ran into a cloud of rumors in St. Louis...Thinking it inadvisable to query the club's front office, he started to ask a newspaper friend what went on. Then he realized: "I'm supposed to be a public relations man and should be one of the first to know what's happening."...There was nothing to do but hang up the phone and sweat it out at home until he got the news.

Warren Spahn Tops National Loop Pitchers

New York, Dec. 16. (AP)—Warren Spahn, 25-year-old Boston Braves ace lefthander, topped the National League pitchers with an earned run average of 2.33 for the 1947 season, official averages released today showed.

Rookie Larry Jansen of New York Giants boasted the best won and lost percentage of .808 on 21 victories and only five defeats.

Spahn, in his second full season in the league, won 21 and lost 10 while leading the circuit with seven shutouts.

One of the five 20-game winners in the National, Spahn also pitched the most innings, 290, and faced the most batsmen, 1,174. He yielded only 245 hits and 87 runs of which 75 were earned. Spahn's strikeout total, 123, far surpassed his walks, 84.

The most-talked-about-pitcher was Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati whose earned run average of 2.47 was good for second place behind Spahn. Blackwell was the top winner with his 22-8 season, including a 16-game streak that was the best a righthander had compiled in modern days in the National League.

Blackwell's buggy-whip delivery gave him the strikeout title with 193 victims. He also worked the most complete games 23, and hurled the only no-hit, no-run game of the National League season when blanked Boston, 6-0, June 18.

Following Spahn and Blackwell in the earned run ratings are Ralph Branca of Brooklyn .267; Dutch Leonard of Philadelphia 2.68 and Murray Dickson of St. Louis 3.06.

Oscar Judd of the Phillies, product of Ingersoll, Ont., threw the most wild pitches, eight. Judd tied with Chicago's Hank Borowy for the longest losing streak, nine games.

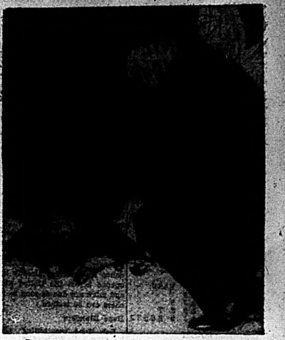
Farmer's Offer Of Free Pigs Yields Dividend

Stratford, Dec. 16—(CP)—Feeding pigs for eventual marketing is an expensive business, say farmers who back up their statements by pointing to high feed costs.

One district man, who took 12 little pigs to district community sale, couldn't get anyone to make bid. Rather than cart the pigs all way home again, he said, he tacked this sign to his truck: "If you want them take them." Then he went to lunch.

When he returned he found somebody had put three more pigs in the truck.

VICTIM OF GANGSTER "RIDE"



Critically wounded with a bullet near his heart, Frank Baker, 17, lies in the snow beside a road at Brookfield, outside Chicago. Policeman James Zach is with him. Young Baker was shot and hurled from an automobile when he and Nick Keusis, 28, were taken for a gangland style "ride" after they witnessed argument and shooting of Nick's brother, John, 40, a garage owner. One of the suspected gunmen, John Daley, was mowed down by police tommy-gunner when he fled arrest. Two others are missing, and feared dead. Young Baker, rushed to a hospital, is near death.

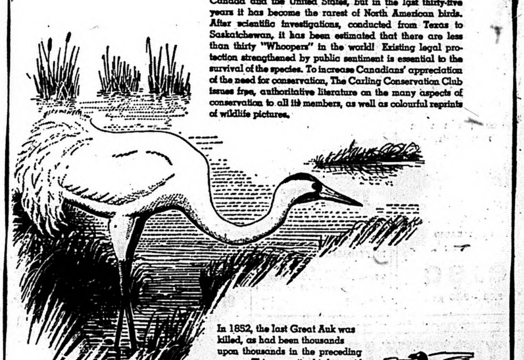
The spectacular Whooping Crane was once common in Canada and the United States, but in the last thirty-five years it has become the rarest of North American birds. After scientific investigations, conducted from Texas to Saskatchewan, it has been estimated that there are less than thirty "Whoopers" in the world! Existing legal protection strengthened by public sentiment is essential to the survival of the species. To increase Canadians' appreciation of the need for conservation, The Carling Conservation Club issues free, authoritative literature on the many aspects of conservation to all its members, as well as colourful reprints of wildlife pictures.



In 1852, the last Great Auk was killed, as had been thousands upon thousands in the preceding years. This aquatic bird provides another example of the inevitable results of wholesale slaughter of wildlife.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Science predominates in bridge; simple science that can be proven conclusively by simple mathematics. Adventure, however, can kick over the buckets of figures in any one deal.

We learn the scientific meaning of bids to know what is correct. This tells us what chances we may take under given conditions. Even with stubborn partners who digress.

Mine was the south hand in this deal:

NORTH
♠K Q 8 4 3
♥8 5 2
♦4 3
♣K 7 4

WEST
♠A J 10 7 6 5
♥7 6
♦A 6 5
♣Q 10

EAST
♥9
♠J 3
♦9 8 7
♣J 9 8 6 5 3 2

♥2
♠A K Q 10 9 4
♦K Q J 10 2
♣A

My south hand should have opened with two hearts and later asked partner how many aces he held. Told he has none, my final bid would be five hearts. This was where we belonged.

But I opened with only one heart. West stuck in a spade bid. My partner bid one notrump. He was the type of partner whose no-on signal if the unseen deuce was trump bid shows only that he has the opponent suit stopped.

He was also the type who would refuse to reply to a convention bid when the spirit moved in. So, my next bid was a hop to a small slam of six hearts. My hope was that partner held spade ace.

West quickly doubled the six heart bid of mine. His intention was to lay down his two aces for a quick defeat of my contract. But here is where bridge played a prank.

His first lead was diamond ace on which east played the seven and my hand flung the deceiving ten. The east seven was a come-also in that hand.

So, west decided to lead another diamond instead of spade ace. A high south diamond won. Two trumps were pulled. Club ace was cashed. Dummy ruffed my small diamond. My lone spade went on dummy club king.

Very likely my decision would have been the same as his in that spot. But west probably feels that he will never live it down. We all do, however. And the next time, too.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 16 (AP) — American dancing is suffering a slight slump, says Fred Astaire, but he adds it's nothing serious.

Dance hall operators all over the country are singing the blues this season, because box-office receipts are hitting new lows. This does not alarm the continent's No. 1 dance man.

"It's only natural that things take a tumble after being at such a peak," Fred observed on the set of "Easter Parade," in which he is ending his retirement."

All fields of show business boomed during the war. Naturally they would have to suffer a reaction."

Fred's interest in American dancing extends beyond his own film terpsichore: He is now in business. Seventeen Fred Astaire dance studios have already been opened across the United States and more are due as soon as teachers can be trained.

Hope Blunders

Bob Hope was telling about his "No. 1 faux pas of all time," which happened to him during his European jaunt. He was rushed into a party attended by most of England's film stars and flash bulbs were popping madly. Bob found himself posing for pictures with two beautiful girls, one of whom he identified as Patricia Roc. He turned to the other girl and asked, "What's your name, dear?"

"Margaret Lockwood," answered England's most popular movie actress.

Public Choosey

Talent, oddly enough, is going to be the most important commodity in the future in Hollywood. That comes from Mervyn Leroy, who began directing pictures 20 years ago at the age of 27. He adds:

"From now on it's going to be a tight market. The public is shopping and only talent can make the good pictures that audiences want. That means that a lot of people in Hollywood will be out of jobs."

Leroy just finished "Homecoming" and he deserves to be a bit smug about the co-stars. His sharp eyes discovered a high school girl named Lara Turner 10 years ago. He also directed Clark Gable's first test and sought the actor for a role in "Little Caesar." That was when Warner Brothers turned him down and made the colossal mistake of believing Gable's ears offset his other charms.

MEXICAN SCREEN CINDERELLA

"The most famous woman in Mexico" is what they call Maria Felix south of the border. From an obscure desert village and humble parents, Maria rose in a few short years to great wealth as the darling of Latin America via the movies. While winning fame on the screen, she has found time to make several marriages and win almost as many divorces. Her latest husband is Augustin Lara, composer, whose music is played and sung from the Texas border to Patagonia. This marriage was recently reported on the rocks.

Trois Rivieres is the Name Say The Trifluvians of This Busy City

By W. H. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Three Rivers, Que., Dec. 16—(CP)—This is the place where they tell you there is no such city as Three Rivers—its Trois Rivieres. And the man responsible was a bearded mariner known in Canadian history as Jacques Cartier.

When Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence in 1534 he gazed at the north shore . halfway between what now are Quebec and Montreal. There the long arm of a south-flowing stream is split into three fingers by two islands where it courses into the St. Lawrence.

"Trois Rivieres" shouted Cartier in amazement.

Is Misnomer

And Trois Rivieres it is today, a bustling city of nearly 50,000 but a misnomer in itself for it hugs the confluence of two, not three, rivers—the St. Laurice and the St. Lawrence. What's more, the incorporated name is official Trois Rivieres and not the translation.

Although the population is 94 per cent French, bilingualism is the rule here rather than the exception and there is harmony among Trifluvians, as they proudly call themselves.

Mayor Arthur Rousseau will converse with you in either French or English. So will Phil Kimball, American-born head of the hustling Chamber of Commerce.

Even so, when conversing in English with any Trifluvian, more likely than not you will hear "Trois Rivieres" spoken unconsciously instead of "Three Rivers."

"Wouldn't it sound silly," said one, "if we said 'Machiore D'Orignal' instead of 'Moose Jaw?' On the other hand, why don't the people of Toronto call their city 'Meeting Place' instead of adhering to the Indian name!"

Every resident of this fast-growing city—its population has more than doubled in the last two decades—is enthusiastically civic-minded. He knows that during the last half-dozen years his city administration has cut taxes by a third, sliced the net debt by a quarter and now operates on an annual surplus that is turned back into the improvement and development.

The St. Maurice River provides hydro-electric power for countless industries and homes in and far beyond the valley itself, and more power development is in the making.

Down the river annually come millions of logs, to be chewed into newsprint and other types of paper at the three huge mills in Three Rivers.

The paper industry alone accounts for about half of the employment in the city, and textile, iron-foundry and power plants, as well as many smaller industries, keep thousands of workers busy.

Despite this concentration of industrial employment, with a flourishing membership in unions both international and local, labor trouble is practically unknown in Three Rivers. The city ranks fifth in the Dominion for average weekly wage, and it has been 10 years since there was a strike of any importance.

Irishman Loses Tug of War With Old 'Baldy'

Waterloo, Ore., Dec. 16 — (AP)— A 1,900-pound horse and a 225-pound Irishman engaged in a tug of war Saturday and the horse, rather reasonably won.

But many of the 2,000 spectators who saw the battle were set back. Science said the man should win, they said. There was even some talk that the horse had taken unfair advantage.

Baldy, the horse, stood at one end of a field, a 300-foot rope attached to his harness. At the other end of the rope, flat on the ground, his feet braced against a wooden block, was Chester Fitzwater.

The theory of the country folk, who bet an estimated $15-000 on the Irishman, was that the angle of the rope would be so slight that the horse wouldn't have enough traction power to pull Fitzwater to an upright position.

The Irishman was the betting favorite until just before the event when a horse breeder's association came in with $5,000 on the horse.

When the gun went off, Fitzwater braced himself. Baldy started moving. ..The ..rope, hooked to the waistband of Fitzwater's chest harness shifted slightly to one side as the slack drew in.

Rules allowed the horse 3 minutes. In exactly 30 seconds Baldy pulled the rope taut and up came Fitzwater into the air and 10 feet along in the mud.

Some folks claim the rope's slip away from the centre of Fitzwater's body was a bit of skullduggery by the horse. Others contended the horse lunged.

"We'll have a re-match any time," said Baldy's owner. "We're not afraid Baldy would have won with his tail."

50 Persons Die As Bridge Over River Collapses

Bogota, Dec. 16 — (AP) — At least 50 persons died when the Pauna bridge over the Rio Minero in the Boyaca department of Colombia collapsed Saturday, an eyewitness said Monday.

The present list of missing persons contains only 37 names.

Jose Maria Villareal, governor of the department, who was swimming in the river when the accident occurred, said:

"I was 20 paces from the bridge when the cable which held it broke. Of at least 200 people on the bridge, many fell on the rocks or were carried away by the turbulent current. I believe at least 50 people died."

Chapter 1

In Robe and Crown

We don't know that King Cophetua took the Beggar Maid to be his Queen only because "she was more fair than words can say," but we do know that all the poems and ballards written about the matter give no reason for the King's very sudden decision.

It is added that she had a lovesome mien and also angel grace and dark hair, but no mention is made of her character, dispos-ition or talents. Her ankles and eyes are definitely praised, and she was barefooted. It is probably safe to assume that her nails were not tinted.

Well King Cophetua took her, to be his Queen, and it is on record that the lords remarked: "It is no wonder, she is more beautiful than day!"

So the King stept down, in robe and crown, and it is to be assumed that the lady smiled her consent, and that they lived happy ever after, though we are not informed as to that.

• • •

Vivian Forrest considered himself the equal of King Cophetua or King Anybody Else, and he took his wife in much the same manner that Cophetua collected his Queen.

Jean Selden had all the known attributes of the historic Beggar Maid. She was easily more fair than words can say, and her eyes and her ankles defied criticism. Her dark beauty was irradiated by her lovesome mien and angel grace, and there you have Jean Forrest, on the surface.

But her mind and her heart were far from those commonly attributed to beggar maids; gentleness and patience were her strong suits.

And that was fortunate, for they enabled her to live almost peaceably with Vivian Forrest, something a quick-tempered woman could not have done.

Now, in the second year of their marriage, they had acquired two or three lordly homes, one beautiful baby and an implacable detestation of each other.

Jean detested her husband because of his irrefragable habit of letting his interest and attent-ion stray to other women than herself, and Vivian detested his wife because she resented and objected to these strayings.

But they had no wish for a separation, because Forrest was proud of his ornimantel and docile wife; also she stood as a very real reason for his not marrying several young women who wished him to do so.

And Jean, could see no satisfactory outlook for herself and her child without Vivian's protection and unfailing generosity.

Just now, at the beginning of the summer season, they were in their show place on Long Island.

An enormous estate, with a palatial house, it was called Forrest Fell. There were guest houses and tea houses and playhouses and bars of all sorts.

This season their set, for some unknown reason, had taken up fencing as a pastime, and a number of guests were coming for an elaborate tournament to be held later on. A few friends had already arrived, and most of the time was devoted to practicing for the event.

"Did you invite the whole club?" asked Anne Fraser, who was one of the early arrivals.

"Oh, no," Jean told her. "Only see, there are other friends we must have, and then, the neighbors around here, and Vivian doesn't like these house parties too big."

"And I'm told you expect Monsieur Isabey! How wonderful!"

"Yes, he's a great professional."

"Will he teach all of us?"

"You must ask him that, yourself. He won't be here for a week yet."

"It will be an honor just to meet him. How do you happen to know him so well?"

"Oh, I don't know him so well. But he and Vivan are great friends. Viv and I studied fencing with him in Paris. And somehow, iv charmed the old Frenchman."

"Yes, Vivian charms every one he meets—if he wants to."

"I know. And the baby is like him. Don't you want to see her? I think she will be awake now."

"Yes, I'd like to see her. I suppose Vivian wanted a boy."

"We may yet achieve that. Come, we'll walk through this rose garden up to the house. Oh, here comes Peter! Peter Haskell, you know. Hello, you old dear!"

"Hello, yourself!" and Haskell kissed her soundly. "And here's Anne Fraser. Don't tell me you are going to cut and thrust with the rest of us."

"Indeed, I am. Why not?"

"You're too delicate and fragile. You'll be run over."

"Just wait and see. I've not had many lessons yet, but they all tell me that physical strength is not needed in fencing, that really it is a handicap."

"Then I'll be at the foot of the class; all I have to brag of is my brute strength. Don't go in the house, Jean, stay out here in the garden with us."

"I have to go. Anne will take care of you. You can see Florry some other time, Anne."

Jean went off and Haskell showed his disappointment.

"Isn't she a picture!" he said. "But one can never get a word with her . I've been here before, and it's alway's like that. She appears as a hostess for a few moments, and then she's gone."

"My heavens, Peter, are you in love with her?"

"Why, yes, of course. Who isn't?"

"You'd better not let Vivian hear you say that."

"Yes, let Vivian hear it," and a man came round the corner of the rose hedge.

"Hello, Forrest," and Peter grasped his hand. "Anne says for me not to let you know I'm in love with your wife."

"Yes? Well, everybody else is. That's why I'm going to take more fencing lessons."

"But you fence better than any of us now," Anne said.

"I know I do, Anne but I shall have a lot of duels on my hands. Are you an expert?"

"No and I'm sick and tired of it already. I like the tournament idea, all dressed up in feathers and ribbons, but I hate practicing."

"It had to be done, though, if you'd keep fit," Forrest told her. "Jean and I practice fifteen minutes every day, you'll never get too far behind. Come on over and see my new Merrie England bar."

They strolled on to a quaint little building, absurdly reminding ful of an old pub, hinting of roystering rogues and village barmaids.

Other newly arrived guests were there, and in their midst was Jean, the perfect hostess.

She was indeed more beautiful than day. Her nearly two years of marriage had in no way lessened her charm. As the chatter, edged by cocktails, grew more general and more merry, Jean slipped away for a good-night kiss to her baby.

She ran up to the child's nursery and found the capable nurse, Rhoda hushing the little one to sleep.

Though Rhoda Harmon was a specialized child's nurse, and believed in and obeyed all the most modern rules for the care and feeding of infants, she flung her instructions to the wind when the baby's mother came to the nursery door. Jean was allowed to take up the rosy mite, and love and cuddle her just as old-fashioned mothers used to do.

Jean was interrupted by the appearance of a housemaid with the message that Mr. Forrest wished Mrs. Forrest to come downstairs immediately; more guests had arrived.

As Vivian met Jean at the foot of the stairs, she passed him quickly and went to speak to a girl who stood looking a bit bewildered.

"Suzy Kirk!" Jean exclaimed. "How glad I am to see you! I wasn't sure you would come."

"Nor I! I just simply ran away. Don't tell anybody I'm here, will you?"

"Course not. Don't your people know?"

"Oh, no. They think I've gone to Aunt Grace's."

"I'll be an Aunt Grace to you. Now you sit right down here by Austin Forrest —he's Vivian's brother, and you can call him Austin, and he's lots of fun.

Jean went on and left the girl with Austin.

"I didn't know Viv had a brother," Suzy said, looking at the handsome face smiling down at her.

"Half-brother, really, but we're both Forrests. Why have I never discovered you before?"

"My people won't let me go to house parties; unless I take a chaperon with me, and I detest chaperons, and they detest me."

"Yes I should think they would. You must lead them a dance."

"I do. Who is that stunning looking man over by the mantel?"

"That's Brandon Sayre. Want to meet him?"

"Ooh! The jungle exployer? No, I'd be scared to death of him."

"He shoots only wild beasts, not pretty girls. He's just home from Borneo or Timbuctoo or some points east. See, the women are all crazy about him."

"They can have him. I like you better."

"Thank you, Miss Minx. Somehow, I feel sure you are a minx. It's too bad but the minute I meet you, they all start to go to dress for dinner. Shall I have you sit by me at the table?"

"Oh, yes, do. Can you manage it?"

"I can and will. I'm manager of this house. Viv thinks he is, but that's his error. Anything you want, any time, anywhere, just let me know."

Jean came along then and took Suzy away with her. With Jean was Brandon Sayre, who stayed behind with Austin Forrest.

"How are you, old man?" said the returned traveler. "It's good to be back in civilization."

"Glad to have you. The jungle seems to agree with you. Never saw you looking better."

"Yes, two years of swamps and tigers is an infallible tonic. And Jean has blossomed into a perfect chatelaine. That doesn't surprise me, for I know she can be anything she wants to be. She and Vivian are a handsome couple.

"They're an ideal couple. The same interests, the same sense of humor, the same good disposit-ion's."

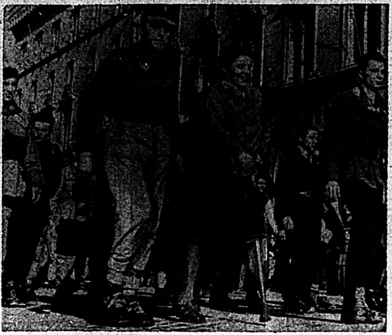
ITALIAN COMMUNISTS SHOW THEIR STRENGTH



Above, is a section of the parade of Italian Partisans staged in Rome recently as a show of Communist strength and discipline. Most of the paraders were in uniform. Many were from mountain country and marched in ski boots. The girl Partisan kept up with the marchers although she has only one leg. Below, Luigi Longon, Communist leader, either by accident or design, gives a perfect impersonation of the characteristic salute of Soviet Marshal Stalin as he reviews the parade. The show of strength failed to have any influence on the De Gasperi government, which claims to have smashed the Red-inspired general strike.

FOUND GUILTY OF KIDNAPPING

Mrs. Frank Massow comforts her daughter, movie starlet Madge Meredith, after a Los Angeles court had found the actress guilty of kidnapping her former manager, Nick Gianaclis. Her sentences could total more than 40 years. EMPEROR STILL GETS BOWS FROM HIROSHIMA

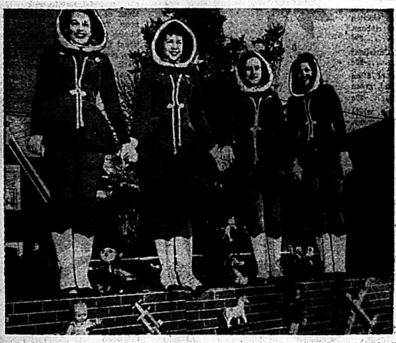
For the first time since it became the first target of an atomic bomb, Hiroshima is host to Japan's Emperor Hirohito. He came to the city recently to pay his respects to the prefecture and to inspect rehabilitation work. This photo, made from an elevation, shows the imperial procession en route to the city hall between dense throngs of bowing Hiroshimans.



Santa's helpers are these four Owen Sound girls on float in Christmas parade through downtown streets here. Santa's temporary headquarters were set up in the market building where he was deluged with children's requests. From left, Helen Fenwick, Yolanda Randall, Lois Stewart and Evelyn Neale.

POLAR BEAR CUBS ARE BOTTLE BABIES

Head keeper at the National Zoological Park in Washington, Frank O. Lowe, feeds two baby polar bears a few days old. The cubs, weighing a pound each, have been snubbed by their mother. Zoo officials say they have little chance of survival unless the mother changes her mind about feeding them.

President of the United Mine workers, John L. Lewis, leaves his office in Washington after sending William Green, A.F.L. president, a blunt note reading: "Green' We disaffiliate. Lewis." It was the second time in 10 years that Lewis has taken his thousands of miners from the A.F.L.

Landlady of Winner of 'Sweeps' Shares in Pay-off With $10,000 Gift Also Gets New Washing Machine

Toronto, Dec. 16 (CP) —This was "payoff" day at the boarding house where Fergus Garvey and George Hester live — and their landlady, Mrs. Josephine Hourigan, was in on it to the tune of $10,009 and a brand new washing machine.

It began with Garvey, 39-year-old former rubber worker, casually handing a certified cheque for $50,244.97 to Hester Romanian-born, 64-year-old pants presser.

It was exactly half the $100,498.94 Garvey received for his winning Irish Sweepstake ticket in the recent Cambridgeshire Handicap. Hester bought a half share in the ticket for $1.25 from Garvey last September.

Mrs. Hourigan, their 64-year-old landlady, was all beams. Hester transferred $10,000 to her bank account, because — "she kept me rent-free for six months in 1937 when I was out of work."

The washing machine was from Garvey, because — 'she chose the washer rather than my offer to pay her laundry bill for the next five years."

Three Wolves Sighted Near Murray's Rapids

Marmora (Special) — Three large wolves were sighted at Murray's Rapids in Moira River on Wednesday morning by P. Murphy and his three sons who were cutting wood on their property. The wolves were on the property of Vincent Terrion, and after a short halt travelled eastwards. Tracks suggested the idea that other wolves might have preceded them in pursuit of deer, whose tracks also were discovered. John Cross who has resided in the near vicinity for about sixty years, said that these wolves being seen about a mile and a half from Deloro, had come the closest to the village of any for a great number of years.

Wellington

WELLINGTON ON THE LAKE

Ontario's waters ripple-
'Neath the December sun,
The trees have lost their tresses
For summer days are done;
But this historic hamlet,
Though all its flowers are dead,
Grieves not that passing summer
With all its joys has fled.

For there's a happy spirit
That pervades the winter air,
A fond anticipation,
You can feel it everywhere;
For we hear the angel's message
Of a Saviour born to men,
Of the Christ-child in the manger
In the town of Bethlehem.

—Helen B. Anderson.

Wellington is preparing for the Christmastide. Stores are putting on a holiday appearance; the Christmas-card counters are crowded with shoppers, and a general festive air prevails.

Miss Lumb has returned after spending some weeks with friends in Thurlow. She expects to entertain relatives from Saskatchewan at the Christmas season.

Old Time Program

An entertainment of unusual interest was presented at Wellington United Church on Friday evening in celebration of the church's 50th anniversary. The house was filled to capacity. Old songs were sung and old costumes paraded and the history of the church was given by Dr. Thompson and Rev. Mr. Lane. A vocal duet, "The Old Rugged Cross" which was sung 50 years ago in the church, was again sung by the vocalists Mrs. Chase and Mr. Andrew Pettengill. Hilton Reynolds a former member of the choir, gave selections on the violin.

80 STITCHES IN HEAD

Toronto, Dec. 16 — (CP) — Gordon Hopmans, in hospital six weeks ago with 80 stitches in his head after an automobile accident, proved Saturday night he's recovered pretty well. Cripps Advocates Adequate Income For Royal Couple

Claims House Should Not Cavil At a Few Pounds

London, Dec. 17 — (CP) — A Labor "rebel" group forced a division in the House of Commons tonight on government proposals to pay £40,000 ($160,000) annually to Princess Elizabeth and £10,000 annually to her husband, Prince Philip. In the vote, the House upheld the proposal 345 to 33.

London, Dec. 17 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps urged the House of Commons today to give Prince Philip and Princess Elizabeth £50,000 ($200,000) a year because "this is not a matter on which we should cavil at a few thousand pounds."

Sir Stafford, Britains economic chief and author of her program of austerity, led off a debate which promised to lead a bitter-end vote in the House tonight on the amount of income to be given the heiress to the throne and her husband.

Sir Stafford said the government believes it is "essential" that Philip "should have an adequate income of his own" and stressed that £10,000 is "the provision customary for the younger sons of the King."

"Whatever we do must be done with a view to supporting the dignity of the Crown and the National prestige."

Sir Stafford noted that the proposed income for Elizabeth was considerably lower than the approximately £80,000 a year which the heir to the throne received as revenues from the Duchy of Cornwall before the war.

Sir Stafford said the full amount proposed by the committee "may help to insure that the young couple live in happiness and good fellowship among a people whose honorable devotion they have already earned and will continue to merit by the simple yet dignified manner with which they will discharge the heavy responsibilities which their high office places upon them."

Living at Palace

The bride and groom are living at Buckingham Palace at present. The groom has a desk job at the Admiralty.

There were indications of a growing revolt in parliament over granting a suggested yearly allowance of £50,000 ($200,000) to the newlyweds—four-fifths of it to Elizabeth and the remainder to Philip.

A special session of the Labor members —in the House of Commons was summoned prior to today's debate on the question. One Labor motion to cancel the allowance of $60,000 a year previously was tabled.

An all-parliamentary committee recommended the $200,000 figure, but five of the nine Labor members on the committee held out for reducing both the bride's and the groom's allowance by $20,000 apiece—or $140,000 for Elizabeth and $20,000 for Philip, whose pay at the Admiralty is $51.80 a week.

Prime Minister Attlee is reported to favor the large figure.

PRIME MINISTER CELEBRATES 73RD BIRTHDAY

On Threshold of New Commonwealth Record for Prime Ministership

Ottawa, Dec. 17. (CP)—Still hale and hearty, Prime Minister Mackenzie King today celebrated his 73rd birthday with a customary working day, which included an early start at the office, a Cabinet meeting and attendance in Parliament.

A bouquet of roses from Liberal Party members likely will be on Mr. King's Commons' desk when the House opens this afternoon but aside from that and telegrams from his many friends around the world there will be little to mark the occasion.

At 73 Mr. King is on the threshold of a new commonwealth record for the Prime Ministership. By April 20 next, he will have equalled the record established by Sir Robert Walpole, the British Prime Minister who served from April 3, 1721, to Feb. 11, 1742—7,620 days or 20 years, 10 months and nine days.

It is expected that once Mr. King has achieved that record he will prepare to hand over the government leadership, possibly selecting a temporary party chieftain until a National Liberal convention chooses a new leader. He already has announced his intention of not leading the Liberal Party into another general election, although he may sit as a private member. However there have been reports lately that his retirement plans may be upset by the international situation.

Mr. King recently returned from a month-long trip overseas, during which he attended the Royal Wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip and visited Western Europe. After a week-long return voyage of ocean liner, he came home to report himself fit and ready for this pre-Christmas parliamentary session.

Early this year the Prime Minister suffered a heavy cold which verged for a time on pneumonia and it was thought possible that he might have had to retire from public life. However, a three-weeks' holiday in the southern United States following convalescence at home restored him to health.

FOOD SHIP ARRIVES

Le Havre, Dec. 17 — (AP) — The S. S. American Leader, carrying 4,000 tons of food given by the American people to France, docked at noon today after a stormy Atlantic crossing that delayed its scheduled arrival by 24 hours.

The ship was greeted by sirens and whistles on every ship in this old French port. Airplanes roared overhead. A full afternoon of official ceremonies wos arranged.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 17—(CP)—Temperatures over Northern Ontario fell to near zero last night while over the lower lake regions they held around 20 degrees. Over most of the province the weather was cloudy with scattered snowflurries. The cold weather will continue over the northern regions and tonight will likely see below zero minimums reached in those areas beyond the influence of the lakes. On Thursday the lower lake regions will experience a gradual influx of milder air from the western states with maximums reaching the high 30s.

CONFIDENT NEW FOOD CONTRACTS WILL BE SIGNED

Bacon, Cheese, Beef And Eggs Covered

Ottawa, Dec. 17 (CP)—Government circles are confident today that new food contracts will be signed shortly with the United Kingdom covering bacon, cheese, beef and eggs and at prices averaging 10 per cent above those of the 1947 agreements which expire at the end of this month.

It is learned here that reduced Canadian commitments and higher prices are involved in Canadian offers for new contracts. These offers are expected to break the deadlock in the food talks which had been stalled through Britain's lack of dollars to pay.

Reports from London indicated that the new Canadian terms already have been accepted and though actual confirmation has not yet reached Ottawa, officials here are confident confirmation would be forthcoming shortly. It is expected a complete statement on the new contracts will be made to parliament before it adjourns —Friday.

Officials here said that the Canadian wheat contract, which fixed the top price at $1.55 a bushel for the contract year, was not affected. It was said the British agreement trade delegation, conferring with government officials here, recognized that Canada was supplying wheat at below world prices and therefore there should be little haggling on the prices for other commodities.

These officials also ruled out the possibility of a further Canadian loan to Britain. They said this would be impossible in view of Canada's own acute dollar shortage.

Suggests Scaling Down

Sources close to the food conference said Canada had suggested the scaling down of the new commitments because last year she failed to fill any contract except that for 86,000,000 dozen eggs at around 50 cents a dozen. It was said the new egg contract would be for 82,000,000 dozens at a price slightly better than 10 per cent higher.

As for beef, it was pointed out that with a poor feed grain crop, Canada would not undertake to maintain the 126,000,000 pounds of beef she promised in 1947. Of this only 36,000,000 pounds was delivered and it is expected the volume will be left open in the new contract with prices about 10 per cent above the $21.50 hundredweight per carcass for the best grade.

TAXI DRIVER KILLED

Montreal, Dec. 17. (CP)—A taxi driver was killed and three passengers were injured yesterday when the cab plunged through the iron guard on a bridge crossing railway tracks here and crashed 20 feet to the ground.

Martial Gariepy, 45, died in the hospital from a fractured skull several hours after the accident. The injured received cuts and bruises and their condition is not serious.

First Ship Carrying War Equipment From Canada to China Leaves Friday

Vancouver, Dec. 17 (CP) — A $1,200,000 cargo of small arms ammunition and aircraft ground equipment is to leave Friday for China — the first direct arms aid to leave Canada for the Chinese Nationalist Government, it was learned last night.

Approximately 15,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition are included in the shipment, presumably intended to provision Chinese government arsenals in the fight against insurgent Communists.

It was understood that special permission of the Federal government was required to export the ammunition. The S.S. Colima a Pakistan-owned vessel, is standing by to load the ammunition.

Twelve box-cars of ammunition have been loaded at Rayleigh Junction, near Kamloops, B.C., and are due in Vancouver area Thursday. Port authorities have ruled that for safety reasons the cars will be kept out of city limits until each is required, when it will be brought forward individually.

Rayleigh is where the War Assets Corporation's B. C. ammunition dump is located.

Authority for sale of the equipment and ammunition to Chinaa was given after a special Federal cabinet session, it was said, and it was negotiated by the Chinese Purchsing Commission at Ottawa. Funds and credits of the Canadian Chinese loan made two years ago were said to finance it.

Lt. Cal. S.Y. Fong, engineer officer of the Chinese Nationalist Air Force, represents the commission in Vancouver.

He said last night that Friday's shipment, the first of three to sail from Canadian ports this month, will be "welcomed" by his government. He said the following two shipments would be from Eastern Canadian ports.

The Colima's cargo is to be discharged at Wu Song, 25 miles from Shanghai.

Western Powers Leave Door Open for Future Co-operation With Soviet

London, Dec. 17 —(AP)— A highly placed government source said today the Cabinet probably will "reconsider the whole structure of its foreign policy" tomorrow as a result of the Big Four foreign ministers' failure to reach any agreement on the future of Germany.

Foreign Secretary Bevin was expected to open the Cabinet deliberations with a formal report on the disagreements which brought the Big Four conference to a close in failure.

Responsible government officials, close to those who shape British policy, expressed grave concern over the conference collapse and the indefinite prolongation of Germany's disunity.

It appeared certain that Britain would join with the United States in a strong bid to have France merge her occupation zone of Germany with the already-fused British - American zones so as to put as much as possible of Germany's industrial machine to work in Europe's reconstruction.

Bidault Calls on Bevin

Initial discussions along this line were believed to have taken place today when Foreign Minister Bidault called on Bevin. State Secretary Marshall and Bidault are reported to have discussed this same subject last night.

Marshall was invited to lunch with the King at Buckingham Palace today.

The deputy foreign ministers, meanwhile, reopened their conferences on the Austrian question today. British and American sources said they expected to know in a few days whether any chance exists on agreement.

The Bidault-Marshall exploratory talks last night were said to have been "satisfactory." There were plentiful indications that whatever evolves from the Western Powers declarations the door will be kept open for future co-operation with Russia.

Much depends, of course, on how the Russians themselves react to the present situation The full reaction probably will not be known until after Molotov makes his report at the Kremlin and Russian leaders lay down their policy decisions.

To Review Policy

A British foreign office spokesman, speaking more cautiously than the government source, said the "disappointing breakdown" of the conference would require a general review of foreign policy by the cabinet.

Bevin had an audience with the King early in the day, presumably to report on the ending of the conference.

French sources said it also was understood that Bidault and Marshall discussed a tentative suggestion for a Washington meeting of American, British and French foreign ministers on Jan. 15.

Reflecting the need felt by American officials to keep in contact with Russia and thus keep up at least the outward forms of Big Four co-operation, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States commander in Germany, said in an interview that he "expected and hoped" the Allied Control Council at Berlin would continue to function despite the breakup at London.

Despite accusations made by Molotov in the Foreign Ministers council meetings here that the western powers were intent upon dividing Germany and unifying the west, the nature of post-conference developments appeared to bear out the arguments of Marshall and Bevin that in fact no such policy discussions had been made.

New Approaches Charted

British informants said British policy on Germany would have to be reviewed and new approches charted before specific new steps could be taken. Marshall also was reported to have put his German advisers to work on an outline for the proposed French zone merger.

The British foreign office distributed a statement last night expanding Bevin's remarks at the final meeting of the Big Four Monday. In it, while discussing the reparations issue, on which the conference finally foundered, Bevin said the total amount of reparations taken out of Germany by the Russians at a rough estimate, was "considerably more than seven million dollars."

"We have, of course, no means of checking this," the statement quoted Bevin as saying. "But until the facts are given us, we cannot discuss this question in a serious manner."

A-Energy Lead of U.S. Can Be Maintained Decade at Least

—McNAUGHTON

New York, Dec. 17 (CP)—The United States should be able to maintain its ascendancy in the field of atomic energy "for a decade at least," provided research and development are maintained on the scale authorized by Congress, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said today.

If international agreement could not be reached on this "acute problem," the Canadian delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission proposed as an alternative that the United States should maintain and expand its lead.

In a speech prepared for a Canadian Club of New York luncheon, he put it this way:

Preservation of Peace

"In the absence of an international agreement, an alternative possibility of preserving peace, which is, I think, fully justified in the short-term view by considerations of expediency and practicability, is that the present paramount ascendancy in the field which is now held by peace-loving and democratic nations, and in largest measure by the United States, should be continued and increased by every method which is open.

"The very progress which is made by these nations will be a strong inducement to other nations to join in the project for international control so that they may share in the benefits."

Outling the steps taken through the U.N. towards devising a system of international control, Gen. McNaughton, also President of the Canadian Atomic Energy Control Board, said:

"A satisfactory solution to this acute problem and the institution of appropriate safeguards are among the indespensable conditions for the establishment and maintenance of stable peace throughout the world."

Those who had studied the problem thoroughly believed that "without undue restriction on the peaceful uses of atomic energy and without the setting up of a nunduly cumbersome organization, it would be possible to provide at the least several months' warning before atomic war could be launched by any nation on a significant scale. . .

"If confidence can once be established that atomic war is not being prepared it may reasonably be expected to extend to all other methods of war and ultimately to war itself. It seems therefore that the key to the situation in this troubled world is agreement for the control of atomic energy."

Benefits of Peaceful Application

A majority of the U.N. Atomic Energy Commission, including Canada, in a report Dec. 31, 1946, recommended international inspection of all mines, mills and refineries to prevent possible diversion of materials to the making of atomic bombs. In a later report, last Sept. 11, the commission made specific proposals as to the powers and functions which an international agency would require, with due regard for checks on "any arbitrary and unnecessary use of authority." Only Russia and Poland failed to approve the two sets of proposals.

". . .no people would benefit more than they (the Russians) would from what we have proposed and so both on the grounds of benefit from the peaceful application as well as of security it is not too much to hope that eventually a way will be found to traverse the opposition of those who presently control the policy of the Soviet."

MOLOTOV HOME

Moscow, Dec. 17 (AP) —Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov returned by plane today from the Big Four Foreign Ministers conference in London.

ABBOTT OUTLINES NEED FOR NEW U.S. TRADE PACT

Opposition Charges Govt. Would Control

Ottawa, Dec 17 (CP)— Intricate detail of the government's emergency plans to conserve Canada's U.S. dollar reserves was placed before the Commons yesterday and promptly drew a Progressive Conservative charge that the proposals constituted "control complete, final and absolute."

Finance Minister Abbott outlined the plans in a 20,000-word review of the foreign exchange situation which he highlighted with the statement that there was need for a new trade agreement which would facilitate a heavy flow of Canadian goods to U.S. markets and the disclosure that informal steps already had been taken in this direction.

Mr. Abbott gave his review on moving second reading of the bill to give statutory force to the import and other restrictions imposed when the emergency program was launched Nov. 17.

The opposition response was swift and critical.

J. M. Macdonald (PC-Muskoka Ontario), Progressive Conservative financial critic, termed the enabling bill one of the "most preposterous" ever brought into the House and said it meant that free peoples were being asked to "shackle" themselves and give the government "astounding" powers.

"This," he declared, "is control complete, final and absolute."

Scolded Government

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, scolded the government for its failure to act sooner to solve the dollar shortage and suggested establishments of a Royal Commission to hear officials of monopolies and cartels testify as to what they were prepared to do to help the country meet its dollar situation.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, expressed his party's opposition to the bill, although he conceded temporary powers were needed, and urged that the measure be referred to the House Banking and Commerce Committe for detailed examination.

Huron M.P.P. Dies Of Heart Attack

Dashwood, Ont., Dec. 17—(CP) — Dr. Robert Hobbs Taylor, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature for Huron since 1943, died from a heart attack at his home here early today, after a lengthy illness. He was 53.

In the legislature session of March, 1945, he collapsed on the floor of the House and was removed to hospital. In June 1945, he conducted his election campaign from his room in Toronto General Hospital where he still was recuperating.

After practising medicine for 29 years he sold his practice and private hospital this year, announcing he was "going to take it easy."

He had been active in charitable and health service work in the community and was president of the War Services Board.

Dr. Taylor was born in London, Ont., and would have been 54 years old on Saturday.

May Schoolgirl Wear Slacks? Camden N.Y. Child's Court to Decide

Camden, N.Y., Dec. 17 —(AP) —The question of whether a schoolgirl should be permitted to wear slacks while attending classes appeared headed for a children's court showdown today.

John Litts, president of the Camden school board, said the issue would be taken to children's court later today by the local truant officer.

Meantime, the "battle of the slacks" continued at Camden Central School.

Gertrude Ackley, 14, denied permission yesterday to attend regular classes unless she wore a skirt, made a repeat appearance in slacks this morning, and again was banished.

The controversy started Dec. 9 when Jeanhette Delahunt, 14-year-old honor student, was sent home to "get a skirt." She was wearing brown wool slacks.

Jeannette's father, Thomas Delahunt, refused to allow his daughter to return to school under conditions specified by Principal Donald Barker. The principal said she would be kept apart from her classmates if she persisted in wearing slacks.

At Albany, N. Y., John Park, superintendent of schools, said that city has no rule against girls wearing slacks in schools. An Albany high school principal said students there sometimes appear in slacks and that "we pay no attention to that sort of thing as long as students are clothed adequately."

Overheated Stove Believed Cause Of Farm Tragedy

Members of Boomhour, Card Families Victims

Kingston, Ont., Dec. 17 — (CP) — Four persons were burned to death and one man suffered burns, cuts and shock early today when fire believed caused by an overheated stove destroyed a two-storey log farmhouse near Hartington village about 30 miles north of here.

Dead are: Mrs. Steven Card, 69; her son, Henry Card, 32; her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Boomhour, 30; and her six-month-old grandson, Harry James Boomhour.

In Kingston General Hospital is James Boomhour, husband of Mrs. Lillian Boomhour, who suffered cuts and burns when he smashed a window of the burning house and ran to a neighbor's home for help. He was the only occupant of the farm house to escape.

Boomhour pounded on the door of a farmhouse, 50 feet away from the burning structure and awakened Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Babcock.

Later Babcock said Boomhour, clad only in a nightshirt and with his face and arms covered with blood, told him he awakened to find the house a mass of flames and that he "couldn't find anyone in it."

Babcock quoted Boomhour as saying Card, his brother-in-law, got up about 4:45 am, put wood on the kitchen stove which heated the log cabin and then went back to bed. Between 15 and 20 minutes later the house was on fire

After dressing hastily as protection against the near-freezing weather, Babcock and his wife went with Boomhour to the flaming farmhouse.

'The heat was unbearable," Babcock said later. "We couldn't even get near it."

Meantime sparks and flaming embers were carried by a light wind toward the Babcock dwelling but it did not catch fire.

Farmers attracted by the flames soon came from the community of Hartington, two miles to the southwest, but the fire had made so much headway that it was apparent firefighters' efforts were hopeless.

By daybreak, four twisted metal beds could be seen amid the red embers of the cabin's log walls but there was no sign of life.

Search For Bodies

Cpl. Harry Ramsbottom, in charge of the provincial police squad from Kingston, with a group of district farmers stood ready as dawn broke to probe the farmhouse ruins for bodies. But Cpl. Ramsbottom said the smouldering remains of the dwelling were so hot that it might be several hours before the search could start.

Card worked as a laborer for Babcock and he and his mother moved into the house last August. The Boomhours arrived about two months ago.

"Henry (Card) had been planning to take his mother into Kingston within the next couple of days to do their Christmas shopping," Mrs. Babcock said.

Both Boomhour and Card were natives of Yarker, about 20 miles northwest of here in Lennox and Addington county.

Surviving Card are four sisters, Mrs. Keith Miller, Mrs. Hamlen Babcock and Mrs. Fred Bell, all of Kingston, and Mrs. Harry E. Babcock of Lake Glen, Fla.

Shortly before 11 a.m. Cpl. Ramsbottom reported that he and his men, aided by the district farmers, had found one charred body near the spot where the cabin's front door had stood.

The infant who lost his life in the blaze was the youngest of six children of Mr. Boomhour and the late Mrs. Boomhour. The surviving children all wards of children's Aid Society at Napanee are Dorothy, 10, James nine, Bessie, seven, Mary, five, Shirley, three.

O.P.P. Divide Belleville Area Into 2 Districts

Toronto, Dec. 17 —(CP)— Two new Provincial Police districts will come into existence in Eastern Ontario on Jan. 1, it was learned today.

Formerly No. 8 District will be divided into districts eight and nine with headquarters at Peterborough and Belleville, respectively. The old No. 9 District will become number 10 and 11 with headquarters at Perth and Cornwall.

Because the Perth and Belleville districts are the largest in territory and population in the southern section of the province, they are being divided in the interests of police efficiency, it was reported.

Under the revision, new district offices would have to be opened with a district inspector, a district sergeant and headquarters constables and clerks in each office.

Arrangements have not yet been made for headquarters buildings in either Peterborough or Cornwall.

12 Crew Members Die in Flaming Wreckage of Plane

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 17 — (AP) — Twelve of the 20 crew members of a Jamaica-bound B-29 died in the flaming wreckage of the four-engined bomber a few minutes after taking off from Davis-Manthan field last night, the United States Air Force announced today.

The casualty list is being withheld pending notification of the next of kin and an army board of inquiry will today begin to probe the cause of the crash.

An announcement said two planes took off shortly after 7 p.m., heavily laden with fuel and bound on a non-stop flight to Vernam Field, Jamaica.

One was slowly gaining altitude when it is believed to have banked in an effort to return to the field and crashed into the desert approximately five miles southwest of the base. It caught fire almost instantly.

Arizona highway patrolman Walter Sheets said:

"I saw eight men leaving the crash area, dazed and shaken. Miraculously, all were walking and did not appear to be badly hurt although one of them was obviously suffering from burns."

Unofficial reports said one engine, possibly two, failed a few minutes after the takeoff.

COMMITTEE ALLOCATES $250 FOR PURCHASE, ENGRAVING MONUMENT

A simple yet impressive monument will shortly rear its marble facades in a Coe Hill Cemetery.

It will mark the resting place of eleven-year-old Myrna Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ferguson, who was killed when a tornado ripped its way through North Hastings last August.

The monument will not only perpetuate the memory of the child victim of the storm, but will bear on one of its faces engraved data of the twister fury that caused death and destruction in the peaceful North Hastings countryside.

The Wollaston Township Tornado Relief Committee at its final meeting in Coe Hill yesterday allocated the sum of $250 for the purchase and engraving of the monument.

It was decided to close the Christmas Tree at the C.D.S. next Saturday so that all parcels now under the tree will reach the hands of the veterans before Christmas. Donations are requested for this tree for they will be distributed to all veterans in hospital. "Give to the Vet who gave" seems to be the slogan this Christmas time.

Brig. Jack Genet will head the committee of building the Legion Hall and bus terminal and work will be started on this project in the near future. The chairman of finance will be Leroy Madden, Sick Committee, Harold Ingram, Ways and Means, Angus Duffy, House, Charles Jeffs, Entertainment, Gordon Miller, Membership, Dr. J. Five Juveniles Arrested For Theft of Shotgun

Charged with breaking and entering the Seymour Hardware on Front Street and with the theft of a 16-gauge double-barrelled shotgun, five juveniles have been apprehended by local police.

Police stated that the juveniles had previously "cased" the hardware store and over the weekend two of them had effected entrance by smashing a window while the three others acted as lookouts. The shotgun was recovered by police where it had been hidden by the juveniles.

Three Others Apprehended

Three other juveniles were apprehended for entering the DeVault grocery store on Bridge Street. Nothing was taken at the store, the place merely having been generally upset and drawers pulled out.

Wallet Travelled 120 Miles In Teeth of Storm

Mr. Robert Ripley, he of "Believe it or Not" fame, might look at this story twice

It stems from the tornado which cut a swath of destruction across North Hastings and other counties last August.

Mr. Harvey Neal, residing near Coe Hill, one of the victims of the storm, who lost his home, farm buildings and personal possessions, was the surpriced recipient of a small package a few days after the tornado struck.

The package bore the Almonte, Ont, postmark, and it contained Mr. Neal's wallet.

The wallet in question had been lying on a table in the Neal home when the storm fury struck. It had been whirled high into the air after the house had been demolished and whisked away in the teeth of the storm.

The wallet, intact, was picked up in Almonte, Ont, some 120 miles away, the next day

Wollaston Twp. Tornado Relief Committee Reports on Rehabilitation of Stricken Families; Cash Receipts Were $18,363

Chairman Rollins Pays Tribute to Generous Donations Made by Contributors to Fund

Coe Hill, Ont.—(Staff) — In comfortable farm homes on the outskirts of this sprawling snow-covered North Hastings village, three families, victims of the tornadic fury which left death and destruction in its wake last August, have picked up the thread of life, broken by the wind-demon which wreaked havoc in four counties and tore a narrow path of devastation through the timbered lands of this northern area.

A fourth family has secured temporary winter quarters and will re-establish itself on a farm near Bancroft in the Spring.

Today these people with their families, and others who suffered property and health damage during the ninety-second tornado, are giving thanks to God for the warm-hearted generosity of their fellow humans throughout this district, and many far-flung places.

$18,363 Raised

For it was announced yesterday at the Wollaston Township Tornado Relief Committee's final meeting, that the magnificent sum of $18,363.35, plus clothing valued at hundreds of dollars had been donated to the stricken victims of the storm by sympathetic people everywhere.

And, as it was pointed out by Chairman Clarke Rollins, reeve of Wollaston, to the "undying credit of the people of Belleville and its immediate district," approximately one-fifth of the generous financial donations, or $3,638.47, had been contributed by them to the Tornado Relief Fund."

The four families, those of Ernest Anderson, Leo and Gerald Campbell, Fred Marshall and Harvey Neal, lost everything they possessed. Houses and barns and other buildings were tossed in splintered irretrievable pieces over the immediate landscape. Cattle were killed. Eleven-year-old Myrna Ferguson, granddaughter of the Neals who was staying with them at the time the tornado struck, was hurled into a tree a hundred yards away and killed. Several others were injured.

Homeless Re-established

Today, thanks to the generous hospitality of their fellow human beings, and the fine administrative efforts of the Tornado Relief Committee, these people are re-established in their new homes, or will be by Spring. Others who suffered partial property damage have been reimbursed to the full extent of their losses.

On Tuesday afternoon, while a swirling blizzard raged outside, packing country roads, and drifting eighteen inches of snow that had already fallen, the Relief Committee conducted the final disbursements of the fund in the Community Hall here.

From early cash donations, a financial report revealed, the sums of $2,500 each had been allocated to the four homeless families. From this amount farms had been purchased and paid for three of the families with any surplus going toward the purchase of stock and repairs to buildings. In addition the Ernest Anderson family received $66.51; the Campbell brothers, $144.88; Fred Marshall, $144.88 and Harvey Neal, $125.88 for furniture.

Furnishings Provided

The families were presented with a stove, table, kitchen chairs and as many beds as were needed from furniture donations received by the committee. The money allocated for furniture was for that needed in parts of the household.

The Campbell brothers, at their own request, selected a farm for themselves at a purchase price of $4,600. The $2,500 allotted to them was paid on the purchase price and at that time the brothers took it on themselves to pay the balance.

Since that time however, Gerald Campbell, a decorated war hero with five years overseas service, decided to move back to the devastated farm the brothers formerly occupied. He has erected a small shack and will winter stock and "clean up the mess" in preparation for the Spring.

The Committee in session yesterday, in view of this fact, allocated Campbell $2,000 to re-establish himself on the old homestead.

Many Receive Assistance

The Harvey Neal family, for which a farm was purchased near Bancroft, has erected a shack on their devastated property and will remain there all winter to look after cattle and sheep. They will remove to their new home in the spring.

The committee also reimbursed several people who had suffered property and other damage. Miss Elizabeth Botteger, who owned a small cottage and a chicken pen suffered damage to the former while the latter was completely destroyed. Miss Botteger, who at present is working in the woods swinging an axe and pulling a saw, was allocated $500.

Mr. George Parks, service station owner, was reimbursed to the extent of monies paid out by him for repairs amounting to $1,000. Parks was given an additional $250 for time lost and other inconveniences.

Mr. J. Holland, a seventy-two-year-old resident of the district who also suffered through the tornado, was given $200. Aylmer Neal, son of Harvey Neal, who was with his father at the time the storm struck, was given $75 earlier in the year and yesterday was allocated an additional $150 for damage to property.

$500 for Damaged Buildings

Mr. Foster McKilligan, farmer, was reimbursed to the extent of $500 for damage done to his buildings while $100 was given to Mrs. George Peacock and family of Faraday township to cover cost of hospital bills. Mrs. Wesley Ferguson, mother of the dead girl, was given $100 to cover expenses of maintaining and boarding the Neal family for some lengthy period following the storm. Mr. Jack Anderson was allocated $452.60 for property damage.

Many hospital bills were paid out of the funds, also the funeral expenses of the eleven-year-old Myrna Ferguson.

A motion that a monument be erected to the memory of the dead girl, on which would be inscribed the date of the tornado and other data was unanimously endorsed by the committee. The sum of $250 was set aside for this purpose.

A request from a Mr. Stanley Darling, insurance agent residing in Peterborough, who claimed he lost a small building used as a fishing headquarters during the summer months, and which was located near the Ernest Anderson property, for $500 storm damages, was unanimously rejected by the committee. Darling stated that his loss was appraised at $600 but since he had salvaged lumber valued at $100 he would settle for $500. He carried no insurance on his property.

Not Insurance Fund

The Committee was of the opinion that the Fund was for the relief of needy persons, and not an "insurance company," and promptly turned Darling's request down.

Following the disbursements of the fund, it was revealed that some $1,400 was left in the treasury. In accordance with a former resolution of the committee to the effect that surplus funds would be equally distributed among the homeless victims, it was decided to divide this money among the Neal, Marshall, Anderson and Campbell families. In view of the fact that Leo and Gerald Anderson had dissolved partnership and each was working his own farm, and that the two men were in partnership at the time the tornado struck the committee decided the surplus monies would be distributed four ways, with the brothers dividing their fourth of the money. Payment of all monies becomes effective in Jan. 1, 1948.

Much Clothing Received

The Agricultural Hall of the village is packed with clothing and furniture, donated by people from all parts of the district, firms from metropolitan centres, and rural and urban organizations.

Clothing and furniture of all descriptions came from all parts of the district and province, from the Red Cross women's organizations and private individuals. With the needs of the stricken victims taken care of, the question of distribution of the surplus came before the committee. After a brief discussion it was decided that the three churches of the district, Anglican, United Church and Tabernacle appoint two members each to form a committee. This committee will purchase the surplus clothing from the Fund Committee for one dollar, and the goods will be distributed to the poor and needy of the northern area, regardless of color, race, or creed.

Generosity Praised

Following the close of the business part of the meeting, the committee through Chairman Clarke Rollins, and various members paid fine tribute to the warm-hearted generosity of people from many parts of the district, province and country in their donations of food and clothing.

Special tribute was paid to the residents and organizations of Belleville and district, who through the medium of the Belleville Merchants-Ontario Intelligencer Tornado Relief Fund contributed such a splendid amount. A motion was unanimously endorsed expressing the deep gratitude of the committee to the residents of this area for their generous response to the appeal for financial and other help.

Tribute was also paid to Peterborough, Prince Edward County, the United Counties, rural and urban centres of these districts and to the thousands of individuals who donated amounts to the Fund.

The striken families, through the committee, also expressed their heartfelt gratitude to the many people and organizations who came to this assistance in their hour of dire need. A public announcement to this effect will be published in the immediate future.

OBITUARY

AUSTIN DUTTON

Austin Dutton died at his home, 235 Lingham Street, on Tuesday afternoon. He was in failing health for the past four years, but death occurred suddenly.

Born at Longton Staffs, England, the late Mr. Dutton was in his 64th year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dutton. TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 17 (CP) — Irregular trends previaled in trading on the Toronto stock exchange today with industrials and golds posting majorities of losses but moderate advances for key issues kept averages for the groups ahead. Base metals were weak and western oils firm. Volum for the first three hours was 846,000 shares, about 253,000 higher than yesterday's similar period.

Base metals continued weak with prices fractionally lower for the high priced stocks and down as much as 20 cents for the others. The gold lists were mixed as a handful of senior issues moved ahead fractions and a few junior producers improved but speculatives eased fractions to 15 and 20 cents.

Steels were active in the industrial lists on an upward trend. Algoma advanced 1-4.

HOGS

Toronto, Dec. 17 — (CP) — Grade A bacon hog prices remained unchanged at Hull, $22.75 delivered while unquoted off truck, in market reporting early this morning.

President Signs European Aid Bill

Washington, Dec. 17 — (AP)— President Truman today signed the $597,000,000 stop-gap European aid bill.

Yesterday, presidential press secretary Charles Ross told reporters a special ceremony was planned to emphasize the importance of the measure.

But Ross told reporters today that the president found it impossible to arrange a ceremonial signing because of the difficulty of getting to the White House at one time all of those who had a major part in the passage of the legislation.

The announcement that the measure had been signed came as the House went back to debating the $88,000,000 cut its appropriations committee recommended in the program.

T. Kravacek Still in Hospital, Much Improved

Condition of Theodore Kravacek, Trenton, who Tuesday morning narrowly escaped drowning when the car he was driving plunged into 12 feet of water in the Trent River, is somewhat improved today, it was stated by hospital officials at Belleville.

A passenger in the Kravacek-driven auto, Louis Stojan, also of Trenton, was drowned when he was trapped beneath the river ice just below No. 2 powerhouse inside the corporation at the northern limits of Trenton. His body has not yet been recovered.

The two men, employees of the Bata Shoe Company at Batawa, were driving to work when their car is believed to have skidded on the slushy pavement. The auto went off the road and dropped 20 feet to disappear through the thin ice. Kravacek was able to free himself and clambered ashore but Stojan failed to come to the surface.

Two hours later the auto was hauled from the river but, there was no body in the car. Police at Trenton believe Stojan managed to get free of the car but was swept to his death beneath the ice.

Kravacek was rushed to Belleville hospital where he was treated for shock by Dr. G. H. Stobie. He was too severely shocked to be interviewed Tuesday but is improved today.

Six Witnesses Will be Called By the Crown

The adjourned inquest looking into the death of 25-year-old Jean Badgley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley of Frankford who on November 30th was found shot to death at her parents' home was scheduled to open this afternoon at the county court buildings.

Police investigation into the death of the pretty private secretary is continuing under Inspector Wilford Franks, of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Ontario Provincial Police. The girl was found in the back kitchen of her parents' home with a .22 bullet through her temple and the rifle lying beside her.

The report of a post-mortem conducted the day following the death indicated there had been a bone broken in the girl's neck and there was suggestion she had been strangled as well as shot. However, a second autopsy conducted in Toronto last week showed Miss Badgley had died as result of the bullet wound in her head.

It was reported that six witnesses would be called at the adjourned inquest today which is being held before Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott. Jurors empanelled by Coroner's Constable Thos. Thorne include Henry Hatfield, Percy Lewington, Tom Colden, William Nash and William Smith.

Quiz Program Sponsored By Kiwanis Club

Members of the Kiwanis Club enjoyed a quiz program at their weekly luncheon at the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday with Dr. Reg. Anderson as Master of Ceremonies and Stafford McKenna compiling the questions. It was all in fun but one of the best programs that has been given in some time. The questions dealt with sport, men in the news, names and other matters, and it was all clean fun but the contestants did not do so well and prompting from the audience was sternly dealt with by the speaker in charge. The class was arranged in two sides with five contestants in each team and the prize was a sucker for each member.

It was announced that the merit plan by-law sent to International for approval was turned back with some modifications and President - elect Ted Schwab stated there would be no vote and that the discussion that it had brought forth would probably answer the purpose and he was sure that the members would give full-hearted support to any project of the club in the coming year. Plans were laid for the installation program to be held at Albert College on January 2nd. with Rev. Norman Rawson of Hamilton as guest speaker. The Christmas party sponsored by the bottom half of the roster with Don Stanton as chairman and Clare Smith as co-chairman to be held this evening will be a highlight of the Christmas season for the club. A number of stunts have been prepared and Santa Claus is sure to make a visit to the centre.

Moneymore LOL Officers Elected And Installed

The annual meeting of Loyal Orange Lodge No. 838, was held on the regular lodge night, the first Thursday in December with a goodly number of members present. With the recent extension to the hall, the lodge is in very comfortable quarters, and is now the centre of several community activities. After the regular business of the evening the following officers were elected and installed for the year 1948.

Wor. Master, W. Bro. Frank Coulter.

Deputy Master, Bro. Norman Coulter.

Financial Secretary, Bro. Gordon M Carleton.

Chaplain, W. Bro. W. E. Coulter.

Secretary and Treasurer, W. Bro. R. C. Carleton.

Lecturers, Bro. Roy Vance, Bro. Joe Coulter.

D. of C., Bro. Simon Robertson.

Committee, Brothers Percy Vance, Frank Coulter, James Vance, H. E. Weir, Charles Dawe.

The Installing officer for the evening was Wor. Brother, Dr. H. G. Carleton of Peterborough, who made a special trip to Moneymore for this occasion. After the ceremonies Brother Carleton gave an interesting address. He referred to the fact that the lodge is now ninety years of age, having been incorporated in the year 1857, ten years older than Canada itself and that for over twelve years the lodge books were kept in pounds, shillings and pence. The speaker complimented the members for the splendid manner in which the business was conducted and the inspiring thing to see the sons, the grandsons and even great grandsons, gathering about the altar of their forefathers. He emphasized the richness of the heritage and traditions of the lodge and invited the lodge and the members every success.

Brother Carleton has recently returned from a trip to the British Isles including Ireland and he gave some of his impressions of conditions in the old land. He had with him a genuine Irish blackthorn cane purchased from Johnston in Belfast, and also a quart of water taken from the Boyne river at the very point where the Battle of the Boyne was fought on July 1st, 1690. In addition he showed many pictures of the Boyne and of Ireland taken by himself. The village of Moneymore in Ireland was described and the speaker told of his plans to write a history of the settlement of Moneymore, Ontario, and the history of ninety years of service of L.O.L. No. 838.

'Y' Boys Choir Bids Farewell To J. Ed. Shortt

Last Saturday the "Y" Boys' Choir held a farewell party for Mr. J. Ed. Shortt, their founder and conductor for the last two years. Mr. Shortt is leaving soon for Sherbrooke, Quebec, where he has accepted the position of General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

After attending a local theatre the boys were served lunch at the Y.

Mr. Shortt was then presented with an Album of Records which included some favorite selections by the well-known Cossack Choir. The presentation was made on behalf of the Choir by the President, Jack Doig and the Treasurer, Ron. Day, thanking Mr. Shortt, on behalf of the boys, for the training he had given them, and for the pleasure they had received through the Choir activities. After expressing regrets at his leaving and wishing him lots of luck the Choir sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Organized in 1945

The Choir was first organized by Mr. Shortt in November 1945, and sang for the first time in public at Tabernacle United Church Christmas Candlelight Service of that year. They made their first Concert appearance under the auspices of the Energetic Club at Holloway St. United Church the following February. By this time the Choir had grown from its original 13 to 19.

The Choir continued to grow in both size and popularity, filling numerous engagements for concerts and banquets.

The crowning achievement of the Choir was in March of 1947 when 29 boys made the trip to Toronto winning the shield for Boys' Choirs, unchanged voices, at the big Kiwanis Music Festival, later placing second in the open Children's Choirs class at Peterborough Kiwanis Music Festival.

The Choir will make their final appearance at Tabernacle United Church Christmas Candlelight Service next Sunday.

It is a matter of regret that such a fine musical organization must pass out of being, no one being available to take over the training of the Choir.

Turkeys Aplenty For Christmas

Toronto, Dec. 17 (CP) — Ontario turkeys will be in plentiful supply for Christmas, the Ontario Agriculture Department predicted today in its weekly crop report.

Middlesex County, reporting a good movement of various types of poultry, said wholesale prices for grade A turkeys ranged from 41 to 43 cents and for milk-fed chickens from 30 to 35 cents a pound.

In Huron County dressed turkeys brought 45-50 cents. Those at Peterborough sold at 52-55 cents retail with volume greater than last year's.

At the Perth Poultry Fair, turkeys sold at 40-42 cents, chickens at 32-33 cents and geese at 35 cents a pound.

TRENT RIVER HOME BURNS

Peterborough, Dec. 17 — (CP) — A fire believed to have started from overheated pipes and fanned by high wind last night destroyed the two-storey frame farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bird at Trent River 29 miles east of here. Mr. and Mrs. Bird and four children were away at the time.

CONFIDENT NEW

Canada had a contract to supply 300,000,000 pounds of bacon to Britain this year but final figures will be about 250,000,000 pounds and the target for next year is expected to hold the latter figure with prices for Wiltshire sides slightly more than the 29 cents Britain has been paying for top grade.

The price Britain will pay for cheese also is expected to be about 10 per cent higher than that which she paid for what Canada did deliver of the 90,000,000 pounds she had promised in 1947.

Wide Range Covered

London, Dec. 17 —(CP)— Food Minister Strachey revealed today that a wide range of imports from Canada apart from food are covered in the Ottawa negotiations expected to lead to an agreement within a few days.

Refusing to give details of Canadian proposals approved by the British government for financing of continued shipment from the Dominion, the minister said at a press conference:

"These negotiations covered more than food and the announcement of the agreement when it comes will be made on behalf of the government as a whole."

He was unable to give information on the prospective agreement which now is in sight after "vicissitudes."

It is understood the negotiations were extended to cover financing of minerals and other raw materials imported by the United Kingdom and that the agreement seeks to ensure continued shipment of supplies essential to British factories.

Earlier it was learned that the British government's reply to Canada's proposals on continuation of the food contracts had been transmitted to Ottawa and British sources were optimistic that announcement of an agreement would come from Ottawa within a few days.

Much Credit to Committee

To this observer no small amount of credit must go to the Wollaston Township Relief Committee. Headed by Chairman Clarke Rollins, the committee sprang into being almost immediately following the disaster. Reeve Rollins rallied about him a group of conscientious representatives of the district, and no time was lost in organization of relief work.

During the months between the time when the tornado struck and the closing of the fund yesterday, these men, aided by the willing hands of ladies of the village and district, have worked unceasingly in the interests of the Fund, and for the relief of the stricken victims. They gave unstintingly of their time and effort and much of the success of the Relief Fund can be directly attributed to their untiring efforts.

It was not a small job. Appeals were sent out. Homes had to be provided for the stricken victims as soon as possible for around the corner lurked the foreboding figure of winter. And winter strikes quickly and severely in this northern district.

Time and costs would not permit of the construction of new homes. Material was scarce, as was labor. Transportation was another problem. Decision to purchase farms with buildings was made. Chairman Rollins with members of his committee scoured the countryside looking for suitable properties. Time went on. Day and night these untiring workers toiled in a race with winter.

Their efforts eventually met with success, and properties were secured..

In the meantime funds started to roll into the coffers of the fund. Curious visitors to the scene of the devastation left generous donations. From county town, village and hamlet, city and settlement came the much-needed dollars. Receipts of monies had to be acknowledged. Secretary A. Perry, with an augmented staff was swamped with work.

Widespread Donations

Generous people from all parts of the district sent in large and small donations. Funds were established in outlying centres. Organizations rallied to their support. From Quebec, and distant Newfoundland, from far away Nebraska and other parts of the United States, funds poured in to the treasury. From Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal came donations of money and clothing. Peterborough established a special fund which eventually donated nearly $2,000 to the treasury.

Clothing and furniture rolled into the Agricultural Hall in an unending stream. So much, in fact, that the Committee was forced to send out word that further clothing and furniture were not needed. Ladies of the village under the supervision of committee member, Leo Gordon, worked day and night, sorting, classifying and packing the hundreds of articles that came in.

Each member of the committee had his particular job, and he did it well. Meetings were held at intermittent periods and the committee slowly but surely saw its efforts shaping into success. It did a magnificent job, and is to be commended for its efforts for the relief and re-establishment of the stricken people of its district.

Prior to final adjournment, Chairman Rollins paid tribute to his committee. He expressed his appreciation of the co-operation accorded him as chairman by members, collectively and individually. "Without this co-operation," he said, "we could not have achieved what was done."

Yesterday the Wollaston Township Tornado Relief Fund wrote "finis" to a splendid community effort. The fund is now closed and no more donations will be received. Monies, clothing and furniture, the gifts of a generous people, have been satisfactorily disbursed. It is hoped, as one member put it, that "such a committee as this will never be formed again."

Members of Committee

Members of the committee were Chairman Clarke Rollins, W. N. Gilroy, Lee Gordon, the Revs. F. J. Whiteley and F. Wicks, all of Coe Hill, and Messrs. C. Thompson and W. Kingerley of St. Ola. As mentioned before, Mr. Andrew Perry of Coe Hill was the hard-working treasurer.

Mr. Bob Boyce, of the Retail Merchants Division of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the editorial staff of the Ontario Intelligencer represented the Belleville Merchants - Ontario Intelligencer Tornado Relief Fund. During the meeting a cheque for $138.47, the balance of the Belleville fund, making in all a total of $3,638.47, was presented to the committee treasurer.

Decorations and Safety

Timely advice is brought to the attention of the people by the Ontaria Fire Marshal's Office to safeguard everyone against fire hazard in this season of the festivities in homes and halls.

Open fires in buildings are a constant threat to the lives of everyone in them. Lights with flickering flames are frequently used at the Christmas season only and fireplaces have more extensive use. They should be located safely and watched carefully. Any open flame lighting, as by candle, should be permitted only where fixed holders are provided well away from flammable decorations, Christmas trees, window curtains, table cloths or other flammable material. When lighted they should be under adult supervision and extinguished immediately when adult care cannot be provided.

One of the dangers in the home is a dry evergreen tree. These trees dry out rapidly in a warm room and should remain in the building for a few days only. They will retain freshness if the base is cut diagonally and stands in a pan of water. It is important to have the trees well away from fireplaces, stoves, heaters and light bulbs and far distant from exit doors of halls or even homes. The tree should be well supported, preferably by metal rods or wires.

Smoking habits are important because of the wrappings, decorations and trees which might become involved. Matches and lighters should not be used near a tree, curtains or decorations and extra care taken in lighting or disposing of matches. Loose papers should be disposed of in a metal can or barrel with metal cover. It is hazardous to leave loose papers around and it is dangerous to burn them in quantity in a stove or furnace.

Flammable decorations should be kept to a minimum as they provide fuel for rapid fire from any source of ignition. Metal, glass or asbestos decorations should be preferred. Flame-proofing treatments for paper and fabrics is available at low cost.

Electric light circuits for illumination of Christmas trees should be examined for defects in plugs and fuses, for breaks or damage to the cords.

Children are the usual victims of fires in Christmas decorations. Every precaution should be taken to make sure that children cannot reach matches or remove lighted candles or have their garments or toys involved in fire.

Fires in the midst of festivities have in seasons past claimed lives in many places. Hence every effort should be made to remove any possibility of trees or decorations becoming ignited. Such rules for safety apply not only before and on Christmas Day but to the days following the festivities.

Human Nature and the Ruble

Russia's latest move in the drastic revaluation of the ruble is "an authoritarian remedy for what strangely resembles a capitalistic disease," remarks the New York Times, presenting "an almost classic picture of wartime inflation in any country." The Times goes on to note that "The remedy, which will be applied beginning tomorrow, is to turn the whole stock of old rubles into a much smaller number of '1947 model' rubles. There are exceptions intended to appeal to those whose stock of rubles in the bank is small. Bank accounts of 3,000 rubles or less will be exchanged ruble for ruble, new for old; sums in excess of that amount at the rate of one new for two old, and at higher levels one new for three old — a simple method of soaking the rich. Government loans will be converted on the basis of one new ruble for three old rubles. But with a few exceptions of this nature the great bulk of outstanding Russian currency will seemingly be sweated down by 90 per cent — that is, the holder will receive one new ruble for ten old rubles.

"The sugar coating on the pill will be the abolition of the rationing system for food and manufactured goods, the abolition of the 'commercial' stores, whose prices might run from 10 to 100 times higher than those obtainable in limited supply under the old ration system; a reduction in some food prices, and, 'while the currency reform is being effected,' payments to workers and peasants at the old rates but in the new currency. The 'nepmen,' or profiteers, of the 1943-47 period will lose their ill-gotten gains. So, no doubt, will some frugal souls who laid away their hard-earned rubles for honest purposes. But, the Kremlin promises that the worker's standard of living will be higher than it was before this transaction took place."

The editorial writer then goes on to say: "The catch perhaps is that no mere juggling of monetary figures can add an ounce to a country's production. The Russians will continue to eat what food they have, wear what clothes they have and use such manufactured goods as they can make or import. The old ruble was valued or quoted all the way from 55.3 to the dollar, 12 to the dollar down to 33 or more to the dollar. The new one, like the old, will be worth what it will buy, and this remains at the moment a secret. What is evident now is that profit-seeking human nature survived in Russia after thirty years of communist indoctrination. The masters of the Kremlin have now brought it to the bar, rebuked it and deprived it of its gains. But one is not quite sure thew have killed it, not even in Russia."

"The Merry Merry Days"

"The merry, merry days of Yule" are very near, the time when the world resigns the time to a children's festival which celebrates the Birth of the Child whose influence has become the greatest force in human relations. Under its sway comes Santa Claus driving his tireless reindeer which cover worldwide wastes, crowded cities and humble villages and the broad expanses of countryside. Under its sway, too, are the fathers and mothers, the grandfathers and grandmothers, the uncles and the aunts, the cousins and brothers and sisters and all the relations of one mind, to give Christmas over to the children.

The world is immensely better for this fact that Christmas is what it is, the celebration of the anniversary of the coming of the greatest Person who ever trod this globe from whose lips came the words respecting little children which has for time and eternity exalted the child to his or her due place in the family and in life.

About this time has gathered the wealth of the imagination of all the ages and of many peoples to make the richest festival in all the year.

In the shops which do so much to better the environment of families and add to their happiness by the creation of so many gifts one sees the impression left by the festival which has left its mark on industry, on the artisans, on the spirit and imagination of the makers of toys and other gifts. This is one time of the year when the sense of self fades to lesser proportions and giving is become the general word for the spirit of the people.

The spirit of Christmas is as old as the Christian era and can be as wide as the whole world. It permeates the thought of millions upon millions. It is one of the treasures of life.

As day after day moves on, bringing nearer the festival, the spirit of the time is filling the hearts of vast millions of persons in very many parts of the world.

Barbara Ann Sets Out

Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott has left for Switzerland to defend there her world skating title. With her go our hopes and our complete cinfidence that, win or lose, she will do her best, never anything but her best.

Since she came home from Europe a world champion in figure skating Miss Scott has enlarged enormously the circle of her friends and admirers. Generous in displaying her rare prowess, eager to support with her prestige all good causes, unspoiled by attentions which would have turned many an older head, this lovely and charming girl has been a champion beyond reproach.

Miss Scott belongs primarily to Ottawa, but the collection of funds for her present mission gave interesting evidence that our local pride is shared by all Canada. In the contests she is facing, and for which she has trained with ardor and persistence, we may be sure she will cover herself with distinction and give us all new cause to praise her and to love her. — Ottawa Journal.

SUGGESTION TO MEN

If you need another shirt
Or a necktie, hesitate!
Someone's feelings you will hurt
If to get it you don't wait.

If your handkerchiefs are low,
Drop a gentle hint somehow.
Let someone who loves you know,
But don't rush to get them now.

Get along as best you can.
Heed the women when they say:
"It's so hard to buy a man
Anything for Christmas Day.'

Wait for Christmas for your ties!
You will soon again be trim.
Women hate the man who buys
What they've planned to give to him!

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is meant by one's Nemesis?

The agent that chastises a person for doing wrong is called his Nemesis. The fate that sooner or later comes to every country is known as the "Nemesis of nations." Sir William Lucy, in Shakespeare's I King Henry VI, asks Joan of Arc and the Dauphin:

> Is Talbot slain? the Frenchman's only scourge,
> Your kingdom's terror and black Nemesis?

The name is derived from a Greek word meaning "to distribute," "to deal out" or "to give what is due." In Homer's "Iliad" the Greek original is used to denote righteous indignation or retributive justice, and in "The Theogony," a genealogy of the gods ascribed to the legendary Greek epic poet Hesiod, Nemesis appears as the daughter of Nox (Night) and the goddess of vengeance, chastisement and punishment.

Nemesis seems to have been originally the personification of conscience or the moral feeling in respect to right and wrong, crime and justice. She was represented in Greek Mythology as a young Venus-like virgin, always prepared to punish the impious and to reward the good and virtuous.

In process of time she became the avenging divinity and represented the righteous indignation of the gods toward the proud and insolent.

Nemesis was the terror of evildoers, whether on land or sea, and she maintained a balance in society by seeing that every person got his share of good and bad fortune and by speedily tracking all wrongs to their authors.

Hence Nemesis became the personification of divine chastisement, the vengeance that ultimately overtakes every wrongdoer, aand of retributive justice in general. Her commands were carried out by three attendants, Dike (justice), Poena (punishment) and Erinys (vengeance). "Nemesis" is usually pro nounced "NEMM-e-sis."

Time is Inopportune For Royal Marriage Says Bucharest Story

Bucharest, Dec. 17 —(AP)— A representative of King Michael has been told that the time is "inopportune" for a royal marriage, palace sources said yesterday.

The cabinet has not been informed officially of the King's intention to marry and has taken no decision in the matter, it was learned, but palace sources said a representative of the King, Dumitru Negel, has sounded out cabinet ministers.

Recent dispatches from Copenhagen and Lausanne, Switzerland where the King has been staying, said he contemplated marrying Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parama, who is of Danish-French extraction.

Bungled Robbery Proves More Costly

Fairmont, W. Va., Dec. 16 — (AP) — Officials of the local beverage company hope the next safe-crackers that visit the firm's office at least knew their trade.

They told police that apparent second-raters had not only failed to open the safe, but left the dial in such shape that even the management cannot open it.

They added that a successful robbery would not have cost the company as much as the cost of re-opening the safe.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALES REHEARSE CAROLS FOR CHRISTMAS SEASON

TO B1 OR TO B COMPLEX

In a book on Vitamins (Viking Press, New York, '40) the author Henry Borsook, professor of biochemistry in Calif. Institute of Technology states that analysis of this discarded fraction ("the scalp of the sizings") proved that it contains most of the vitamin B in the grain, very little B is left in white flour. It contains three times the thiamine (B1) of the whole grain and has the same calorie and protein value. It can be cooked as porridge or baked into bread, muffins, scones or other hot breads. For something under two cents per day per person it provides an optimum amount of vitamin B in palatable form. (That was Dr. Borsook's estimate on the basis of 1940 prices—wheat, like everything else has increased in cost recently.) Dr. Borsook further asserts that this cheap rich source of vitamin B, which millers call "the scalp of the sizings" or "middlings plus germ" can be obtained at any flour mull and the grocer can get it from the local mileir if he makes the proper inquiries and is a little persistent.

Some physicians have expressed fear that this "middlings plus germ" may contain too much roughage for some patients. In Prof. Borsook's experience with hundreds of cases of "colitis" and "irritable bowel!" there were few such persons who could not tolerate as much as a quarter-pound of this cereal daily.

I quoted her a few weeks ago the view expressed by a famous nutrition authority (McCarrison) in his Studies in Deficiency Disease, published in London in '21, recently reproduced by Lee Foundation for Nutritional Research, Milwaukee. Speaking of the great frequency of "colitis of ill-defined origin," McCarrison said:

"One of the most constant results of food deficient in vitamins" (such as the diet followed by most Americans today) "is colitis. It is so frequent that it may rank as a cardinal sign of vitaminic deficiency . . . most cases of this character are of very long standing. I have myself no doubt that a proportion of them have resulted from the long-continued use of deficient foods" (such, for instance, as white flour products, refined white sugar, syrup and refined cereal products "from childhood onwards."

From childhood onwards — in other words the deficiency diet in England as in America, the nutritional defiency of most people, the "national malnutrition," as another authority (D. T. Quigly, B.D., F. A. C. S.) calls it, in his excellent book with the title published by The Lee Foundation, seems to be the usual condition wherever white flour and refined sugar supply a large part of the daily calories.

The minimum daily requirement of vitamin B1 (thiamine) for a sedentary adult whose diet yields 2500 calories is 1.5 milligrams or approximately 500 international units. For an active, hard working or hard playing adult whose diet yields 3500 calories a day, or for an athletic or very active growing boy or girl of teen age whose diet yields or should yield 3500 to 3800 calories a day, 2 milligrams of thiamine is the minimum daily requirement—less than this will not prevent manifestations of deficiency disease.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Matter of the Heart

Fiance classified as IV-F by draft board. They said he had arthritis of the heart. Family doctor has told him he has nothing to worry about but does not tell us any more. He works on a farm and does much heavy lifting.

(Miss M. E. M.)

Answer—Arthritis means inflammation of a joint. Perhaps the draft board physician found some evidence of heart damage left by an attack of acute infectious arthritis (rheumatic fever, inflammatory rheumatism). Best course for the young man is to do as his family doctor advises.

Bunions

I would like to know if the operation for bunions is serious and how long would it take?

(A. K.)

Answer—Bunion is partial dislocation of great toe joint with enlargement of head of the bone. Operation requires removal of enlarged head of bone. Takes 20 days.

So He Has No More Indigestion.

Wrote you in 1929 about husband's peptic ulcer. He followed your advice and can now report he is again well, with no more indigestion or other distress. No words can thank you. (Mrs. R. C.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. Menus and simple remedies for peptic (gastric, duo-denal) ulcer, given in booklet "So You Have Indigestion"—for copy send ten cents and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Heavy Package is Gift, Not Something Terrible

Chicago, Dec. 17 — (AP) — Miss Josephine Messineo, 36, has been receiving mysterious telephone calls recently, so yesterday when she got a heavy package in the mail she called police.

She told detectives that in recent weeks here telephone would ring, she was answer, and the caller would hang up. She thought the package held "a bomb or something terrible."

A police bomb detail x-ray investigation showed a solid sylinder, but it didn't look like a bomb.

Belleville to West Palm Beach, Fla.

(By NELLIE ARTHUR)

On our trip South this year we had some different experiences, and I enjoyed seeing many things I had never seen before.

As we came south of Syracuse to Courtland and then southwest through Ithaca to Elmira, we enjoyed the pleasant autumn weather. It was not as cold as on the same day last year and the coloring of the leaves in the patches of woods high up on the hills across the deep valleys below us was not so brilliant. Lying peaceful in the sunlight was all the good agricultural land extending through the valley and over the distant mountainside. What fine large farm houses, all painted white! We passed several farms where near the road we saw great flocks of pure white turkeys. As we entered Ithaca we drove along the top of a high mountain and before we reached the business centre at the foot of it, we went down this steep mountain right through the residential part of the city. I dread the thought of driving up this steep long winding hill on my return journey next spring. From Ithaca we passed under the shadow of a high range of mountains to Elmira, a busy industrial city.

I will not soon forget the next day's journey through the mountains from Elmira to Williamsport. A heavy rain had set in very early in the morning and after we set out, this rain turned to sleet. Soon the whole country was blanketed in snow. The snow on the windshield was so heavy that the wiper could not entirely remove it, and as we passed on, going higher and higher, it began to freeze there. I had to get out several times and remove the snow in order to see the road before me. Vapour would form on the inside of the windows and in order to see we had to keep wiping off the windows inside. At last we drove into York, Pennsylvania, where we stopped for breakfast. At the restaurant some farmers who had just come down from the higher peaks were remarking on the depth of the snow there. After breakfast when I tried to start the car, I could not get it to go. I had to have the car towed to a garage near the hotel where the mechanic found that the distributor was very wet inside. He wiped it out, and, after I paid the small bill of 90 cents, we were soon on our way again. It still snowed, but, as we passed the highest point, and were now going down, the snow soon turned to rain, and, not far from Williamsport it suddenly cleared and the sun came out and melted all the snow and sent its bright rays over the eastern mountains, leaving the western ones still in shadow.

* * *

From Williamsport on down through Pennsylvania and Maryland to Frederick we followed Highway 15 enjoying the changing scenery. From the high mountain south of Williamsport we could look away down over the large city spread out below along the winding Susquehanna River. The old highway used to follow the river around the mountains but the new No. 15 goes over the mountains. What long steep grades both up and down! At last we came out beside the river and followed it to Harrisburg under the shadow of the mountains. At Harrisburg as we passed along half-way up the mountain side, we saw below us the great railway yards in which were many long trains of coal cars. Beyond Harrisburg we left the mining country behind and passed through farming land. Along the wayside were little stands in which baskets of apples and jugs of cider were for sale. We passed Gettysburg where on a long hill south of the city the last great battle was fought, the Memorial Graveyard of the Civil War. We saw Lincoln's monument standing high among the others and figures of generals on horseback. They represent Grant or Sherman or Sheridan or other great Northern leaders. There are monuments all along the road to different Northern regiments. There are wonderful farms here in Pennsylvania, well cultivated but quite hilly. Then in Maryland we passed through quaint villages of log houses whitewashed. The picket fences around them are whitewashed also. We saw a few old colonial homes but most farm houses are of ordinary size. Near Frederick we saw to the west towards the Blue Ridge Mountains, large peach and apple orchards spread out along the mountain side. In the old city of Frederick we stopped for dinner at the Coffee Shop of the Robert Lee Hotel and enjoyed the delicious Southern cooking there. From now on the name Robert Lee was a familiar one, for the Great Southern leader will always be remembered in Dixieland.

* * *

The next part of the road was new to me. South of Frederick we continued on Highway 15, going straight south to Sanford, North Carolina. My usual route was to turn off No. 15 here and go on No. 1 through Washington, Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Virginia and Raleigh, N.C., to Sanford. No. 1 is a grand road. It is four lanes wide from Washington to Petersburg, a distance of 125 miles, and throughout it is smooth and well built. Besides these large cities it passes through Columbus, S.C., and Augusta, Georgia. It is nearer the mountains and farther from the coast than No. 15 in South Carolina and Georgia and is very much up and down hill. No. 15 is very level, there is hardly a hill on the whole southern part of the route. In Georgia near Savannah and Brunswick, it crosses some large marshes but over these some fine bridges have been recently built.

On Sunday afternoon we drove from Frederick, Maryland on No. 15 south into Virginia. The day was pleasant and cool and the enchanted land we drove through will always make me remember that afternoon. The land was rolling. It was all greenness, for not only was the fall wheat green but the acres of pasture land were green too. Something must have been sown for pasture as grass could not be so green and thick at that time of year. There were fences between the large fields and over them grew the ivy and the myrtle in luxuriant greenness. On the fields were great herds of fat cattle, some were herds of black cattle, others were white-faced Herefords, others were all red. Near the road on each farm were two stone pillars forming a gateway to an avenue which led up to the fine large colonial home some distance from the road. These were not ordinary farm houses. They were mansions, some frame and some brick. They must have contained 20 rooms. The fronts of the houses were often ornamented with large round white pillars reaching to the roof. Around the houses were lawns smoothly mowed and well trimmed. Some distance from the houses were huge barns with many windows and with bright roofs which reflected the rays of the setting sun. The woods at the rear of these fine estates stood out against the distant hills in all their beauty of autumn colors. There were all shades of bronze. There was bright yellow and dark red mingled with green. It was the maples which were bright yellow. Their leaves are larger than ours. That Sunday night we stayed in Warranton, Virginia, a very pretty attractive place.

* * *

In the next couple of days we passed through much varied scenery. We passed through the tobacco country where the farms were smaller and the houses of more ordinary size. The second growth of tobacco was still green in some fields. Then we went through the cotton country where in a few fields Negroes were picking the late crop. Then we went through a level country with peach orchards on either side the road and acres of dew berries. Then we came to the pecan groves and admired the tall graceful trees. In South Georgia we saw our first palm trees and then near Savannah we crossed the great marshes. We came to the Savannah River which here at its mouth divides into several large bodies of water like lakes separated by islands. As we entered the city over a high bridge we saw its great extent spread out before us and away towards the ocean we saw large freighters discharging their loads. Leaving the city we passed through the Negro quarters and saw the high old tenement houses built right up from the sidewalks.

From Jacksonville, that busy city, we drove down the coast. We came to St. Augustine and passed around the walls of the old Spanish fort and saw the old Spanish churches and the slave market with its open sides and pillar-supported roof. We saw the bell to call the slave owners and the block on which the slave to be sold stood. From Jacksonville south we passed through fine citrus fruit groves. There were stands along the road where they sold orange juice at 10 cents a glass. We did not seen the ocean as our view was hid by the long island which extends from Jacksonville to Miami. Between this island and the mainland is a body of water called St. John's River. Bridges are built across it at certain places. Daytona is on the mainland, Daytona Beach is on the island. West Palm Beach is on the mainland, Palm Beach is on the island. After staying all night at the large and luxurious Riviera Hotel near Daytona, we leisurely motored southward and arrived at West Palm Beach tired but thankful that our journey, though long, was unmarred by any accident or any trouble with the car.

Albert College Students, Staff and Guests Hold Christmas Party, Pageant

"Deck the hall with boughs of holly, 'Tis the season to be jolly", —might have been the "theme song" for the Christmas banquet held Tuesday evening in Ackerman Hall, at Albert College, made festive with evergreens and brightly-lighted Christmas trees.

Approximately 175 students, staff members and guests assembled around the refectory tables, gay with decorations and candles in the usual green and red of Christmas, and centred with a collection of brightly colored fruits.

Dr. Bert Howard, principal of the school, acted as Master of Ceremonies and announced the opening of the banquet with the old English custom of the traditional entrance of the boar's head, (to the accompanying carol sung by three "chefs"), and presented before Dr. Howard at the head table; following which ceremony he returned thanks to the Giver of all good, and a delicious turkey dinner was served, and Miss Clarke led in the singing of several carols, with Mr. Alec Gordon as accompanist.

Mr. Huyck presented a football trophy to Jeff Scott, voted the most valuable player on the senior football team.

Ukrainian Girls Honored

"Another outstanding event in this evening's program is an effort on the part of the students and staff to show that we here know what the Spirit of Christmas really means, and try to pass it on to our new-Canadian friends seated at the next table," said Dr. Howard. Then, Mr. McKay, speaking in Ukrainian to the members of the College housekeeping staff, on behalf of the teachers and students, extended "Greetings and Best Christmas Wishes of Friendship and Goodwill," while several students presented each of the seven European girls with a gift, to which Miss Marie Rudnyk capably responded in Ukrainian, which Mr. McKay translated to Dr. Howard.

Pageant Presented

Later, the annual Christmas pageant was presented for an appreciative audience in the College chapel; when with Mr. Gordon at the organ console, directing and accompanying, the historical events presaging the birth of Jesus, the Christ Child, were depicted in a fine artistry of tableaux, pantomime and dialogue to the accompaniment of carols sung by a choir of approximately thirty voices, with Miss Muriel Clarke contributing two delightful solos.

Using "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" as the candle-lighted processional, the choir in ruby colored vestments sang appropriate carols intermittently through the pageant. From the opening scene, where shepherds around a camp fire on the Bethlehem hills, while discussing the probable advent of a Messiah, were startled from sleep by a brilliant light and received the angel's message, — "Behold I bring you good tidings, . Ye shall find the Babe . . . in Bethlehem of Judea," to the end of the pageant, the Spirit of the age-old Christmas story was feelingly and realistically portrayed.

In the final nativity scene around the manger, angels, shepherds, and wise men joined "Mary" and "Joseph" in adoration of the Babe; while from the balcony the choir sang "Joy to the World" and "Adeste Fideles." After the waking of the small shepherd, "David", left to watch the flocks. "The First Noel" was used as the Recessional and Dr. Howard pronounced a benediction.

How to Address Christmas Cards Envelopes to the Clergy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am always at a loss as to exactly how I should address the envelopes of our Christmas cards to members of the clergy, either to a priest or to a minister of any Protestant denomination. Will you please give me some guides about this?

Sarah R.

First, an important rule to remember is that you should always write The before Reverend. The reason is that the word Reverend is not a title (like "Mr." for example). It is an adjective, an adjective of courtesy used in addressing those in God's service.

To a Roman Catholic priest your Christmas card envelope should be addressed: The Reverend Joseph J. Kenna or The Reverend Father Kenna. If he has a scholastic degree: The Reverend Dr. Joseph J. Kenna. A monsignor is addressed: The Right Reverend (name), or The Very Reverend (name).

A Christmas card envelope to a Protestant minister should be addressed: The Reverend John Wells. (Do not write The Reverend Wells: that is, without his first name.) If he has a scholastic degree, you write The Reverend Dr. John Wells (or The Rev. Dr. John Wells); or The Reverend John Wells, D.D. If he is married, address the card to both him and his wife: The Reverend (or The Reverend Dr. and Mrs. John Wells.

Wedding Ring Should be put on Finger First: Then Engagement Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I do not agree on the answer to the question as to where the wedding ring should be worn; that is, whether it is to be put on the finger first or after the engagement ring has been put on. I have been married for four years and have always put my wedding ring on my finger first, as my bridegroom did in the marriage ceremony, then put my engagement ring on top of the wedding ring. My sister is to be married soon, and she insists that the correct way to wear her wedding ring (which is to be a diamond band) is on top of her diamond solitaire engagement ring, as a guard for the engagement ring. Which of us is correct about this? And would the answer be the same whether the wedding ring is a plain one (a gold or platinum band, for example) or a diamond band?

Amy A.

You are right about this . . . when the wedding ring is put on the finger, there should be no other ring on the finger. This is true in the marriage ceremony . . . that is why the bride either leaves her engagement ring at home or (more customarily) wears her engagement ring on her right hand, so that the wedding ring may be put on her finger with no other ring on the finger. And this is the correct position of the wedding ring thereafter, no matter what the type of the wedding ring, plain band or diamond band. The fact that the wedding ring is a diamond band definitely, most definitely, does not mean that it should be worn as a guard for the engagement ring.

How Unmarried Woman Signs Hotel Register

Robena

With the "Miss". . .Miss Robena Foster.

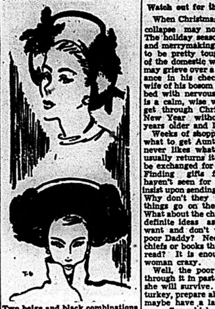
Handsome New Hats



Two beige and black combinations

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

SKETCHED TODAY are two hats that are very much of the mode, high-styled, yet eminently wearable, which is not the case with many of the newest hats. Ivory beige colored felt is used for the tricorne hat which is banded in black velvet, with black velvet hand-make flowers posed at either side. Worn back off the face, the tricorne acquires a youthful air. Black velour with a beige border is used for the hat whose turned-up brim takes an eliptical form. Ostrich feathers at either side curl about the brim in an engaging fashion.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Watch out for the holiday face

When Christmas comes, Mama's collapse may not be far away. The holiday season is one of joy and merrymaking, but it is likely to be pretty tough on the boss of the domestic works. Daddy may grieve over a diminished balance in his checkbook, but the wife of his bosom may take to her bed with nervous exhaustion. It is a calm, wise woman who can get through Christmas and the New Year without feeling ten years older and looking it.

Weeks of shopping! Wondering what to get Aunt Emily, who never likes what you send her, usually returns it to the store to be exchanged for something else. Finding gifts for friends you haven't seen for years, but who insist upon sending you somethinb. Why don't they quit? Must things go on the same forever? What about the children who have definite ideas as to what they want and don't want? And the poor Daddy? Neckties, handkerchiefs or books that he will never read? It is enough to drive a woman crazy.

Well, the poor dear has lived through it in past years; no doubt she will survive. She'll stuff the turkey, prepare all the trimmings, maybe have a large family dinner, after which the well-gorged guests will sit around with a vapid, well-stuffed look. She hopes they'll go home early, so she can go to bed and rest.

To avoid the weary, holiday face, we suggest that Mama outline a plan. Let her make a list of everything she has to buy, everything she has to do. It is the unexpected last minute job that takes the starch out of her.

It's plain crazy to dress the turkey on Christmas morning when the kids are all over the place; the telephone is clanging and there are other foods to be prepared. It can and should be done the day before. Dessert can be made ahead, also the cranberry sauce. The average Christmas dinner is a good-sized job, should be divided up, if Mama is to sit down at the meal and enjoy it.

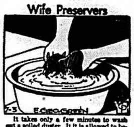
How about trimming the tree? Do you leave that until Christmas eve? If so, you're lucky if you get to bed before the children pile out to see what Santa Claus brought them. Be kind to yourself, lady. Take it easy.

When Christmas comes, Mama's collapse may not be far away

Remember, an epidemic of colds always follows the holiday week. That is because energy has lessened, resistance has slowed up.

It is not surprising that there is a grand rush to beauty shops early in the New Year. They are grand havens of rest. Treat yourself to a facial and a body massage, too, if possible. You'll be under a strain during the exciting days, and you must be put together again if you are to appear your normal, good-looking self.

Wife Preservers



It takes only a few minutes to wash out a soiled duster. It it is allowed to become badly soiled it will not do a good job.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Do Divorcees Chase Married Men?

A few weeks ago there was printed in this column a letter from a divorcee who complained about the attitude taken toward her by the wives of husbands who gave her casual notice.

"If any of the husbands so much as pay me a compliment on my appearance or my ability to carry on and make a home for my children," she said, "their wives turn very cold shoulders to me and some even make cutting remarks." She then went on to say, "What is a woman in my shoes supposed to do? How are you going to make men friends? We can't go up to an unattached man and ask him for a date. We certainly don't want anyone else's husband, either."

Commenting on this woman's letter; a reader writes to voice the opinion that our divorcee is "trying an awful lot to show off. She seems to be quite elated," says this reader, "and brags about the married men commenting on her looks or how well she has taken care of her children. No wonder the wives are mad. If there is anything in the world that will make a wife angry (not jealous) it is the husband that tells her about how well some other woman dresses."

Now I think this reader may very well have something in thinking that the divorcee is bragging a little bit about being noticed by men. A divorced woman's morale is likely to have received a terrific blow, and any stray compliment that comes her way, even though it may be nothing more than a conventional pleasantry, is apt to mean more to her than it would under other circumstances. She feels that it proves she is still attractive to men in general, even though the one man who was her husband might have failed to find her so. All is needs is a little insight on the part of happily married wives to realize that most divorced women have been hurt in their pride as well as in their hearts, and not take it too seriously when they seem to attach undue emphasis to a compliment paid them by a husband who is merely trying to be gracious.

As for my correspondent's remark that it makes a wife 'angry', but not "jealous" when her husband praises another woman's appearance, my own feeling is that such a wife is angry because she is jealous. If women could only learn to take such things casually and pass them off with tolerance and good nature, more matrimonial crises could be avoided.

One more thing from this reader's letter that seems worthy of comment is her remark that "the kind of women wives dislike are the single ones who are deliberately out after married men and don't care that the wives know it."

Personally, I believe that the percentage of single women who deliberately set out to break up a home is very small. Now and then, of course, one does come across an unscrupulous adventuress who is out to get all the scalps she can, but this is the exception that proves the rule. For every one such, there are many hundreds of the other kind.

John Argall, East York greenhouse operator, loads a heated truck with colorful Poinsettia plants for delivery to retail florists. An ex-serviceman, Argall grows only two crops — Hydrangea for Easter trade and Poinsettia for Christmas.

Ten thousand Poinsettia, flame-colored natives of Central America, flaunt their glory as far as can be seen in this picture of an Argall greenhouse, where Argall and Thomas Kelly are at work. It takes eight months to get the exotic plants ready for Christmas trade. They start to show color in the "bracts" of big red leaves in October.

Musical Shows Feature London's Yule Programs

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 17 —(CP)— Large-scale musical shows imported from Broadway, "serious" British plays dealing with post-war problems, a new Travers farce and a revised Lonsdale comedy—and, of course, the usual seasonal outbreak of pantomime—will be chief attractions for London theatre-goers this Christmas.

Still topping the box-office lists are "Oklahoma!" and "Annie Get Your Gun," most successful of the United States musicals to hit London. Success of musicals generally is a big feature of the present season with nearly half the shows currently on the boards of the song-and-dance variety. Leading British contender remains Sir Alan Herbert's "Bless the Bride," enjoying a post-Royal Wedding fillip.

Ben Travers has contributed the enjoyable romp, "Outrageous Fortune," in which Ralph Lynn and Robertson Hare cavort expertly in their best "rookery nook" manner, while Jack Buchanan seems relatively ageless in Frederick Lonsdale's amoral trifle first produced in 1929, "Canaries Sometimes Sing."

No. 1 attraction for children home from school will probably be Bertram Mills' Circus, booked into Olympia again this year and featuring the usual quota of the biggest, most death-defying and funniest.

Further fun will be provided by the return of all the regular pantomimes which blossom annually, complete with fairy godmothers, wicked witches and funny men in red noses and checked pants (supported by break-away suspenders).

Says Resolution Would Not Infringe Civil Liberties

Hamilton, Dec. 17 —(CP)— A resolution of the Hamilton area Women's Institutes urging "arrest without warrant of all known or suspected sex perverts," would not, in the opinion of some institute officers, be an infringement on civil liberties.

The resolution was endorsed by the Ottawa city council with one alderman dissenting. The alderman, Roy Donaldson, claimed that it infringed on civil liberties, gave undue authority to police and abrogated the right of trial.

The Women's Institutes, organized in district area groups, passed the resolution at the annual meeting for the Hamilton area in October. The Hamilton area, one of nine in the province, embraces 13 district groups, each with several member institutes.

Officers conducting the annual meeting here when the resolution was passed included Mrs. E. R. Langs, of Caledonia, and Mrs. Leslie Sage, of Brantford.

As far as Mrs. K. F. Emberley, one of the district officers could recall, there was no discussion of civil liberties when the resolution was passed.

"Shortly before the convention a little girl had been mistreated in Owen Sound," Mrs. Emberley said, "and the purpose seemed to be to give those in authority some support in amending the Criminal Code."

The resolution urged specifically that the Criminal Code be amended "to permit the arrest without warrant of all known or suspected sex perverts as a move toward suppression of sex crimes."

2,500 Students Give Eisler Warm Welcome

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 17 —(CP)— A surging mass of 2,500 University of Michigan students, armed with rotten eggs, snowballs and defiant epithets, prevented a public address by Gerhardt Eisler allegedly the No. 1 Communist in the U.S., at Ann Arbor city park.

Later Eisler dodged two eggs thrown at him when he addressed 150 students in front of a student rooming house.

Modest Standard Of Living Up $450 In US in 22 Mos.

Washington, Dec. 17 —(AP)— The Bureau of Labor Statistics told Congress yesterday it cost an average family of four in 34 major United States cities about $450 more a year to maintain a "modest" standard of living now than it did 22 months ago. Almost one-third of this goes for food.

The annual budget for such a family ranged from $3,004 in New Orleans to $3,458 in Washington as of last June, the bureau said, and since then consumer prices have jumped another 4.[illegible] per cent.

Ewan Clague, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, said the average family for the purposes of his report is an employed father, a housewife and two school children under the age of 15.

He described the budget on which his figures were based as neither at the "subsistence" (bare living) nor "luxury" level but "an attempt to describe and measure a modest but adequate American standard of living."

Mayor, Aldermen To Seek Raises In Kitchener

Kitchener, Dec. 17 — (CP) — Increases in salaries for the mayor and members of city council are likely as a result of a move initiated at Monday night's meeting of city fathers. Notice of motion was filed by Ald. Thomas Hannon to increase the mayor's salary from $1,500 a year to $2,500 and a boost in aldermanic salaries from approximately $250 a year to $500.

Impetus to the plan was given by a recent Oshawa decision to raise salaries of aldermen to $500 and that of the mayor to $3,000. It is said salaries paid in Kitchener are considerably lower than those in many Ontario municipalities of equal or smaller population.

INSURED MOTORISTS

The 1948 Automobile Insurance Rating Programme had already been decided upon when the Federal Government recently announced tax changes affecting the price of new passenger automobiles.

In the Automobile Rating Programme premiums had been adjusted for each rating territory and for each class of cover, according to the experience reflected by the frequency of losses and the average cost of claims. In adjusting these premiums, both increases and reductions were involved, leaving the general level over the entire Province of Ontario approximately the same as that in effect in 1947.

The increased cost of passenger automobiles will undoubtedly affect the cost of claims and, unless this is offset by a reduction in the frequency of accidents, increased automobile premiums will be inevitable.

In the hope that motorists, by the exercise of greater care and the strict observance of all safety rules and regulations, may so reduce the frequency of accidents to the point that increases in premiums will be unnecessary, the Rating Programme is being allowed to stand as originally drafted.

Textbook Termed "Shocking" And Withdrawn From Use

By FRANK SMITH
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Johannesburg, Dec. 17 —(CP) —A history textbook which lauds the early settlers' distrust and ill-treatment of South African natives, has been withdrawn from use in Transvaal Province schools following immediate criticism by the English-language press of the Union.

The text, termed "a shocking book" in newspaper editorials, deals with the history of Afrikanders — natives of South Africa born of European settlers —and was in use in grades seven and eight in Transvaal schools.

The newspapers criticized the provincial education department for authorizing a text book which terms as "a worthy man" an early settler "the astute border farmer Adriaan Van Jaarsveld," appointed "veld commandant with instructions to take the necessary steps to put the natives in their place."

"On one occasion the treacherous Xosas (natives of the eastern cape and Transkei) entered the territory of the whites on the pretext that they wanted tobacco, but Van Jaarsveld saw through the ultimate plan of the rascals and ordered his men to slice tobacco and scatter it on the ground.

"Just as the Xosas bent down to collect the tobacco the order 'fire' was given and many Kaffirs fell dead.

"Adriaan Van Jaarsveld was a worthy man."

A photograph in the text shows a typical Krall native and is captioned "Native deep in thought, planning theft or murder."

The Rand Daily Mail of Johannesburg, leading pro-government morning daily in the Transvaal, commenting editorially on the book, said "many of our readers, like ourselves, have found it positively shocking."

"It repeatedly uses opprobrious words with reference to the native peoples, the least offensive being 'Kaffir.' (common word for a native) which is a term of contumely: and there is an air of elation in at least one episode in which the treacherous savages fell dead before the worthy white men.

"The moral is clear enough—black men are naturally bad; white men (Afrikanders) are naturally good: so the white man is entitled to regard the black as a lower or hostile species."

The newspaper said that instead of creating better spirit between the European and native populations, the book "seems . . . more likely to poison the minds of impressionable children by implanting the seeds of hatred in them, thus exaggerating rather than solving our great problem."

She was accompanied by her mother.

Children to Get Christmas Gift Anyway

London, Dec. 17 —(CP)— Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the Commons that currency regulations forbid a Welsh granny from sending £2 ($8) to her grandchildren in Canada but later the House was informed that a Toronto man will see that the children get a Christmas gift anyway.

Peter Freeman, Labor member for Newport, said the granny, an old-age pensioner, mailed £2 to her daughter in Canada "who was in urgent need of help at Christmas for her six children."

The money was confiscated by customs officials and Freeman asked if Sir Stafford would authorize repayment to the grandmother or allow the money to go to Canada.

Money to be Refunded

Sir Stafford said he could not let the money go forward under existing regulations but it would be refunded the sender.

Freeman said the story of the incident was published in Canada and aroused such sympathy that he had a letter from a Canadian who was prepared to send the equivalent of £2 to the children. Sir Stafford said he was delighted to hear of this action.

Freeman later told The Canadian Press that C. S. Walters, Ontario deputy treasurer, had written asking for the children's address as he wished to send them the money. Walters had said he remembered that when he was a boy his widowed mother received Christmas gifts from his grandparents in Devon.

Detective Dies, First Used Radio In Crippen Case

Worthing, Sussex, England, Dec. 17 — (Reuters) — Walter Dew, former Scotland Yard chief inspector who in 1910 made crime history by using radio for crime detection for the first time in the murder hunt for Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, died here Tuesday at the age of 84.

After poisoning his wife and hiding the remains in the cellar of his house, Crippen fled to Canada on the liner Montrose, accompanied by a friend, Ethel Le Neve, whom he dressed up as his son.

The pair were travelling under assumed names, but the captain's suspicions were aroused when he noticed they were exchanging affectionate hand squeezes.

After a dramatic exchange of radio messages, the Montrose was slowed in its course to Canada to enable Dew to overtake the liner in another ship and make the arrest.

Recommends Province Acquire Swamp and Sub-marginal Lands Near Water Courses for Conservation

London, Ont., Dec. 17 —(CP)— Recommendations that the province acquire swamp and sub-marginal lands along water courses to be used for conservation purposes was made Tuesday to a legislature committee on farm drainage.

The suggestion came from W. H. Porter, secretary of the Thames Valley Conservation Authority and was supported by W. R. Smith, former Middlesex county engineer and now with the Department of Planning and Development.

The committee held previous meetings in Kingston and Peterborough and has toured large areas in Ontario. It will hold a meeting again in Toronto before recommending amendments to the 100-year old Tile Drainage Act, the Ditches and Watercourses Act and Municipal Drainage Act.

Mr. Porter said there should be a provincial body to pass on all drainage schemes assessing their effect on areas downstream from the lands upon which they are built. He cited instances where, he said, it could be presumed that major drainage schemes in the upper reaches of the Thames Valley affected flood conditions in the downstream area.

Others to appear before the committee are Prof. F. L. Ferguson and W. P. Shorey of Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; E. J. McLoughry, agricultural representative of Waterloo, and W. K. Riddell, agricultural representative of Middlesex.

Legislature members on the committee are George Parry (Prog-Cons) West Kent, Bryan Cathcart (Prog-Cons) Lambton West, and Ross A. McEwing (Lib) Wellington North.

Madoc Defeats Cobourg 8-4 To Enter Playoffs; Pt. Anne Wins But Misses Coveted Slot

The Belleville District Hockey Association wound up its regular schedule at Memorial Arena last night with the Point Anne and Campbellford teams being edged out of the playoffs by virtue of Madoc's 8-4 victory over Cobourg and Point Anne's win over Bloomfield by an 11-5 score. Point Anne had to defeat the Sky Chiefs by 14 goals to grab a play off slot over the Belleville Hornets, and though they made a gallant effort they couldn't quite make it. Madoc had its back to the wall as defeat meant elimination and Campbellford's entry into the playoffs. But the Madocers came through with a sparkling victory to cinch the fourth playoff berth in "B" section, nosing out the Campbellford crew by one point.

Point Anne 11
Bloomfield Sky Chiefs 5

Point Anne with the stupendous task of defeating Bloomfield by a margin of fourteen goals in order to better the Belleville Hornets goals average looked in the first period of one of the highest scoring splurges of the schedule as if they might accomplish just that chore.

Speeding to the attack from the first whistle the Pointers fired home five goals in a row in the first period with not a return from the luckless Chiefs. It looked as though they were put for that playoff slot, and nothing could hold them.

But they hadn't counted with the fighting qualities of the Chiefs. The canning factory village boys roared back to the offensive in the second heat, and disorganizing the Pointers by the speed of their attacks rammed home four goals in a row to come within striking distance. The Point came back with two more to make the score 7-4 but the Chiefs got one back with the Pointers adding another to make the count 8-5 at the end of the period.

The Murney Green crew took over in the third heat and scored three more goals to make the final count 11-5 far wide of the necessary margin.

Murney Green paced the winners' attack with three goals and an assist. Horwood got a goal and two helpers while Williamson got one of each. Lorne Maracle also accounted for a pair of markers.

MacDonald scored a pair for the Chiefs, and was one of the best players on the ice. Platford, Mosley and R. Cork, who incidentally drew a minor and a misconduct penalty were the other tally men for the Chiefs.

Williamson, Everett, L. Maracle, Green looked the best for the winners with Keith MacDonald, Mosley, Platford, and Pike looked the best for the losers. Jack Ogilvy in the Chiefs nets, played a fine game although 11 pucks, three of them from his own men, went past him.

Madoc 8, Cobourg 4

Madoc, with its back to the playoff wall set back the fast-skating Cobourg club by an 8-4 count and pushed the close Campbellford team out of the playoffs by their victory. The game was a close fought affair for two periods but the Madoc squad paced by Bill Holway, Leo Goyer, Timmy Williams and cousins took advantage of the ganging Cobourg attacks in the third period and scored four times to the losers' once to put the game in the bag. The score was 4-3 going into the final chukker.

Madoc lost no time getting into the scoring column as Timmy Williams got the first of his three goals of the evening just 55 seconds after the opening whistle taking team-mate Leo Goyer's pass close in to score. Two minutes later the same pair combined nicely with Goyer again slipping Williams the pass in front of the goalmouth and the right-winger made no mistake.

Play was nip and tuck for the rest of the period with both goalies playing fine hockey to keep the score down. With seconds to go, V. Goyer took a goalmouth pass and flipped the rubber past Chuck Hearns to make the score 2-1.

Close play also featured the second period. Johnny Baker, ponderous Madoc defenceman drove a hard shot from well out to put his squad two up after three minutes of play. Cobourg raced back to the attack and Bulger and Ball scored in little over a minute to put the teams on even terms. Williams and Goyer, however pulled another of the combination plays to put Madoc one up and the period ended 4-3 after both goals had narrow escapes.

Bill Holway took Goyer's pass at the eight minute mark in the third heat to make the count 5-3 and the Cobourg crew with defeat staring them in the face hemmed the Madocers in their own end of the rink in heavy pressure plays. Breaking away from a Cobourg ganging attack, Holway, Goyer and Williams raced three abreast down the ice and the former netted his second goal of the night.

Cobourg's ganging attacks finally clicked as Bulger and Baker combined to make the score 6-4 but Cousins cut loose with two sparkling solo efforts that netted him a brace of goals in 40 seconds to put the game in the bag.

Timmy Williams led the goal parade for Madoc with three and an assist. Leo Goyer got five assists with Bill Holway and Cousins collecting a pair of markers each. Johnny Baker did a good job on defence and got himself a goal to boot.

Mark Storms looked the best for Cobourg, with Bulger, Pickering, the Canes and Ball going well for Cobourg. Vern Goyer played the first period for the lakeshore squad but retired after that on account of an injured ankle.

R.C.A.F. Flyers Will Represent Canada at Games

Ottawa, Dec. 17 (CP)—R.C.A.F. Flyers are going to Switzerland to represent Canada at the 1948 Olympic hockey wars after all—but there'll be a lot of changes made and they'll have a "new look."

When they board ship at New York to sail Jan. 9 they'll probably only be a semblance of the team that has dropped two sad losses in as many starts. They'll be bolstered, perhaps with an entirely new defence and possibly a new, punchier attack line.

Norman Dawe, 1st Vice-President of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, heeding the alarm that developed following Flyers 7-0 loss to McGill Redmen in an exhibition here Saturday, came to Ottawa last night. He and a lot of other officials saw the Olympic prospects drop another —6-2 to Ottawa Army.

Then Mr. Dawe went into conference with R.C.A.F. officials two hours later the conference broke up and the C.A.H.A. officials issued this statement:

"The Royal Canadian Air Force will retain its identity in representing Canada at the Olympic hockey games. At the same time, R.C.A.F. officials have agreed to strengthen the team, as requested by The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and the C.A.H.A. will lend a hand in this strengthening process as far as possible."

Given a Free Hand

Although Mr. Dawe did not come out and say so it was clearly indicated the R.C.A.F. would be given a free hand to get replacements where they might, either from other service teams or civilian clubs, providing prospects could meet the stiff Olympic amateur pledge. And they've been told to look particularly for defence men.

Dawe praised the air force effort to ice a club. Though the R.C.A.F. banner will be retained he indicated plans for an all-R.C.A.F. squad probably have been junked when he said:

"But the R.C.A.F. fully recognizes the fact that we are not playing for the air force or the C.A.H.A.—we are playing for Canada and they agree that reinforcements are required."

Dawe didn't indicate where the reinforcements might come from, nor how the C.A.H.A. might "lend a hand." Neither did others attending the conference, including Sqdn. Ldr. A. Gardner Watson, manager of the club.

Sqrd. Ldr. Watson said "we have to work and added the matter of replacements would be dealt with within the next 12 hours.

Dawe's announcement dispelled reports Flyers might be replaced.

STOP NURSE RECRUITING

Toronto, Dec. 17 — (CP)—Dr. Basil Maclean, director of Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester, said Monday in a telephone interview that because of vigorous protests the hospital's effort to recruit Canadian nurses is "off".

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The Belleville District Hockey Association finished its regular schedule at Memorial Arena last night and it must be said that the initial venture into district hockey in this area has been pronounced a success. The twelve teams entered were more or less evenly matched with the exception perhaps of the Bloomfield and Tweed teams, but these squads proved themselves fine sportsmen by giving all they had until the final whistle rang down the schedule curtain — even if they did not win a game.

• • •

Financially, too, the Association can well be proud of itself. When the final accounting was made of the schedule "take" last night, it was found that the twelve teams will share $700. This is highly satisfactory when it is taken into consideration that the season just finished was the inaugural one, and one that was actually a test. In addition to splitting the $700 the teams in the playoffs will get additional shares of gates in the quarter, semi- and finals series.

• • •

And the squads can, thank fans from the outside district for the majority of the box office spoils. There isn't the slightest doubt that the supporters of the district teams rallied behind their squads to a much greater degree than of those of the city teams. Dyed-in-the-wood city hockey fans did not turn out in numbers comparable to those from the "sticks" and consequently the gate fell down when urban teams clashed one against the other.

• • •

But the District League served its purpose well. It provided pre-season hockey for those that like it early; it laid a foundation for better leagues in the future and gave a lot of fellows the opportunity to play their favorite winter sport, who otherwise would be left "in the cold" so to speak. The fact that members of the Belleville Senior "B" club were distributed among the association teams, gave those players an opportunity to assist themselves in getting into shape for the more serious OHA grind ahead.

• • •

True the league had its troubles. But all-in-all everything was ironed out, and to use an old bromide "one has to crawl before he walks". Several lessons were learned by the first executive, and when next season rolls around they, or whoever sits in the seats of the administrative mighty will be better equipped to handle the league.

• • •

Organization this year was perhaps a little too late. Too much had to be done in too short a time before actual playing started. There is no reason why next season, organization can be completed, and a lot of necessary administrative work done before the ice is placed in the arena. In other words, everything should be in shipshape condition before the teams take to the ice.

• • •

So popular was the idea of a district league that the executive had no less than twelve entries facing it a week before play started. It was felt that no squad should be excluded, but the Peterborough entry was turned down because of its OHA status. It was impossible to operate a single schedule in the time allotted to the Association and the sectional idea was conceived. This proved more or less satisfactory although the post-league consensus is that next year an eight-team loop be adopted, and a single schedule played.

• • •

The single schedule, with less teams, it is felt, will give the squads more hockey, make for keener competition, and in general raise the calibre of the sport provided. But that is the worry of next year's executive and that bridge can be crossed when arrived at.

• • •

There should be some keen battling in the Association playoffs especially since it has been decreed that the quarter-finals and semi-final are to be sudden death affairs. The final series will likely be a two-games affair with goals to count, although nothing has been definitely decided as yet.

• • •

The first quarter-finals series gets under way on Thursday night with the RCAF Flyers and Belleville Rockets juniors of "A" section teeing off in the first game of a double header which sees Trenton and Stirling of "B" section provide the nightcap. Two of these teams will be eliminated due to the sudden death edict, and that means plenty of hockey and hockey fireworks. Flyers and Junors got a hectic game off their respective chests last week with the beardless ones being submerged beneath a 10-1 score. But, the Rockets claim, that is water under the bridge and Thursday night's tussle will be vastly different.

• • •

Trenton and Madoc are two evenly matched squads, and this tilt should be one for the book. Madoc grabbed a neat victory last night, knocking off the classy Cobourg crew and earning themselves a playoff spot and sending the fighting Campbellford crew into the discard. These games will be desperately-fought affair with plenty at stake, and should be productive of the best hockey of the association season.

• • •

The final standing of the association is published elsewhere in this newspaper, and it will be noticed that Stirling and RCAF finished at the top of their respective sections. In the playoffs the first and third teams will battle, as will the second and fourth squads. First and third teams and second and fourth teams in the sections will play on the same night. In the second half of the quarter finals, Napanee will take on the Hornets in "A" section with Stirling and Cobourg tangling in the "B" group.

It has been suggested that the remaining playoff games be held over until the New Year as some of the teams cannot ice squads during the holiday season. This will likely be done, and there probably won't be any more association playoffs after Thursday night until the first week in the New Year. Definite news on this tomorrow.

For sheer, heart-tugging drama, there is probably nothing to match Lester Patrick's last stand, when on April 7, 1928, as a white-haired 44-year-old he came out of retirement, donned the goalie's tools and inspired his New York Rangers to a playoff victory.

Montreal had copped the opener of the Stanley Cup finals and was heavily favored to breeze through the series.

• • •

Neither team was able to score in the first period of the second game. Early in the middle stanza, Maroon Winger Nels Stewart fired the puck toward the Blueshirt net where it struck Lorne Chabot on the head and knocked him unconscious.

Denied the use of any of the other National League goalies who were in attendance, Patrick announced simply, but dramatically, "I'll do it myself."

• • •

What followed is listed among hockey's most glorious chapters.

While a hostile crowd slowly shifted into his corner, Patrick held the Maroons at bay. The Rangers scored in the third period, and six minutes from the finish, Stewart tied it up.

• • •

That's the way the count stood after regulation time and into the sudden-death overtime. For seven minutes of the extra period, Patrick deflected every shot aimed his way and at 7:05 Frankie Boucher slipped in the winning shot for the Blueshirts. From Patrick's inspirational example the Rangers went on to cop the Stanley Cup in one of the game's foremost upsets.

Overtime Goals Give Owen Sound A 6-4 Victory

(By The Canadian Press)

Overtime goals by Bun White and Freddie Smith gave Owen Sound Mercurys a 6-4 victory over the sixth-place Hamilton Patricias in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A tilt at Owen Sound last night. The win put the fifth-place Mercurys five points ahead of Patricias.

In the second senior fixture Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen took an 8-2 victory over the bottom-place Brantford Redmen and moved into a third place tie with Stratford Indians. It was the Redmen's 15th loss in 17 starts.

There were no junior games scheduled.

Trailing by two goals starting the third period, Mercurys hammered away a Hamilton netminder Jack Eley without success until Jack Ingoldsby rapped in a rebound at 1:20. Eley thought he had caught the puck in his pads but it had dropped free and Ingoldsby poked it home. Ten seconds later Jimmy Boddy tied the count on a similar play to send the game into extra time.

Mercury's took a first period lead when Billy Gluck knocked the puck into his own net, Boddy getting credit for the counter.

Doug Gillespie made it 2-0 for Owen Sound 23 seconds later to end the frame's scoring.

Pats Storm Back

Pats stormed back in the second session with four goals in eight minutes, Nick Phillips and Frank Long tieing the score. Bryan Robinson then popped home a pair to put Pats ahead. Pats played defensive hockey for the rest of the game.

Kitchener - Waterloo's first meeting with Brantford, last night was minus penalties. Dutchmen led 3-1 in the first frame, 4-2 at the end of the second but three Kitchener goals in the third session settled the issue, at the Waterloo Arena.

Johnny Blue led Dutchmen marksmen with three counters. Dutch Hiller, Sparky Weller, Lloyd Roubell, Art Hurst and Holly Hollinger tallied other Kitchener goals. Brantford tallies came from Ted Joyle and Luckman.

Toronto Marlboros in the top drawer visit the second-place Hamilton Tigers in tonight's only scheduled senior fixture.

Toronto St. Michael's Majors visit Oshawa Generals, Windsor Spitfires go to Stratford and Galt Rockets face Barrie Flyers in tonight's slated junior tilts.

Gaye Stewart May be Traded To Canadiens

Montreal Dec. 17 (CP) — Le Canada said today in a sports page story that Gaye Stewart, left winger traded earlier this season by Toronto to Chicago in the five-for-two deal, may come to Montreal Canadiens before the end of the week.

Le Canada said the Montreal Hockey League Club, at present down in fifth place in the standing has been looking for a good left wing player for some time and that coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens conferred with president Bill Tobin of the Black Hawks during the weekend.

The newspaper said it was unlikely that money would figure in the deal but that Canadiens probably would trade a defenceman to the Hawks in return for Stewart's services.

There was no immediate comment from the Montreal club.

Russian Attack On U. S. Efforts for Bill of Human Rights

New York, Dec. 17 — (CP) — The New York Times said in a Geneva dispatch Tuesday that "a full-scale Russian attack" on efforts by the United Nations to implement by enforcement a bill of human rights developed Monday during a meeting of the U.N. Human Rights Commission.

Russian delegate Alexander Bogomolov assailed a working party's recommendation for a special court of human rights as a "dangerous and fantastic idea incompatible with the sovereignty of states," the dispatch said.

The proposed steps for implementation include a court to which individuals and groups could appeal over the heads of governments.

Rangers Shooting For Third Place In N.H.L. Race

(By The Canadian Press)

In the introduction to the Christmas week grind, third place in the National Hockey League is at stake tonight, and it's just possible that that dizzy height will be attained by the New York Rangers.

Tonight's two games have Boston Bruins at New York and Detroit Red Wings at Chicago Black Hawks.

The present standing in itself tells volumes of the shifting fortunes of this season's clubs: Toronto 29, Detroit 26, Boston 24, New York 23, Montreal 22 and Chicago 12.

And if the New York Rangers continue their dazzling clip of the past two weeks, they're going to be sitting in third place come Thursday. They haven't been beaten in their last six games, of which they tied three.

Their success is no secret formula. They have a bunch of hustling forwards, a pretty fair defence which includes a flock of hockey brains under the grey thatch of Neil Colville, and a "temporary" goalie in Jim Henry who last Saturday gave one of the greatest displays of netminding in league history as New York beat Toronto. Buddy O'Connor, one of the Ranger forwards, has climbed into a third-place scoring tie with Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Canadiens, behind Toronto's veteran Sylvanus Apps and Montreal's Elmer Lach.

Of course, they're up against a great team tonight in the Boston Bruins, who have in Frankie Brimsek a goalie as good as they come, along with powerful offensive and defence power. The Rangers just can't keep on forever — or can they?

Saturday night starts the heavy Christmas schedule of 11 games including a week from Saturday, with all teams in action on Saturday night.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By GEORGE FORSTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, Dec. 17 —(CP)— A New York publicist trying to put the fix on the use of the words "hat trick" is going to have a tough time convincing Scotty (Regina Leader-Post) Melville that the phrase isn't here to stay.

A one-man campaign is being waged against the term by Stan Saplin, New York Rangers publicity writer, who says in his Madison Square Gardens program that although the saying has been around longer "than many of us" it still hasn't caught on and has to be explained each time it's used.

In his counter-offensive, Melville suggests that not only has the phrase been around since long before Saplin, but that it will still be around long after Saplin.

"The term probably originated on the cricket field, where a hat trick occurs when a bowler disposes of three players on successive balls," he relates. "From there it crept into soccer and then into practically every sport where goals are part of the proceedings."

Originally, however, a hat trick applied only to three consecutive goals. Morey Rimstead of Edmonton Flyers of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League got one against Lethbridge Maple Leafs last week—he scored the only two goals of the second period and the first goal of the third. It has generally come to mean, however, the scoring of three goals in one game.

As proof that people know what the term means, Melville points out that the practice of giving a shiny new fedora to players performing the hat trick has spread from cricket to hockey. It has been done in sections of the Pacific Coast Hockey League for some time and this year a Regina haberdasher is dishing them up to members of Regina Capitals who blink the red light three times in Western senior games.

Every year about this time they start picking the teams to cop the cups. Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh reports that Tiny Thompson, Chicago Black Hawks scout, doesn't rate Saskatchewan junior teams — not even his favorite Moose Jaw Canucks — too high in Memorial Cup possibilities. Keep your eye, says Tiny, on Wetaskiwin Canadians out Alberta way, who are just liable to upset half-a-dozen applecarts.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

New York, Dec. 17 — (AP) — One baseball man who won't talk about the possibility of an all-Boston World Series next fall is Billy Southworth, manager of the Braves . . . "Our club will be better next year," Billy admits. "But it will have to be improved, too. The Giants will be very dangerous if they can get some more pitching to go with their attack and the Cardinals and Dodgers always are the teams to beat." Southworth figures the biggest gains his club has made are the improvement of Early Torgeson, and the acquisition of Jeff Heath and Jim Russell . . . "I can't wait to see Heath in action." Billy chuckles. "He'll be a great help in run getting. I think Russell will be the ball player everybody predicted he would be. And Torgeson — he improved so much late in the season that I think he'll go against any kind of pitching."

Question Marks

Southworth still has to build up a complete pitching staff around Warren Spahn and Johnny Sain and he plans to take 20 flingers south next spring."

Walcott Will Get Only 20 P.C. of Receipts

(By The Canadian Press)

Sol Straus, whose dander rises at the drop of a writ, declared with desk-thumping emphasis at New York yesterday that Jersey Joe Walcott either can fight Joe Louis again next June for 20 per cent of the net receipts or remain in Camden, N. J., with his memories. Sol, acting head of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club sounded as though he meant it. "Never-never-never!" he exploded when asked if there was any chance he would grant Walcott the 30-30 split in the spoils that Jersey Joe demands for a return bout with the heavyweight champion.

Unless he elects to step aside in favor of Burt Shotton, Leo Durocher will manage the National League team in the 1948 major league All-star baseball game. Hitherto the All-star managers have been the previous year's World Series managers. Durocher spent 1947 under suspension and Shotton piloted Brooklyn Dodgers to the pennant.

Purses for the 1948 Grand Circuit harness racing season will be increased to $2,960,000, roughly a $500,000 boost over last season, president Octave Blake announced at a meeting of stewards at Chicago yesterday.

New York Senator Fred Young's preparing legislation to require that ring officials in championship boxing matches in New York announce at the end of each round who won it. He said yesterday he thought the much-criticized decision in the recent Louis-Walcott heavyweight title fight pointed up a need for such legislation.

Jeannette Altwegg, 17, of Liverpool, last night won the British amateur figure-skating championship, vacated during the Summer by Dalphne Walker who turned professional.

Jersey Joe Walcott, the veteran Candem, N.J., heavyweight who sent the distance with champion Joe Louis, 11 days ago, barely held out on a plane trip to New York from Toronto yesterday. Walcott suffered from airsickness on the trip and wobbled when he got off the plane.

REFRIGERATOR TANK EXPLODES

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 17—(CP)—Malcolm Pinel, 37, was recovering in hospital today from burns about the face, chest and arms suffered in a sulphur-dioxide explosion at a home here Monday.

Pinel, a commercial refrigerator workman, was working on the refrigerator tank at the home when it exploded. There was no damage to the home.

ABBOTT OUTLINES

A C.C.F. amendment which urged postponement of second reading until price ceilings were imposed on all goods being restricted from import was ruled out of order on the grounds it did not oppose the principle of the bill.

Other speakers included A. L. Smith (PC-Calgary West), E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod) and T. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview). Reconstruction Minister Howe adjourned the debate indicating he will speak when the discussion resumes today.

Precautions Justified

At the House opening, Revenue Minister McCann said that recent "substantial" seizures at border points showed that precautions taken to prevent breaches of the exchange control regulations were justified.

Justice Minister Ilsley said the government will make known "in due course" its policies on amendments to the criminal code to curb sex offenders.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the government has been giving consideration 'right along' to the possibility of increasing pensions and allowances for veterans.

Touching off the austerity debate Mr. Abbott traced Canada's "urgent and serious" dollar problem to the fact Canada sold to Europe and Britain largely on credit and bought from the U. S. for cash, and said he could see no early return to the pre-war position where this three-way trade brought readily convertible foreign exchange.

He indicated some action may be taken to reduce Canadian consumption in order to make more goods available for export to the U. S. and intimated steps may also be instituted to direct industry into the manufacture of goods salable on that market.

Dollar Saving

Restrictions on the import of goods, other than capital goods, and on pleasure travel were expected to result in a dollar saving of $340,000,000 annually. The special excise taxes imposed were aimed at curbing purchases of American goods and would draw off a certain amount of purchasing power.

Mr. Abbott once again came out flatly against opposition suggestions that the Canadian dollar be devalued. This had been considered but it would not be as effective as measures now in force.

He said that if the government had not borrowed $300,000,000 from them U.S import-export bank, the restrictive measures would have been more severe and disclosed that Canada would have to halt its assistance to Britain and Europe if funds from the Marshall plan were not spent for the purchase of goods in Canada.

If that situation developed, Canada would have to divert the goods from overseas markets and sell them in the U.S.

Mr. MacDonnell said the remedies proposed by the government would be "seriously retarded" unless the country had a "sound currency" and indicated he would advocate a return to a "free" dollar below parity with U.S. currency.

Conservatives Against

Progressive Conservatives would vote against the measure in the Commons and in the constituencies until "sanity" returned and 'arbitrary" measures were ended. It may be that the measures were "irrevocable" and the country could not return to normal.

Mr. Smith charged that the government was collecting excise taxes "without the authority to do so."

Mr. Thatcher said the C.C.F. Party believed that Canada could not proceed in the immediate future with multilateral trade with world conditions as they were.

Mr. Hansell said the economic program would result in many small businesses "going on the rocks" while big business "weathered the storm".

Mr. Church claimed the Bill would give the government "Hitlerian Powers" and urged that Canada do more to develop Empire markets because they were the best.

"Carry me back to old gin rummy. How do you expect any guy to carry all that in his head." So sings or cries a palooka when you show him a deal that requires a combination of plays.

Looking over my files brought to light a deal that was used to impress the need for preparing entries. Very seldom are so many breaks found to accomplish its purpose. That is, in any one deal.

South is declarer at seven notrump. You need not ask me what true bids will reach there. No pair in their right minds should. But the 13 tricks are taken. Here is the deal:

NORTH
♠A 6
♥A Q 10 3
♦6 5 4 3
♣7 5 3

WEST	EAST
♠J 10 9 7 5 4	♠8 3 2
♥8 7 4	♥6 5
♦2	♦K J 8 7
♣6 4 2	♣K J 9 8

SOUTH
♠K Q
♥K J 9 2
♦A Q 10 9
♣A Q 10

The opening lead from west is a spade. To take all 13 tricks, every south finesse must work. So, since nothing else will make it, there is nothing to do but try it.

To take all the needed fineses, dummy must be entered five times. So, five ways of getting in there must be discovered. Do this while all cards are in front of you and there is nothing to remember.

Take trick one with spade ace. Lead a diamond and barely cover east for a south finesse. Overtake the south heart king with dummy ace. Finesse the next diamond.

Overtake the south heart jack with dummy queen. Finesse again in diamonds. Now overtake heart nine with dummy ten. Lead a club and barely cover east for a finesse.

By this time all opponent hearts are gone. Lead south deuce of hearts and overtake with the preserved dummy trey. Take another club finesse. Your remaining south cards are now all highs.

Deny that such a notrump grand slam was bid. Deny that all the cards were found in the groove. I may be inclined to agree with you. But it is a good lesson in the study of entries. No denying.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 17 —(AP)— Notes and comment on today's news in the film capital:

Movie production is heading steadily downward and with it go actors' salaries. It is a bad season for agents since the glutted talent market is pulling acting prices to unsuspected lows. Nearly every free-lance star has had a sharp come-down in wages for each picture and the $200,000 and $150,000 stars are becoming a thing of the past. For that reason, many free-lancers are heading for the haven of major studio contracts.

Now that the Producers Association has banned all future gangster movies, it's interesting to note a sidelight on proposed Al Capone biography. One of the main reasons it was turned down was not because of its subject matter, but because of its plot.

The production code, self-imposed by the movie makers, says a screen character has to be punished for his specific crime. Thus a film murderer cannot be accidentally run over by a train; he has to suffer for the murder. The Capone yarn failed to meet code qualifications because the mobster was punished not for his crooked life, but for income tax evasion.

Times Change

Time was when producers loved to get their pictures banned somewhere or blasted by someone. It was said that the publicity did wonders for the criticized films. That viewpoint now may be altered. The Legion of Decency condemnation of "Forever Amber" didn't help the film and its makers were happy to see the ban lifted . . .

This column is going to offer an award to the comedy air show that presents one broadcast without any reference to the script. Nearly every radio comic has from one to 10 lines in his show about "the writers," the punctuation of the script, the loss of a page, the reading of certain lines, etc. What are those boys going to do when television comes and their scripts are taken away from them?

10-Second Review

"T-Man" (Eagle-Lion) moves fast and exictedly to describe the work of the United States Treasury undercover agents. Filmed in the semi-documentary style, it offers plenty of action (almost too much) against a background of real sets. Dennis O'Keefe is the only name actor, but his support is excellent.

Canterbury Disassociates Church With Words of 'Red' Dean on Russia

London, Dec. 17 — (Reuters)— The Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, today issued a statement disassociating himself and the Church of England with the "actions and utterances" of the 73-year-old "red" Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson.

Dr. Fisher declared that it was necessary because of "widespread misunderstandings and misconceptions both on the continent and in the United States, liable to affect the relations of the Church of England with foreign churches and countries," to make clear the position of Dr. Johnson, well known for his championship of the cause of Russia and her satellites.

"It has been supposed that a dean of Canterbury must necessarily be acting on the instructions of the Archbishop of Canterbury and representing his views," Dr. Fisher said. "I find it necessary therefore to repeat the warning given by Archbishop Lang in 1937 (when the dean was publicly rebuked after he had violently denounced Spain's Gen. Franco in a speech at Strasbourg).

"The dean's office and jurisdiction in this country does not extend beyond the confines of the cathedral body of which he is head. Outside those limits he speaks and acts only for himself. The Archbishop of Canterbury has neither responsibility for what the dean may say or do nor power to control it . . ."

Dr. Johnson has been called the "red dean" since he told an interviewer seeking to establish his political views "call me red."

After a visit to Russia in 1938 he declared that there was nothing essentially anti-religious in Russian communism. It was doing much that Christians had forgotten to do. His book on Russia 'The Socialist Sixth of the World' sold 250,000 copies in the United States.

Last October, Dr. Johnson returned from a nine-week tour of Eastern Europe to say that he was deeply impressed with the need to tell the people of Britain and the United States the truth about what was happening in those "splendid new worlds."

While in Bulgaria he was quoted by Sofia radio as expressing "feelings of great admiration" for the Bulgarian Prime Minister, Georgi Dimitrov, to whose government both Britain and the United States made strong protests against the execution of the peasant party leader Nikola Petkov.

Omaha Knights In Third Place

(By The Associated Press)

Omaha Knights had their first victory in four meetings over the Minneapolis Millers in the United States Hockey League books today, but they had to take 53 shots for it.

Omaha knocked off the Millers 4-2 last night on the Knights' home ice.

The Knights drove in their winning tally with less than two minutes remaining in the final period with Blinky Boyce getting credit for the score.

Minneapolis removed goalie Harry McQuestion but the manoeuvre backfired as Motto McLean pounded the puck into the undefended goal.

The game was the only league contest last night and gave exclusive possession of third place in the northern division to the winners.

CHAPTER 2

"Hold hard, there. We're not crediting Vivian Forrest with a good disposition, are we?"

"Why not? Oh, I remember. You were in Jean's net yourself before you went away, weren't you?"

"I don't care for the way you put it, but, yes, I have long admired Jean, as any one must who knows her? I'm glad she's so congenially mated."

"No one is happy, from his beak to his tail, as Kipling or a Chinese proverb or somebody said. But Jean is satisfied—with her home and her husband and her baby, and—forgive me—but I hope you won't stir her up, with old memories and all that."

Sayre stared at the speaker. "I beg your pardon," he said.

"Oh you know what I mean. Vivian has his faults, and it's good of Jean to put up with them as she does, but he is very jealous, and if Jean—"

"I cannot let you go on, Forrest. You have no right to talk to me as I know you want to talk, and I'd rather stop now."

"All right, then. I only meant a friendly hint, for Jean's sake."

"For Jean's sake? Then she isn't happy with Vivian? Is he—does he—"

"Yes, he is and he does. He flirts with any of our sort that he happens to admire, and—some of other sorts."

"Does Jean know?"

"Rather! Why, once or twice he has brought a film star out here for a week end."

"And Jean—"

"She was perfect. A correct hostess, smiling, pleasant, just a trace of hauteur, but giving Viv no chance for criticism. But the film lady in each case had no wish to come again."

"Why are you telling me this?" Brandon Sayre looked inquiringly reproachful.

Austin Forrest returned the explore gaze. Unlike his brother, Austin had a strong, fine face, and an air of justified self- confidence. He spoke slowly and definitely.

"Because I knew you would hear it from some one else, and I'd rather be the one to tell you. And I mean it when I tell you of Vivian's fierce jealously of his wife. And if you and Jean pick up your old love affair, it will mean a hell of a time for her, and incidentally for yourself."

"I deny that Jean and I ever had a love affair."

"All right, Sayre; we won't quibble over words. And if you and she are not specially interested in each other, so much the better for all concerned. But take a friend's advice and don't let such an interest begin."

"I'm half inclined to knock you down."

"Oh, don't be silly. Put that off for a day or two, and see how things work out. Do you fence?"

"Yes I may say I do."

"Then there's your chance. If you really want to knock me down, do it with foils. I'm a rotten fencer."

"Time enough for that. And if I misunderstood, I'm sorry."

* * *

Jean Forrest, in her dressing room, listened absent-mindedly to her maid's questions as to what she wished to wear.

"Oh, the silver lame, I think; or, no—not that tonight. Maybe the—oh, I don't know! Run away, Mimi, for fifteen minutes,—no ten minutes—and then come back and I'll be ready to dress.

The pretty girl went away and Jean sat in front of her dressing table, staring at her reflection in the mirror, but seeing nothing.

Brandon home again! That thought filled her mind to the exclusion of all else. And it expanded and threw out fears in all directions, but most prominent, the gravest fear of all, was the uncertainty as to her own will power.

She Jean Forrest, who had never before feared man or women, who had never feared society or scandal, who had braved her husband's anger, who had laughed at his lapses from faith and honor, had upheld him and stood up for him through thick and thin, through evil report and good report, now—now, Jean Forrest was afraid.

Afraid of Vivian, more afraid of Sayre, but most of all, afraid of herself. Afraid of that brave, strong, invincible self that had stood by her for twenty-five years, without faltering.

Yet when, less than an hour ago, she had looked into Brandon Sayre's deep eyes, she knew that she loved him for the two years he had been away, even though she deceived herself into thinking otherwise. And now, what could she do? And her answer was instant—nothing.

Vague dreams hovered in her mind, but the ever-present thought of her child, of little Florimel, blotted out everything, save right and duty.

Sayre had said no word, had even smiled no smile that hinted at memory of the past, but she knew—she knew—that he loved her even more than he had when he went away.

Her duty, then? Only to root that love out of his heart, and see to it that it should not grow again.

Her life with Vivian would be harder, her life in society would be harder, for now, in addition to her present burdens she must carry the thoughts of unattainable joys.

No, there was a further duty. She must not carry those thoughts; she must root them out of her heart; she must not love Brandon Sayre; her own future and that of her child depend on her faithfulness to herself.

She looked again in the mirror. And she forced a smile. Her great dark eyes, a moment ago pathetic, now were normally bright, and beneath their long curling lashes, showered alluring, mysterious.

A certain air of mystery was one of Jean's greatest charms. It was partly cultivated, for she found it useful, and too, it was often real, as she wondered at the mysteries of her own life.

And so, the ten minutes passed, Mimi returned, and found her idol smiling at her.

"The burnt orange and silver," Jean directed.

The clever maid did Jean's lovely dark hair in becoming rolls, which followed no set style, but reflected Mimi's talent.

She made up Jean's, with so little material and so much skill, that the lily was really painted.

Vivian drifted in, as he often did, to select her jewels. Through their short married life he had showered her with gifts, and he loved to see her wear them.

He selected what he wished her to wear, and then stood impatiently waiting for Mimi to fasten them in place.

" You may go, Mimi," he said, pleasantly, as she finished her task.

He turned to survey Jean. "Perfect!" he said, speaking with sincerity. "I wish I cared more for you."

"I'm glad you don't," she said, showing no interest. She knew her husband.

"How dare you say that?" But he was laughing, and he made a quick movement and caught her in his arms and kissed her repeatedly.

"You will answer back, will you?" he teased her, and kissed her again.

"You've made me late for dinner," she said as she escaped him.

"Go on down and have the cocktails served at once, or dinner will be spoiled. Ring for Mimi, will you; she must do my hair all over."

Oh, can't you take a little kiss without looking like a barmaid?"

"Yes, but not a bear hug. Come in Mimi, just fix my hair right, will you? Go on, Vivian, they are all waiting."

"Let them wait. I won't go till you are ready."

Laughing, Jean was soon ready, and they went together down the broad staircase.

On the way, he whispered to her, "I had to wait for you, or you would have slipped into the nursery, and—you would have been there yet!"

This was so true that Jean said nothing but gave him an assenting smile

"You needn't have hurried yourselves," Austin greeted them. "I ordered the cocktails. Have one?"

Vivian laughed, took a glass and sat down by Suzy Kirk.

"Whose little girl are you?" he asked, gayly.

"I dunno; I haven't found a sponsor yet."

"I'd like to train for it. But I have so many little girls."

"Yes I've heard that."

Oho, you have? Are you, perhaps, older than you look?"

"No I'm younger—much younger. But I think they're going out now."

"Yes; they are. I will seat you by me."

"No thank you, my seat is engaged. I belong to your brother."

"So you do," and Austin claimed her, leaving Vivian in the unusual position of being left.

Three or four neighbors had been invited, for final plans must be made for the tournament.

The dinner was gay and Austin, who had feared being bored by the very young lady he had selected for a partener, was surprised to find that she devoted all her time and attention to a neighbor, whose name was John Elman.

A somewhat staid youth he seemed; for though the Forrests knew him slightly, he had never been at the house before.

But with his usual perspicacity, Austin soon divined that the volatile Suzy was only playing off, and was coquetting with the neighbor with the amiable intention of stirring Austin's interest in her.

This amused him, and soon he rounded on her, saying, "Where are your manners, little girl? You can't talk to one man all the evening. It isn't done. It's against the rules."

'I make the rules,'" Suzy said, calmly, turning back to Austin and quickly realizing that he didn't care whether she turned or not.

"I understand you," Austin said, "but you are trying to play a game you haven't mastered."

"Yes, I know it," and the girl sighed. "That's the worst of being so young. But, anyhow, I'm a bit of a fencer."

"I don't believe it."

Yes I am, honest. I've been taught ever since I was a child. I'm a novice but next year I'll be a junior. Oh, I know the 'ring of the glittering steel'!"

"I can't believe it but you must show me later on. Keep still now, I want to hear what Sayre is saying."

Brandon Sayre was not fond of talking about himself or relating tales of his exploits in jungle lands. But as a guest, he must need accede to his host's requests for just one story of his life.

Without extravagant talk, without any boasting, Sayre told of incidents that were in themselves thrilling, and became more so when his expressive face added to the effect of reality.

"What a hero you are!" Jean exclaimed, impulsively, as the applause died away.

Consider Measure To Break Up Jap Police System

Tokyo, Dec. 17 — (AP) — A test tube experiment is being carried out in nearby Chiba prefecture which may determine whether Japan can be transmuted from a police state to a state with police.

The Japanese Diet is considering a measure to break up the national police system in vogue for centuries.

United States and Japanese officials selected Chiba prefecture and installed a police force independent of the government.

The bill stipulates Japan shall have autonomous police forces in towns and cities of more than 5,000 population.

It does not abolish the national police force, but limits its powers. The national force will be 30,000 strong.

This National force will furnish police protection for towns and villages of less than 5,000 and will co-operate — when asked — with the independent police of the larger cities and towns.

Hileo Hisayama, director of the police bureau in the home ministry, with 13 years of bureaucratic police experience behind him, fears "disintegration" of Japan's police system. He said he doubted that the independent forces could work together on police problems.

Under the proposed law, independent police forces will be selected through a commission of three appointed by the mayor.

The decentralization plan has run into heavy opposition from old Japanese bosses and politicians who formerly controlled the police.

GETS THE MONEY ALL RIGHT

Atlanta, Dec. 17 — (AP) — A defendant charged with failing to pay a $6.30 taxicab bill pleaded with recorder A. W. Callaway for time to obtain the money.

"Where will you get it?" asked Callaway.

"Would you mind loaning it to me, judge?" the defendant asked.

Callaway looked dumbfounded but reached in his billfold and gave the man seven dollars.

"Pay the man," the recorder said, "and don't forget to repay me Saturday."

FILMING OF GLACIER AT 20 BELOW ZERO

Filming in weather "that would have kept any self-respecting Antarctic explorer in his hut," a British studio film unit has finished the most difficult scenes—the last stage in the journey to the South Pole. The unit worked on a glacier 6,000 feet above sea level with a temperature ranging from three above to 20 below zero during their five-week location visit to Norway. When the job was over, the production manager said: "One of the toughest locations a British film unit has ever undertaken." This photo shows the camera crew, working as best they could in thick gloves to avoid the frozen metal of the cameras biting into bare flesh.

Smiling Buddha Is Bequeathed To Churchill

London, Dec. 17 — (AP)—Winston Churchill was bequeathed a seated, cross legged buddha, brought by the late Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton from a deserted Burmese temple near Mandalay, under the terms of Hamilton's will published Tuesday.

The will said:

"In the worst stress of politics and when the heathen most do rage, a glance at the placid features of this emblem of divinity well help him to keep on smiling."

Little Benny's Note Book

My cousin Artie stayed at my house all night last night, and pop and ma went out to the movies against pop's will, —ma saying, Now Benny, remember, you boys are to go right to bed at the stroke of nine. That clock is a little fast anyway, so you'll be getting ample good measure, she said.

And me and Artie kept on playing with my erecter set, and all of a sudden the clock said 5 minutes to 9 already, and Artie said, Hay, maybe if we tilt it a little sideways it might stop, and then it cant strike 9 and we wont have to go to bed yet.

Nuthing doing, that would be cheeting, I said. But hay, if we can make it stop by itself, that'll be different, I said, and Artie said, Aw, you'd have to be a magician.

Why would you? I said. How do you know clocks haven't got feelings the same as anybody elts? Maybe if we just stand there and make faces at it and tell it what a bum clock it is, maybe it's get insulted and stop, I said.

And we started to try it, standing in frunt of the clock and making fierce faces at it, Artie saying Hay you, if I had a face like yours I'd keep my hands in frunt of it all the time too, and me saying, Hey, you big coward, what's the idea of running so fast? What's a matter, is some little wrist watch chasing you? I said.

And we both started to jump up and down, yelling, Stop, stop, you haven't got the nerve to stop, I dare you to stop, I dubble dare you.

Which just then what did the clock do but stop while it was just getting reddy to strike nine, and I said, Do you think we shook its werks by jumping? and Artie said, Of course not, we just hert its feelings like you said.

The result being we waited a while to give it a chance to recover its feelings and start again. Which it didn't, so we rocked it a little to make it feel better, and it struck 9 and we moved its hands 20 minutes ahead on generel principals and went to bed.
